

I'm Not Convinced Frank Is Guilty or Innocent, Says Judge

"Gentlemen, I have thought about this case more than any other I have ever tried. I am not certain of this man's guilt. With all the thought I have put on this case, I am not thoroughly convinced that Frank is guilty or innocent. But I do not have to be convinced. The jury was convinced. There is no room to doubt that. I feel it is my duty to order that the motion for a new trial be overruled," said Judge Roan in announcing his decision on the Frank motion.

NEW TRIAL DENIED FRANK; APPEAL TAKEN

Japan Makes Secret Offer to Mexico

ORIENTALS IN MEXICAN PUZZLE

President Considers Recognition of Carranza Forces—Huerta Defies Removal as Planned.

SITUATION IN BRIEF.

President Wilson Friday took up the question of recognizing the Mexican Constitutionalists, and it was indicated that he was planning forceful action against Huerta.

From Mexico City came the word that Huerta will defy President Wilson in the expected demand for his resignation.

The Frankfort Arsenal at Philadelphia is working night and day, and there is great activity at the League Island navy yard. This is regarded as most significant.

General Felix Diaz will take refuge in the United States. He will not go to Cuba, fearing he would be assassinated there, but instead will be put on the steamer Alabama and brought to Galveston.

Italy has dispatched a warship to Mexican waters to join the international fleet now forming there.

An attaché of the Japanese embassy at Washington, it is discovered, has been in Mexico City several weeks on a mission to Huerta.

Chihuahua City is reported to have been captured by a rebel army led by General Villa. The rebels are said to have retreated without firing a shot.

Constitutionalists attacking Monterey are reported to be steadily driving the Federal defenders into the city's center. Bloody fighting has been raging for five days.

The German gunboat Bremen joined the cruiser Hertha at Vera Cruz today.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. VERA CRUZ, Oct. 31.—Reports that Japanese officials have been conducting secret negotiations with General Huerta at Mexico City are being circulated here to-day. This phase of the situation which is puzzling diplomats of the world came to light when it was learned that a man representing himself to be the military attaché of the Japanese legation at Washington sailed from here on the Ward liner Esperanza. It is said that he has been in Mexico City for several weeks.

Great interest attaches to a conference which is to be held to-morrow by Special Envoy John Lind and the German Minister to Mexico. It is understood that Rear Admiral Fletcher, commander of the United States squadron, and the commanders of the German warships Bremen and Hertha will participate together with Captain W. A. Burnside, the American military attaché at Mexico City.

Herman Arostigui, a follower of Felix Diaz, was arrested during the night and taken to the federal prison under heavy guard. Senor Arostigui, who is a native of Guatemala, has long been a follower of the fortunes of Diaz, and at the time of the Diaz uprising here a year ago Arostigui was made censor of cables.

Wilson Considers Recognizing Rebels. WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Strong evidence that President Wilson is planning immediate and forceful action against General Huerta, the Mexican dictator, was given to-day when he took up the question of recognizing the Constitutionalists.

'Spook' Night To Be Ideal—Fair, Frosty. Ah! 'twill be a fine night for spooks. Forecaster VonHerrmann, of the Weather Bureau, issued the following prediction for Friday:

"Fair to-night and Saturday; frost to-night."

Clear skies prevailed Friday morning with a rapid rise in temperature. At 8 o'clock the mercury stood at 32, but before noon had risen to 48 degrees and showed a desire to stop there.

Seats for Women On Cars? Yes, if They Carry 'Em

Here's a new fad for Atlanta women! Who'll be the first to borrow the scheme?

An attractive young woman boarded an express train in New York in the rush hour and calmly and quietly took a little folding campstool from under her arm, spread its legs on the floor and sat herself in comfort on her portable seat.

"I do not expect the men to give me their seats," she said to one who questioned her. "I work, as they do, and am entitled to no more. When a woman enters into competition with men, she should give and take with men and not look for special favors. But I have to go to work and come from work in the rush hours. So I carry my own seat—that's all."

Engineer and Fireman Lose Lives in Wreck

GRiffin, Oct. 31.—Engineer Thomas Gay and his white fireman were killed this afternoon when Southern Railway passenger train No. 23, Columbus to Atlanta, was wrecked two and one-half miles above Experiment, near here. The engine jumped the track and overturned.

None of the passengers were reported seriously hurt, although they received a bad shaking up. A defective rail is supposed to have caused the wreck.

Citizens Want Back Street Fund Surplus

When the Streets Committee meets Friday afternoon, Ivy street property owners will present a petition to have returned to them several thousand dollars left over from the $30,000 subscribed by citizens for re-grading.

The property owners expect to get back the whole $30,000, and will ask the Streets Committee to recommend to next year's Council that that course be pursued.

Family Destitute, He Steals Coal; Is Freed

In a two-roomed shack out on lower Marietta street his wife and two children were shivering from the cold. There was no fuel nor food in the house.

A block away, a mountain of coal towered above the fence of a coal yard at No. 222 West North avenue. He entered this yard Thursday night to steal some fuel that his family might be warmed. He was arrested.

J. L. Lanier when arraigned before Judge Broyles Friday morning told this story. He was put on probation.

Otis or McCord To Succeed Lynch

It was learned to-day that when Councilman Thomas I. Lynch, of the Second Ward, resigns his seat, either R. R. Otis or J. L. McCord will be elected to succeed him.

Council itself fills vacancies caused by resignations. It is an odd fact that both Mr. Otis and Mr. McCord are acceptable to both the Woodward and anti-Woodward factions in Council.

'Spook' Night To Be Ideal—Fair, Frosty

Ah! 'twill be a fine night for spooks. Forecaster VonHerrmann, of the Weather Bureau, issued the following prediction for Friday:

"Fair to-night and Saturday; frost to-night."

Clear skies prevailed Friday morning with a rapid rise in temperature. At 8 o'clock the mercury stood at 32, but before noon had risen to 48 degrees and showed a desire to stop there.

INCOME TAX JARS LOCAL BANKERS

Face Problem in Teaching Patrons New System, Which Levies on Interest Due Saturday.

The first effect of the income tax, touching the coupons and registered interest due November 1, was noted in Atlanta Friday in the number and gravity of the conferences in various banks, and particularly in the meeting of a Special Clearing House Committee, headed by Robert P. Maddox, of the American National Bank.

The bankers were in a flurry—at least, as nearly in a flurry as bankers ever get. The confusion spread also to other investment firms and centers, but most of the interest centered in the meeting of the Clearing House Committee, which would settle a uniform plan by which the Atlanta banks would cope with the situation.

"It means a huge muddle of accounting and bookkeeping," Mr. Maddox said. "There will be a great burden of extra work in the banks, and a lot of bookkeeping among the investors—a new kind of bookkeeping, too."

All Kinds of Incomes Included. The income tax of itself is not hard to understand, and to a certain class of citizens does not sound unpleasantly. It is a tax of 1 per cent on the income of any person who enjoys a yearly revenue of $3,000 (or more) if single, and of $4,000 (or more) if married.

If the person, single or married, enjoys less than the prescribed limits, he (or she) does not figure in the designs of the government.

"And it means any and all income, from whatever source," Mr. Maddox said. "Salary, bonds, rentals—why, if a real estate dealer, whose usual income is only a couple of thousand a year, happens to turn up a trade by which he makes, say, $5,000, he's liable in that fiscal year to the income tax, though he never made that much before and may never make it again."

Informing Customers. But the situation that confronts the clearing house is largely one of acquainting the customers of its members with the new legislation, which goes into effect on all the coupons clipped November 1.

Mr. Maddox's committee met at noon Friday, and devoted the better part of an hour to methods of conveying to a host of banking connections and customers the exactions of the tax.

It was decided to mail out circular letters and samples of the certificate that hereafter must be attached to every single coupon presented to a bank for payment.

"The idea," Mr. Maddox said, "is that the Government will tax the income at its source. Thus the corporation issuing bonds, for instance, must show on every coupon from those bonds a certificate of ownership, duly made out by the owner, stating if he is exempt or liable to the tax."

If liable, the bank handling the coupon deducts the 1 per cent for the Government.

Called Burden to Banks. If exempt by reason of not having an income large enough to be taxable the 1 per cent is paid by the corporation, and the certificate admits the payment of face value by the bank to the coupon holder.

The whole business, Mr. Maddox said, would impose a great burden on the banks, which may have to open special departments to handle the rush of coupons about January 1 of each year, when the bulk of coupons are payable.

Warren for Closing Some Locker Clubs; To Make Inspection

Consideration of the suggestion of Mayor Woodward that the locker clubs of the city should be investigated before the licenses were renewed resulted in a declaration by Mayor Pro Tem James E. Warren that there were half a dozen clubs in the city that should be closed.

Alderman Warren, A. R. Colcord, chairman of the Council Police Committee, and Chief Beavers discussed plans for inspecting the clubs at the regular meeting of the Police Committee Thursday afternoon. Alderman Warren said the best people of the city demanded that a number of the so-called clubs should have their licenses revoked. Chairman Colcord said a thorough inspection of the clubs would be made.

Mother to Fight Suit, Once Mistried

It was believed Friday morning that the suit by Ralph Henderson, through his mother, against A. C. Polk, a West End merchant, declared a mistrial Thursday, will be pressed further by the plaintiffs, who ask punitive damages to the extent of $5,000.

The suit grows out of what Mrs. Henderson declares a false charge and imprisonment about three months ago, when the boy, 15 years old, was accused by Polk of a theft of $5 on information received from a negro boy.

