GEN. OBEAR OBJECT OF ATTACK

Captain Frank McIntyre of Savannah Accuses Quartermaster and Instructor of Guard.

Reports of a sensational row brewing inside the Georgia Military Department have reached Atlanta from Savannah, and if they prove true in their present detail of apparently authoritative rumor, an all-round shake up may result of their airing.

Captain Frank McIntyre, commanding the Savannah Hussars, Savannah's crack military organization, and Major W. B. Stevens, of the First Regiment, are known to be very much at outs with General William G. Obeas, of the Quartermaster's Department, and Major Frederick Palmer, of the Bureau of Instruction, and are reported to have expressed a determination to file within the next few days specific charges of official discrimination, in the distribution of supplies and equipment, against the Savannah military organizations of which they are members.

These charges, if filed and found to be well founded, may result in a general court-martial, assembled by the governor as commander-in-chief, for the purpose of a rigid investigation. Questioned to-day about these persistent reports, Adjutant General Joseph VanHolt Nash denied any official knowledge of a pending investigation or filing of charge, but rather guardedly admitted that he was fully cognizant of ill feeling between the officers named.

He was inclined to think rumors of specific charges against Obeas and Palmer at his time to be the outgrowth, perhaps, of "armory gossip," but stated that it might or might not be more serious.

Trouble's Origin Is Old.

The general stated that this trouble was one of ancient origin, and said it had been smouldering for months—in fact, long before he came into office. "Whatever may be the outcome of this talk, if anything, the present administration will figure in it only to the extent of being the vehicle through which any investigation of charges against person or persons connected with the Military Department must necessarily be conducted."

Several months ago an effort was made by General Obeas and Major Palmer to have Captain McIntyre court-martialed for a form of insubordination. Captain McIntyre, it seems, had complained in public of various acts of discourtesy toward him from the two Atlanta officers, and to have stated that he, being a volunteer, did not propose to stand either for "rough treatment" or "rough language" from anybody, no matter how high said "anybody" might think himself in military circles.

Some rather peppery correspondence between McIntyre and Obeas, and incidentally Major Palmer, culminated in an unsuccessful effort to have McIntyre court-martialed.

Governor Joseph M. Brown, who then occupied the executive office, flatly refused to order an official investigation into the alleged insubordination of McIntyre.

Since that time General Obeas has been succeeded in the Adjutant General's office by General VanHolt Nash, who was appointed after the McIntyre court-martial effort. In the meantime the ill feeling between Obeas and McIntyre is said to have waxed warmer and warmer.

Demand for Story Of Evelyn Thaw Exceeding Supply

Are you reading the Evelyn Thaw story which is being published weekly in The Sunday American? Of course you are, so you can appreciate how it would feel to miss an installment of that vitally interesting narrative.

In a letter signed by Glynn Sumner and C. D. Bohannon, both of Sumner, Ga., complaint is made that The Sunday American is so much in demand in that city that it is impossible for the newsboys to supply the papers.

"We are interested in the Evelyn Thaw story," the letter says. "We are patrons of the newsboys, but on last Sunday they disposed of all the papers before we could get one. We are enclosing five cents in stamps, for which please send us the issue we missed."

Barbara Dodd Will Case Up Wednesday

The Barbara E. Dodd will case, which has developed into one of the bitterest legal fights in the history of the Fulton County Superior Court, will be taken up again Wednesday morning.

Charles E. Currier, executor and propounder of the will of Mrs. Barbara E. Dodd, is arrayed against Barbara E. Dibble, Mrs. Fannie T. Ackerman and others.

U. S. Tars Victims Of Smooth Italian

ROME, Nov. 11.—One thousand American bluejackets of the battleships Utah, Delaware, Ohio and Vermont today found they were poorer by $12,000. The money had been turned over to a musician, named Camarazzo, who formerly had belonged to the band on the Utah. He had guaranteed to get them a special train for an excursion to Rome and an audience with the Pope.

When the men obtained shore leave here they could not find the former bandman or their money.

Packer Morris Left $20,000,000 Estate

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Edward Morris, the packer who died several days ago, left an estate valued at about $20,000,000, according to a petition filed by the executors in Probate Court today.

The disposition of the estate desired by Mr. Morris as expressed in the petition showed the unusual confidence the packer had in his wife, Mrs. Helen Smith Morris. Mrs. Morris' words will be supreme in deciding all questions which are in dispute among the board of executors.

Methodists Deny Debt of $750,000

DECATUR, ILL., Nov. 11.—Charges in a number of church publications that the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church was $750,000 in debt were strongly denied at the annual world-wide conference of bishops and laymen of that church here.

The treasurer's report when read showed this rumor to be founded on two items, one of $474,000 loaned to foreign mission fields on good security and paying interest, and the other being $280,000, which is borrowed from banks each year until the payments of the money come in after the April conference.

Pindell Is Not To Be U. S. Envoy to Russia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Wilson will not appoint Henry M. Pindell, of Peoria, Ill., Ambassador to Russia.

This was the accepted view of the situation taken here today following a conference at the White House between President Wilson, Secretary of State Bryan and Mr. Pindell.

TRADE EPOCH MARKED BY PAGEANT

With a flourish of trumpets, but without John Philip Sousa in the van, Atlanta's great floral automobile parade got under way at 11:15 o'clock Tuesday morning, and leaving the rendezvous at the corner of Mitchell and Whitehall streets, swept northward on Whitehall to the accompaniment of cheers and hand-clapping from thousands of spectators.

Minus the "March King," who was going to appear in the role of honored guest only, the parade advanced to the sprightly music of the Fifth Regiment Band, on a prodigious motor truck, and blaring mightily.

Several hundred cars, parked along Mitchell street to the Plaza, swung into line, and the kaleidoscopic pageant began its journey out Peachtree street to the Georgian Terrace and returned, past the expectant Judge, waiting at the Capital City Club.

Weather Was Ideal.

For his part, the weather man had done wonders. The air was sharp with the tang of late autumn, but

Warmer Weather To Follow Record Cold Wave Period

After sending the mercury in the official thermometers at the Weather Bureau down to 24 degrees at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, establishing a new record for cold weather at this period of the year, the weather gods have relented a bit, and warmer weather is in sight.

Forecaster VonHerrmann, in his prognostication Tuesday, says that Wednesday will be fair and much warmer. The mercury is due to reach a maximum temperature of 50 or 60 Wednesday, and Wednesday night there will be no frost. The warm weather is to continue the rest of the week, according to the weather man. No rain is in sight.

Wellesley Sophs Urge Baseball for Beauty

WELLESLEY, Nov. 11.—A campaign to make baseball an organized major sport at Wellesley College is now under way.

"How strong and beautiful and good Wellesley girls then might be," reads an appeal sent out by the sophomores.

BIG THROUGH SEES HOT FISTIC BOUT

King and Rival Money Broker Go Five Rounds, but Policeman Is Victor.

A large crowd of spectators were entertained with an exciting fist fight at Five Points Tuesday when Police Commissioner A. R. King and E. W. Greenway, competing money brokers, neighbors and brothers-in-law, decided to settle acute domestic and business differences by getting "personal satisfaction" through pounding each other.

The affair was all prearranged, according to the stories of both parties. Waxing warm in a telephone conversation with Greenway shortly before 5 o'clock, King challenged him for a bout at Five Points, and Greenway, equally ruffled, accepted, an arrangement which afterward proved extremely gratifying to a multitude of "fans" who gathered around.

All Belligerents Satisfied.

The bout was called after five rounds by two police officers who were long delayed in breaking through the cordon that surrounded the ring in front of the Fourth National Bank Building. Both men said they had their fill of satisfaction, and both claimed victory. The nearest thing to a verdict by disinterested spectators was the furnishing of "copies of charges" to both contestants, which amounts to a recommendation to Recorder Broyles to render the final decision.

The first arrangements of the affair, which grew out of animosities of long standing, but which both of the principals refused to touch on except vaguely, had to be changed on account of an unforeseen delay. Mr. King lives at No. 32 Moreland avenue, and Mr. Greenway at No. 154 Whiteford avenue, so near that they catch the same street car.

Mr. King had called Mr. Greenway over the telephone in regard to a statement by Greenway which he said was not true. They agreed to catch the 8:05 Inman Park car, ride downtown in the same car in peace and get off at Five Points and settle the matter. Mr. King caught the car, but Greenway did not, and it looked as though the whole affair was off.

Challenge Is Renewed.

No sooner had Mr. King cooled down and started to work in his office in the Fourth National Bank Building than his telephone rang loudly.

"You didn't meet me," said a voice he recognized as Greenway's.

"You didn't keep your word," answered King, his smoldering wrath rising again.

"I missed my car," returned Greenway, "but I'll meet you now."

"All right," answered King. "Where are you now?"

"In a friend's office," answered Greenway.

Thinking that Greenway would have a second, Commissioner King asked his brother, R. W. King, to go along.

In front of the Fourth National Bank Building they met.

Spar for Opening.

Round 1.—King and Greenway rushed up to each other. "You've got to retract that statement," said King pointing his finger at Greenway.

"If you want to fight, here I am," answered Greenway. The passing throngs of men stopped and gathered around. Many women hurried away.

Round 2.—King and Greenway were within arms' reach of each other, and King shot a heavy right at his opponent's face. Greenway countered with a right to the body. Both men stood several feet farther apart than at the beginning.

Round 3.—They flew at each other with the fury of two cats swung over.

WOMEN INDOORSE TELEPHONE CURFEW

Nearly 2,000 Members of Clubs and Society Folk Back the Movement.

As a climax to the crusade inaugurated by Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith against the use of the telephone by women after 6 p. m., women's clubs, representing nearly 2,000 women of Atlanta and its suburbs, have endorsed the movement and declared for the curfew custom.

The latest victory to be won by Mrs. Price-Smith and her cohorts came Monday afternoon when the Atlanta Woman's Club unanimously adopted the custom.

The Atlanta Woman's Club represents more than 500 active, progressive women who are working for the good of the city.

During the past week many other clubs endorsed Mrs. Price-Smith's idea to "ring off" at 6 o'clock until next morning. Among the clubs adopting the motion are the College Park Woman's Club, over 80 members; the East Point Woman's Club, over 70 members; the Decatur Woman's Club, with an enrollment of nearly 70 members.

At the last meeting of the Atlanta Woman's Pioneer Society the motion was brought up by the president, Mrs. J. H. Morgan, and nearly every woman present accepted the motion as a step toward more quiet evenings for the home life. There are nearly 150 members in the Pioneer Society.

The president of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, representing over 200 members, is co-operating with Mrs. Price-Smith to have the plan become general, and many other local clubs and patriotic societies have expressed their intention of voting to establish the movement.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1895 I was attacked by muscular and inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedies after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write to-day.

CONLEY STAR AT "BULL PEN" LEVEE

Frank Case Witness Struts Before Dusky Admirers and Annexes Supply of "Makin's."

Quite the hero of the occasion among his dusky compatriots, Jim Conley held high levee Tuesday in the "bull pen" of Judge Ben Hill's courtroom in the Throver Building.

Jim was taken from his cell in the Tower to answer to two indictments, each charging him with being an accessory after the fact in the murder of Mary Phagan in the National Penitentiary April 28.

As it happened, the pressure of court business was so great that it was impossible to reach Jim's case and he was permitted the whole forenoon to strut and swell around in the circumscribed confines of the pen.

Trading on his prestige, he soon had his pockets bulging with "makin's" and will be able to spend his spare nickels for the cake that they sell at the Tower until his supply of tobacco gives out again.

Mrs. Carson has lived in Tifton for twelve years and organized the local chapter Daughters of the Confederacy, which was named for her, and of which she is president until failing health forced her retirement.

The Return of Blood Eruptions

No Reason Why Anyone Should Suffer Such Disheartening Experience.

No case of poisonous blood is ever cured until the last destructive germ has been eliminated from the system. And the only remedy that is assimilated in the tissues and stimulates cellular activity to overcome harmful germs is the famous S. S. S.

A few doses of this wonderful blood purifier will start such pronounced activities in the cellular tissues of the body as to soon show decided changes in the skin.

The skin is but a fine network of tiny blood vessels, and the specific action of S. S. S. is to declare eminent authorities to be a pronounced stimulation of the activity of these cells. Certain it is that in a surprisingly short time even the worst skin eruption shows a most remarkable change. It begins to dry up, the skin peels off in tiny flecks and soon a layer of clear, healthy and firm tissues results.

The reason for this is in the peculiar stimulation of S. S. S. which enables the cells in the skin to select from the blood the nutriment it requires for regeneration.

Not only this, but if from the presence of some disturbing poison there is a local or general interference of nutrition to cause boils, carbuncles, abscesses, and kindred troubles, S. S. S. so directs the local cells that this poison is rejected and eliminated from their presence.

This fact has been demonstrated in cases of severe skin eruption that had seemed to be incurable. You can obtain S. S. S. at any well stocked drug store, if you insist upon it, but be sure you are not talked into something else claimed to be "just as good."

S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 215 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

STUDENTS FIGHT RESIDENCE FIRE NEAR SCHOOL

Georgia Military Academy Cadets Leave Classrooms to Battle Flames in Home.

More than 100 students of the Georgia Military Academy in College Park left their classrooms Tuesday morning to fight a fire that demolished the residence of J. M. Milner and partially burned the handsome home of E. D. Barrett, adjoining it, on Cambridge avenue. An aggregate loss of $25,000 was estimated.

Owing to the work of the boys, in conjunction with the fire departments of College Park and East Point, most of the movable furniture of the Milner home was saved.

Mrs. Milner and her 2-month-old baby were in the Milner home at the time the fire broke out and were forced to flee from the flames.

The blaze is said to have originated from a defective flue on the second floor. It was discovered by pedestrians, and before fire apparatus could arrive, the interior of the two-story frame structure was a roaring furnace.

Alarms were sent in to both the College Park fire department and that of East Point. Hundreds of persons attracted by the excitement which followed gathered before the big fire.

Volunteers Called. With agility the young men scrambled through windows and doors of the burning building, in the face of the flames, and shot back with articles of furniture, clothing and valuables.

Bucket Brigade Formed. It was discovered that the Barrett residence had caught from flying embers, and the fight was turned in that direction. Many of the students formed a bucket brigade and augmented the streams of water pouring from the fire departments' hoses. Others, at the risk of their lives, climbed upon the roof of the Barrett home, where small blazes had taken root, and were passed those which they directed as ably as a professional fireman.

When the fire was finally extinguished, a rousing cheer was given the cadets by the throng as they marched back to their classrooms.

Four Homes Burned, Two Others Damaged. Members of four families had narrow escapes from death; four houses were destroyed and two others badly damaged, in fires in three different sections of the city Tuesday morning at 3:30 o'clock. The home of W. H. Davidson, No. 17 Marion avenue, was burned to the ground, a house occupied by I. T. Bass, next door, at No. 19 Marion street, was badly damaged, and a hole was burned in the roof of the home of G. B. Watkins, No. 77 Boulevard terrace.

Three negro houses at No. 18 Arbutus street, occupied by Odessa Reid; No. 412 Ira street, occupied by Esau Arnold, and No. 410 Ira street, vacant, were destroyed.

Four of the families had to flee from their homes in their night clothing, with blankets wrapped around them. I. T. Bass and his family left their home before it caught from the flames that devoured the Davidson home, and awakened Mr. Davidson

Jurors Drawn for U. S. Court in Macon

MACON, Nov. 11.—In pursuance of an order from Judge W. B. Sheppard, who has been designated to preside over the United States Court for the next six months there was a public drawing of jurors for the special term of court today. 39 grand and 30 petit jurors were selected.

