HUSBAND WAS BOO OF BILL FOR THE GRACE PRINCESS
Beautiful Russian Grand Duchess Leaves Prince William of Sweden.

Stockholm, Sweden, November 30.—Incompatibility of temperament is believed to be the real reason for the expected divorce of Prince William, second son of the king, from his wife, who was the Grand Duchess Maria Pavlovna, daughter of the Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovich, the Russian minister. M. Savinsky, took his departure. The minister departed soon after the military attaché, Colonel Assanovitch, was practically dismissed from Sweden for spying.

In court circles, however, it is said that the rift between the young royal couple was not unexpected. The divorce of the prince and princess is the most painful to be found in any of the royal families of Europe.

WOMEN CAMPAIGN FOR THE BALLOT

They Will Urge Congress to Adopt Constitutional Amendment—Appeal Is Made to President Wilson.

Washington, November 29.—A week's campaign by the National American Woman Suffrage association to secure the adoption of a constitutional amendment to enfranchise women was launched today at a mass meeting in a local theater. It was the formal opening of the forty-fifth annual convention of the association. An assemblage, which packed the edifice from footlights to gallery, listened for nearly three hours to discussions on various phases of the suffrage cause by conspicuous advocates of the woman movement. Suspended above the drop ceiling was a huge yellow banner bearing the legend:

As Appeal to Wilson. The association, which approved almost unanimously a set of resolutions introduced by Mrs. Helen Nina Robinson, a member of the Colorado state senate calling upon President Wilson, to this forthcoming message to Congress to adopt the woman suffrage constitutional amendment as an administration measure and to urge Congress to take prompt and favorable action upon the same.

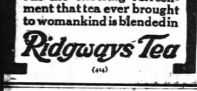

The only protest was voiced by one of the delegates from Louisiana, backed by a small following. The opposite delegates, however, were not even given an opportunity to explain the reasons for their attitude.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the association, presided at the meeting, and in her brief address she urged the speedy delivery of a woman's suffrage amendment to Congress.

Known as Political Parties. Oliver P. Newman, president of the district committee, welcomed the convention to the national capital, the preceding Mary Anderson, Margaret Hinchey and Rose Winslow, all women industrial workers. Mr. Shaw said the right of the people to vote in their own government is the one point to which we are directed by the constitution.

EXPOSE OF SMITH SHOCK TO MACON

League's Candidate for Chief of Police Agreed to Withdraw if Given $10,000 by Saloonists.

Macon, Ga., November 30.—(Special) Macoon people, especially the members of the Macon Law Enforcement League and those aldermen who had pledged their votes to A. J. Smith for chief of police, have scarcely recovered from the shock of the exposure of Smith, who offered to retire from the race after his election was assured if the whisky interests would pay him $10,000.

Friends and foes alike are congratulating Alderman R. C. Haskins on his exposure of Smith, and many have admitted they were never more badly fooled in a man than they were in Smith. It is supposed that some of the gentleman, who never went out on his knees without kneeling, have been led by his prayers, and who has always been a leader in the cause of prohibition and other reform movements, has committed a mistake that he offered to retire from the race for chief on payment of $10,000 has completely discredited him here.

It is reported that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, of which Smith is a member, will take no action in the matter at the next meeting. The story of the whisky interests drew from the race for chief of police at the eleventh hour, after a signed statement given out by a committee of aldermen and friends of Mr. Smith, who investigated the circumstances. The meat of the whole thing is that Smith agreed to withdraw from the race if the whisky interests would pay him $10,000 for doing so.

The announcement has been starting in the effect here. Smith, who is one of the best known railroad engineers in the state, running between Macon and Macon, and who was elected by the Macon Law Enforcement League, and who was supposed to have become chief there would not be a big whisky party for the new year. It had been expected the vote of Smith and when Alderman Pittman read a letter of withdrawal, considerable surprise was occasioned.