Burning Ship's Crew, 22, Rescued at Sea

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. HAMBURG, Oct. 31.—Another story of rescue from a burning ship at sea was received here to-day by wireless from the Hamburg-American liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, bound from Mexico.

The French bark Patrie was being destroyed by the fire when the Kronprinzessin Cecilie sighted the doomed craft and took off 22 men of her crew, the remaining three having been killed while fighting flames.

Factory Tour Plan Must Be Revised

Because of the large amount of territory to be covered and the fact that trains must travel slowly through the yards, the arrangements for the tour of "Industrial Atlanta," which the Chamber of Commerce is promoting, has struck a snag.

A committee of railroad men has arranged a schedule that calls for eight hours of continuous riding, with no time provided for the inspection of factories. It was the intention to devote at least half of the time to seeing the larger manufacturing plants. Efforts will be made to rearrange the schedule.

JUDGE L. S. ROAN, WHO RENDERED DECISION DENYING A NEW TRIAL

"The jury was convinced; it is my duty to deny a new trial," said Judge Roan.

DEFENSE GETS READY FOR FINAL STAND IN FIGHT TO SAVE FRANK

Close upon the defeat of their motion for a new trial, the attorneys for Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan, began Friday the draft of the bill of exceptions which will take the case to the Supreme Court of the State.

The new trial was denied by Judge Roan with the remarkable statement that he himself was not certain of Frank's innocence or guilt.

Attorney Reuben R. Arnold had part of the draft prepared by noon. Leonard Haas, another of the lawyers for Frank, was busy making copies of the affidavits which figured prominently in the hearing for a new trial.

Indications Friday were that the arguments before the Supreme Court in behalf of a new trial would begin the last week in January or the first in February.

The clerk of the Superior Court has ten days in which to make a copy of the record to file with the Supreme Court. Because of its volume in the Frank trial, he will require all of the time given him by law.

To Reach Climax on Appeal

The Supreme Court, when the appeal is brought to its cognizance, will place it on its docket to be heard in January or February, it is believed. The decision of the Supreme Court will be handed down in from one to six months after the conclusion of the arguments.

The arguments, which have grown in intensity as the great murder trial has progressed through its various stages, will reach their climax before the Supreme Court, as this is regarded as practically the last stand of the lawyers who are fighting for the life of Frank.

Luther Z. Rosser, chief of counsel for the man convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan, made a request immediately upon the announcement of the decision that Judge Roan should not resign his seat on the bench of the Criminal Court until a bill of exceptions had been filed, taking the case to the Supreme Court.

Rosser also insisted that Judge Roan's remarks with which he prefaced his decision and in which he expressed his uncertainty as to Frank's innocence or guilt should be incorporated as part of the bill of exceptions.

'Let Us Have Truth for Once'

This was strenuously resisted by Solicitor Dorsey, who maintained that the procedure was irregular and unusual, and that he was not aware that it ever had been done before.

"Let's not quarrel over whether it ever has been done before," shouted Attorney Rosser. "Let's have the truth for once."

In giving his decision Judge Roan had said: "Gentlemen, I have given this question long consideration. It has given me more concern than any other case I ever was in. And I want to say here that, although I heard the evidence and the arguments during those thirty days, I do not know this morning whether Leo M. Frank is innocent or guilty."

"But I was not the one to be convinced and I must announce the motion."

Invitations to White House Wedding Due; Washington Excited

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Washington society got on its thytoes with excitement when it was learned that the invitations to the White House wedding will be in the mails in a day or two.

It is said that further details of the wedding plans will be given out soon now that Miss Jessie Wilson, the bride-elect, has returned from New York. Rumors fill the air about the trousseau, the guest list and the honeymoon journey.

As a guess, Bermuda, where her father has spent many of his vacation hours, is the leading candidate as the honeymoon spot. Still another guess has it that the bridal couple will go almost immediately to Wrentham, Mass., where Mr. Wilson's father-in-law lives.

'LET US HAVE THE TRUTH FOR ONCE,' SAYS ROSSER, APPEALING Frank Attorney Insists on Judge's Remarks With Decision Going Into Record and amended motion, and the affidavits submitted by the State, the motion for a new trial is overruled and denied this October 31, 1913.

JUDGE NOT CONVINCED OF GUILT OR INNOCENCE AS HE DENIES FRANK RETRIAL

"L. S. ROAN, Presiding Judge."

The decision fell like a blow on the attorneys and friends of the convicted factory superintendent. They had hoped against hope for a new trial on at least one of the many grounds that had been advanced.

It was apparent, however, that Rosser and Arnold were not without a premonition of the failure of their second hard fight for the life of their client. They came into Judge Roan's office with sober faces, and displayed little of the geniality that ordinarily marks their conduct.

Solicitor Dorsey wore his usual complacent air and awaited the decision without any show of apprehension. The suspense in the hour and a half while the formalities of closing the hearing and approving the records were being completed was even greater than the time last August when the crowd was awaiting the verdict against Frank.

Even more is at stake. Even more was at stake this time than before. If the motion for a new trial failed, it meant that another recourse in the battle for Frank's life and freedom had been exhausted. No one was in the office of Judge Roan save the judge, the lawyers for the defense, Solicitor Dorsey, several court attaches, one of two friends of Frank and the newspaper men.

Impressed by the portentousness of the occasion, the few people in the room looked on in absolute silence and a certain dread expectancy. There was only the conversation of the lawyers necessary to the arrival at an agreement over the records and the grounds of the amended motion.

Solicitor Dorsey brought in a list of added objections to the grounds for a new trial, some of which insisted that the wording of several of the grounds should be re-drafted or omitted altogether. Judge Roan said that he already had passed on these, but that the objections would be retained to be used later, if need be.

After Judge Roan had approved the amended motion and the records of the case, there was a clearing away of papers in anticipation of decision. Judge Roan had the air of one on whom a great responsibility rested. There was a shade of a tremor in his voice when he began to speak. He hardly began before one could guess that he had it in his mind to rule against the defendant. The lawyers for Frank sensed it and their countenances showed that they were bitterly disappointed.

Attorney Rosser recovered himself and with scarcely a show of feeling made his announcement that the case would be appealed to the Supreme Court.

He would not make a statement to the newspapers.

"I don't try my cases in the papers," he said. "If I had anything to say just at present, I'm afraid it might be incriminating."

Solicitor Dorsey would have little to say, explaining that the time to talk was "when the court was against you, not when it was with you."

"That's the decision I expected; it certainly was," he said. "I wouldn't have believed that Judge Roan could rule against the State in the case until I actually had heard his words. It appeared to me that the law was on our side in every contended point. Attorney Arnold said: 'We will take the case at once to the Supreme Court. Never a doubt has existed in our minds that we were entitled to a new trial.'"

"Convinced of Victory." "The verdict was not justified by the evidence. Judge Roan himself, a good lawyer who can weigh evidence much better than any jurymen, admitted that he did not know whether Frank was innocent or guilty. But aside from this we are even more firmly convinced that we are entitled to a new trial since we have investigated the record question by question than we were when the trial ended."

"We are satisfied to go to the Supreme Court. We are willing that the matter be decided simply on the legal points involved."

Deathlike Calm in Court As Decision Is Rendered

It was passing 10 o'clock in the chamber of Judge Roan, and the arguments were done.

The lawyers for Leo Frank and the lawyers for the State of Georgia waited for the ruling.

The last word had been said in the motion for a new trial. The final objection by the Solicitor had been listed.

The clerk marked the bulky documents "filed." He dated the filing and stepped back.

Judge Roan sat through the last moments before his ruling with no betrayal of emotion, save that now and again he tapped with his shell-rimmed eyeglasses against the back of his thumb, or took a breath longer than usual.

It was four minutes past the hour when the clerk stepped back among the little group of newspaper men.

The judge spoke in the away of a heavy, dead silence. His voice was low and a trifle husky.

The judge's voice ceased. In the quiet there fell the quick beat of steps to the door, and then the sound of sharp voices at the telephones outside.

For a moment the lawyers on either side of the table did not move. Mr. Arnold was standing. He turned away with a barely perceptible shrug of the shoulders. Mr. Rosser sat stolidly at the table. Mr. Dorsey's expression did not change a line.

To an unknown onlooker, it would have been impossible to choose the winner and the loser of the second battle for the life and honor of Leo Frank.

The clerk gathered up his burden of documents and papers. The hearing was over.

Wilson Will Fight For Money Ideas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Drastic changes in the Glass-Owen measure will not be acceptable to President Wilson, it became known to-day, although no fight will be made by the White House on the elimination of the Comptroller of the Currency and the Secretary of Agriculture from the reserve control committee.

While President Wilson believes that changes can be made in the number of regional reserve banks without affecting the integrity of the measure, he thinks that four, as proposed by the Senate committee, are too few.

Debate over the relative merits of central bank and regional bank plans was prolonged in the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency to-day. Senator Reed's proposal for a single bank with 47 branches was regarded as a possible compromise.

Frank Still Stoic; Wife Breaks Down.

Surrounded by his wife and friends, Frank received the news of his second defeat with the same remarkable coolness with which he heard his sentence to be hanged after his conviction on the charge of having murdered Mary Phagan.

A friend who was with him said he made this characteristic statement: "My belief remains unshaken that justice will ultimately be done and the truth be known—the truth that will prove my entire innocence."

