so far as the cruelties of the dungeon are alleged. "Of course, there are some bad characters out there who have to be dealt with severely at times to keep them under control, but I have never witnessed or heard the prisoners discuss any of the cruelties which some of the men have alleged occurred there," he said.

"While the food has improved since the mutiny, this is not saying too much for it, although I think the real kick on it would be in the cooking," said Levens. "With just a little more care it could be made much better. The quantity is small, awfully small, and if the prisoners had hard work to do they could not exist on it. But there is no hard work for them. My last meal there was dinner Thursday. It consisted of a meat ball about as big as my fist, some bread and water. The ball was made of scraps of meat, chopped up and cooked with flour.

"When a man's condition is not the best, they endeavor to care for him. For instance, I have been on a light diet for the last ten days. This consisted of oatmeal and milk three times a day. So far as my physical condition is concerned, I have gained 34 pounds during my stay at the prison. "During the past week more than a hundred of the prisoners have begged me to call up The Georgian as soon as I was released and tell them of the conditions there.

"The guards refused to allow me to tell my friends the conditions in the custom to present prisoners leaving the penitentiary at this time of the year with an overcoat. I made request for one, as I knew my penniless condition would not permit me buying one, but it was refused.

"The greatest trouble at the penitentiary is the lack of discipline. Warden Moyer has undoubtedly run his day, and the prisoners and guards alike have no respect for him. If I could give him any advice it would be to resign. "Levens was sentenced to eighteen months for violating the bankruptcy laws. Three months was allowed him for the time spent in jail and an additional three months for good behavior. He operated a store at Cullman, Ala., residing there for six years prior to his conviction. He returned to his old home in Carrollton, Ga., where he resided until his removal to Cullman.

COLLIER SAYS HIS BROTHERS CHEATED HIM

Taking of Testimony in $450,000 Will Suit Begins in Superior Court.

The taking of testimony in the suit of Sanford G. Collier against his brothers, John W. and George W. Collier, executors of the $450,000 estate of their father, Wesley G. Collier, in which he seeks to obtain $45,000 which he claims is his rightful and legal interest in the estate, was begun before a jury in Judge W. D. Ellis' division of the Superior Court Friday.

Sanford Collier, the plaintiff in the case, occupied the stand during the greater part of the morning session of the court, and reiterated the sensational charges he made against his brothers when the case was first started several years ago. At that time a judge of the Superior Court sustained a demurrer against him and he carried the suit to the Supreme Court, which reversed the decision of the lower court and remanded the case back for a jury trial.

Collier charges that his brothers, taking advantage of his ignorance of land values, deceived him as to the value of his one-tenth interest in the estate and bought his share for $17,000, of which only $5,000 was in cash. Of the remaining $12,000, he asserted, $3,000 was in a certain acre of land, and the rest in long time notes that bore no interest. He sold his interest, he declared, when he was penniless as the result of dissipation and a business failure.

He charged also that when he found he was penniless he asked his brothers for a loan, and that they refused to let him have it. Later, he said, they offered to purchase his interest in their father's estate, and he charges that they tricked him into selling also his share of his mother's estate, which he tried to claim when she died. His brothers, he charged, kept him in ignorance of the value of the land belonging to the estate, and told him it was worth practically nothing.

The land in question was 500 acres located between Buckhead and Peachtree Creek. Sanford Collier charges that before they bought his interest his brothers sold some of the land for $2,000, without informing him of the transaction, and later sold the balance of the property for $375,000.

Hooray! Baby to Rule the House

No Longer Do Women Fear the Greatest of All Human Blessings.

It is a joy and comfort to know that those much-talked-of pains and other distresses that are said to precede child-bearing may easily be avoided. No woman need fear the slightest discomfort if she will fortify herself with the well-known and time-honored remedy, "Mother's Friend."

This is a most grateful, penetrating, external application that at once softens and makes pliant the abdominal muscles and ligaments. They naturally expand without the slightest strain, and thus not only avoid all tendency to nervous, twitching spells, but there is an entire freedom from nausea, discomfort, sleeplessness and dread that so often leave their impress upon the babe.

The occasion is therefore one of unbounded, joyful anticipation, and too much stress can not be laid upon the remarkable influence which a mother's happy, peaceful disposition has upon the health and fortunes of the generation to come.