Georgia Editor Heads New Boat Company

Application was made to the Secretary of State today for a charter for the Augusta Barge Line, to operate a steamship service for freight and passengers between Augusta and Savannah. The company is to be capitalized at $100,000, and is headed by Thomas W. Lovless, editor of The Augusta Chronicle.

and his family, and Miss Anna Olson, of New York, a visitor at the Davidson home, just in time to save their lives.

Woman Gives Alarm. The Watkins home on Boulevard terrace caught fire shortly before 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. Watkins was awakened suddenly by the crackle and roar of the flames, and thought the sound came from a burglar trying to gain entrance into the house. She arose from her bed, secured a revolver and then awakened her husband.

Mr. Watkins listened and he, too, thought a burglar was attempting entrance. He took the revolver and started to investigate. As he opened the bedroom door he was met by a cloud of smoke so thick that he was unable to stand before it.

Flames followed the smoke into the room, and Mr. and Mrs. Watkins were forced to flee into the street, wrapped only in blankets they had snatched from the bed. The flames were extinguished before great damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson and Miss Olson escaped from their home at No. 17 Marion avenue only a few seconds before the roof crashed in on the rooms they had been occupying. I. T. Bass, living next door, at No. 19 Marion avenue, was awakened by the sound of the flames, and he and Mrs. Bass ran into the street. They tried to awaken the Davidson family by knocking on their door and screaming, but were unsuccessful.

Society Folk are keenly interested in approaching show for benefit of Incurables Home.

Atlanta society is displaying marked interest in the dog show, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, and a big list of entries has already been made. Some very rare and handsome dogs have been entered. The entries close Wednesday.

The Home for Incurables, one of Atlanta's worthiest charities, is the beneficiary of the show, which begins Friday, continuing through Saturday, at No. 26 Peachtree street.

One of the handsome dogs entered is "Reliance of the Crag," a magnificent white English terrier, whose owner, Mrs. Richard C. Congdon, already possesses nearly 50 ribbons won by him in former shows.

"Crag," as he is called, won the prize for being the second best dog in a Madison Square Garden show, and is a true aristocrat, having been bred in the famous Crag kennels near Ottawa, Canada.

Mrs. W. M. Stephenson has a beautiful entry, Mrs. Mitchell King has entered her magnificent Boston terrier, worth almost his weight in gold, and Mrs. Joseph D. Rhodes will show several very fine English bulldogs.

Mrs. Bates Block and Miss Jane Crandall have entered their pets Cocker spaniels and Boston terriers will be shown by Miss Harriet Calhoun, Miss Carolyn King, Mrs. John Kiser, and Stuart Witham. Mrs. James L. Dickey, Jr., whose French poodle is often seen seated beside her in her electric, will also compete for one of the many handsome prizes offered.

Among the handsome Scotch collies entered are those owned by Mrs. J. R. A. Hobson and Mrs. Preston Arkwright. Frank Inman has entered his fine setters, and Mrs. Hugh Hancock will display her beautiful French poodles.

Thousands Cheer Splendid Showing of New Cars as They Traverse Downtown Streets, Gaily Decorated; "Votes for Women" Machine Scores Genuine Hit.

Sally S. McKinnon and Miss Mammie Plaxton as passengers.

The Youngest Driver. Hal Walraven, 12 years old, was in the line for the distinction of being the youngest driver, and the car, decked with pink pom-poms, was also occupied by Dan S. Walraven, Miss Emma Walraven, Miss Annie Lou Jenkins and J. S. McKinney.

Purple and white was the color scheme of the car piloted by D. A. Carson, and with him was J. H. Griffith of Athens; "Miss" R. S. Babinson and "Miss" R. C. Everett, the "misses" being entirely gratuitous and complimentary by reason of fearful and wonderful hats and other feminine attire in which the young men entered the beauty contest.

Ambulances in Line. Then another oak leaves car, driven by Mrs. O. B. Gorman, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Baker, Miss Ed Maddox, Mrs. W. W. Roberts and Mrs. James Morrow—and then car after car, until the long line had passed on its way and was reaching the judges at the Capital City Club house.

There were ambulances in the line, and motorcycles, and the joyous spectacle lasted until it was nearly time for the paraders and the spectators to start for the matinee at the Auditorium, where the "March King" and was; and full of little children, little children, all in white. And the banner at the prow read:

"Drive With Care—Watch Out for Children!"

There was a hush all down the crowded street as that car clipped quietly by—a deep hush, and then applause.

In the car was the owner, Walter McNeal, Jr., and his five children, Celeste, 9; Walter, 7; Helen, 6, and the twins, Wilmer and Willard, 29 months, well cared for by the older ones and enjoying it all mightily—and (at times) at the top of their youthful voices.

Sure Enough "Flowers." There were two little friends of the children, too: Dorothy and Elizabeth Rider—and that car was surely decorated with flowers, if blossoms of childhood count for anything.

And then there came a racy little car, all in black enamel and autumn leaves, and in it was Mrs. John Hill, driving, and Miss Margaret Northern—and their mascot and chief decoration, a splendid black bulldog in a red and black sweater, smiling amiably at the assembled multitude.

Then there was still another Woman Suffrage car, driven by Dr. F. H. Peck and carrying Mrs. Walter Reeves, Mrs. Alice Daniels, Mrs. Jane Atkins and Mrs. J. L. Gillette. The decorations were chrysanthemums and autumn leaves.

Chrysanthemums in Profusion. Speaking of "mums," there was a gigantic bank of yellow chrysanthemums, a gorgeous spectacle, piloted by Mrs. Frank C. Gilreath, and sitting with her was Miss Annie Mae Gilreath—and more perplexity to the unfortunate judges who were to decide on the car containing the prettiest occupants.

Adding to the perplexity was W. H. Allen's car, all decked in old gold and white, and burdened cheerfully with Miss Eleanor Williams, Miss Lily Williams, Miss Martha Crane, Miss Elizabeth Black, Miss Winnie Davis and Miss Muriel Linthicum.

The judges might well polish their glasses and massage their puzzled brows.

Contributing to the rout of the arbiters was the pink car of L. E. Rogers, occupied by Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. E. H. Wingfield, Mrs. Jack Shropshire and Miss Ethel Byers.

"Old Glory" is prominent. The Stars and Stripes wheeled slowly by, and within their folds sat Mr. and Mrs. John W. Alexander, and then came a big car in blue and white, with white roses profusely scattered, and the following occupants wearing black furs—a most striking combination: Mrs. G. A. Harbour, driving; Mrs. George Nolley, Mrs. H. H. Simon, Miss Florence Hirsch and Miss Vera Simon.

Another splendid bid for the woman driver prize was entered by Mrs. P. T. Heath, the occupants of her beautifully decorated car being attired all in white, in a setting of pink and white roses. With Mrs. Heath were T. B. Heath, Miss Pauline Bramlett and Mrs. W. M. Dunlap.

R. Fritz and George P. Docker occupied the front seat of a car decorated in red and white, with Mrs.

his famous band, delayed by a wreck, were preparing hurriedly to give the first program of the show.

McAnulty Fine Orator When Boosting Mitchell. Give him "The Mitchell Automobile" as a subject and J. P. McAnulty is a talkative man. He is sales engineer for the Mitchell firm, of Racine, Wis., and claims the right to be eloquent on this topic.

He was given full opportunity to display his abilities when the "Tech" students awarded the Mitchell firm, of Racine, Wis., and claims the right to be eloquent on this topic.

Having disposed of them to his satisfaction, he turned around ready to tell their merits to the crowd that had gathered about to have a look at the massive cars.

"These," said Mr. Allen, with a flourish of his hand toward the cars "are the last word in automobile construction. They are the perfection toward which we have been striving for the last fourteen years. When we started building automobiles fourteen years ago, we had an ideal in mind. The 1914 car is the ideal."

King Car Arrives; Has Many Fine Points. Carl W. Fort waited two days for the arrival of his 1914 King at the show. It came Monday night and with it W. L. Daly from the Detroit factory. Mr. Daly is sales manager and firm believer in the King, which has been on the market only five years, but which has had a remarkable growth in this time.

Mr. Fort probably will be the State distributor for the King. It is claimed for the King that it is one of the few moderate priced cars that is fitted with the Lancaster type of the cantilever spring. It has a host of other superiorities over other cars. If you may take the word of Sales Manager Daly, who is ready to talk to anyone at any time on the subject.

Many Well-Known Auto Men at Show. Here are some of the well-known auto men at the show Monday and Tuesday:

J. A. Bagwell, formerly of Savannah and now handling the Ford in LaGrange; W. H. Bishop, a popular automobile man of Athens; J. M. Stabler, who expects to go into the business in Greenville, Ala.; Harry Cohen, who, in partnership with Walter Rylander, recently bought out Willingham Wheeler in Macon and is handling Studebaker and Lozier cars; M. Ed Wilson, of Dunkirk, N. Y., and Savannah, Ga.; Frank A. Witt, the celebrated Metz driver; H. L. Hubbard, of Cleveland, who will open a new automobile agency in Atlanta, and W. T. Madden, of Concord, Ga., a merchant and automobile dealer.

Eureka, Square Deal and Atco Coffee are roasted daily and blended by Atlanta Coffee Mills Co.

New Flying Machine Put on Exhibition. H. Thaden, Atlanta inventor, displayed his flying machine for the first time Monday at the Auditorium-Armory. He had not assembled it in time to show Saturday night. It is located on the left of the main entrance to the Auditorium.

Among the first visitors to view the airship were a group of New Yorkers whom the inventor is seeking to interest.

At present the automobile show committee has handicapped the airship by putting only a one-horse-power motor in it, according to Mr. Thaden, but later he expects to get a larger motor and make the craft fly.

A recent issue of The Georgia Deutsche Zeitung, a German newspaper published in Atlanta, carried a picture of the device.

Ad Literature Is Given Much Attention. Much attention is being given by the automobile show exhibitors to the literature used to describe their cars and accessories. On tables conveniently placed there are stacks of attractive booklets.

The Oakland literature, for instance, is in the shape of radiators, special delivery letters, etc. The Oldsmobile has a big green envelope containing a package of descriptive matter. The Buick has issued a booklet containing a thrilling short story on the adventure of a car, with a newspaper office as the scene of the opening events. The Buick also has a folder describing the car's mechanical arrangement.

So with the other cars, too numerous to mention. The programs are likewise attractive. Numerous copies of the automobile journals of the country have also been distributed for the benefit of the exhibitors and the public.

INDIGESTION, GAS OR BAD STOMACH

Time It! Pape's Diapepsin Ends All Stomach Misery in Five Minutes.

Do some foods you eat hit back-taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, get this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach acts sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.—Adv't.

Ohio Electric Men Being Kept Busy.

Three Ohio Electric men are kept busy most of the time showing 1914 models to groups that cluster around their exhibit of cars. J. A. Kellam, general sales manager, is here from Toledo, Ohio, and R. S. Woodhull, assistant general sales manager, wired Tuesday morning that he would be here for the last two days of the show.

C. C. Tippet, of Point Pleasant, W. Va., is a recent acquisition to the local sales force, in charge of K. E. McKinstry. E. L. Flisen has been with the company some time. The Ohio men are attracting a great deal of attention from the feminine portion of the crowds. Among the advantages claimed for the car is the beautiful imported upholstery on which the Ohio company has the right of exclusive sale. Six of the shining new cars were brought from the factory for the exhibit. Mr. McKinstry already had four in stock. Sales Manager Kellam said Tuesday that only three of these ten machines remained unsold.

Let Your Prospect Drive--Mr. Dealer!

Put him right in behind the wheel and tell him to press the pedal. Let him feel the car gradually roll away.

Try it once and you'll be surprised how easy it is to sell CARTERCARS.

There is no other car made that is as easy to drive as the CARTERCAR. The gearless transmission is as simple as A-B-C.

Even an amateur will not hurt a Cartercar. The mechanism is almost "fool proof."

Why not sell cars to your friends and neighbors that are going to give satisfaction? That will not make trouble? Sell them CARTERCARS.

Sales are made more easily with the CARTERCAR than with any other because they are so simple. The prospect can quickly see the difference.

Come over and see them at the show.

CURRENCY BILL CAUCUS NOT TO BE BINDING

Senator Kern Declares Meeting Will Be Only to Organize the Democratic Forces.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Senator Kern, Democratic leader, today sent a formal call to Democratic Senators to meet at 2 o'clock to-morrow "to consult and advise" on the currency bill. Senator Kern said that the caucus probably would not be public. Resolutions adopted will not be binding," added the Senator. "That is not the purpose of this conference. This is a question of whether something shall be done or not. We can not go into the Senate on this bill like an unorganized mob, the men fighting in the dark; if we are to pass a bill we must be organized like when we passed the tariff bill. I had hoped that circumstances would not compel a caucus, but I believe those compelling circumstances have about arrived."

Warnings given by Republican Senators that a secret caucus on the currency bill would result in its consideration as a partisan measure were borne out to-day by the announcement of the Republicans that they would frame a bill themselves and support it in the Senate.

The Republican bill will probably provide for a publicly-owned, Government-controlled central bank, the notes of which will be redeemable in gold only. The Glass-Owen bill provides for a bank-owned system with partial bank control, the note issue redeemable in gold "or lawful money."

RINGWORM SPREAD ALL OVER HAND

Itched So Scratched Till Bled. Scream When Washed. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

R. E. D. No. 2, Box 67, Ellijay, Ga.—"My son's ringworm began on the back of his hand. A very red spot came about as large as a dime and it would itch so badly he would scratch it till it bled. It began to spread till it went all over his hand. He would just scream every time I went to wash it. The nail came off on the middle finger."

"I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it got worse all the time. The trouble lasted two or three months, then I sent and got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and began to use them. I would wash his hand with the Cuticura Soap and dry it good and apply the Cuticura Ointment. Relief was found in two or three days and the ringworm was cured in two weeks after using Cuticura Soap and Ointment."

Signed: Josie Parks, Jan. 4, 1913.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczema and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but they are also most effective in the treatment of pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly spots, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapely nails. A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

*Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES DISAPPEAR

Chronic Sufferers Always Find Relief From Few Doses.

If you are bothered with backache—or rheumatism, have disagreeable annoying bladder or urinary disorders, or contend with—or suffer with any other of the many miseries that come from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon.

It is a positive fact that Croxone promptly overcomes such disorders.

It soaks right in, cleans out the stopped-up kidneys and makes them filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric acids that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism, swollen and heals the delicate linings of the bladder.

More than a few doses of Croxone are seldom required to relieve even the obstinate, long standing cases.

You will find Croxone entirely different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results the very first time.

Negro Convict Kills Wife of Physician And Ends His Life

BATON ROUGE, LA., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Edward Elliott, wife of Dr. Elliott, resident physician at the Angelo convict farm, near here, was murdered to-day by a negro convict who committed suicide.

Snow Fails to Stop Open-Air Marriage

DALTON, Nov. 11.—After having planned an open-air wedding at the foot of Cedar Ridge, Miss Winnie Robertson, a popular young woman of Grove Level, and Ernest Rollins, a young farmer of Dawsville, refused to let the snow flurries and biting north winds interfere with their plans.

Standing on a ledge of rock at the foot of the ridge and with the matchless decorations arranged by nature, the young people were married by the Rev. S. M. Hair, a number of relatives being present.

Comes From Asylum For Trial as Slayer

COLUMBUS, Nov. 11.—Sheriff Beard has brought Mrs. May Radcliff to Columbus from the State Asylum for the Insane, at Milledgeville, where she has been confined since last May.

She will be put on trial Thursday on a charge of killing her husband, George Radcliff, a Columbus merchant, on the night of March 19.

Mrs. Radcliff was to have been tried at the May term of the Superior Court, but physicians declared her mind was unbalanced.