Young Mrs. Frank was not so stoical. She wept softly on her husband's shoulder, while he sought to comfort her.

About a dozen friends in all called to offer encouragement and express once more their confidence. Most of them were relatives, among them the parents of the prisoner's wife. They all, except the wife, left about 11 o'clock. There was a look of utter misery and despair in Mrs. Frank's eyes as she sat, stunned and hopeless, at her husband's side in the dreary Tower cell. Few words passed between them.

Frank, as usual, refused to see newspaper men. Jim Conley, obeying his lawyer, W. M. Smith, did likewise.

Marines Landed to Check Strike Riot

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND, Oct. 31.—British marines were landed here and in Auckland to-day to check the fierce rioting which has been started by the starving thousands of workmen who are jobless and penniless because of the conflict here between the Federation of Labor and the different employers.

The employers have refused the demands of the union men that they recognize the union and grant better working conditions.

Nabers sued for $50,000 for false arrest, claiming that railroad detectives made him the scapegoat in two wrecks and on false evidence caused his arrest and imprisonment. Later he was acquitted in the State courts.

$10,000 Damages For False Arrest

HUNTSVILLE, ALA., Oct. 31.—A judgment for $10,000 was awarded William Nabers against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad by a jury in the United States District Court to-day.

Nabers sued for $50,000 for false arrest, claiming that railroad detectives made him the scapegoat in two wrecks and on false evidence caused his arrest and imprisonment. Later he was acquitted in the State courts.

Making Interoceanic Voyage in Light Boat

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 31.—Captain Mathias Johnson, of Eastport, Maine, making a hazardous voyage in a whaleboat from his home to San Francisco by way of the Panama Canal, has left Charleston to proceed south in his tiny craft. He left Eastport in August. He ties up next at Jacksonville.

The craft is named George Washington. A three-horsepower engine furnishes motive power.

WOMAN'S CASE WITH JURY. ANNISTON, ALA., Oct. 31.—The case of Ada Kennedy, the last of the Pearce Kennedy feudists to be tried for the death of Shell and Sarge Kennedy, went to the jury this afternoon. The woman appears confident of her acquittal.

CRAWFORD CASE TO GO TO GRAND JURY SOON

Effort to Indict Woman for Husband's Death Likely To Be Made Early Next Week.

With the hearing of the motion for a new trial in the Frank case concluded, the next big case to occupy the attention of the Fulton County courts will be the Crawford will case, and an attempt to indict Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford as the slayer of her husband, "Uncle Josh" Crawford. This is expected to be one of the first cases before the new Grand Jury which organizes Monday.

Civil action on the will case is being deferred, awaiting the action of the Grand Jury. Mrs. Crawford's attorneys are demanding an immediate investigation, while the attorneys for the heirs are also attempting to hurry the consideration of the case.

It is believed the deliberations of the Grand Jury will have a decided effect upon the outcome of the civil suit, which is for the division of the $250,000 estate left by Mr. Crawford. The case has been complicated by a number of settlements having been made with some of the heirs, who are now attempting to break the agreement under which these settlements were made.

The greatest worry to the heirs at this time is to obtain a Solicitor pro tem to handle the criminal prosecution of the charge against Mrs. Crawford, who is at liberty under $5,000 bond, made by her when she waived preliminary hearing. Solicitor Dorsey is prevented from handling the case, as his law firm is connected with Mrs. Crawford's defense in the civil action. Attorneys Reuben Arnold, Luther Rosser and Burton Smith, and Colonel P. H. Brewster, of the firm of Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman, are Mrs. Crawford's attorneys. Colonel J. S. James represents the Crawford heirs.

Solicitor General Reid, of the Stone Mountain Circuit, was named Solicitor by Judge Ellis, but his appointment to the Stone Mountain bench to succeed Judge L. S. Roan, who goes to the Court of Appeals, has made it necessary to obtain another man for Solicitor pro tem.

Lad of 51 'Cuts Up,' Dad Calls in Police

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—John B. Palmer, aged 50, is having trouble with his boy William, aged 51, again. The bad boy won't work, according to the father. Last August William was arrested at his father's request, but the judge let him off if he would promise to behave. This time the aged father told Municipal Judge Wade that "the lad is back at his old habits of idleness and drinking." The court sent William to the Bridge-well for 100 days.

Elopement and Theft Halted by Psychology Test

PITTSBURG, Oct. 31.—Hugo Munsterberg, professor of psychology at Harvard, here to lecture, declared that applied psychology will be a preventive of crime in the future. Munsterberg told of examining a girl. He requested a reply when a word should connect with a thought. After it was over he said to her: "You intend to empty the till in your mother's store to-night. Then you are going to elope." The girl, he said, confessed and abandoned the plan.

Warrants Issued For 'Loan Sharks'

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 31.—City Attorney Charles S. Scarlett has sworn out warrants against every loan shark in the city, and to-morrow, November 1, is the date for the arrest of those who fail to suspend business. Mr. Scarlett to-day issued a statement telling all patrons of loan men to cease payments and to trust in him for security. Three loan offices closed doors to-day, although others say they will take chances with the City Attorney.

DADE COUNTY, FLA., GOES DRY. MIAMI, Oct. 31.—Dade County has voted dry, for the first time in its history, by a majority of 115. Miami gave the wets 200 majority, but every country precinct except one went dry.

GOBLINS READY TO SWOOP OUT ON ATLANTA

Plan Unusual Halloween Pranks. City to Run Gamut From Gate-Lifting to Bal Masque.

And the Ghost will walk. And the Spook will stray. And the Maid will talk of her Wedding Day. And she'll gaze in a glass. Or down a well. For a glimpse that won't disillusion her.

That is, probably it won't. There's likely to be somebody close behind her, on Halloween. Somebody willing enough to lend a helping hand to Fate in the disposition of helpmeets and so on.

There's really no reason why that fine old Gilbertian song about the Lord High Executioner should have popped into anybody's head the day before Halloween. Maybe the spooks had something to do with it. They're the executioners of Halloween, you know. They and the pumpkin-headed boys. You know. Maybe you were one yourself once.

To-night's the Night. Well, people were saying Friday morning, "To-night's the night!" They meant it was Halloween and there is always something doing Halloween.

Just look at the lay-out: The Piedmont Driving Club's dinner-dance this year is to be a bal masque with several hundred in costume, and the dancing will be around a plantation scene from the Old South, set at one side of the ball-room, windmill and all, and the pickaninies doing nothing at all.

Then there will be a Witches' Mill, with a pool to look into at midnight, and all that sort of thing. Then the Uncle Remus Memorial Association will have a party in the assembly room of Hotel Ansley, where Miss Louise A. Williams will direct "An Evening in the Old South," a series of songs, stories and tableaux.

A thousand guests are expected at Trinity Methodist Church for the Halloween party, with bobbing for apples, candy-pulling, and the antics of an army of hobgoblins and spooks of various degrees. The Elks' Club will have one of its biggest dances of the season, devoted exclusively to the newer dances—a thoroughly modern entertainment.

But the witches and spooks will combine to chase away the memories of the tango and the turkey-trot from the minds of those who attend. The Center Hill celebration of the Women's Civic Club, whose party will be entirely old-fashioned in the school-house of the village. The Virginia Reel and the square dances will be in order, all en masque.

And lots of other parties and entertainments and dances—and then the gate-lifting, and the broomstick spooks, and the "ticktacks," and all the fanciful devices of ebullient youth, with the halo of tradition to excuse the maddest of the pranks. They can all say: "Well father did it—he said so."

Mme. Destinn Sings To Lion Seated on Top of Her Piano

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Emmy Destinn and two fine lions, rented from Hagenbeck's circus, were the star attractions in a drama performed here for the benefit of a motion picture concern.

The prima donna sang an aria with a lion sitting on the lid of the piano. Mme. Destinn at first objected to the lion feature, but succumbed at the high fee offered. Husky animal trainers were in readiness to protect her, but their services were not needed.

LaFollette Guest of Young Democrats

The Young Men's Democratic League of Atlanta will be invited to take charge of the proceedings when United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette comes to Atlanta Wednesday of next week to deliver a political address under the auspices of the Al-highest Lyceum system. Senator LaFollette spoke yesterday in Raleigh, N. C., and will speak at Columbia, S. C., before he comes to Atlanta. He is discussing "Representative Government," with its direct bearing on the present political and economic situation in the United States.

Deed Forgery, Says Court at Savannah

SAVANNAH, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Pearl Atkinson is to-day in possession of her cottage on Duffy street, the Superior Court having ruled that the deed held by Albert H. Propper, who claimed the house, was a forgery. Propper was ordered to pay a large sum in attorneys' fees and the court costs. Prosecution on a criminal charge may follow.

25 Per Cent Increase in Georgia Corn Crop

The corn crop of Georgia this year will be fully 25 per cent larger than the crop of 1912, according to the estimate of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. This year's crop will total 72,000,000 bushels.

Divert Euphrates in Irrigation Project

BAGDAD, ASIATIC TURKEY, Oct. 31.—The historic Euphrates River has been diverted from its ancient course by engineers employed by the British firm of Sir John Jackson, Ltd., who are working to-day under a $30,000,000 contract with the Turkish Government to irrigate the arid land through which the river flows.

ACCEPTS CHATTANOOGA CALL. CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 31.—Dr. W. F. Powell, of the Calvary Baptist Church of Roanoke, has accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of this city, succeeding Dr. J. C. Massee, called to Dayton, Ohio.