At the time there was some "blame" being laid on Smith, but it was not then disclosed, though there have been various rumors. It is reported that Smith had been told by Alderman R. C. Haskins that he would be asked to withdraw from the race. The rumor was that Haskins had arranged an interview with Smith and had offered him an offer of $10,000 to withdraw from the race and after promising him that he would be elected chief and immediately conferred with Alderman Pittman, who is supposed to have been going to support for chief of police. Smith, with the result that Smith had agreed to write the letter of withdrawal.

When this rumor began to get in Smith had been told by Alderman Haskins that he would be asked to withdraw from the race and after promising him that he would be elected chief and immediately conferred with Alderman Pittman, who is supposed to have been going to support for chief of police. Smith, with the result that Smith had agreed to write the letter of withdrawal.

Withdrawal Demanded. Alderman Pittman, who told Smith that he could not let any alderman vote for him in ignorance of the facts, demanded that Smith give up his withdrawal. Smith told the committee that he had been offered $10,000 to withdraw from the race and that he had agreed to do so. He said that he had been offered $10,000 to withdraw from the race and that he had agreed to do so.

MILLIONS ARE SAVED BY PLANT QUARANTINE

How Entomological Department Keeps Infested Plants and Trees Out of Georgia.

It is impossible to estimate in dollars and cents says the Georgia state board of entomology what this state has saved in the recent past on account of strict quarantine laws against plant insects and diseases. Hundreds of thousands of dollars more might have been saved, if the quarantine laws had been enforced in time to keep out such pests as the destructive San Jose scale.

Native enemies to vegetation, says the department, a recent bulletin, have grown steadily worse with improved agriculture, and it is the duty of the state, through the department, as well as through the farmer, to eradicate them where possible, and in any event to minimize their power to destroy.

PREACHERS ACCEPTING TOM PAINE'S DOCTRINES

Marks of Sin Seen on Every Side, Declares Rev. Alton C. Shuler.

Doing for the church "The Old-Time Religion," Alton C. Shuler, in a sermon at the East Side Methodist last night, declared his congregation when he stated that many churches and preachers today are accepting the doctrine with which Tom Paine horrified Christians a little more than a century ago.

"I am not a pessimist, but an optimist," said Rev. Shuler. "Neither am I a sensationalist, except to the extent that truth is essential. I am not a pessimist because I believe in the Christ of God, and I know that truth will triumph over error, sin and death."

DANIELS OUTLINES POLICY FOR NAVY

Government Oil and Government Armor Plate Favored—More Dreadnaughts Urged.

Washington, November 29.—Immediate procurement and construction of oil wells and refineries to furnish fuel for the navy, an international conference to secure a reduction of naval construction, the addition of two dreadnaughts, eight destroyers and three submarines for the navy during the coming year, government manufacture of armor, more naval chaplains and religious leaders, better educational facilities for enlisted men and a grade-school retirement law are chief recommendations in the report of the secretary of the navy today.

The secretary departs from the usual custom in addressing the president in that he has not only outlined the policy of the department, but also the means of accomplishing it.

The secretary says that the navy has never in such a high state of efficiency as today, and that in considering its future needs he has given less thought to the guns than to the men behind the guns. Believing that the efficiency of the navy as a fighting force will be in the highest sense promoted by the adoption of a serious and systematic course of instruction of ship and at shore stations, he points out that the department is trying to make the navy a great university. Not only officers, but even enlisted men, are to have a little accurate knowledge and this will be corrected by a systematic course of instruction. Meanwhile the graduating classes will be utilized as instructors with mutual respect to the men and themselves, and to fit them for their work as a normal course will be added to the naval academy curriculum. The secretary also points to the apex of the navy's activity of all officers past through to the future, using many words of advice.

To Reduce Armaments.

The recent proposition of Winston Churchill, first lord of the British admiralty, for a "naval vacation" which would reduce the number of ships in view of the tremendous increase in American naval armaments, is mentioned by the secretary. "Nothing out of ten years ago the largest battleship built, the USS Oregon, is now obsolete. It is not a vacation that is needed, but a reduction of armaments. The secretary recommends that the government should guard against extravagant expansion of the navy, and that it should limit its ship-building to what is essential for the department might desire to have. He also recommends that the government should limit its ship-building to what is essential for the department might desire to have.