Aged Blind Negress Found Dead in Swamp

FATONTON, Nov. 11.—A negro woman, Mary West, more than 60 years old and blind, was found in a swamp near here dead from exposure. Her husband has been in the county jail for some time, and the woman had lived alone, the neighbors looking after her wants from time to time.

When the negress was missed, a search lasting 24 hours resulted in the body being found in the swamp.

Mill Men Fined for Neglect of Employees

COLUMBUS, Nov. 11.—G. L. Perkins, superintendent, and J. K. King, a foreman in the Perkins Hosiery Mills, were each fined $100 in the Superior Court of Muscogee County, on charges of failing to provide seats and other comforts for women employees at the mills, when not on duty.

The complaint was made last June. The fines were paid.

Escapes Just After His Plea of Guilty

COLUMBUS, Nov. 11.—Roscoe Huff, who had just entered a plea of guilty to a charge of bringing a 10-year-old girl to Columbus from Shawmut, Ala., and passing her as his wife, escaped from the Sheriff's office while court was in session.

A number of persons were in the office and Huff walked out with the crowd.

'Loan Shark' Fined By Durham Judge

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 11.—W. E. Daniels was convicted here to-day on a charge of lending money on chattel mortgages for more than 5 per cent interest. Daniels told Judge Graham he would leave the city if he made the fine small enough. He was fined $30 and costs.

Nonsuits were granted in cases against W. E. Hamilton, G. D. Lewis, H. B. Swain and J. N. Tolley.

SLATON TALKS TO CORDELE CROWDS

Wife of the Governor Also Makes Speech at Silver Anniversary Celebration.

CORDELE, GA., Nov. 11.—Governor Slaton addressed an immense audience at the public school auditorium here this morning upon the occasion of Cordele's silver anniversary celebration. His speech was principally along the lines of the unprecedented prosperity that Georgia is experiencing at this time. This prosperity, declared the Governor, was best evidenced by the splendid agricultural exhibits at the State Fair at Macon and the various county fairs that he has visited recently.

Following the aeroplane flights by Captain A. C. Beech this afternoon, the Governor delivered an address to the enormous crowds that witnessed this event. Mrs. Slaton spoke this morning for half an hour at the school auditorium, touching very forcibly upon the progress made by Georgia women in civic improvement and related lines.

Colonel D. A. R. Crum delivered an address on Cordele's early history and the progress of the city.

The speakers were introduced by Secretary Louis Spencer Daniel, of the Chamber of Commerce.

It is estimated that fully 5,000 people are here to take part in the silver anniversary.

Asks an Injunction to Keep Relatives Away

NASHVILLE, Nov. 11.—An unique suit in which a father asks a perpetual injunction to prevent his son and granddaughter visiting him except on specific invitation was filed in the Circuit Court here to-day by Colly McCord.

It is alleged in the complaint that Charles H. McCord, the son, for many years refused to speak to his father or mother.

RESINOL STOPS TORTURING ITCH

There is no earthly need of itching and scratching. No matter how long you have suffered, no matter how many treatments you have tried, there are thousands who have been in as bad a plight, and who have found perfect skin health in Resinol. In even the stubbornest cases of eczema, ringworm, or other tormenting, unsightly humor, a warm bath with Resinol Soap and a single application of Resinol Ointment stop the itching instantly. Healing begins at once, and soon this simple, pleasant and economical treatment clears the trouble away. After that, the regular use of Resinol Soap for the toilet and bath is usually enough to prevent its return.

Resinol Soap (25c) and Resinol Ointment (50c and $1.00), are also speedily effective for pimples, blackheads, dandruff, sores and many other forms of piles. Prescribed by doctors for the past eighteen years, and sold by practically every druggist in the United States. For trial free, write to Dept. 31-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Buy in the original blue package and avoid "substitutes."

North Alabama Methodists Convene

ANNISTON, ALA., Nov. 11.—More than 100 delegates are in the city to attend the session of the North Alabama Conference of the Methodist Church, which will be in session here this week, beginning to-morrow.

The first meeting of the conference took place to-day when a committee headed by the Rev. George W. Road, of Gadsden, examined 75 candidates for the ministry. One-year preachers will be examined this afternoon. Business meetings at which Bishop McCoy will preside will be held every morning beginning with to-morrow.

Ten 'Blind Tigers' Given $100 Fines

GADSDEN, ALA., Nov. 11.—Ten "blind tigers" caught in a raid last night were fined $100 each and given six months at hard labor in Polk County to-day. The police had spent a week in securing evidence against them.

Five men escaped arrest and left the city.

MOTHER! NO USE TAKING CHANCES

If Child Is Cross, Feverish, Costive. Give "California Syrup of Figs."

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a general, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give 1/4 teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour-bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Sick children need to be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!—Adv't.

POLITICAL TINGE TO WINECOFF BANQUET

Three Prospective Mayoralty Candidates, Guests of Harrell, Make Significant Remarks.

No one expected any political speeches at the banquet and justification given at the Hotel Winecoff by Manager Frank Harrell to his friends Monday night. No real political speeches were heard, but the little three-minute talks made by three men who have been mentioned as mayoralty candidates in the next city election meant more than good-natured jesting.

Mayor Woodward, Walter P. Andrews and Forrest Adair were present. In a short speech Mayor Woodward announced that he would be in the thickest of the going at the next election.

Introduced by Toastmaster J. Y. Smith, Colonel Andrews, appointed United States Commissioner to the Mediterranean nations for the Panama-Pacific Exposition, said:

"For years I have supported the administration of Jim Woodward, and I have been one of his most ardent admirers. Much, indeed, he has done for Atlanta. I am going away on a mission of importance for my country, and when I return I hope to receive the well wishes of my fellow-citizens. I introduce to you Forrest Adair, the next Mayor of Atlanta."

Mr. Adair spoke without referring to the race. Later in the evening Colonel Andrews said that under certain conditions he would run for Mayor, but could not announce this as a surety until next summer, when he returns from Europe. The entertainment was a great success and brought out some of the leading citizens of Atlanta. The dinner could not have been improved upon. Interesting talks were made by Colonel Robert Lowry, Colonel Frederic J. Paxon and Charles L. Light.

Death of Athlete Reveals His Secret Wedding to Singer

SAVANNAH, Nov. 11.—Wayman P. Harmon, reputed to have been the best athlete the University of Georgia ever turned out, who died in Colorado last week, kept his marriage to a pretty concert singer, Miss Adie Ritchie, of Canton, Ill., secret for two years. His family in Savannah learned of it when the body was brought here for interment. Young Harmon married Miss Ritchie at Pueblo, Colo., two years ago when he went West in the hope of successfully battling tuberculosis. The parents on both sides objected and they were married secretly.

To Fight Pardon for Mallory Bedingfield

MACON, Nov. 11.—Friends of Ferd Gattenberger, who was mistaken for a burglar and shot last December will appear before Governor Slaton in opposition to the application for a pardon for Mallory Bedingfield, a well-known Macon business man, who is now in jail ready to begin his sentence of a year on the State farm for the shooting.

The Prison Commission has recommended that Bedingfield's sentence be reduced to a fine of $100, and this has stirred the friends of Mr. Gattenberger to action. Judge W. D. Nottingham will head the delegation.

Buy Hampton Terrace Hotel For $1,000,000

AUGUSTA, Nov. 11.—F. Q. Brown, of New York, president of the Augusta-Aiken Railway and Electric Corporation, is expected to arrive in Augusta to-morrow to close up the deal by which James C. Jackson, of this city, and B. F. Floyd, of Chicago, acquire the Hampton Terrace Hotel property, in North Augusta, S. C., and 5,000 acres of adjacent property. The price which the Jackson-Floyd syndicate is believed to have paid is approximately $1,000,000. The Hampton Terrace cost $600,000 and is one of the most elegant tourist hostleries in the entire South.

HUNDRED DIE IN BLIZZARD OVER MIDDLE WEST

CLEVELAND, OHIO, Nov. 11.—Cleveland has been completely isolated from the outside world for two days, during which time the city has been rent by a 60-mile wind and is wrapped now in a blanket of snow from four to ten feet deep.

Many lives have been lost—how many it is not known—and there are scores of children and others missing. Lack of food has added to the suffering. Meat markets and grocery stores, after exhausting their supplies, have closed their doors.

Street car traffic has been practically at a standstill, and telephone and light wires are lying on the ground all over the city, where they were thrown by the terrific storm of Sunday and Sunday night.

Train service on all lines is demoralized.

100 Dead in Gale Over Great Lakes

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—How many lives were lost in the storm which swept the upper Great Lakes and wrecked many boats likely will not be known for several days. To-day it was estimated that at least 100 have been lost in the gale.

It was known that a large freighter, probably carrying 40 men, was overturned in Lake Huron. An unidentified steamer was being pounded to pieces on the rocks of Manitow Island.

In Detroit a barge was smashed against the shore and eight men were drowned. Scores of small boats were reported wrecked, although no definite news could be obtained as to possible fatalities.

The storm had abated to-day, although Lake Michigan was still rough. Men were put at work repairing damage done to Lincoln Park improvements along the lake front.

$100,000 Art Works Blown Up by Bombs By Militant Squad

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. MANCHESTER, ENGLAND, Nov. 11.—Suffragists admitted bombs to-day in their war against their foes and destroyed the famous cactus house in Alexandra Park.

Bombs thrown into the structure destroyed painting and other works of art to the value of $100,000.

ENGLAND LIKELY TO REPUDIATE GEN. HUERTA

Official British Newspaper Sounds Sharp Warning to the Mexican Dictator.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian, LONDON, Nov. 11.—(Semi-official information) The London Times today says that England will withdraw recognition of the Huerta Government in Mexico unless steps are immediately made to conform to the demands of the United States.

A warning to President Huerta was sounded today by The Westminster Gazette, the Government newspaper. Commenting on Premier Asquith's plain that no antagonism exists between England and the United States regard to Mexico, The Gazette says:

"The idea that any valid election—in the sense in which democratic or constitutional countries understand the word—can be held in Mexico probably was diplomatic fiction, but the electoral test was of General Huerta's own choosing, and it was to keep him reminded that his failure to conform to its result leaves all governments free to reconsider their act of recognition.

"Briefly, the limits of British action are that the British Government should not put itself in a position of making protests which, in default of forcible action, might be flouted and defied. But diplomatic has other resources than mere force, and international President Huerta may easily find that the attitude of this country is in a variety of ways a matter of great moment to him."

"Premier Asquith's speech gives much satisfaction to the London morning newspapers. The Times says: 'The Premier's words effectively dispose of the stories of strained relations between the two countries, stories which were never even plausible.'"

U. S. Not to Recognize New Huerta Congress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Acts of the new Mexican Congress will not be recognized by the American Government as valid. This government will take the same attitude toward the newly-elected Senators and Deputies that it has taken toward General Huerta.

This development of the Mexican situation was the feature of the day's developments in the Mexican situation. Washington observers believed that the crisis will come when the new Congress assembles and tries to gain financial support from European governments. By this time, unless Huerta is eliminated, President Wilson's policy will include drastic measures. These hinge in great measure on the attitude taken by Europe. As long as Huerta is encouraged by European financial interests he will make a stubborn fight to maintain himself in power.

Huerta Lays Plans to Get War Funds.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian, MEXICO CITY, Nov. 11.—According to a program outlined today by an official close to the Huerta administration, the incoming Mexican Congress will first turn its attention to obtaining funds by means of great oil concessions.

It is probable that the matter of adjudicating the recent election will be postponed until early in December. So immediate action will be taken by Congress on the diplomatic troubles between the United States and Mexico.

Congress also will consider granting huge railroad concessions to Belgian promoters, providing for the construction of 5,000 miles of railway in the republic. If the railway and oil concessions go through, the Government unduly will be able to raise an immense fund, which can be used to advantage if war ever breaks out with the United States.

The runs on the Banco Nacional and Banco Longinos y Mexico continued today. Soldiers with carbines were stationed at both banks to preserve order. Thousands of depositors drew out all their money.

IF BACKACHEY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat, Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast.

The acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush out the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated, and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

All Around The Town

Little Facts and Fancies About Well-Known Atlantans.

Henry Clarke is a good policeman, and when he mounts guard over the traffic at Five Points he is a commanding figure. He took kindly to the innovation of whistles for the traffic squad, because whistling is not so tiring on the nerves and body as waving handkerchiefs, clubs or the varied other things the coppers used to have to direct the traffic with. But it is probable that if he had heard what a little girl said about him and his whistle the other day, he would be willing to go back to the old method. She was a youngster about 6 years old, and she leaned back against the cushions of the limousine like a princess. Clarke halted the machine with a toot of his whistle, and then started it again with two toots. Said the little girl: "Mamma, ain't that a funny looking engine?"

J. F. Letton, manager of the Ansley Hotel, is doing but three things this week. First he gets you off to one side and asks you confidentially if you have seen the big automobile exhibit in his dining room. Then he'll take you by the arm and lead you into the eating place, and after you've searched every nook and cranny for the car, he'll show it to you. It'll be standing right beside you, and it is made out of candy and the hundred other things that Jean Peyret, the "dueling chef" of the Ansley, uses in his kitchen. Then for the third thing, Mr. Letton will laugh at you.

The talk at the banquet of the Georgia commercial secretaries the other night got around to a discussion of the weird things that toastmasters say when they are introducing speakers, and the inability of the average toastmaster to remember the names of speakers was largely commented upon. It all reminded M. L. Brittain, State Superintendent of Schools, of something that happened to him, which he declared showed very positively that he is not known everywhere.

"I was due to speak at a meeting down in South Georgia," related Mr.

Brittain "and the toastmaster was an individual whose speech was geared very high. He indulged his vocabulary to excess in introducing the speakers, giving them great fame whether they had it or not. Finally, it came my turn, and the toastmaster unbosomed himself of about all the high-sounding phrases there are. This is about what he said: 'Gentlemen, it is hardly necessary for me to introduce to you the next speaker on the program. He is one of Georgia's most famous men, known throughout the nation as a man of marvelous intelligence and ability. There is no man whose name and face is better known in the State of Georgia. We all know him like we know our brothers and our own fathers. Gentlemen, I take great pleasure in presenting the State Commissioner of Education, Mr. — Mr. —.' Then he leaned over to me." Mr. Brittain continued and "he said loud enough for everyone to hear: 'What the devil is your name, any way?'"

Jewish Co-ed College Foes Win in Debate

LAKE OSCAWANA, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Using pictures and crockery as targets, burglars, who got intoxicated in the summer residence of Robert the debate at the Jewish Educational Alliance meeting, Tuesday morning would have seen that cause overthrown.

The debate Monday night under the auspices of the public speaking department was decided in that fashion after a spirited contest between D. Janko and K. Levine, for the affirmative, and J. Brail and I. Kuni-ansky, for the opposition.

All Augusta to See Auto Races at Fair

AUGUSTA, Nov. 11.—Every important business house, manufacturing establishment, city office and real estate and insurance concern in Augusta is to close at 2 o'clock this afternoon for "Augusta Day" at the Georgia-Carolina Fair. It is estimated that 20,000 people will have passed through the turnstiles before the gates close to-night.

The automobile races begin at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, with Ty Cobb as official starter.

Wields Knucks in Football Game; Goes Home in Ambulance

HAMMOND, IND., Nov. 11.—Rollo Anderson, recently arrived from England, was under the care of a physician to-day, and it was doubted whether he would ever again be able to play football.

He was a member of the Standard football eleven. In the game yesterday with the Homewood team, Rollo wore brass knucks under a pair of gloves.

In every scrimmage one or more of the Homewood team would be lifted to his feet suffering a bruised nose or a black eye. The officials were baffled until Rollo's glove was pulled down exposing the shining weapon. The Homewood team in concert leaped upon Rollo and an ambulance took him home.