PLANS ORDINANCE TO FIX TAXI FARES

Complaints of Unreasonable Charges Spur City Officials to Take Remedial Steps.

Councilman Roy Abernathy, chairman of the Council Ordinance Committee, announced Friday that he would introduce a measure next Monday regulating taxicab and automobile rates.

Complaints have come to city officials recently about overcharges for automobile rides. An investigation has revealed that while a city law fixes the cab rates and the cost of taxi rides, it is not rigidly observed.

"The trouble is that when a man wants a machine after 12 o'clock at night competition doesn't have a chance to get in," said Mr. Abernathy. "A fellow must pay the price or walk, unless he is willing to ride in an antebellum hack. From what I hear, overcharges are made that amount to hold-ups."

"I haven't decided upon a scale of rates for my ordinance, but whatever they are the law will require that they be printed and posted in every taxicab and automobile that is for rent in the city."

A number of members of the Ordinance Committee have signified their intention to support Mr. Abernathy's measure.

Jane Addams' Suitor Is Declared Insane

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31.—A man who had written to Jane Addams, the famous social reformer, was declared insane by a Louisiana court. The man, whose name was not given, had written her a long letter, in which he had expressed his admiration for her work and his desire to marry her.

SIDELIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS

By JAMES B. NEVIN

General Joseph VanHolt Nash, Georgia's "Secretary of War," returned from Savannah to-day, where he wound up an official tour of inspection of State troops that included Brunswick, Augusta and the first-named city.

General Nash expressed himself as highly pleased with the status of Georgia's military, and gave it as his opinion that the same is now in shape to respond readily and efficiently to any call that might be made upon it.

"If this nation should be called upon to make war on Mexico, which is not impossible by any manner of means, perhaps, I know that Georgia would be ready to respond," said General Nash.

"In the event of a declaration of war, the National Government would have the right to call upon the various States organized under the Dick bill for their respective quota of troops, and that undoubtedly is the first thing the National War Department would do.

"Those who are interested in the military and take any degree of pride in the same, which includes very many Georgians, I am happy to say, are interested in one thing—if called upon, her officers and men will respond to the call."

General Nash, who is now in Savannah, will be in Atlanta to-day, where he will be met by the Georgia National Guard.

WINECOFF HOTEL OPENING IS GAY SOCIAL EVENT

Throngs Inspect Beautiful New Hostelry, Test Cooking and "Break In" Ballroom.

From the most prominent social folk of Atlanta and right down the list to the gentlemen and their friends who wouldn't know whether "flet mignon" was a new fruit or a hair tonic, the crowds swarmed into the new Winecoff Hotel at the big opening celebration Thursday night.

The society folks, garbed in the very latest of new fangled ideas in clothing, tangoed, turkey trotted and fish-walked in the new ballroom on the mezzanine floor, and then did it all over again.

The ambitious climbers, who have not yet attained the heights on which their goal is fixed, mingled with them and went away satisfied.

The lobby in all its splendor of Italian marble, Oriental rugs and palm trees, was packed from 6 o'clock until after midnight. Until far in the morning the mezzanine floor, with its dainty furniture and costly decorations, was crowded.

The dance lasted until early this morning. Among the popular dancers were Miss Lucy Hoke Smith, Miss Jane Cooper, Miss Mert Hancock, Miss Mary King, Miss Mary Butler, Misses Doty and Jane Cowles, Miss Lucy Roberts, Miss Fay Dobbs, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Helen Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Winecoff, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ware Holliday, E. V. Haynes, Edward Alfriend, Boise Worthy, Ben Gantt, Chauncey Butler, Harold Brady, Gerald O'Keefe, John Duncan, Locke Crumley, Charles Williams, Pete Williams, Henry Wagstaff, John Armistead and Ernest Armistead.

Wealthiest Man in Clinch County Dead

HOMERVILLE, Oct. 31.—H. J. Peagler, one of the most prominent men in this section, died here this afternoon of acute indigestion. He was reputed to be the wealthiest man in Clinch County, being president of the Bank of Homerville and a large turpentine operator. He has a large family and for several years on the school board. The funeral will be held Sunday.

I heard a young mother talking to her little son about his teeth—telling him how important it is that the teeth be kept clean.

"If you want to be a big, strong boy," she said, "and then a big strong man, you must have good teeth. And to keep your teeth sound you must remember now, while you are a little boy, to brush them twice every day."

STATE'S BANKERS TO CONVENE HERE

Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta Convention Bureau, received notice Friday from Colonel Robert J. Lowry, president of the Lowry National Bank, that the executive committee of the Georgia Bankers' Association has decided to hold its 1914 convention in Atlanta.

Atlanta landed the meeting through the joint efforts of the Convention Bureau and the Clearing House Association. Secretary Houser, of the bureau, asked the clearing house and leading Atlanta bankers to aid him, and the invitation was extended by Colonel Lowry.

PRISONERS IN PACT TO STOP ABUSE OF MEN IN PENITENTIARY

Prisoners in the Federal penitentiary have formed a pact, in which they have sworn to reveal every tale of prison abuse and bad food, just as soon as the doors of the Government institution open to them, according to Ed Ryan who until Thursday evening was known only as No. 2922. Ryan, who stood two-sevens, went to Buffalo Thursday evening, a few hours after he was released.

"Every man in the east," he said, "is ready and willing to tell what he knows about the scheme under which Moyer is trying to make better men of the men sentenced to the Federal pen. All have sworn to tell everything just as soon as they are released."

Ryan, after making this statement, paused for several minutes, puffing a big black cigar, something he had not enjoyed in two years.

"The first thing I did after being released was to catch a tar down and go to a restaurant. I have been hungry ever since I was put in here," continued Ryan.

Calls Food Terrible.

Food is something terrible, greens and fat pork were bad but of late they have had cow beans, the bean that used to be fed to hogs but fat pork, I don't say about the meat, but I don't know what it is some of the things that are served here, the editor of the paper, in which Julian Hawthorne and Dr. W. J. Morton are officially bidden good-bye by their colleagues of the editorial staff of Good Words, appears also to bear out the assertion that Hawthorne's expose of the conditions at the prison was the result of a pact between himself and the other prisoners.

Volving his belief that benefit to the man imprisoned under the present system of handling crime is rare, Register No. 4282 declares that the imprisonment of Hawthorne and Dr. Morton will prove an exception to the general rule.

Personally it may not have been a deal to them," he writes "but it will contribute to a great end by bringing humanity and improving conditions. Their published observations have attracted the attention of the whole country to prisons and conditions. The information they have obtained along these lines, their personal observations presented to the public with all the candor of their natures, will result in a lasting benefit to humanity, coming to the prison benefited here."

Frank Rehearing Again Halts Dodd Will Litigation

The arduous attention which Luther Rosser has accorded the Frank appeal is responsible for the further postponement of the sensational Dodd will case, which was set for a hearing before Judge Ellis the first thing Thursday morning. It was decided Friday to put the hearing over until next Monday, when it is believed Mr. Rosser will be able to take up the case.

The will case is expected to be warmly contested. Mr. Rosser represents the defense, and the main testimony of the contending heirs, cut off by the will, is to be that Mrs. Philip Dodd so ordered her will in regard to her kinspeople because they had refused to kill her first husband. The estate is estimated at $100,000.

The case was appealed from the ordinary's court, and will be defended by the executor, who has retained Mr. Rosser.

Stepmother Held as Poisoner of Five

RUSSELLVILLE, KY., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Jennie Pulliam Nuckols was arrested to-day charged with the poisoning of Nuckols' four children by her first wife.

The children and Nuckols' father with whom they lived, were made ill by poisoned candy sent them by mail from Russellville, and were only saved by efforts of several physicians.

COURT CLEAR AS JUDGES TRADE OFFICES

Appeals Docket Empty for First Time—Roan and Hill to Succeed Each Other.

For the first time in the history of any court of review in Georgia, and so far as the records show, of any court of like character in the entire United States, the State Court of Appeals to-day stands with an absolutely clear docket, with no business whatever before it for consideration.

The new court, with Judge Roan on the bench, will begin business at all intents and purposes just as if it were newly organized.

Chief Judge Benjamin Harvey Hill retires from the Appeals Court bench to-day to be succeeded to-morrow by Judge L. S. Roan, who, in his turn, is to be succeeded on the Atlanta Superior Court by Judge Hill.

Judge Russell, who ranks second to Judge Hill on the Appeals Bench, stands in line next for the Chief Judgeship should Judge Russell not be a candidate for re-election next year.

Judge Pottle, who ranks second to Judge Russell on the Appeals Bench, stands in line next for the Chief Judgeship should Judge Russell not be a candidate for re-election next year.

The Appeals Court is one of the hardest worked courts in Georgia, and its record in clearing up its docket absolutely before sitting under its forthcoming new order is unparalleled in the judicial history of the State.

The closing of the city tax books has placed in the hands of City Marshal Fuller the collection of $200,000 in overdue taxes.

Inherits $38,991 In 3 Hours of Life

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—An infant who lived only three hours inherited $38,991. The infant was George H. DeBrackeleer, son of Mrs. Jeannette M. DeBrackeleer, who died at the birth of the child.

Percy Lambert, Auto Speed Title Holder, Is Killed During Race

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LONDON, Oct. 31.—Percy Lambert, holder of the world's automobile speed record, was killed in an automobile accident to-day at the Brooklands Aerodrome.

