This year such days will be filled with much pleasure

So many new weaves, such exquisite colorings, such impressive ness on all sides.

New spring cottons—it sounds trite and commonplace to tell the plain truth about them—that the display is the most varied, the most satisfying we have invited you to see. But that is just what it is. Octons have never been treated as these—spun to the thickness of gossamer at one time, rough and heavy at another, brocaded as sump-tiously as regal silks or spreading out as a surface whereon have dropped the flowers of nature, and then, besides these, are the snowflaky crepes.

It offers much, very much to those who would have started on the spring things—much in novelties, much in the year-in-and-year-out stripes. Read some of the interesting things