Famous For Her Hair

Actress Tells How She Grew It.

Madame Rose, the well-known actress who played on one of the leading vaudeville circuits the past winter and who is especially noted for her long, beautiful hair, in a recent interview in Chicago made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can promote the growth of their hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Harbo Compound and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. This is not only the finest hair grower I have ever known, but it prevents the hair from falling out, removes dandruff and scalp humors, darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. The ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost."

Society Man Fined On Slavery Charge

PENSACOLA, Nov. 11.—Benjamin C. Heineberg, a young society man and member of a prominent family, pleaded guilty in United States court to a charge of slavery, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $350. The indictment charged he took Nellie Ward, a 16-year-old girl, from this city to Birmingham. Heineberg is a married man. His wife is suing for divorce.

Destroys His Saloon Stock; Joins Church

WILKESBARRE, PA., Nov. 11.—Because he had joined the church, George B. Orman, for years a saloon keeper at Nanticoke, publicly burned his license and dumped all the beer, whisky and wine in his cafe into the street.

Orman refused several tempting cash offers for his business.

Don't Be Misled If You Have Lung Trouble

If you have Lung Trouble, do not be misled by reports of discoveries of specific to relieve that affection. No specific has as yet been found. Eckman's Alternative, however, is a medicine for throat and lung troubles which has been successfully used in many cases. If you are sick, it might be wise for you to investigate its merits and its use may be of lasting benefit to you. Read of this case—

253 Seventh Ave., New York.

"Gentlemen:—Five years ago last August I was taken to St. Francis Hospital to be treated for Bronchitis and congested lungs. After several weeks' treatment I was advised by the doctor to go to a convalescent sanitarium, but could not be admitted because the doctor at the hospital, after a thorough examination, declared my case Lung Trouble, and gave me a certificate to that effect. I showed the certificate to Father Stark, and he advised me to take Eckman's Alternative. I took the Alternative faithfully as directed, and soon found myself free from night sweats and fever, and gradually got better. I have not taken the Alternative now for two years, and can truthfully say I am well. I feel better and am stronger than before my sickness." (Signed) MARY KORHAMER.

Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Rickets, Croup, and in upbuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Sold by all Jacobs' Drug Stores and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

Fine News of Corsets

It is in such sales as this that women effect genuine economies. The merchandise is dependable in quality, right in style; the prices have been subjected to genuine and big reductions. It is such pricings as this that have made women look to Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. sales as worth-while events.

Now for corsets! We have not had such good news to tell in many a day. The buying should be brisk and sharp. It will be, if we are any judge of what makes fine values and what interests women.

Here—

$2.50 W. B. Corsets Are Priced at $1.49

Do you know W. B. Corsets? Most women do very favorably. They have been made good, stylish corsets for many years now. These are new models. The price is accident of trade. You will know that when you see how fine the corsets are. Low bust, very low, edged with embroidery, long skirt, free hips—eight flexible bones in all—six hose supporters. The material is coutil. Such a corset as women are insisting on having at regular prices. Now $1.49 instead of $2.50.

$1.50 Corsets 98c Are Priced at 39c Brassieres 19c

This very corset has won tremendous favor for us at its regular price, $1.50. We know no better corset for 98c to-morrow! It is of coutil, six hose supporters of sturdy webbing. Low bust and long straight hip lines. The style is right!

Buy them by the half dozens! Choose from ribbon and embroidery trimmed and imitation cluny lace trimmed, not a rough or unseemly seam shows. Corset Accessories. The season's styles call for dainty brassieres. Here are such, of Cluny laces and silk mesh at $1.00 to $10.00, also elastic bust confiners.

$5 to $10 Corsets Are Priced at $1.98

Some six dozens. A clearaway with prices treated in the usual Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. fashion on such occasions. Included are Bon Ton Redusos that are ordinarily $5.00. These are excellent models for the stout figure. Other Bon Ton models that were $5.00 to $8.00, for the average figure, medium bust, soft boning. Brocades in pink and white and French coutil. Also, $7.50 to $10.00 La Camille, the front lace corset of excellence. Hurry for these! The models are splendid. The materials are French coutils and brocades.

The Good Homekeeper Who Has Bought Blankets Many and Many a Time Will Find

one after her own heart! She knows blankets and comfortables, the kind to buy, what they are worth, how they will wear. She has the trained sense of values. What we could say is not of importance. But what she will see here is—of vast importance. Merit and worth in every pair of blankets and in every comfortable, from those inexpensive cotton blankets at $1.25 a pair to those down-filled silk-covered comfortables at $45.00. And these cold nights make blanket and comfortable buying days.

A Demonstration of Omo Dress Shields Two-Pound Fruit Cakes $1.20

Values are relative and it is the little things of life that count, we are told. So the importance and good of this demonstration of OMO Dress Shields. An expert from the factory is here to help you in the use of Dress Shields, explaining the many kinds. A few moments may save a dress.—At the notion counter.

SIMPLE RULES FROM DAINTY DIANE ROBERTS.

There would be fewer dentist bills to pay.

"My hair is my 'crowning glory,' and yet I don't do anything in particular for it. I wash it every week and rinse it in water to which a little kerosene has been added.

"But O, girls of to-day, be simple. Be stylish if the styles of to-day are becoming to you. If not, modify them to suit you. Don't wear a frill because it is stylish, if a soft round collar is more becoming. Don't wear a hat turned up at an angle if the straight all-around ones suit your style.

LITTLE THINGS COUNT. "Little things are what count, you know, and you can have your clothes made in the latest style, and yet modified so that with a few touches your gown will be original, will look, not like one of a hundred that can be bought in any of the department stores, but as if it had been made for you alone.

Keep away from fussy things, only very extreme types can affect them, anyway, and don't be extreme. If your clothes are becoming they are sure to be stylish."

And now you will all see why I have called Miss Roberts our Diana. She has the freedom of Diana in her movements, the charm of Diana in her laughing, Japanese eyes and the simplicity of Diana in her dress. If the charm of the simple girl appeals to you, you can all be Dianias, if not in all ways, at least in one. And even that is worth while.

Pretty Diane Roberts.

By MAUDE MILLER.

WE present to you the modern Diana although in the wild of every-day life she is Miss Diane Roberts, and spells her name with an "e." She is in very truth a Diana, although she is not a goddess of the chase, as was her ancestress of old Greek times. She is a very modern, up-to-date New York girl, and yet very simple, and yet very simple, almost severe lines.

Our Diana believes in cleanliness, but a makeshift of the real thing, but absolute clean lines and she has very simple but decided rules for keeping clean.

"God gave an eye for a purpose," she said as she looked at me a little pensively. "And so we should keep them wide open and very clean and bright. And how to make them bright? Here is a very simple method of my own which I have found most effective. Wash them frequently in warm milk, and you will be surprised at the result. You will feel as if you couldn't open them wide enough. It is just like looking through a newly washed window pane.

TEETH IMPORTANT. "And then the teeth are important. For we must have an excuse to smile if every one had an excuse to smile, think how often we should all be smiling, and what a cheerful place this world would be. Brush the teeth with a solution of bicarbonate of soda, and use plain salt on them once a week. If every girl would do this and you can have your clothes made in the latest style, and yet modified so that with a few touches your gown will be original, will look, not like one of a hundred that can be bought in any of the department stores, but as if it had been made for you alone.

Keep away from fussy things, only very extreme types can affect them, anyway, and don't be extreme. If your clothes are becoming they are sure to be stylish."

And now you will all see why I have called Miss Roberts our Diana. She has the freedom of Diana in her movements, the charm of Diana in her laughing, Japanese eyes and the simplicity of Diana in her dress.

THE KING OF DIAMONDS BY LOUIS TRACY MONTE A THRILLING STORY OF A MODERN CRISTO

Copyright, 1914, by Edward J. Clode.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

There was no need to write to Phillip for a fresh look, which was his first daring expedient.

He seated himself at a table and wrote Phillip's signature several times to test his hand. At last it was steady. Then he put a match to a fire all ready for lighting, and burned Phillip's hat, collar, shirt and underclothing; also the blood-stained coat.

When the mass of clothing was smoldering black and red, he threw a fresh supply of coal on top of it. The loss of the hat did not trouble him; he possessed one of the same shape and color.

He was quietly smoking a cigar, and practicing Phillip's voice between puffs, when Mason returned with the Vallet.

The scene, carefully rehearsed by Grenier in all its details, passed off with gratifying success. Purring with satisfaction, the chief scoundrel of the pair left in the Grange House by the astonished servant began to overhaul the contents of Phillip's bag.

"THE KING OF DIAMONDS . . . held the ordinary outfit of a gentleman who does not expect to pay a protracted visit—an evening dress suit, a light overcoat, a tweed suit and a small supply of boots and linen. A tiny dressing case fitted in to a special receptacle, and on top of this reposed a folded document.

Grenier opened it. Mason looked over his shoulder. It was headed: "Annual Report of the Mary Anson Home for Destitute Boys."

Mason coarsely cursed both the home and its patron. But Grenier laughed pleasantly.

"The very thing," he cried. "Look here!"

And he pointed to an indorsement by the secretary.

"For signature if approved of," "I will sign and return it, with a nice typewritten letter, to-morrow from York. Abigdon is one of the Governors. Oh, I shall bamboozle them rarely!"

Practicing. "This blooming charity will help you a bit, then?"

"Nothing better. Let us go out for a little stroll. Now, don't forget. Address me as 'Mr. Anson.' Get used to it, even if we are alone. And it will be no harm should we happen to meet somebody."

They went down the hill and entered the rough country road that wound up from Scarsdale to the cliff. Through the faint light of a summer's night they saw a man approaching.

It was a policeman. "Abstain, omen," said Grenier, softly. "What's that?"

"Latin for a cop. You complained of my want of nerve. Watch me now."

He halted the policeman and questioned him about the locality, the direction of the roads, the villages on the coast. He explained pleasantly that he was a Londoner and an utter stranger in these parts.

"You are staying at the Grange House, sir?" said the man in his turn. "Yes. Come here to-day, in the afternoon. I saw you, sir. Is the gentleman who drove you from Scarsdale staying there, too? I met you on the road, and he seemed to know me."

Grenier silently anathematized his carelessness. Policemen in rural Yorkshire were not as common as policemen in Oxford street. It was the same man whom he had encountered hours ago.

"Oh, he is a doctor. Yes, he resides in the Grange House."

"You won't find much room for a party there, sir," persisted the constable. "I will remember the gentleman at all. What is his name?"

son's body to the deep in a moment of unreasoning panic.

He might be found, and, even if he were not identified, that confounded policeman might be moved to investigate the proceedings of the curious visitors to Grange House.

That was the weak part of their armor, but Grenier refused to admit the flaw.

"A naked man found in the sea—and he may never be found—has not necessarily been thrown from a balcony 200 feet above sea level! The notion is grotesque. No constabulary brain could conceive it. And who is he? Not Phillip Anson; Phillip Anson is alive. No, Dr. Williams; any Scarsdale man will say that. And your best friend, Mason, would not take him for you."

But Mason was not satisfied. Better have buried the corpse on the lonely farms in the garden for choice. Then they would know where he was. The sea was too vague.

No Pity. Of pity for his victim he had not a jot. Had Phillip meant plied him, or his wife, or his two children? They, too, were dead, in all probability. While in London he had made every sort of inquiry, but always encountered a blank wall of negation. John and William Mason, even if they lived, did not know he was their father. They were lost to him utterly.

Curse Phillip Anson. Let him be forgotten, anyway. Yet he contrived to think of him during the nine weary miles over the moor, during the long wait at the railway station, and during the slow hours of the journey to London.

On arriving at York, Grenier secured a palatial suite at the Station Hotel, entering his name in the register as "Phillip Anson."

He drove to the postoffice and asked if there was any message for "Grenier."

Yes, it read: "Family still at Penzance. Persuaded friend that letter was only intended to create unpleasantness with uncle. He took same view and returned to town. Will say nothing."

Unsigned, it came from a town near Beltham. Grenier was satisfied. He lit a cigarette with the message.

At a branch postoffice he dispatched two telegrams.

The first to Evelyn: "Will remain in the north for a few days. Too busy to write to-day. Full letter to-morrow. Love, PHILIP."

The second, to Mr. Abigdon: "Your message through Miss Atherley noted. Please suspend all inquiries. At-fair quite unforeseen. Will explain by letter. Address to-day, Station Hotel, York. ANSON."

Then he entered a bank and asked for the manager.

"My name may be known to you," he said to the official, at the same time handing his card.

"Mr. Anson, Park Lane. The Mr. Anson."

"I suppose I can flatter myself with the definite article. I am staying here some few days, and wish to carry out certain transactions requiring large sums of money. I will be glad to act through your bank, on special terms, of course, for opening a short account."

"We will be delighted."

"I will write a check now for £5,000, which kindly place to my credit as soon as possible. Shall we say—the day after to-morrow?"

"That is quite possible. We will use all expedition."

"Thank you. You understand, this is merely a preliminary. I will need a much larger sum, but I will pay in my next check after hearing from London. I am not quite sure about the amount of my private balance at the moment."

What Dame Fashion Decees

A STYLISH WRAP, AND STUNNING FUR-TRIMMED COAT.

By Olivette.

SPLENDOR of coloring and materials combine in the rich model on the left, which claims all the fulness to which the wrap of the season is heir, and yet is so graceful as to deny any charge of mere bagginess or shapelessness.

Made of scintillant beaded cloth, this garment is of equal parts of black and white, with the white forming the upper part of the kimono and the line of the black joining so as to cuff the sleeves and to allow the white to drape in a deep point at the back.

There is a broad, cape-like collar of white fox, but the sleeves have no further attempt at cuffs than the line of the joining of the black and white.

The whim of the moment demands a close fur collar on the tailored coat, as shown on the right. This fashion is much less expensive than that of a fur scarf as a protection against winter winds.

As a further promise of economy for the woman to whom the expense question has its own value, there is this advantage. Last Winter's suit may be renovated by the mere addition of fur collar and cuffs—so instead of the expense of a new suit and new furs, or the sorrow of old shabby ones, Misses may purchase enough fur for collars and cuffs, have an almost new possession, and be quite in the mode.

The suit we illustrate is particularly charming in "tete de negre," and the material—"Duvelvne"—is heavy enough for winter and yet lends itself well to drapery. This coat is extremely cut away, and is far above the waist line in front.

The sleeves are cut in the new "bagoda" shape, and they, like the bottom of the coat, are edged in the same fur that forms the collar. This collar fastens with a large ornament of old silver and the fur used in the model is silver fox.

If your income forbids these elaborations, use stunk fur and an ornament of heavy silk cord. A high belt of amber damask passes beneath the coat and holds up a flounce of plaited net of the same "tete de negre" shade. This flounce is edged by a piping of velvet.

A second flounce, also plaited, falls over the skirt at the height of the knees. This skirt is slightly draped and fitted in front.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

HERE was a Old Home Week in Pa's boom town last week, & Pa went to it. Ma & me didn't go because we never lived in the boom town where Pa lived in the old days & this Old Home Week was for those who had lived there.

Pa came back last nite, & he brought one of the Old Homers with him. The man's name was Jason Jenkins & he had lived in the little town where Pa lived in for all his life.

Ma said Pa, this is Jason Jenkins, my old home, as true a man as you could find. He's got a sheet of sticky fly paper on his nose & he's got a pair of spectacles on his nose & he's got a week and a half to the city to see the sites. I told him that Ma & I & little Bobbie wud maik him feel at home & here he is.

Jason Jenkins was a middle aged man with a round fat face & a balding head. He was dressed in a suit & tie & he was looking at Ma & me & then he began to grin & he said I doant care about becomms of the old stoar. Let it stay where it is.