Last year on the same track Lambert drove 103 miles and 1,740 yards in an hour in a Clement-Talbot car. This was the greatest distance ever traveled by man in an hour outside of an aeroplane.

The Brooklands track is laid out in a circle, two miles to the lap. Lambert was spinning around the circle in his torpedo-shaped car to-day when it turned over. The driver was crushed to death.

Auto Turns Turtle; Woman Badly Hurt

FITZGERALD, Oct. 31.—While returning from the Macon fair the automobile of W. Rodgers, Commissioner of Roads and Bridges of Ben Hill County, turned turtle about five miles from Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Rodgers was seriously injured. Mr. Rodgers received a few bruises and scratches. Their two children escaped injury. The car was completely wrecked.

Adamsville Convict Camp Given Piano

The evenings of the convicts of the Adamsville camp have been turned from dreary loneliness to the merrily fellowship of music by the Phillips & Crew Company, who have given the camp a good piano.

The men in the camp are white men who range in age from 18 years to hardened old men of 60 years, and a committee representing them has written the piano firm a letter of thanks.

First Skyscraper Soon To Be Razed

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The first building ever erected around a skeleton of steel, the "father" of the skyscrapers, is to be torn down. The structure is known as the Tower Building.

RACE FOR PRIZES IN AD CONTEST NEARS END

Keen Rivalry Makes It Necessary for Contestants to Work Hard Next Two Weeks.

Do you know that November 15 will soon be here? That is the day on which The Georgian's Big Ad Contest will close. Will you be one of the prize winners, or will you not? If not, you have no one to blame but yourself.

Such magnificent prizes as these are eagerly sought after. There are just enough people who realize this fact that it is going to take a heavy vote to land the best prizes.

There is still time to work, and if you take advantage of the remaining two weeks there is no reason why you should lose.

In this great contest you have a chance to match your capacity against that of others—measure your popularity with that of others; test the real depth of friendship of your friends and compare it with the friends and friendship of others.

In this effort many are finding what they can do under pressure and are learning their capacity as they could not get it in any other field of endeavor.

All Around The Town

Little Facts and Fancies About Well-Known Atlantans.

Fred Linnell, the hotel man, has always prided himself on being a real woman hater. His constant brag was, "I have lived in Atlanta seventeen years and I have never met a half dozen women here."

A few weeks ago Will Zimmer gave a barbecue to the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association and Linnell, of course, was there. So was that able jester, Fred Houser. Just as the barbecue became active, some six automobiles came up filled with friends of Zimmer and their wives.

Dr. "Billie" Elkin gets many invitations to dinner, and not infrequently he is called upon to respond to some toast or other.

"In a way," said Dr. Elkin to-day, "I probably am the best after-dinner speaker in Atlanta, particularly if it is long enough after dinner. True, I never have made any after-dinner speeches that set the woods on fire exactly, but I know I can do it. At last, I invariably can think of the finest after-dinner speeches ever, on my way home after dinner, good and proper. I love to make after-dinner speeches to myself as I journey home. They are great, as you body would agree, if only I could sometimes get one out of my system at the psychological moment!"

"It surprised me not a little," said D. F. McClatchey to-day, "to learn that someone is kicking up a rumpus in Savannah about the operation of divers and sundry loud-dating emporiums, the kind wherein they sell joy water, of course, until recently I noted that it is not so much the quantity of the portions sold as it is the quality."

"There is too much mean liquor sold in this town," said a judge down there recently. And there he stopped. It is at right, more or less, I suppose, to sell it in that burg, but to sell it 'mean'! That's taking a sure-enough 'mean' advantage of those unsuspecting and overcredulous Savannah people, sure!"

Citizen "Jack" Slaton lunches promiscuously about town. One day it is in the Kimball House cafe, another in the Ansley Ratskeiler, another day at the University Club, another in some relatively obscure Greek restaurant, anywhere, so the service is good and the food is to his liking.

Judge "Bob" Pottle, of the Court of Appeals, came mighty near being run down by a pickaninny bicyclist to-day. It happened at the corner of South Pryor and Hunter streets, and the short rider missed the judge not more than half an inch, and on 'y then because his judge jumped vigorously to one side, much after the fashion of ordinary folks.

"Hey, you, daburntall!" began the judge, turning wrathfully upon the youthful offender.

And then a friend, mindful of the judicial dignity, and so forth and so on, expostulated with the judge. "It's all over," said he, "and you are not hurt—why squabble?"

"That's right," said the judge, smiling.

U. S. Plans to Unite Labor and Capital

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The United States Government has inaugurated a movement to reconcile labor and capital. This work will be undertaken by the new commission on industrial relations.

Leaders on both sides will meet this winter. Among those who will attend, according to present plans, are Harrison Gray Otis, Charles M. Schwab, Samuel Gompers, Eugene V. Debs and William D. Haywood.

Mrs. J. Borden Hargraves, of New York, will be resident commissioner in Washington.

His stolen overcoat hung in front of the pawnshop, marked with a big "for sale" tag. Kirkpatrick, while the judge buttoned his black prince albert tightly across his chest and proceeded on toward the State Capitol.

H. N. Dutton, manager of the Piedmont Hotel, is taking all his friends down in the basement of his establishment these days and pointing with pride to what he calls "the big apples in captivity." They are monstrous red beauties, and were grown in North Georgia, near Cornelia.

Thin Folks Who Would Be Fat

Increase in Weight Ten Pounds or More.

A Physician's Advice.

"I'd certainly give almost anything to be able to fat up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every excessively thin man or woman.

Such a result is not impossible, despite past failures. Thin people are victims of malnutrition, a condition which prevents the fat elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the powers of nutrition are normal.

To correct this condition and to produce a healthy, normal amount of fat the nutritive process must be artificially supplied with the power which nature has denied them.

This can best be accomplished by eating a Sargol Tablet with every meal. Sargol is a scientific combination of six of the best strength-giving, fat-producing elements known to the medical profession.

Taken with meals, it mixes with the food and turns the sugars and starches into rich, ripe nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect is remarkable.

Reported gains of from 10 to 25 pounds in a single month are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless.

Sargol is sold by Jacobs' Pharmacy and other good druggists everywhere and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Caution.—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in the treatment of nervous indigestion and general stomach disorders, it should not be used by those who are not willing to increase their weight ten pounds or more.

THE GEORGIAN'S MAGAZINE MONIE A THRILLING STORY OF A MODERN CRISTO

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

The women, dear one. They will know. "Oh, you deceiver! You said my toilet was perfect, and I am quite sure yours is."

Philip imagined that the girl hung back, so he boldly undertook an explanation. By describing the woman as apparently intoxicated, and certainly imprudent, he covered a good deal of ground, and the rest was easy.

When they reached the Savoy the anxious mother had relegated the incident to the limbo of unimportant things. Only one other matter troubled her—the somewhat unconventional origin of her daughter's acquaintance with this pleasant-looking young gentleman.

She was far too tactful to hint at such a point just then. It should be reserved for home discussion. Meanwhile, they were early arrivals. The head waiter marshaled them to a window table. Mrs. Atherley smiled; she knew her London.

"You were sure we would accompany you?" she inquired. "Not at all sure; only hopeful," said Philip.

"Ah, well. It is good occasionally to revisit the old scenes. No, Elf, I will sit here. I will not be in face to the row of tables. A half dozen people would certainly recognize me, and I do not wish it."

Elf! The name drove Philip's thoughts backward with a bound—back to a fortuitous night in a London square and the tearing open of a carriage door in time to save a sweet little girl all robed in white, who, but for him, would have fallen with an overturned vehicle.

Both ladies were amazed at the expression on Philip's face. He betrayed such eagerness, such intense longing, such keen anxiety to establish her identity with the child who figured in an accident of no very remarkable nature that they could not help being vastly surprised.

Their astonishment was not lessened when Philip exclaimed: "And I was the boy?" "But I said a 'boy with newspapers,'" "Yes, a very urchin, a waif of the streets."

"My uncle struck you?" "Oh, this is too marvelous. Mother, you must remember—" "My dear one, I remember the event as if it had taken place yesterday. Your uncle would not have cared were you killed that night. All he wanted was your money. Now he has that, and mine. He was, indeed, a wicked man."

"Mother, dear, he is unhappy. Are we? But, Mr. Anson, what wonderful change in your fortunes has taken place since our first meeting? Is the newspaper trade so thriving that a carriage and pair, a supper at the Savoy, stalls at the Regent's Hall and a bouquet from Rosalind's are mere trimmings, so to speak, to a busy day?"

"Evelyn," protested Mrs. Atherley. "But the girl was too buoyant, too utterly oblivious of all that this meeting meant to Philip, to cease from chaffing him."

"Please, Mr. Anson, do tell us the secret. I will sell any paper you name. I get five guineas for singing two songs. I admit, but I may only sing them once a month. I have loads of time to run about crying 'Extra special! 'Orrible disaster!' Or does the magic spring from writing those thrilling stories one sees placarded on the boardings? I believe I could do it. I once won a prize in a lady's magazine for a set of verses, the genuine and unaided production of a girl aged under fourteen."

Philip compelled himself to respond to her mood. He promised to reveal his secret, if money-making at some future period, when she was sufficiently dazzled to accept his words as those of a prophet.

With the tact of a woman of the world, Mrs. Atherley led the conversation back to less personal channels. The great restaurant was rapidly filling now. The occupants of neighboring tables cast occasional glances at the merry trio which composed the fables of the musical world, the ways of agents, the little meannesses and petty spite of the greatest artists, and, incidentally, did ample justice to an excellent meal.