Mother's Friend is recommended only for the relief and comfort of expectant mothers, thousands of whom have used it and recommend it. You will find it on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle. Write to-day to the Bradford Regulator Co., 130 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a most instructive book on this greatest of all subjects—motherhood.

Tucker attacked a number of denominations in expounding a doctrine of happiness that does not recognize a hereafter.

WOMAN BETRAYS GOTHAM POLICE GRAFT PLOT

Wire-Tappers' League Scandal Rivaling Becker Case, Said to Involve Two High Officials.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Revelations made by a woman have betrayed a big wire-tapping graft plot here in which at least two high police officials figure, and hundreds of thousands of dollars are said to be involved. A scandal more startling than that centering about Lieutenant Becker is expected to develop.

The woman accuses the high police officials of having worked in league with the wire tappers, who themselves have made confession, in which they name two prominent members of the New York department.

The scandal first became known outside the District Attorney's office, when Captain Dominick Riley, known as the "honest cop," retired from the department on a pension of $1,200 a year. Heart disease was given as the cause of the retirement.

Right after his retirement Riley received a subpoena from District Attorney Whitman to go before the Grand Jury and tell what he knows of the wire-tapping graft.

Whitman, it was learned to-day, has positive evidence that on civilian police official received $2,500 a month from the wire tappers and 5 per cent of the proceeds of their swindle. Another official received 10 per cent. Several of the wire tappers have confessed.

Among these is George McRae, who was arrested in Los Angeles because of a wire-tapping scheme, by which S. R. Jones, of Pittsburg, lost $20,000.

UNION MEN FIGHT ARBITRATION ON CANAL

Preposterous for U. S. to Recognize England in Regulation of Internal Affairs, Is Urged.

SEATTLE, WASH., Nov. 14.—Taking up the consideration of resolutions previously introduced, the delegates to the American Federation of Labor got down to the hard grind of routine business after being called to order this morning. These resolutions urge new and startling innovations both in the Federal constitution, the work of the Government and in other existing conditions.

A bitter fight is being waged against arbitration with Great Britain on the Panama Canal question. The resolution on the arbitration question takes the stand that to submit the question of America's right to regulate its own internal affairs to an arbitration board of foreigners would be preposterous.

Georgia Ostrich Flock To Be Feature Of Poultry Show

Here's a new feature of the Southern International Poultry Association show. It's ostriches. Secretary Poole is in communication with some of the big Georgia farms for a fine ostrich exhibit, and it is safe to say that they will be the biggest birds ever shown at a poultry show. Some of them are so husky that they drive to harness and there will probably be parades and races while they are here.

Plans are also being laid for a number of freak exhibits, one of the most remarkable of which will be a cross between a guinea and Rhode Island Red hen. In addition to these unusual features, letters are pouring in from leading regular poultry fanciers not only in Georgia, but all over the country, promising birds for entry and also for exhibition purposes.

Some of the most famous birds in the world will be shown here at the Auditorium, December 1 to 6. Attention is called to the fact that all entries will close by midnight October 21.

Fireman Shows His Bravery When Blaze Attacks Own Home

John Rosetti, a fireman of No. 7 Engine Company, in West End, had an opportunity to make a personal application of his experience as a fire-fighter early Friday morning when he led the fight against the flames which threatened his home at No. 151 Oak street. The firemen kept the blaze in the roof and small damage was done.

The fire is supposed to have originated from sparks from the chimney. It was discovered by Mrs. Rosetti, who telephoned an alarm to No. 7 company, and then carried her three children, one of them a baby, from the burning house.

Rosetti lives only about four blocks from the fire station and started on a run for his home before the horses were attached to the apparatus, when the captain shouted the address of his home. He had climbed upon the roof and was fighting the fire single handed when his fellow firemen arrived.

are pale and frail—backward in studies—with pinched faces and poor blood—their minds and bodies are actually starved because their regular food does not nourish.

Such children need Scott's Emulsion above everything else; it contains nature's rarest life-giving fats; it is essentially food value—blood-food and bone-food, free from wine, alcohol or harmful drug.

The opportunity you're offered now doesn't come often. Seldom do you participate in genuine reductions on high class wearables at this season of the year, and were not conditions just as they are with us, certainly we, too, would not offer them at reduced prices.