Why dident you bring Mrs. Jenkins? Ma said. There is no Mrs. Jenkins, said Pa's friend. I am a bachelor, thank goodness. I live in the world is builded back home & I doant care whether that stays open or not. I doant care if I ever open it aggen.

Then he kep kicking at the rug & looking at Ma & me kind of foolish. It was hard for us to keep from laughing. Wife, said Pa, I am going to read out a littel speech that I delivred at the Old Home bankwet. This is what I sed.

I loved old-time friends, as the homing pigeon gracefully seeks its hoam & I have come back from the roaring city to this peaceful littel hamlet, the hoam of my boyhood, the gradde of my happy days. Fame and wealth I have won, but that is not happiness. The acclaim of thousands has been mine, but that is not all.

Never in my wildest moments of triumph in the city have I forgotten the old scenes & the dear old faces that are gathered here to-night, & my memory was a priceless bank on which I drew in hours of bitterness. What to me was fame compared with the loving thoughts of friends like you?

THE FAMILY CUPBOARD A Dramatic Story of High Society Life in New York

Adopted from Owen Davis' Broadway Success

A "SICK BABY" MAKES THE WHOLE WORLD KIN.

You Can Begin This Great Story To-day by Reading This First

THE opening scene is laid in the palatial home of Charles Nelson, whom the world calls a successful man. In reality Nelson's money has caused his wife to become a society leader, so that he gradually finds his home becoming more and more cheerless and less like a home. He enters his house to find his only son drunk and attempting to kiss Mary Burke, Mrs. Nelson's secretary. He upbraids the boy, who turns on his father and accuses him of maintaining another establishment uptown. Mrs. Nelson enters the room just in time to hear the accusation. Nelson confesses to her that the charge is true. Nelson leaves his home and moves to the Alpine Apartment Hotel. His daughter determines to follow him. He telephones to the Winthrops, some close friends, for help. Alice arrives at the hotel and goes to the telephone operator.

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT

"MR. CHARLES NELSON" inquired the girl. "Third floor." "You needn't come up, Tom," said the girl, advancing toward the elevator. "What name?" suggested Miss Ryan a bit severely. "Miss Nelson."

"Miss Nelson is calling." She turned from her phone. "The gentleman will be right down," she informed Alice, reserving judgment as to actual relationship. Alice crossed into the reception room. "I'm going to wait with you," said Tom, quietly following her. "It isn't any use, Tom; I've decided, dear," said Alice, making her sacrifice with gentle determination.

"I can't leave you till I have seen your father. Aren't you making a sad mistake, Alice? Your mother will never forgive you. The world will soon learn of it. Oh, Alice, sweetheart, it's pretty tough on us. How long are you waiting for my wife?" "It is hard, dear, but I can't help, Tom, say you don't blame me! Hush! Here's father!" Her voice took on a firm timbre with a little undertone of grave sweetness.

"Well, father, here I am. I'm afraid you don't want me—but you can scarcely turn me out!" "There was deep pain in the father's voice as a glow of grateful love in his eyes. "It would have been better for you to have remained with your mother until after your marriage. I told you that last night, dear."

"My wedding has been postponed." The girl spoke in a quiet, matter-of-fact voice. Tom Harding winced as at a blow. "Alice!" exclaimed her father in deep surprise. "I can't be married while things are like this. It is too late, now, anyway. Mother and I have had a scene."

"Kenneth is to be here soon," said Nelson, thoughtfully. "I could arrange that you return home with him." "You might arrange it with Kenneth—he wants money, or he would not be here—but not with mother." Alice spoke with grim certainty. The father answered her with all a man's love for his first-born son in his voice. You do Kenneth an injustice. He agreed to come, rather than have a lawyer brought in. He represents his mother, and he could take you back."

"No, dear. If our family is going to be divided, it is going to be a fair division." Alice was very firm. "Nelson spoke in bitter pain. "You must fully understand, Alice (although it is not a thing I dare discuss with you), that your mother is the injured party. Her attitude toward me is wholly justified. I have forfeited my right to your affection." The man's strong voice—like his strong heart—was near to breaking. His bridges finally burned behind him. Nelson bowed his head and waited for the waters of bitterness to sweep over him. His daughter, too, would turn from him now, since she had heard him condemn himself. How could this innocent girl guess his hunger and yearning for love denied.

Do We Sufficiently Guard Young Girls?

From EDWIN MARKHAM.

YOUNG WORKING GIRLS," a volume sent out by the National Federation of Settlements, is introduced by Jane Addams and issued by Houghton Mifflin Company, of Boston. Many questions are here opened up from a practical point of view. "Women in particular have not only had to meet the general moral uncertainty of the age; but, in addition, have had to face the serious moral problems forced upon them by the reorganization of their sphere of life through its invasion by modern industry."

TABLOID TALES

WHAT, mother dear, is an old maid? Is she an accident or a design? "That, child, is a question to which there is no answer; but it is better to claim to her face that she is a design. What, mother mine, is this resignation the preachers talk so much of? It is the discovery, little one, that the rock against which a man is beating his head is harder than his head. When he learns this, he quits beating his head, and then his friends say he has become resigned. Is anyone, mother, ever really resigned? Everyone who stays married, my child. What, mother, is a family reunion? It is one of those occasions, little one, when a wife drags her husband off to eat dinner with her folks, and he is mad because he has to go. Don't they ever go to his folks for a family reunion? When a man is married, child, he has no folks but hers. You have much to learn, little one, that is not written in the books. Why, mother mine, was the turkey chosen as the national bird for Thanksgiving? Because, my child, when Thanksgiving was established large families were the rule, and a big bird was needed for the large family groups that gathered on that day. If there were any practical application of the question of economics, so wisely talked of these days, the national Thanksgiving bird would now be a wren. Why, mother, has the chrysanthemum been adopted as the football game flower? Have you never noticed, little one, the similarity between its hair and that of the football player? The more both look in need of hairpins, the more women adore them. Is a woman ever sorry she married, dear mother? She is always glad, my child, when she thinks of the children. Is a man ever sorry, mother? He is always sorry, little one, when he thinks of himself. And how often is that, mother? Ah, child, you ask too many questions. Does a man ever look at his wife, Mother Mine? "My Child, if a woman has all her hair cut off the last person in the world to notice it is her husband, and he never sees it till after he has received the barber's bill. "What is gratitude, Mother? "It is an expression of thanks. Before marriage a woman makes these expressions before she has looked at the gift. After marriage, she doesn't thank her husband till after she has scolded him for not letting her pick it out. "Do men, Mother, take their troubles to the Lord? "They used to, Little One, but of late years they first take them to the private door of a bank. "Is it true that men can never find the pen and ink around home, or is that little way they have of making fun of their wives? "They do not have to find the pen and ink, child; their wives will find them for them if they tell them they want to write a check. FRANCIS L. GARSIDE.

Completely Outwitted. Two large orchards, side by side, brought much profit to Farmer Turmut, and much trouble. For the orchards were considered fair game by the youth of the village, and the two orchards are harder to watch than one. One day looking from one orchard to the other, Turmut saw a small boy shin down a tree, and uttering a word of warning to another imp still up among the apples, ran off. Turmut reached that tree in record time. "Got yer this time!" he roared to the boy almost hidden among the leaves. "Come down!" Getting no answer, and not being in a hurry, he sat down and waited. Time passed and still he waited, until a servant brought him a note that had just been dropped through the letter box. He did not wait after he had read it, as follows: "Some people as apples, some as sense. You bin watchin' a pair of trowsies stuffed with straw, and we bin gettin' your apples from the other orchard. Grate victory for sense!"

WOULD SIT DOWN COULDN'T GET UP

And This Lady Would Do a Little Work and Have to Go to Bed for an Hour.

Columbia, Tenn.—Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this town, says: "I was a sufferer from womanly troubles for five years, and it got me down so I could not do any of my work. Would have to lie in bed nearly all the time. When I would sit down, couldn't get up without pulling at something to help me. I would do a little work and have to go to bed for an hour."

"I would have those awful trembly spells, and a swimming in my head. I nearly felt that I had rather be dead than be in my condition. I finally wrote to the Ladies' Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Company, and they advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, for my troubles. I did and now I am sound and well of all my troubles. The second bottle helped me so much that I didn't have to go to bed any more."

"I certainly feel that Cardui is worth its weight in gold to every suffering woman." "If you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, try Cardui. For more than 50 years Cardui has been used with entire satisfaction by hundreds of thousands of weak and ailing women. It will surely help you, too. Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. for Special Instructions. And 4-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.—(Adv.)"

Lawrence and Amy Winthrop turned eagerly at the word "Baby." The one source of Winthrop enthusiasm had been touched. "What?" cried Lawrence. "Baby!" exclaimed Amy. "Yes, ma'am," said William, with due pride of fatherhood.

"Me, Nelson?" inquired Winthrop of Miss Ryan. Hearing his voice, Nelson turned. "Winthrop! Amy Winthrop! Thank you both!" "Hello!" cried Tom, almost unbelievably. "By Jove! rats didn't desert a sinking ship. The little Winthrops! Who'd have thought it. The conventional, careful, conventional! Winthrops continued their chat with the elevator boy at the Alpine. "And isn't he well?" asked Amy, pityingly. "He's enjoying mighty poor health, ma'am."

"Here," said Winthrop, taking out—not a coin, but a bill—"get a doctor." William pocketed it. Luck was with the Alpine servitors that day. "Thank you, sir. I got one." "What does he say?" Amy asked, animatedly. "He doesn't say much that anyone can understand. He's a regular doctor."

"Oh, the doctor!" said Amy. "What about the baby's diet?" "I don't think he's got one yet. I ain't seen no symptoms." "I mean—how about his food?" "No, ma'am, 'tain't his food. We sed just the same as me and his mother. His throat is sore an' he's hot like—"

"Oh—measles," cried Amy, sympathetically, putting her gloved hand on the elevator boy's arm. "Baby!" exclaimed Amy. "Yes, ma'am," said William, with due pride of fatherhood. "Boy or girl?" This from Amy. "Food! That's fine," Winthrop slapped the elevator boy approvingly on the shoulder. "How old is he?" asked Amy. "Two." "Good! That's fine," Winthrop "Isn't that the queerest thing? My boy's age!"

Be Vigorous and Ambitious Drive the poisonous wastes from your clogged-up bowels, and start your liver to working perfectly with gentle, blissful HOT SPRINGS LIVER BUTTONS. They purify the blood, put an edge on the appetite and put vigor and ambition into people who lack energy. Take them, and headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and dizziness will vanish. They are simply fine, especially for women and elderly people. Cut out colomen and other make-shifts. Take little chocolate-coated HOT SPRINGS LIVER BUTTONS for a week, and notice the complexion clear up, and pimples vanish. All druggists, 25 cents. Free sample from Hot Springs Chemical Co., Hot Springs, Ark.—Adv.

"Boy or girl?" This from Amy. "Boy." "Good! That's fine," Winthrop slapped the elevator boy approvingly on the shoulder. "How old is he?" asked Amy. "Two." "No!" chorused the Winthrops. "Isn't that the queerest thing? My boy's age!"

"Taxi is waiting," called Charles Nelson. Alice and Tom heeded the call—but the louder call of the brotherhood of parents was sounding in Lawrence's and Amy's ears, and the "correct, careful, conventional! Winthrops continued their chat with the elevator boy at the Alpine. "And isn't he well?" asked Amy, pityingly. "He's enjoying mighty poor health, ma'am."

"Here," said Winthrop, taking out—not a coin, but a bill—"get a doctor." William pocketed it. Luck was with the Alpine servitors that day. "Thank you, sir. I got one." "What does he say?" Amy asked, animatedly. "He doesn't say much that anyone can understand. He's a regular doctor."

A POLICEMAN RESCUED FROM A LIFE OF MISERY Mr. C. M. Mitchell, who resides at 307 Fernway street and has been a member of the force in Atlanta for the past ten years and for some time past has been a member of the Broadway squad, a position which requires a man to be alert for the lives of thousands of little children, aged and unprotected pedestrians passing to and fro who would be trampled to death or run over by cars or autos on these busy street corners only for the timely and ever gallant attention of the policeman. He is a very modest man, who does not care for much pomp or display, and has always enjoyed fairly good health up until about one year ago, when he commenced to have a form of stomach trouble—nothing to cause alarm, but a soreness, a nauseated feeling, especially after eating. At times he had a ravenous appetite; again the sight of food would make him sick. At night, when he lay down, he would have a smothering spell, and many times would have to get up. For months he has had more or less a headache, sometimes over the eyes; again it would be in the back of the head, very annoying and causing him to be nervous; but that choking he had at night caused him more harm than anything else. He did not feel as though he could afford to lay off, and as he would have a vacation, he decided to stick it out until then and have his family physician look after his health. But he was recommended to go and see the Health Teacher who had been at Coursey & Munn's drug store and get a bottle of Quaker Extract that was curing so many people of stomach trouble. Some were caused from catarrh; some expelled monster parasites; and to-day are enjoying good health. So he decided he would give it a trial, procured one bottle, commenced taking according to directions on bottle, and behold! on the following night he expelled a monster 73-foot tapeworm, head and all complete, alive. This is what the wonderful Quaker Extract had done for this man. The cure is a very remarkable one. It simply goes to show you can not tell who is infested with parasites. In general appearance Mr. Mitchell would be one of the last persons in the world to be picked out as a victim of tapeworm, and the Health Teacher says there are many persons who will never see a healthy day until they get rid of those worms that are eating away the lining in the intestinal tract. Now, if you are a sufferer from stomach trouble, catarrh, indigestion, constipation, kidney, liver, bladder or rheumatism—no matter what treatment you have tried and failed to get benefited—Coursey & Munn want you to give Quaker Extract and Oil of Balm one trial. Call to-day for Quaker Extract, $1.00, $3 for $2.50, or 5 for $5.00. Oil of Balm, 25c, or 5 for $1.00. At Coursey & Munn's drug store, 29 Marietta street. We prepare express charges on all orders of $2.00 or over.

AUBURN, FOR FIRST TIME, IN LINE FOR TITLE

By Fuzzy Woodruff.

THIS week will tell whether a brand-new champion is to be developed in the South. For if Auburn defeats Vanderbilt in Birmingham at the end of this seven-day period for the first time Auburn will have a chance to write "champions" under the pictures of its team.

Southern football is about 29 years old. In that time there have been but three champions of the Southern Intercollegiate Association. The old Gold and Black of Vanderbilt has flaunted it frequently. Sewanee has more than once borne away the gonfalon. Georgia in 1896 had the honor. In not a few years the title has been beclouded with two and three teams claiming the championship, notably in the year of Cumberland and Clemson's historic tie.

Auburn Never Won Title.

And all these years Auburn has been among the big boys, but has never landed the punch. Hiesman put the Alabama Polys on the football map way back in the '90's. Then he transferred his affections to Clemson and there was a long period of discontent in the Orange and Blue institution.

Then came the advent of Mike Donahue, and year after year, Auburn came close. Last year, Donahue played Vanderbilt to a tie and for a little less than a week had a doubtful claim to a championship, only to lose this slight honor by being hopelessly crushed by Georgia.

Things are different this year. McGugin's machine seems about as pulsant as a pussy cat. Donahue's demons seem as dangerous as a bi-culoride of mercury tablet an hour after it's been swallowed.

Have Only Georgia to Beat.

If Auburn defeats Vanderbilt Saturday—and there is no way of figuring how the Commodores have a chance—the Orange and Blue have only to beat Georgia to have a bar-look, so-hold, and a double Nelson on the championship.