A "Bull Moose" Tree A CURIOUS FREAK LOCATED IN THE LARGEST APPLE ORCHARD IN THE WORLD.

The "Bull Moose" Tree. The picture shows one of the most curious tree formations in the country. The growth on the side of the tree trunk exactly resembles the head of the famous Roosevelt emblem, the Bull Moose, and has for years been a sight of the Green Ridge Valley, Maryland.

The tree is an oak, and is located at the side of a road that runs through the apple orchard of F. Merten's Sons, the largest in the world. Visitors to the orchard, which is within a few miles from Cumberland, are always eager to get a sight of the tree, the fame of which has spread considerably.

An imaginative Cumberland reporter once tried to circulate a report to the effect that the great Teddy himself once leaned against the tree, whereupon, a few days afterward, the growth sprang forth. It might, be well to mention that the tree is known as a "Progressive Oak."

Luck That Turned A Complete Short Story

FRANK RIDGWAY left the newspaper office with bent head and drooping shoulders. He had been refused a hearing. Directly he asked for work the door was opened for his departure. They had no places vacant. Since the failure and stoppage of the Argus he had sought employment everywhere, but found only rebuffs.

Wearily he walked on. This meant that his watch must be pledged. Madge must be provided for, and she needed extra delicacies while she was ill. He wondered whether she ever regretted being a newspaper man's wife. It was maddening to remember that they had been married less than a year, and already a series of misfortunes had overtaken them.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

MY cousin Alice is at our house to stay a week & she is one of the prettiest girls that I ever saw. She has got a beau, too, & he claims to see her last night. I don't see how a girl so pretty could have such a bonehead for a beau, but I don't think Alice knows very much either, that is the way with lots of girls, when they are very pretty they don't know much, & when they know much they have faces like penny masks.

The name of Alice's beau is Abner. I don't know why any father and mother ever names their boy Abner. He had on nice clothes when he called last night, but he had vaseline in his hair to make it stay combed so it curled on his forehead, & he wore a button in his coat & it sed on the button. I think anybody that wears a button that says something on it is so stupid that they can't say anything themselves.

Pa looked at the button which sed "Drink What Adam Drank," & sed to Abner, "What is the idee?" "Do you not comprehend, sed Abner. Adam drank water, pure, sparkling water. I, too, drink pure sparkling water, sed Abner. Will you join our little band & drink pure, sparkling water, he sed to Pa.

I will not drink it, exclusive, sed Pa, because I like pure, sparkling burgundy too & burbon, etc; I do not drink anything like that to excess, sed Pa, but I like a snifter now & then, sed I can not promise to drink what Adam drank, a tho I wud like to be one of your jolly crowd. What if pure water was all Adam drank? sed Pa. Diddent he get the gate just the same?"

Oh, but that was not his fault, sed Abner. Jest then cousin Alice claim in & Abner went & sat near her. Ma & Pa only stayed in the parlor a little while & then they went out to a card party but I stayed rite thare on the job, I wanted to talk Abner over. I was setting out in the other room & I pretended I was reading Pare-footed Ben, the Boy That Bilt a R. R. but all the time I was getting a ear full of Abner's talk.

I luv poetry, he sed to Alice. Do you luv poetry? Yes, sed Alice, I luv poetry. Will you recite sum poetry to me, he sed to Abner. Then Abner recited, but he dident know enuff to recite sumthing about luv, he recited. You may talk of gin and beer. Wen you're safely quartered here Or off for penny fites to Aldershot.

A Letter to Mary

Mary Replies to Her Father in a Pathetic Appeal for Fair Play.

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE.

MY DEAR FATHER: When I came down to breakfast this morning and read a letter from you which I found under my plate, I was both distressed and amused.

Distressed, because you so plainly disapprove of my choice, and amused because you still think I am a child. Children, I know, are never grown in the eyes of their parents, but won't you try to realize that I am twenty-one, a woman grown, while reading this?

You base your objections chiefly on the ground that I know so little of this man. How do you know, blindest of fathers, that I know so little? When a man has been a girl's devoted shadow for six months, isn't she pretty apt to know him better than her elders suspect?

Jack was introduced to me by your old friend, Mrs. Hart. I did not ask to see his credentials, or bill of health, or references, or whatever it is that says a man is decent; I just looked into his big serious blue eyes and knew that he was. I asked him to call. It was a courtesy due a guest of your old friend, which is one reason, and there are others.

You met him the first time he came, and so did mother. Neither you nor she asked for his credentials, passports or whatever it is that seems to be now lacking. On the contrary, you welcomed him, and said to Mother after he had gone, "That seems a likely young fellow."

You don't remember it? I do! I remember every glorious incident of the past six months. They are pictured on my memory with a splash of gold. Somehow I knew that first night, and never doubted my first instincts, that I had met the man of all mankind for me.

He came again the next evening. Neither you nor Mother objected, and the first evening he took me to a theatre I went with mother's permission, and I had her sanction for every attention I ever received from him. I know, Dear Father, that children are not always thoughtful of their parents, but I wonder if I can tell you, without hurting you, or being misunderstood, just where parents fall in their obligations.

Jack showed from the very first that he was attracted by me. Do you remember that first evening that he never took his eyes off me, and that once when Mother addressed him he didn't hear, for all his attention was following me? Did you notice that he held my hand when he left? Didn't you hear him ask if he might call again the next evening? Couldn't you see, couldn't you see, that he was beginning to love me?

Seven Mistakes of Matrimony

The First Deadly Mistake of Matrimony Is to Marry on an Insufficient Income.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

THE first deadly mistake of matrimony is to marry on an insufficient income.

Matrimony has its commercial as well as its sentimental side, and while more money alone will not make a happy marriage, neither will love alone.

So in a trance of joy, literally doped with sentiment, they marry, with a sort of sublime faith that their love will miraculously feed, as the prophet was by the ravens.

But Cupid isn't that sort of a bird. He is no miracle worker. He supplies no lobster Newburgh, nor even plain beefsteak and onions.

On the contrary, life goes on for people who are in love just as it does for those who are out of love. Nothing stops the processes of nature.

It is not so romantic—it even fills you with a deep disgust for the weakness of human nature, but the truth remains that we have to be physically comfortable, and have a mind at peace, before we can even love.

A Sleeper.

Try this on some of your friends: "A sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper is that in which a sleeper sleeps. A sleeper is that on which the sleeper sleeps while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper under the sleeper," etc., etc., and so forth.

If you knew how many different ways Faust Macaroni can be served, you would have it several times every week—write for free recipe book and find out. Faust Macaroni is a savory, toothsome dish—you make a whole meal on it alone and feel thoroughly satisfied.

The Value and Attractiveness of Fur

By Fannie Ward

Star of "Madam President"—Copyright, 1913, by International News Service.

In addition to this, Miss Ward gives valuable advice on the art of keeping a stylish look to everything you wear.

FUR, fur everywhere—and never a scrap to waste! That is the slogan of the Winter fashions. On a basis of beauty.

On the right Miss Ward illustrates the touch of fur on an evening gown, and the effect of a fur stole against a white throat.

On the left is a magnificent evening cloak trimmed with fur.

Miss Ward tells girls and women who cannot afford costly furs how they obtain almost as good an effect with the cheaper grades.

As simple as you like—you will be stunning when you have added the correct touch of pelty—Miss Ward plans her wardrobe for the coming months.

If you can afford a touch of fur here, a bit of fur there, the success of your gown from the point of view of becomingness and smartness seems assured.

I am going to try to explain the reason for the popularity of "the fur touch" and the advisability of using it in your gowns.

First and foremost—fur is very becoming! There is nothing that a set is very expensive—and for the woman of limited means, who wants a long haired soft colored dark fur, I recommend mink, fisher, fox or raccoon in a descending scale of prices.

These long haired brown furs add a richness of coloring to the brunette type and are charming on the woman who is not very stout.

For the pink and white blonde there are silver fox, white fox, black lynx and the black and white civet cat.

For the woman of embonpoint there are the short-haired furs of subdued coloring—mole, seal, broadtail and Persian.

The most beautiful light fur of the winter is the creamy fitch with its dark brown markings—this is particularly stunning on the olive-complexioned brunette to whose cheek it imparts a bit of color.

But I know of no more durable, universally becoming and fair-priced fur than skunk or marten—which I have used on the evening coat I slipped on over my frock to show you in the picture on the left.

The coat is a simple kimono-shape of plush, duvety or velvet. Blue is particularly good with the skunk bands, but you may use hunter's green, rose or old gold with good results in color contrast.

Frogs of self color fasten the coat, and three-inch bands of the fur finish the coat at the bottom and form the cuffs and the standing collar. Search well the treasure troves of attic and old trunks, for even a tiny bit of once disscovered and seemingly shabby old fur offers you a chance to add richness and charm to dress or coat or hat.

carded and seemingly shabby old fur offers you a chance to add richness and charm to dress or coat or hat.

Their Married Life

Helen Meets a Steamer Acquaintance Who Is in a Most Unfortunate Position.

By MABEL HERBERT UMER

"W HERE stopping at the Adorf. It's only a couple of blocks from here—can't you come in and have some tea?" Helen hesitated, then yielded to Mrs. Merwin's urgent invitation.

She had met the Merwins on the steamer. They had sat at the same table on the return voyage and seen a great deal of each other during the trip.