Both Were City Editors.

The secretary also points to the apex of the navy's activity of all officers past through to the future, using many words of advice.

The secretary thinks that the time has come when the navy should be freed from excessive prices charged by private manufacturers of armor plate, guns and gun forgings, powder, torpedoes and other supplies, and that the government should take steps to secure a reduction of armaments.

Declares Rev. Hugh K. Walker

Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in his sermon Sunday morning. Mr. Walker's sermon was based on the text, 'For our citizenship is in heaven, and we await the redemption of our bodies.' He declared that the only way to make our nation a Christian nation is to have every citizen of our nation be a Christian.

THE CONSTITUTION ATLANTA, GA., MONDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1915

Method Invented by Which Green Bolls Can Be Cut From Stalks and Then Matured.

Philadelphia, Pa., November 20.—(Special.)—To mature cotton bolls artificially, saving producing a better seed and eventually exterminating the boll weevil, is the dream of John H. Hall, inventor and the Hall Cotton Reclaiming company, incorporated in the state of Delaware with an initial capital of $100,000.

It reads like a Mulberry Sellers process to the dream of the inventor and his company gives promise of early realization. The view of strengthening by the results of a number of practical demonstrations in the presence of southern cotton-growers and farmers, and experts whose testimony is to the effect that cotton bolls may be stripped of the stalks like so many oranges, waxes, if necessary, and then mature naturally, and by either a chemical or a mechanical process, ripened at the convenience of the grower.

Flourishing on a 10 per cent loss of a cotton crop in immediate prospect, the freestrippers, the Hall process would have saved the cotton crop of the south this year approximately 1,500,000 bales.

Tests of the Hall process with bolls brought from the south in various stages of maturity—some of them frost-bitten—were made at the Philadelphia Commercial museum in the presence of government and foreign delegates. Among these were T. S. Cave and J. M. Hesterling, of the United States, and from an experimental two-acre plantation near Philadelphia also were matured, by the mechanical process, the experimental plantation belongs to H. H. Hall, president of the Hall Cotton Reclaiming company. The results of the chemical and mechanical processes were submitted to Governor O'Neal and Commissioner Scott of Pennsylvania, and Governor Hall of Louisiana, and Governor Caldwell of North Carolina. This view is predicted on the ability to strip the bolls from the stalks.

The results of both the chemical and mechanical processes were submitted to Governor O'Neal and Commissioner Scott of Pennsylvania, and Governor Hall of Louisiana, and Governor Caldwell of North Carolina. This view is predicted on the ability to strip the bolls from the stalks.

With this end in view, contracts are in process of being made for the ginning on a basis that relieves the grower of the cost of the ginning. The contract provides that the grower is to be paid for the cotton on the basis of the weight of the cotton as it comes from the gin, and the gin is to be paid for the cotton on the basis of the weight of the cotton as it comes from the gin.

Mr. Cave also is impatient for putting the process into operation in South Carolina ginneries. The mechanical ripening of the cotton is a process that has been known for many years, but it has never been applied to the cotton as it comes from the gin. The process is a simple one, and it is a process that has been known for many years, but it has never been applied to the cotton as it comes from the gin.

Mass Meeting Big Feature In S. S. Adult Campaign

At a mass meeting of Sunday school workers to be held at 1 o'clock in the Central Congregational church, this Sunday afternoon, the S. S. Adult Campaign will be launched.

Rev. William A. Brown, field worker for the International Sunday School association, will be heard at the mass meeting in Atlanta for the two days following, to make addresses. On Monday afternoon, he will be addressing an institute in Macon, and on Tuesday at a similar institute in Augusta on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Sunday school superintendent of Atlanta is also planning an enthusiastic campaign on Monday, December 2, at the Young Men's Christian association, and a similar meeting of the congress, all of which will be held in Atlanta.