Now, it's no cliche that Auburn can beat Georgia. From any angle it looks the best battle of the year. Auburn, beyond question, will be superior to Georgia in the play of the forwards, but this may be offset by the superiority of Georgia's backfield.

Anyway you look at it, Atlanta is going to see the battle which will decide the Southern championship.

Sporting Food

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

THE FOOTBALL COACH. Cripples to left of him, Cripples to right of him, Cripples in front of him, Stumbled and blundered.

Cripples with broken head, Cripples all torn to shreds, Tossing on painful beds— Nearly a hundred.

Crippled by lovely scrubs, Mangled by fresh young subs, Whipped by common dubs, While the coach thundered.

Think of the score to-day After the bloody fray: Really, I hate to say— Fully a hundred.

Experts say that Jacques Fournier would make a good white hope, but is there any such thing as a good white hope?

In view of the fact that Branch Rickey is a member of the Y. M. C. A., we presume that the Browns will indulge in the Game of Authors next year instead of the P. G.

DOPE.

"Hugh Jennings," said the baseball scribe, "will run the Brooklyn team";

And then he cooked another pill and had another dream.

Possibly Charlie Ebbets contemplates hiring a new manager because he craves something new to dedicate next spring.

The Giants are bothered by sand in their games out West, but there wasn't much of it in evidence when they played in the World's Series.

Heinie Zim possesses more than his proper modicum of ivory, but it is hard to believe that he has signed with the Federal League.

Once in a while our baseball scribes show flashes of startling originality. This year they have picked Governor Tener instead of Joe O'Brien for Tom Lynch's job.

Frank Gotch has retired again. He will not emerge from the said retirement until Strangler Lewis has attained sufficient advertising to make him a drawing card.

Bob Hedges has just returned from a short vacation in Texas, whereas, his ball team has been enjoying a vacation in St. Louis for lo, these many years.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who called it pool instead of pocket billiards?

Charlie White does not fight any oftener than the law allows, but he has the distinction of getting more offers and alleged offers to the square inch than any pugilist in captivity.

After All, Why Not Put a Number on a Player?

Thereby We Can Give a Sturdy Warrior Credit for a Touchdown, Instead of Robbing Him of Glory.

YOU know—or perhaps you do not know, and it is well in either case—that the stands at a football game do not afford the spectator any too good a view of the proceedings on the gridiron. When the warriors are endeavoring to tear each other into smithereens right in front of you, then you can see it all with pleasure. But when said warriors are battling over on the other side of the pasture you are lucky if you can even see which team is in possession of the oval.

The press box at Grant Field, where Tech endeavors to win games when their opponents are other than the charges of that noble Persian, Mique Donahue, is situated at the foot of the iron and concrete west stand. From here the lovely scribes endeavor to take notes on who carries the ball. But their guessing ability has found them hitting at a .308 clip so far this season.

OF course, it can be argued that a person attempting to write about a football game should know the players, and no doubt many do know them. If they do not know personally, or by sight, their natural instinct is alone sufficient. Their instinct tells these knowing persons that if it is Woodruff who is juggling the ball, and if it ultimately gets out that it wasn't Woodruff, why, that is obviously Woodruff's own fault.

But what of the fellow who stands so low in the social scale that he can never hope for personal acquaintance with these footballers, who can never hope to move in the same set with them—what of him? What if the spectators who many unaccountably find themselves ignorant of the identity of the young gentles out on the football field? They must depend upon popular rumor for their information, that's what. There is no other way.

Not that we care. We but voice a common plaint. Personally we are not concerned one way or the other. It seems to us that football has done its level best to elude the public by hiding out at Grant Field, Athens, Auburn and Nashville, and if this

MOREOVER, we believe that the pastime as now conducted affords a splendid opportunity to spread the socialist propaganda where it may do a lot of good. All men are presumed to be free and equal, amid when 22 young persons get together on the gridiron and Montressor VanStuyvesant Watts, of the wealthy Watts family, makes a touchdown, why should we not ascribe the action to Henry Doolittle, who is of poor but honest parentage, especially when we don't know any different?

Why discriminate against Henry? Why be snobbish and cater to the Wattle?

While it is our personal notion that only men who have strawberry birthmarks, or other distinguishing physical characteristics, should be picked for football fodder, the suggestion has been offered from time to time that the players be numbered. Moreover, the idea has been tried out from time to time with varying results, but the colleges generally have rejected the scheme on the ground that it tends to commercialize the game.

This may be true, but a lot of contrary people believe that a game that can afford to build stadiums seating 10,000 people and charge $2 a smash for seats might make some small concessions to commercialism.

Mercer Sub-Varsity Beaten by Gordon

BARNESVILLE GA., Nov. 11.—Gordon walked away with the Mercer sub-variety by a score of 39 to 6. At no stage of the game did the visitors have a chance to win. Gordon scored three touchdowns in the first quarter, two in the third and one in the fourth. Long forward passes was the style of play used by Gordon. Mercer's score came in the third period, when Left Half Newton got around the left end for a touchdown. Practically every man on the Gordon team started.

Sox-Giants Tour Financial Success

OAKLAND, CAL., Nov. 11.—The White Sox and Giants' financial managers are a happy lot to-day. They have $19,000 more on their special train than they had when they arrived in Los Angeles. Saturday they drew more than $6,000 at Washington Park. Monday their receipts fell a little below the $6,000 mark. Their expenses amounted to nearly $2,000 in this city, leaving a net profit of a little over $19,000.

The Sox, minus the services of Chase and Crawford, are to battle the Giants here this afternoon in the twenty-fifth game of the tour. The Giants now lead the Sox by two games, and this gap Manager Callahan is eager to close.

BOB MOHA SUSPENDED.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 11.—Bob Moha has been suspended by the boxing commission until January 1, because he signed articles for two fights scheduled for the same day. Moha himself signed to meet Gus Christie on November 24 before the Riverview Club. Shortly afterward the South Side Athletic Club announced that Moha's manager had already signed him to meet Christie on the same day before that organization. Moha denied his manager was authorized to sign him.

BORTON GOES TO TORONTO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Babe Borton, one of the players traded to the New York Americans by Chicago, has been sold to Toronto. He was sent to Jersey City, but refused to report, requesting a trade to Toronto. This has been arranged. Toronto will train with the Galats at Marlin Springs next year.

RED AND BLACK WORKS BEHIND CLOSED GATES

ATHENS, GA., Nov. 11.—Martial law was declared by Coach Cunningham for the vicinity of Sanford Field when the eleven that will battle Tech Saturday reported for duty yesterday afternoon and for the remainder of the week the high sheriff with a search warrant couldn't gain admittance to the confines of Sanford Field. The slogan at Georgia now is, "On to Tech," and the pale moon was casting its shadow over the shades of the gridiron when the Red and Black team went to the field house late yesterday afternoon.

The Georgia team begins its week of practice with every man in ship-shape with the exception of Powell and Henderson. Powell is suffering with a persistent charleyhorse and Henderson is still in bad shape from the shakeup received in the Virginia game, but both are out for practice and will get into the game some time during the afternoon. Crump has been shifted to fullback in practice, while an understudy for Henderson is being retained. Carey has gone to left half, and his injured shoulder is giving him little trouble. He fumbled the only times that he was intrusted with the ball in the Clemson game, but was naturally a bit nervous that he might re-injure his arm.

Conklin has shaken off his charleyhorse and was running signals in his old-time form yesterday. He is sure to open at left end, and since the great showing of Smith in the Clemson game he will draw the right wing assignment. Malone has gone back to his guard position, and McKinnon has been placed at the other guard. McKinnon is a good punter, and if Henderson is unable to look after the department the former will do the booting in this game.

NEW YORK'S NEW STADIUM.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Ground was broken Saturday for a new City of New York stadium for the college of the City of New York. The structure, which is to be located at 15th street and Amsterdam avenue, is the gift of Adolph Lewisohn, and will cost $200,000.

WALTER JOHNSON IS 26.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Walter Johnson, king of the American League pitchers, is 26 years of age. Manager Clark Griffith, of the Senators, declared to-day that the "Big Swede" will lead pitchers in both leagues for the next fourteen years.

TAYLOR SHADES KID.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—Kid Taylor, of Chicago, had a shade for aggressiveness and execution over Lee Roux, of Memphis, in the ten-round bout here last night. Eddie Meizer, of Cincinnati, stopped Jack Tuttle, of Toledo, in six rounds.

CLABBY ON WAY WEST. CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Jimmy Clabby to-day is on his way to San Francisco to prepare for his battle with Frank Logan on Thanksgiving Day for a $2,000 side bet.

SALE OF HOOSIERS OFF. COLUMBUS, OHIO, Nov. 11.—The proposed baseball deal for the sale of the Indianapolis franchise to John McGill, of the Denver Club, is off, according to the announcement made to-day by Sol Meyer, owner of the Hoosier Club. Meyer declared that what little negotiations he had entered into between he and the Denver crowd was now entirely off. No reason was given for the act.

Millions of men, of all sections, classes and occupations, smoke "Bull" Durham in fresh, fragrant, hand-made cigarettes because these wonderfully satisfying cigarettes appeal to a distinct type of men the world over—the red-blooded, strong-bodied, self-reliant type that dominates in every calling and in every clime.

Approximately 12 BILLION cigarettes rolled from "Bull" Durham in a year—as many as all brands of ready-made cigarettes in this country combined—proves that the majority of experienced smokers prefer to make their own cigarettes to suit themselves, and roll them, fresh and fragrant, from "Bull" Durham tobacco.

Cigarettes, hand-made from this rich, ripe, mellow tobacco have a fresh fragrance and satisfying flavor that afford lasting enjoyment.

SWACINA HIT .325 WHILE IN INTERNATIONAL

Former Dixie Stars Walloped Ball Hard This Season in the Eastern Circuit.

FIFTEEN ex-Southern Leaguers pastimed in the International League, according to the official batting statistics just released.

None of them scintillated, though Harry Swacina, old Gull, came through with a .325 batting average.

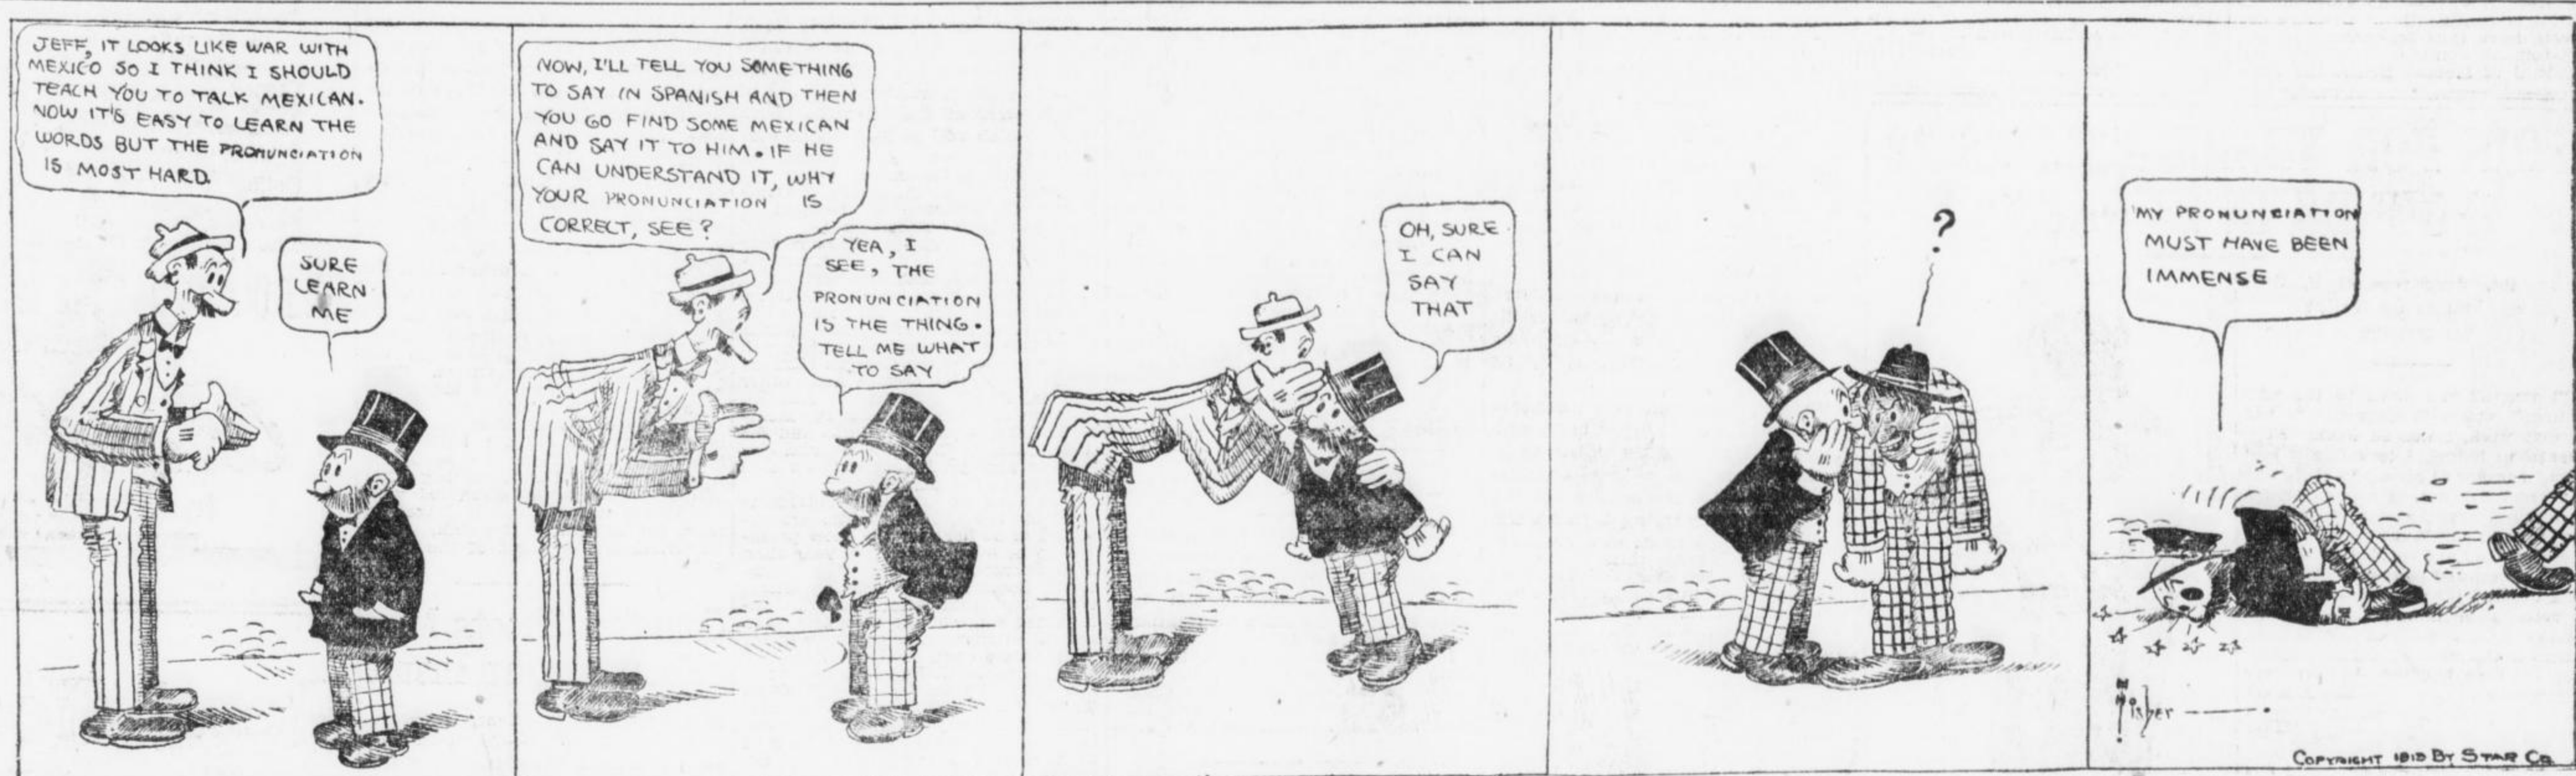

Despite these formidable figures he drew his release.