The atmosphere and appointments of a big, luxurious hotel had always a certain charm for Helen, a charm that would probably be dispelled should she live at one for any length of time.

They left the elevator at the eighth floor, and Mrs. Merwin led the way up the hall to an expensive suite of bedroom, sitting room and bath.

She telephoned down for the tea, ordering with it two cocktails. "Oh, yes, we must have something to drink," she hung up the receiver.

"I've been blue all day! Oh, I think New York is the most lonely place. I'll be so glad when we get away."

"But you're as pleasantly situated here," protested Helen, glancing around the attractive rooms. "And don't you find this hotel very good? I've always heard that the service here was excellent."

"Oh, I—I almost hate it! I've been so unhappy ever since we came." Helen looked up, surprised at the tremor in her voice.

Ardenman's carelessly. Then seeing Helen's look of surprise she added hastily: "I shouldn't have ordered it, but it was weak before last, when Frank felt sure he was putting through a big deal. We saw it in the window and I liked it. You see," plaintively, "he wants me to have everything. We've an account at Ardenman's, and he told me to have it charged. Of course I didn't know things were going to be so bad."

"Can't you return it?" suggested Helen, gently. "If you explain—wouldn't they take it back?" "No—no, they've altered it now. That's why they've kept it so long. Oh, I suppose it won't matter," recklessly, "when the cash comes a hundred dollars or more won't make any difference."

With a sudden impulse she took a knife from the tea tray and cut the string of the box. "HER SAD STORY." "Do you want to see the dress?" with a harsh little laugh. "I'll wear it down to dinner to-night, and we'll look so prosperous that the hotel won't send us a bill for another week."

"Oh, I've learned to pretend, to act, to business assets to have an expensive gown," Helen shrank from this bitterness. "There," she shook up the fragile evening gown, gleaming with pearl trimmings, "does that look like we couldn't pay our hotel bill?" Then she turned to Helen almost fiercely.

"But you mustn't misunderstand me! You mustn't think Frank isn't honest in his schemes. He is! Somehow he always believes in them. He's always sure he's going to make a fortune for himself and for everybody else. But when I think of his promotions and have lost it almost drives me mad."

"Oh, yes—I don't want to keep you," helplessly. "I suppose Frank will be here some time this evening. He doesn't come—l'll not go down to dinner alone. I feel that everybody knows we owe that bill. Oh, the humiliation of it—you don't know—you don't know!"

"It was quite dark when Helen reached the street. She hurried home filled with brooding, anxious thoughts of the woman she had just left. Above everything else, Helen had an intense horror of debt. To owe a hotel bill, and to be compelled to live on at that hotel, seemed to her an intolerable situation.

A BLANK FUTURE. "And what would be the outcome? Would Mr. Merwin be able to get the money? Or would they stay on until they were asked to leave?" "Hish, you're wasting a lot of sympathy. It was Warren's comment when she told him about it at dinner. "Those promoters are used to being on their uppers. And they've all got to get rich—quick, scheme that's more or less shabby."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T YOU ALSO LOVE YOUR PARENTS?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am seventeen and deeply in love with a young man of twenty-two. He has asked me to elope with him. My parents object to him. They have no use for him. I love him dearly and I know my love is returned. ANXIOUS.

YOUR letter indicates no consideration for your mother and father. If you loved them as you should, you would realize that a girl of seventeen is too young to set up her opinions against those of her parents.

YOU OVER-ESTIMATE HIM. DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am seventeen and deeply in love with a young man of twenty-two. We are employed in the same place of business, but he does not seem to return my affections. He says he only likes pretty girls, and I do not consider myself pretty. GRACE.

AN Anniversary. A man may be rough looking and yet have a touch of sentiment about him. A ragged, ill-kept-looking man appeared at the door of a woman's home and in a pleading tone asked: "Have you a piece of cake, lady, to give a poor man who hasn't had a bite for two days?" "Cake," echoed the woman in surprise. "Isn't bread good enough for you?" "Ordinarily, yes, ma'am. But this is my birthday," explained the tramp.

Boehling Is Best of Youngsters Great Future for Griff's 'Find'

By J. W. McConaughy.

A TRAVELING salesman, somewhat of a kisser in a quiet way, had business in Richmond this past summer. Leaving the station, he asked several persons where the Confederate Capital was located, and where was the house in which Joe Boehling lived. Nine of the ten persons questioned knew all about the home of Boehling, and but one knew where the site of the one-time Capitol was—and to make things even explained that he did not know Boehling, that the town was getting too full of strangers.

The Boehling asked about was the young man who made baseball history with the Washington American League team the past season. He is a pitcher, a very sensational one for a veritable kid and his fame has spread all over the country in one year. Of course, at his home town, Richmond, he had gained a little fame before he got out of the semi-pro ranks, but it was with the Senators in 1913 that he really achieved fame.

Came Close to Record.

In the last season Boehling won seventeen and lost seven games and at one time just missed making a record for the year, when he fell down after capturing eleven straight games. Husky Gus Williams, of the St. Louis Browns, put the kibosh on the record when he lifted one of Boehling's fast straight ones into deep right in the first inning of the St. Louis-Washington game, July 28, for a home run, which chased Shotton and Pratt in ahead. This killed all chance of getting a mark for the season, for the Senators were never able to overcome the lead that homer gave the lowly St. Louis team.

Boehling is but 21 years of age. He weighs 180 pounds and tosses 'em from the port side.

He began playing ball on the lots in Richmond and was "discovered" by Bill Peet, a Washington scribe, when he pitched for the Richmond team called the little Axes against a Washington nine.

Peet told Clark Griffith of his find and the manager of the Senators looked him over. This was two years ago.

Was Sent to Lookouts.

*Games in which Boehling pitched in which some other pitcher was credited with victory or charged with defeat.

the youngster, but he didn't show very much at the start and was sent to Chattanooga for seasoning. With Chattanooga he won two games and lost four, and was then chased back to Washington. Then Griffith loaned him to Jesse Burkett's Worcester team, and he won fourteen and lost eight games before being called in by Griffith. This was in September, 1912, and he showed very little from then to the season's end.

This year, though, it was different. The youngster had got over his wildness entirely, had fine control and a wonderful assortment of curves. Best of all he was willing to learn, and he did learn a lot.

Famous Tech Coach Says Donahue Has Smooth-Working Machine AUBURN BEST TEAM IN THE SOUTH—HEISMAN

By J. W. Heisman.

CLASS is beginning to tell in the games between the Southern college teams, and it is becoming more and more clear as the days go by that the supremacy which most of the best teams have enjoyed for the past three or four years is to be maintained in 1913.

While Mississippi A. & M. is hardly as strong this year as it has been for the preceding four or five seasons, yet I venture to say not even Auburn itself was prepared for the splendid victory of 34 to 0 that its team rolled up against A. & M. The Auburnites seemed to strike their stride from the very beginning of the season, and have thus far gone along without a hitch or a skip. Right now I venture to suggest that the Orange and Blue squad is the smoothest working machine in Dixie, and if it keeps on at its present gait it is going to be, as I thought from the first, the team to haul down the humping.

VERY early in the season I hinted that Auburn might prove an even more formidable contender for championship honors than the Commodores, which statement was considered quite extravagant at the time; but recent events begin to bear me out. To be sure, we all expected Michigan would defeat Vanderbilt, but we were hardly prepared for the score that came over the wires.

McGugin has a wonderful quartet of players in the two Browns, Morgan and Sikes, but that lets the Vanderbilt team out for this year, and no eleven can raise so very much of a fuss with only four good men out of eleven on the team.

Tech has already found out the same thing—that one or even a couple of swallows don't make a summer, and to me it is, and has been, no secret that the new material at Vanderbilt this year has not been on a par with what they have secured in the past. Had 'Cody been eligible, it would have made considerable difference.

However, I still believe that Vanderbilt is going to show a world of fight and take a lot of pummeling before any team in the South will make it buckle under. I do not believe that the score of 35 to 2 against it adequately represents the day-in-and-day-out strength of the Commodores. Michigan was smarting under the sting of that defeat one week before at the hands of the Michigan Aggies, while that same game gave Vanderbilt a little too much hope. These things cut a wide swath.

It's hard to say, but it does look as though they would have sprung it if they had, for it appears that the Red and Black crowded them to the uttermost, not only in the first quarter or half, but almost throughout the entire contest. It's all well enough to say you're about to be kicked right now, but you generally attend to the thing at hand and let the latter affair take care of itself.

Any way you look at it, though, Georgia did exceptionally well, and it looks now as though it were going to give Auburn about as stiff a fight as will Vanderbilt. It is a pity Georgia plays neither Sewanee nor Vanderbilt this year, and a pity that Auburn does not meet Sewanee. These would all make Jim-dandy games.

That McWhorter's long runs in the past have not been more accidents—as some would have us believe—that young man amply demonstrated against the Virginians. When he's feeling right and his team is playing ball, he can and does get away from the very best of them. In the past we may have thought there must have been something decidedly off color in the tackling of the Southern teams of this section that they have been quite unable to put 'Boo down for keeps, but when as big and fine and experienced a team as that of Virginia also comes down here and fails to flop this remarkable young man we are forced to the belief that the fault is not in ourselves, dear Brutus, but in the stocky Athenian.