Others from Dixie were Hub Northern, Lookout; Neal Ball, Billiken; Heinie Zimmerman, Cracker; Almeder, Baron; Higgins, Lookout; Green, Billiken; Downes, Baron; McTigue, Baron; Holly, Pelican; Ens, Baron; Maxwell, Billiken, Cracker, Pelican and Baron; and Koehler, Cracker.

Following are the averages of the players who hit .200 or better:

Table with columns: NAME AND CLUB, AB, R, H, PO. Lists statistics for various players across different teams.

Here's the Dope to Date on Material to Rebuild Atlanta Club NINE OLD CRACKERS LEFT--TEN NEW ONES SIGNED

By O. B. Keeler. HERE'S the latest possible dope on the Cracker lay-out for 1914. Bill Smith is snooping around in Ohio, and may have something up his sleeve, but he hasn't shaken it down yet. So the following is the freshest stuff from the local headquarters, with some information about the ten new Crackers already secured, who will stick at least until the weeding-out in the spring training.

Griffith, who had him farmed out to the Hartford club of the Eastern League this season. He played in 135 games in Class B company, batting .280 and fielding .875. Kirschner was drafted from Norfolk, in the Virginia League, where he showed much promise last season as a base-stealer and run-getter. He is nominally an outfielder, but plays the infield equally well, and can even take his turn back of the mound, being a husky, willing chap. In 138 games last season he batted .271, fielded .852 in the outfield and .921 as utility infielder, stole 74 bases, leading the league, and was second in runs scored.

PREAS RULED INELIGIBLE BY S. I. A. A. BODY

By Damon Runyon. NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Two mighty tired young fighting men hung together under the white calcium light in the center of the red roped ring at Madison Square Garden at 11:15 o'clock last night. Their blood-stained arms were interlaced and their bodies, crimson with each other's gore, bent wearily together.

Zimmerman Ousted From Players' Union For Not Paying Dues

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—Heinie Zimmerman, third baseman of the Chicago Cubs and one of the leading batsmen of the National League, has been expelled by the Players' Fraternity. Heinie refused to pay his dues for one thing, and he is also accused of working against the interests of the players.

Georgia Insists Game Be Played At Ponce DeLeon

ATHENS, GA., Nov. 11.—Professor Sanford, physical director at Georgia, has given out a statement to the effect that the contract between Georgia and Tech does not specify that Saturday's football game shall be played at Grant Field, and Georgia insists that it must be played on neutral grounds as heretofore, or that a contract be entered into at once that will provide for one game in Atlanta one year on Grant Field and another in Athens the next year on Sanford Field.

Ham Island is gone, and Harry Holland, and there's no telling if we'll get either of the latter pair back, and it's a moral cinch the first two are gone for good.

OUR present candidate for the ample shoes of Joe Aker is Mr. Elbie Pichers, a Class C pitcher. He batted .312 in 125 games, and fielded .970. His wallowing included two home runs, twelve triples and 32 two-base hits, the latter being his favorite. He also drew 42 bases on balls. He is rated a crack fielder and a hard hitter against all kinds of pitching—in Class C, at any rate.

A complete consultation costs you nothing and if I can help you I will. DR. HUGHES, 16 1/2 North Broad Street, Atlanta, Ga.

BEILIS FREED IN NIGHT TO FOIL KIEFF MOBS

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian, KIEFF, Nov. 11.—Though hundreds of troops continually patrolling the streets have thus far prevented any anti-semitic outrages following the acquittal of Mendel Beilis, the Jews of this city and the surrounding country are panic-stricken as a result of threats made to-day by leaders of the "Black Hundred." Hundreds of families are fleeing to other European countries or to America. Beilis and his wife and children were reunited to-day for the first time since he was accused of killing Andrew Yushinsky for "blood ritual purposes." In his release from prison every precaution was taken to prevent disorder. He was not released immediately after his acquittal, but was held a prisoner until early this morning. Then he was taken from the penitentiary under cover of darkness and escorted by a strong guard to the Ljahnovka Brick Works, where his home is located.

AUDIENCE HURTS PERFORMANCE AT FORSYTH

Robust Popularity of Vaudeville House Tested by Impatience of Its Patrons.

By TARLETON COLLIER.

Even the robust popularity of the Forsyth Theater finds something of a test in performances like that presented Monday evening by Reno's Mount Army, the act with which this week's bill of vaudeville closed. The audience—it must be admitted that Monday night's is the most discriminating crowd of them all—made its verdict known unmistakably by its departure.

Therein, however, the audience probably aided and abetted in the act's failure. It is patently unfair to so ephemeral an institution as a vaudeville act to leave it when its men and women are really trying to please. But the Forsyth patrons, it seems, will never come to know this.

The entire bill bore something of disappointment to those assembled. The audience liked the Nine White Hussars, splendidly clad musicians who played vigorous music, and who sang harmoniously as well. The nine were called back a dozen times. It liked, too, Morris and Allen, a pair of young men whose parodies were fetching and whose character jokes and songs were pleasing, although the dialogue bordered uncomfortably near the risqué at times. Ed Reynard's elaborate ventriloquist act entailed a great deal of hard work, at which the spectators wondered. It had a good many real, hearty laughs, too.

The Deutos, with their miniature circus of dogs, monkeys and a bucking donkey, have an ordinary animal act. Miss Ade Line Francis appears in an act in which she conducts a dialogue and a singing colloquy with a graphophone whose records are said to reproduce her voice. The girl in the team of Fred Watson and Rena Santos won some applause.

McCutcheon Thrills

Please Lyric Patrons.

McCutcheon-made thrills are translated into pleasing stage business in "Truxton King," the offering at the Lyric Theater this week. The play by Grace Hayward follows rather closely in action and in spirit the novel from which it was drawn. There is the same plattitudinous, flamboyant appeal. Every American is loudly and obviously heroic. He overthrows villains, he rescues the distressed. He is a Don Quixote who makes good.

Naturally enough, the play suits those who go to the Lyric to see it. It tells another story of the weird, mysterious kingdom of Graustark. Truxton King, a young American, goes there seeking romance, and finds it in large quantities. Graustark is a veritable romance mine. Just as its creator intended it should be.

Herbert Hayes plays the Truxton King of the drama, and fills the heroic part very acceptably. More than once his stalwart defiance of the anarchistic and intrigues of Graustark awakes the Lyric audience to applause. And the appeal of Mildred von Holten, who played Olga, the Graustark noblewoman, was as effective. "Truxton King" will be at the Lyric all the week, with matinees Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Classic Appeal in Pictures of Pompeii.

An artistic quality, like that of a classic painting, is to be observed in the scenes of "The Last Days of Pompeii," the elaborate moving picture spectacle at the Atlanta Theater. Men and women, clad in the flowing robes of Pompeii's day, moving against a background of sculptured marble or through picturesque gardens, are striking objects. It is in these simple scenes that the picture is most appealing, rather than in the stuporous mob scenes and in the picture of the destruction of the city by the volcano.

However, it is in these big scenes, in which thousands of people move, and in which the spouting volcano is caught, that the stirring appeal comes. The Pasquell picture at the Atlanta follows faithfully the story of Bulwer-Lytton's novel, and in scrupulous details the scenes are flashed on the screen. The pictures are different from those recently seen in Atlanta when "The Last Days of Pompeii," as enacted by another company, was produced.

The picture will be at the Atlanta Tuesday and Wednesday, with a matinee each day.

Death Sentence for Negro Is Commuted

Willie Jones, negro, condemned to hang Friday at Madison, Tuesday was informed that Governor Slaton had commuted his sentence to life imprisonment in the State penitentiary. Jones killed another negro.

It was because the Judge, the Solicitor and the majority of the jury, and many citizens of Morgan County sought clemency for Jones that Governor Slaton commuted the sentence.

Egg Prices Soar in Chicago on Shortage

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Chicago is experiencing a shortage in eggs. "Winning" prices prevail, and strictly fresh eggs are selling for from 42 to 45 cents a dozen. The rise in price, according to wholesalers, is a reflection of the egg famine in New York.

MILITARY TO AID IN BOY, 8, HERO; SAVES CORN SHOW MARCH SISTER FROM FIRE

Adjutant General Nash To Be Grand Marshal of Parade on December 4.

Adjutant General J. VanHolt Nash, commander of the Georgia National Guard, will be grand marshal of the military parade, which will be one of the features of the Georgia Corn Show, which will be held in the corridors of the State Capitol during the first week in December, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The parade will be held on the afternoon of December 4.

The parade probably will be in four divisions, headed by the Fifth Regiment, G. N. G., and the regimental band. The Seventeenth Infantry, United States Army, will be asked to send a detachment of soldiers to take part. Other organizations in line will be the cadets of the Georgia Military Academy, Marist College and other schools, the Boy Scouts of Atlanta, Deatur, and Marietta, and the members of the Boys' Corn Clubs and the Girls' Canning Clubs. State and city officials and prominent citizens also will ride in the parade.

The work of arranging entertainment for the 1,000 boys who are expected to be here for the show promises to be even easier this year than last. Secretary Cooper, of the Chamber of Commerce, is receiving letters every day from Atlantans who entertained some of the boys last year, and all of them offer again to throw their homes open to the visitors.

Mrs. Charles J. Haden, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, writes that it is a pleasure to entertain the boys. Mrs. F. G. Hanahan also writes that she will be glad to have two or more boys in her home.

Bride, 73, Who Wed Student, 21, Dead

HARTFORD, CONN., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Lucinda M. C. Treat Goddard, 73, whose marriage to Charles A. Goddard, 21, a Yale student, in 1899 brought her to public notice, is dead at her home here. She suffered a shock.

Lad's Badly Burned Hands Attest His Bravery—Little Girl in Serious Condition.

A little hero was receiving the praise of his friends and neighbors at No. 135 Venable street Tuesday morning and bearing the bandages on his burned hands like the honorable scars of a soldier. The little hero was Jeff Karr, 8 years old, who saved his 5-year-old sister, Minnie Lee, from death by fire Monday afternoon in their home, where she now lies in a critical condition from burns.

The boy had just returned from the hospital, where he was recovering from a broken leg. He was in the front yard of the Karr home at dusk, and his sister was playing in the house. He heard her scream. Running into the house, he found her with her dress in flames.

The boy was weak from his recent accident, but he did not hesitate or lose his head. Instead of running for help, he picked the screaming little girl up in his arms, struggled with her to the kitchen, and managed to raise her as high as the sink, where he turned the full force of the water upon her.

Countess Shoots Man To Avenge an Insult

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian, GENOVA, Nov. 11.—Countess Despolo, of a noble Venetian family and wife of Captain Ogdoni, quartered at San Remo, shot an orderly.

The Countess said the man had entered her apartments and had attacked her.

THIN FOR YEARS---"GAINS 22 POUNDS IN 23 DAYS"

Remarkable Experience of F. Gagnon. Builds Up Weight Wonderfully.

"I was all run down to the very bottom," writes F. Gagnon. "I had to quit work. I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds in 23 days."

"Sargol has put 10 pounds on me in fourteen days," states W. D. Roberts. "It has made me sleep well, enjoy what I eat and enabled me to work with interest and pleasure."

"I weighed 122 pounds when I commenced taking Sargol. After taking twenty days I weighed 144 pounds. Sargol is the most wonderful preparation for flesh building I have ever seen," declares D. Martin, and J. Meier adds: "For the past twenty years I have taken medicine every day for indigestion and got thinner every year. I took Sargol for forty days and feel better than I have felt in twenty years. My weight has increased from 150 to 170 pounds."

When hundreds of men and women—and there are hundreds, with more coming every day—living in every nook and corner of this broad land, voluntarily testify to weight increases ranging all the way from 10 to 25 pounds, given them by Sargol, you must admit, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Thin Reader, that there must be something in this Sargol method of flesh building after all.

Hadn't you better look into it, just as thousands of others have done? Many thin folks say: "I'd give most anything to put on a little extra weight, but when some one suggests a way they exclaim, 'Not a chance. Nothing will make me plump. I'm built to stay thin.' Until you have tried Sargol, you do not and can not know that this is true."

Sargol has put pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh on hundreds who doubted and in spite of their doubts. You don't have to believe in Sargol to grow plump from its use. You just take it and watch weight pile up, hollows vanish and your figure round out to pleasing and normal proportions. You weigh yourself when you begin and again when you finish and you let the scales tell the story.

Sargol is absolutely harmless. It is a tiny concentrated tablet. You take one with every meal. It mixes with the food you eat for the purpose of separating all of its flesh producing ingredients. It prepares these fat making elements in an easily assimilable form, which the blood can readily absorb and carry all over your body. Plump, well-developed persons don't need Sargol to produce this result. Their assimilative machinery performs its functions without aid. But thin folks' assimilative organs do not. This fatty portion of their food now goes to waste through their bodies like unburned coal through an open grate. A few days' test of Sargol in your case will surely prove whether or not this is true of you. Isn't it worth trying?

50c BOX FREE

To enable any thin reader, ten pounds or more underweight, to easily make this test we will give a 50c box of Sargol absolutely free. Either Sargol will increase your weight or it won't, and the only way to know it is to try it. Send for this Free Test Package to-day enclosing 10c in silver or stamps in help pay postage, packing, etc., and a full size 50c package will be sent by return mail free of charge. Indoor Winter Baseball

Hearst's Sunday American } and The Atlanta Georgian's } "Home Diamond"
Enables You to Play at Home

WINTER EVENINGS, with the storm raging outside, will find you looking for amusement as you sit in a comfortable chair before a cozy fire. "Home Diamond" will provide entertainment for you, whether you play it alone or with a partner. Even the onlookers will share the merriment and excitement. Here is an indoor game full of the memories of thrilling finishes and tense situations of the past season's ball games, duplicated play for play with almost uncanny fidelity. "Two down and the bases full," "tied in the ninth" and similar crises occur in a big percentage of the games. Famous plays may also be duplicated and new ideas tried out.

SPECIAL PRICE 50c

With One Heading of Either Hearst's American or The Atlanta Georgian Postage Extra. Weight 30 Ounces.

Only a limited number of the games have been secured and they will be sold by THE HEARST'S SUNDAY AMERICAN AND THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN exclusively. You can't buy them elsewhere at any price and you may not get one at all unless you call or send for it immediately. This is an opportunity that may be withdrawn within a very few days—only prompt action will prevent disappointment. Call for your game TO-DAY.

Some Features of the Game

BALLS.
A batter may "get on" by drawing four balls. Some of the provisions in connection with a "ball" cover a "wild pitch and passed ball;" runner out attempting to steal second; runner safe stealing second or third.

STRIKES.
A strike either may be called or a foul. In conjunction with a strike, a runner may be enabled to steal home or may be put out in the effort to steal third.

HITS.
Singles, two-baggers, three-base hits and home runs are all provided for. Just as in the regular game, three-base hits are scarcer than two-baggers and home runs are not at all common. Frequently a game is played with very little hitting, the batters going out "one, two, three."

OUTS.
Put-outs are indicated, such as "third to first;" "fly to center;" "double play, second to first," etc. A groan or a cheer, according to one's sympathies, often accompanies a double play with one out.