LAST year Tech went down to Jacksonville the last Saturday in October, and had a hard game with Florida. This year they went down again on the same relative Saturday, and they had another hard fight, and won again by none too safe a margin. Some seventeen players were carried on the trip, and of these an even twelve did not make the trip one year ago. What

Better Arrangement For Seats Hereafter At Jacket Battles

The Tech authorities have arranged a reserved seat proposition for the Tech-Sewanee game at Grant Field Saturday afternoon, and will follow it up for the other games this season as they are confident that the football fans will find the arrangement satisfactory.

One dollar general admission will entitle the purchaser to a seat in the wooden stands on the east side of the field or standing room along any of the outside side lines.

The reserved seats will be 25 cents and 50 cents extra, the first few rows in the concrete stands being 50 cents and those back 25 cents. Each seat will have a coupon and there will be ushers to seat the people.

Every person buying a reserved seat at the Tech game for the remainder of this season will be assured of his seat. He can purchase his reserved seat and show up at the game at any time that he is in a mind to, just as he would at a theater, and he will be certain of getting the seat that he purchased.

The grandstand has been rearranged and blocked off and all the seats numbered. The general admission and reserved seat tickets can be purchased at Tullin Bros.

SOUTHERN FOOTBALL.

It was an Autumn evening.
The player's work was done.
He stood upon the bloody field
Beneath the setting sun,
And chortled in his ghoulish glee:
"It was a famous victory!"

"It happened just like this," he said:
"We took 'em by surprise,
And landed on a nose or two
And blacked a dozen eyes.
In fact, we put 'em on the blink
Before they had a chance to think!"

"How many touchdowns did you make?"
"I asked the happy soul,
"How often did you plunge across
The fallen foeman's goal?"
"We made no touchdowns," answered he,
"But 'twas a famous victory!"

George Huff's assertion that unnecessary roughness is ruining football does not meet with the hearty approval of our physicians and surgeons.

Branch Rickey says he does not believe in fining his players. He considers it punishment enough to be a member of the Browns.

But Nelson is going to revisit Bonesetter Reese to have his hands overhauled. He injured them while in the act of squeezing his first nickel.

If Charlie White were to fight all those fights framed up for him in Kenosha and Racine he would have accumulated a fortune of $1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000.

John McGraw says the Giants must be on their good behavior while touring the universe. If they cut up he will fine them part of the salaries they are not getting.

A farmer in Michigan stung Ad Wolgast in a sale involving a bull. And after being managed all these years by the world's most famous bull expert!

Charlie Herzog says he will quit baseball rather than play with the Cardinals. And even if he does join the Cardinals he will quit baseball.

Colonel Hedges arises to remark that he has a real manager at last. All he needs now is a real baseball team.

DIXIE LEAGUE DEMISE QUIET AND PEACEFUL

Inability to Gain Recognition and Get Star Players Figured in Reported Cessation.

By O. B. Keeler.

UNLESS our New Orleans war correspondent has been slipped a bum steer, the nice new Dixie League has blown up.

THE bulk of opinion seems to be that only Atlanta and Birmingham of the six Southern League cities designed for double-team tactics, would have supported two clubs.

IF Harry N. Parr, secretary of the league that "died a-borning," is quoted correctly, he believes it impossible to gain recognition from organized baseball and the Southern League.

THE original plan of the league, as set forth in this column, was to work in harmony with the Southern by means of a non-conflicting schedule, and eventually to play the same class of ball with a post-season series at the end of the regular season for the Southern championship.

PROBABLY the main obstacle was getting players. The original plan of the league, as set forth in this column, was to work in harmony with the Southern by means of a non-conflicting schedule, and eventually to play the same class of ball with a post-season series at the end of the regular season for the Southern championship.

SO the new league had to fall through, it seems, though the official obsequies still are pending.

It may not be out of place to say that the infant circuit was proposed decently and in order; that there was no unseemly flurry of trumpets or threats of warfare, and that, if the project has been abandoned, no unhappy fragrance hovers around its memory.

Maybe it will "come back." Who knows?

RED AND BLACK END TRAINING GRIND TO-DAY

ATHENS, GA., Oct. 31.—This afternoon will close a week of hard work on the part of the University of Georgia football team in preparation for the battle against the University of North Carolina on the local field to-morrow.

What kind of a team the Tarheels have and what will be their system of attack is unknown to the Georgia coaches. They have neglected to send a scout into the enemy's territory for any of the games this season and about all the information at hand is the announcement which comes generally from the Old North State that the Eastern style of play will be put into use.

SO the new league had to fall through, it seems, though the official obsequies still are pending.

Every American Can Write About This National Flypaper.

Some of the flies miss the flypaper—the big, sticky money sheet—and think themselves miserable because they miss its sweetness...

HERE IS THE BIG DRIVER.

This is the gentleman on horseback—you all know him—you could write many a column about him.

When he comes along with his black horse and his long whip and we feel the lash of necessity and the thundering hoofs behind us, we forget ornaments, prettiness and other foolishness, and begin to run.

'Necessity' is the modern 'gadfly' praised by Socrates for keeping men busy.

Of course, occasionally necessity frightens a man, and the man lies down and says: 'Run over me, I don't care.' But such a one is not really a man, but a mouse.

Missionary Work That Is Left Undone

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

MUCH home missionary work is done by churches all over our land; yet that much is left undone which could be done and that time and money spent in a large part of the foreign mission work could be better employed at home is painfully true.

The world is God's House, and in housecleaning good workers know they must distribute their labors over the whole mansion and not leave any part of it untidy.

A large percentage in one Christian institution in China is composed of children either mentally or physically defective.

Every temptation that can be presented is before them. 'Not a church goes out of its way to save them. Not a minister but the Rev. T. B. Griswold ever comes to help the meetings.'

"The Downtrodden English Woman"

In Great Britain, He Says, Women Possess Political Power Far Greater Than That Possessed in Any Part of America, Other Than the Nine Woman Suffrage States and Illinois.

By REV. CHARLES F. AKED, D. D. Written for The Atlanta Georgian.

"WE do not need militant methods in America. It is different in England." The formula has been repeated from coast to coast in the course of discussions aroused by Mrs. Pankhurst's visit.

An Important Matter.

This matter is important. Here is Mrs. Pankhurst pledging herself not to advocate militant methods in this country, and American women pouring money into her hands for the purpose of financing militant methods in England.

With one reply the distinguished ladies referred to will be ready: The divorce laws are unequal and bad. They are. About this there is no dispute.

Yet the explanation is easy. The Englishman is consistent and he has the courage—it may be, the brutal courage—of his convictions. The law to which the American man submits is better than the man's own convictions.

The Englishman expresses in his law his deep convictions of the generations. He holds that an offense is a worse offense when committed by a wife than when committed by a husband.

No Second Instance.

Yet the sense of humor is not extinct in America. And it will not be seriously held that this inequality in the laws of divorce constitutes that "difference" which justifies incendiary and outrage and a recourse to dynamite bombs!

What other laws can be quoted? Up to the present moment, in all the utterances of all the American sympathizers with English militants which have come under my notice, not a second instance has been named.

The simple fact is that in Great Britain the woman possesses political power far greater than that possessed in any part of America other than the nine woman suffrage States and Illinois.

the election of District Councils, both rural and urban; Parish Councils, County Councils, Boards of Guardians, Town and City Councils. Unmarried women may be elected to these bodies; they may sit as City Councilors or County Councilors; they may be Aldermen; they may be Mayors of cities.

In London marriage does not disqualify. How is this, as compared with the 39 States of the American Union which have not enfranchised their women?

One of the most efficient members of the City Council of Manchester is Miss Margaret Ashton. Where is the woman member of the Atlanta Board of Aldermen?

Women vote if they possess the qualification which entitles men to vote. There is no such thing as manhood suffrage in England. There are some millions of British men who have no vote.

In Scotland ownership, as well as occupation, qualifies. So that a woman who owns a house bringing in an annual rental of £4 ($20) in counties and £10 ($50) in cities is enfranchised for all the purposes I have named.

Who Will Say "Yes?"

Women can not vote for the election of members of Parliament. It is for this, the Parliamentary franchise, that they are fighting. They might have been voting to-day but for Mrs. Pankhurst and the militants.

The militants began their work more than seven years ago. What have they gained? And what are they likely to gain? Mr. E. V. Lucas, in his "Mr. Ingelade," represents a member of Parliament as suggesting mildly that women who "persecute and vilify and assault statesmen are not providing the best credentials as responsible electors."

Dr. Anna Shaw is afraid that women here who applaud them and find money for them may impress American men in the same way. And this M. P., or Mr. Lucas for him, puts the objection clearly: "In my opinion—and you can disregard it, for it is only the opinion of a man—they had been waiting splendidly, and were just beginning to reap the harvest of their quiet efficiency and good sense when the fruit was dashed from their hands by the impatient high spirits of the younger faction—the Maenad Malcontenta, shall I call them? I know of mothers who for years have steadily been proving their right to vote, whose own daughters, fresh from school, have ruined their chances for years to come."

And he wonders whether men, after viewing the political aspirations of women with suspicion for all these centuries, will suddenly say: "Well, they use dog-whips across the faces of our rulers very handsly; they worry and annoy our Prime Minister with extraordinary persistence and skill, and do their best to ruin his health and nerves; they throw stones with unexpected accuracy. We are now satisfied. They shall have the vote to-morrow; these are exactly the kind of people to elect representatives wisely."

Do the American women who are finding money for British militants honestly believe this is what American men will say in the non-suffrage States when they are asked to vote "Yes" on a constitutional amendment?