SCORING.
Indicators are provided to register the runs and hits of the visiting team and similar indicators keep the score for the home team. Indicators for strikes, balls and outs also are provided, and also an inning indicator for each team. Runners on bases are also shown and the team at bat is not overlooked. All these devices are self-contained and neither pencil nor paper is required to score the game.

BALL ALWAYS ACTIVE NEVER OUT OF SIGHT

NO QUIET MOMENTS EVERY MOVE A PLAY

Call to-day at the offices. If you can't call, ascertain from your postmaster the postage on a thirty-ounce game by parcel post from Atlanta to your home town and add it to your remittance of fifty cents and one heading of The American or Georgian.

Beilis Acquitted

Russia Plays the Part of Cruel Coward Lacking the Courage to Commit Official Murder.

Lacking courage to MURDER directly and officially ONE Jew—Russia conspires to cause the murder of thousands in an infamous, cowardly "judicial" decision.

Beilis, the unfortunate Jew selected as a scapegoat by the Czar's Government, goes free.

That, at least, the protest of civilized humanity has succeeded in accomplishing.

It was intended that the poor, friendless, defenseless, Jewish workman should be executed under the charge of the most frightful and revolting blood guilt.

And he would have been convicted and officially murdered without doubt had not civilization in better lands cried against the outrage and awakened in official Russia the one thing that Russia fears—THE CONTEMPT OF CIVILIZATION.

Beilis is acquitted and freed, and for that all good men and women will be fervently thankful.

His judicial murder would have been a horrible outrage, not only a crime against him as an individual, but a crime against his race and his religion.

For the Russian idea was to murder him and with him murder the good name of all the Jews, and to increase with official indorsement of a vile slander the bitter hatred and cruel persecution already existing. But the intended official crime was stopped by public protest. Russian brutality that has committed so many murders, fomented so many pogroms, lacked the courage to proceed before the eyes of the world with the official killing of ONE individual Jew.

Beilis escapes from the paw of Russia, and that brutal beast, in this one case at least, retires growling and baffled.

Unfortunately, however, the Government that did not dare to murder officially the individual Jew Beilis has done as much as it could and as much as it dared to murder the reputation of Jews throughout the empire and to increase the hatred in which the Jews are held by the ignorant, drunken Russians and to add fuel to the flame of persecution and outrage.

The verdict which declares Beilis innocent—because Russia did not dare to execute him—declares also that the murder of which he was accused was a "ritual murder"—that is to say, the Russian Government in this infamous decision seeks to put upon the Jews and their religion all responsibility for the murder charged against Beilis.

The statement is officially made by the court which did not dare to murder the accused individual, that the Jewish religion was responsible for the murder of Yushinsky, that the blood had been spilled to use in their religious ceremonies.

The world knows how infamously false this accusation is.

Seven centuries ago Pope Innocent IV denounced the infamous lie. And over and over the vile accusation brought to excuse the torture and robbery of the Jews has been disproved.

It is to be hoped, and we may believe that the civilized world has heard of the last infamous charge of this kind in a court of law.

Russia in the face of civilization has not dared to murder the innocent Jew accused of a crime that he has never committed. And if Russia has not dared this time, she will not dare in the future, we may believe.

Unhappily, in Russia, at least, many Jews must suffer because of this infamous Beilis case.

The Russian Black Hundred, the official haters and perjurers of the Jews, have been cheated of their individual victim. They are not to have the satisfaction of murdering Beilis.

But the ignorant peasants will be told that the crime was committed by Jews unknown, and many will suffer.

However, the plans of the Russian Government have been thwarted. The desperate effort to convict Beilis, backed by perjury, conspiracy and cunning, has failed. Every man who has helped to protect that far-off feeble, defenseless workingman Beilis from the bloody creatures thirsting for his blood must feel deeply grateful for the privilege of having said a word in defense of human decency.

The American Israelite in its issue of October 30 says:

"The foremost among those who unsparingly denounced the Czar and his advisers and Russian officialdom for seeking to stigmatize their Jewish subjects as guilty of ritual murder, have been the various Hearst papers in New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and elsewhere. They have not hesitated to speak out plainly and forcibly, and if what the various editors have been saying has no effect in Russia—as it probably will not—still they will have served a purpose, by calling the attention of a large number of reading and thinking people to the brutal wrong which is being done at Kieff. William Randolph Hearst is entitled to the gratitude of all right thinking men."

This expression of thanks is appreciated, but it should be extended to many newspapers, to many organizations and to many individuals. For the protest against the proposed brutality has been world-wide, and it must surely have been heard had not the Hearst newspapers early in the day and with such energy as they possessed taken up the crusade.

RIDING FOR A FALL!

Christmas Is Coming! Begin to Shop Early

By DOROTHY DIX

DON'T realize, beloved sisters, that the Christmas tide is almost upon us, and the joyous season hath arrived wherein we must grapple once more again yet with the Christmas gift problem?

DOROTHY DIX.

Hence I am writing these few lines to urge you to go and do your Christmas shopping right away. Don't put it off. Begin on it to-day, while the shops are comparatively empty, before the salesgirls are worn and harried until they are reduced to bundles of nerves and temper, and while you are still in command of your own sane senses.

Don't put off buying your Christmas gifts until the week before Christmas when you, and a million other women, will be afflicted with Dementia Christmasana, and go running around in circles in the department stores, beating your head up against the counters, and crying out, "What shall I get for my husband, and my son, and my daughter, and my mother, and my father, and my sister, and my brother, and my in-laws—drat 'em, they won't like what I give them, anyway—and for Uncle John, and Aunt Sally, and Cousin Sue, and the people across the street who will send me something, and whom I've got to send something to?" And you won't be able to remember a single fad or fancy, or taste, or inclination, or habit, or occupation of a single human being you know. And you'll go home and have nervous prostration, and give it to the clerks, and wish you had joined the Spugs and saved your money and your clothes and your time and the wear and tear on your disposition.

Now, I am one of those who believe in Christmas giving. It is a joy to the generous to give, and it is salutary for the stingy to be made to give up at least once a year. But the thing that makes Christmas a season of torment and woe and that leaves us feeling as if we had been run through a stone crusher is because we don't begin our preparations in time, and because we don't bring any common sense to bear on the proposition.

Governor Slaton's Service to the State

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE. (From the Columbus [Ga.] Enquirer-Sun.)

The Atlanta Georgian says "Governor Slaton is wise to keep close to the people at State fairs," and continues: "Governor Slaton is rendering timely service to all the people of the State by visiting the various fairs in Georgia, where he can see and be seen, and where he can learn at first hand the actual needs of all the people. It is good for the people to meet the Governor face to face, to tell him what they are thinking about and what are the actual needs of the various communities. Governor Slaton makes his trips at some inconvenience to himself to learn what the people of Georgia need, without pay as a lecturer, and in so doing he is fulfilling one of the most important duties of his high office. A Governor who keeps close to the people can not fail to do his full duty in every emergency." Governor Slaton is making Georgia a good Executive and by visiting different parts of the State and mixing and mingling with the people, learning their ideas and discussing with them the problems with which they are called upon to deal from day to day, he is equipping himself in such way as to make a still better one. We have never had any doubt as to the wisdom of the people of the State in electing him to the office, and we do not anticipate that we shall ever have cause to doubt it. We recall that while he was acting Governor of the State he remarked substantially that the best Governor of a State was the man who would be Governor without the people knowing it.

Some newspapers of Georgia did not like the idea thus expressed, but it struck us as being just about the proper thing. It seemed to us that it was something along that line of thought that the best governed people are those who are least governed. In this connection it is of interest to state that Governor Slaton is not the first Executive to do as he is doing. It will be recalled that after Governor Brown was chosen for his first term and before his inauguration he made a tour of the State, meeting the people and exchanging ideas with them, and discussing matters that were of most interest and importance to them as a whole. Governor Brown did not make a speaking tour at that time but went quietly and unostentatiously, spending a day here and a day there, meeting the people and shaking hands with them. Governor Brown's administration was successful.

Governor Slaton is making no mistake in mixing and mingling with the people of his State, and ascertaining their needs and wishes concerning matters in which they are interested.

.. In-Shoots ..

Suburban paper says George Washington's body servant and the last survivor of the Charge of the Light Brigade have finally died. Sad when thousands of people die at once like this. McCombs accepts the post of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the court of Cupid. Vice President Marshall's seven-pound turnip would stir the envy of a "Mr. Finney." When a man is unable to buy diamonds for his wife, it will help some to praise the biscuits she bakes.

Being a Success as a Husband Know Your Wife and Children--Make the Place Where You Live a Home--Don't Haggle Over Money.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX (Copyright, 1913.)

WHAT are you doing in the line of making a success of yourself as a husband and father? Accumulating a fortune, perhaps? But just how far does that go toward making a satisfactory home life? In this material age and plane of existence, financial independence is necessary for a foundation of a home. There can be little happiness or contentment where there is worry over debt, and where petty economies drive out every impulse toward beauty and growth. But this talk is not meant for the men burdened with such anxieties. It is meant for the myriads of men in comfortable homes, whose wives move in cultured circles and whose children attend good schools and colleges. You who know that these words apply to you are on the witness stand. (To-morrow your wives take the stand.) Just what are you doing to make your home life a success? Are you giving any time to becoming acquainted with your wife or children? What do you know about your children's thoughts, and ideas, and occupations, aside from the report of teachers?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

What do you really know about your wife? If you are leaving her to find pleasure with her friends, providing her with a motor car, and freedom to come and go as she pleases, perhaps it might be well for you to investigate a little further. Motor cars and freedom sometimes lead to "joy riding" with men whose occupation lies in this line. It is all very innocent at first; but familiarity breeds contempt of conventions; and the wife whose husband is too busy to take a few hours each week or a few days in the season to accompany her on her drives, and who feels he is quite liberal and kind in allowing her to take her car and go where she chooses, sometimes lives to find he is walking under the shadow of an ugly scandal. Are you giving your wife an independent purse or check book? Or are you making her ask for every cent she receives and expecting her to account for it afterward? No woman can be happy under such conditions. They are the conditions of a slave. Every wife should have her own purse for her personal uses—for dress, for entertaining friends, for charities. However small the sum agreed upon, she should train herself to live accordingly and she should no more feel called upon to render an exact account of its use than should the husband to account for his daily expenditures.

Unchildish Pleasures Dwarf the Mind

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED Author of "The Etiquette of New York To-Day."

IN these days there is too much bewilderment in a variety of amusements and great danger in confusing pleasure with excitement and making it a pursuit. No matter what the cost may be, in health, time or money, pleasure is pursued with a sustained effort and energy worthy of better aims, and in spite of difficulties, obstacles and dangers to life and, it may be said, to manners and morals. For with this rage for amusement has come the temptation to lower moral standards. This seems to be the besetting sin of society. It afflicts the younger generation as well as the older. In fact, the danger is especially to the young people. Youth is the time for gaining ideals, fixing standards. Parents can give an enduring happiness to their children by keeping them unhampered by too many pleasures, too many opportunities, too much theater going, too many rushing trips abroad, too lavish an expenditure of money.

Unchildish pleasures really dwarf the mind, the will and the emotions. There is no reason why children should see many plays, even though the plays may be fairly unobjectionable, or that they should have the indulgence of very extravagant clothes, even if these can be afforded, or that they should speed with their parents through foreign countries in a motor and fancy they have seen all there is to be seen in the world. Pleasure in simple amusements can be easily cultivated and will prove a blessing through life. An attraction in character is to keep the eager, unspoiled sweetness of heart that finds enjoyment in simple things. Innocent pleasures mean much to everyone. The right use of pleasure, not the abuse of it, will make the proper balance in life. The search for the startling, the sensational, the extravagant and novel is the order of the day. Amusements have lost spontaneity. They are planned too far ahead. Another thing that is ruinous to recreation is competition.

Competitive games of tennis, for instance, which are exhausting physically, are injurious. The true significance of amusement is not to provoke contest, but to give ease, delight and a free heart. The wish to excel others or to win prizes has no place in real recreation. "Do you think it wrong to make bets with men?" asked a girl recently. Betting is a form of gambling, a chance of winning something by the losses of others, and is a decided lowering of right standards. The high-minded girl will lay down the simple laws for herself that bets or card playing for money shall never be indulged in. She can be gentle but firm in saying, "No." She may suffer by being ridiculed, but she will not relinquish her ideals of right. When she has gained the power to say "No" to any tempting suggestion of which conscience disapproves, she will have solved perplexities for herself and may have a force of example which will persuade others.

Letters From Readers of The Georgian

A PUBLIC DEFENDER. Editor The Georgian: In my opinion the very interesting suggestions of Mr. E. A. Jones, appearing in your issue of Saturday, relative to County Attorneys, might be added to in the following respects with great benefit to our procedure, the enforcement of law, and the proper protection of our people: In abolishing the present office of Solicitor General with its too large field of several counties, let there be in each county instead not only a Public Prosecutor, but a Public Defender as well. This would assure every person accused of crime an equal opportunity with the State of making proper presentation of his case in the trial court. Then let it be further provided that should the defendant engage additional counsel that the State engage similar assistance at an expense equal to that of the defendant, the cost of this additional counsel on both sides to be paid by the losing party, that is, by the State if the defendant is acquitted, and by the defendant if he is convicted. Thus again would equality be assured, in so far as possible, between the State and the defendant in the presentation of their cases, and the tremendous advantage enjoyed by the wealthy criminal under our present procedure would be done away with. This system would inevitably abolish in the trial of important criminal cases, many of the delays encountered at present. It would work justice in making the guilty person pay the added cost of his own conviction, and in relieving the innocently accused of the burden of expense he is now invariably forced to bear in establishing his innocence. Both prosecutor and defender should, of course, receive equal compensation, and when the defendant desired additional attorneys he should be required to make a good bond to the State to indemnify it against such additional cost should he be convicted. The counsel engaged by defendants should be required to make affidavit as to the amount of their compensation. STEPHEN TIGHE, Atlanta, Ga.

be the delight of the drivers to torture their teams as much as possible. Evidently there is no S. P. C. A. in this city, but it seems there ought to be some way of punishing these drivers. Another thing I have noticed is that there are no public drinking troughs as in other big cities, and I have actually seen the teams trying to drink from mud puddles along the street. If there were some way of imposing a fine for the unnecessary beating of the animals the city would soon collect enough money to provide watering troughs all over the city. It seems that our good friends at the head of the Men and Religion Forward Movement could use their time and influence to a good advantage here as much as in some other things they are worrying about. HUMANE.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS. Editor The Georgian: I have read with much interest the editorials of the Hearst papers and fully realize the influence they carry, and it is for that reason I am bringing this matter to your attention. For the past two months I have been in Atlanta and have been very much surprised to find such ill treatment of horses and mules here. There is no other city in the United States that would tolerate the cruelty that is inflicted on teams in Atlanta. To fully realize this it is only necessary to stand on Marietta street or any busy street and listen to the cracking of the whips which, if you did not see, would lead you to believe that the battle of Atlanta was still going on, and you will find that nearly every mule is covered with welts from its hind quarters to its ears. Some I have seen with the flesh cut by the whip. If they were balky or stubborn there would be some excuse for this, but these negro drivers just lay the whip on continually when the teams are doing their very best. It seems to me that the drivers are doing their best to make the teams as comfortable as possible. I have been intensely pained by the recent Atlanta agitation against locker clubs and near-beer saloons. I have lived in every part of the country and have experienced conditions in cities where the sale of liquor was uncurbed, where it was sold unrestrictedly, where its sale was absolutely prohibited on the law books. Under present conditions in Atlanta, I believe, the city has come very near to solving this perplexed question. There is less drunkenness here than in any city I have ever visited. There is less political corruption here as a result of the whisky trade than in any city I know. Then why change these conditions? Respectfully, P. O. F.