Our feeling in the matter would nearer prompt us to apologize rather than gloat over the fact of reducing prices in midseason—it's a little unethical, to say the least—and only extenuating circumstances, you may be sure, make it necessary. The necessity for it, however, is evident, and the shrewd and unsketched are profiting immensely.

A delightful love story strangely interwoven with enchanting Indian legend. A fascinating picture of Revolutionary War times, charming ladies, gay officers and hardy woodsmen. Robert W. Chambers, in a newer, more brilliant vein, has written a novel which critics say is a masterpiece.

Howard Chandler Christy's facile brush pictures a bewitching heroine. The illustrations seem veritably to have caught the vivacious spirit of the tale. Don't fail to read this story in the current issue of

SPENCER SILENT ON STAND; CASE NEAR JURY

'Late Again, Old Turtle-Toes,' His Greeting to Judge—Women Leave as He Raves.

WHEATON, ILL., Nov. 14.—The case of Henry Spencer, confessed multi-murderer, will probably go to the jury this afternoon and a verdict is expected before night.

Taking testimony by both sides ended abruptly after Spencer himself had been placed on the stand in his own defense. He answered the first question asked by his own attorney by saying: "My name is Jean Valjean." To every other question asked him he answered: "I don't know."

The "tango murderer" began his abuse of the court lawyers and spectators at the reopening of his trial today for the murder of Mildred Allison-Rexroat. Spencer's attitude became so menacing that many women left the courtroom.

Shortly after court reopened the State rested its case, much to the surprise of the defense.

"Late again, old turtle-toes," shouted Spencer as Judge Slusser ascended the bench. "Forty-five minutes behind time. What's the odds? Time was made for slaves."

Again, when Attorney Zeman, who was responsible for the delay, entered the courtroom, Spencer howled: "Want to quit your job, eh, you SOB?"

Recognizes Death Hammer.

W. V. Hoff, Coroner of Dupage County, was the first witness of the day. As the witness went to the stand Prosecutor Hadley began opening a package.

"There's the hammer," excitedly whispered a woman sitting near Spencer.

"Yes, that's the little thing I used to keep women's mouths shut," said Spencer, waving his hands at the crowd. Prosecutor Hadley then opened the package, which contained the famous hammer found close to where Mrs. Rexroat was killed and with which Spencer claims he had killed more than a dozen women.

Coroner Hoff testified that Spencer had identified and described the hammer as his.

Wants Hammer Admitted.

"I didn't show Spencer the hammer, but asked him if he lost one. He said, 'Yes.' He told me he had broken the hammer while breaking open a slot machine and had wrapped the handle with twine."

Attorney Zeman objected to the admission of the hammer as evidence. Judge Slusser overruled the objection. Spencer leaped to his feet again.

"Let it go in, judge. Get half a dozen hammers. The jury wants to look at my hammer. They know all about it, anyway; let it go in," yelled Spencer.

W. & A. Shops Close Down for Funeral of Deihl, Old Foreman

The entire shops of the Western and Atlantic Railroad closed down Friday morning for the funeral services of George A. Deihl, general foreman of the plant and for 45 years an employee of the road, who died Wednesday at his home, No. 62 Woodward avenue.

Headed by M. L. Collier, master mechanic at the shops, more than 500 men marched to the home of the deceased to view the remains at 9:30 o'clock, after which they fell in behind the funeral procession to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, where funeral services were held, the Rev. Father O. N. Jackson officiating. There were 350 white men and nearly 200 negroes in the church as a touching tribute to the late general foreman. They occupied the entire middle section of the auditorium.

Following the ceremony, interment took place in Westview. The funeral was in charge of P. J. Bloomfield.

AUTOIST IS FINED FOR RUNNING DOWN GIRL

R. E. Brehm was fined $50.75 by Recorder Broyles Thursday afternoon for running down Miss Mary Hughes with an automobile several weeks ago. Miss Hughes was in bed for several weeks as a result of the accident and the case was postponed a number of times on this account.

Brehm's bond was declared forfeited at one time, but at the insistence of his employer, Otto B. Dingelhof, who owned the machine, that Brehm's non-appearance was due to a misunderstanding of the date of trial, the order to forfeit was withdrawn and a new date set.

Miss Hughes was struck while crossing Peachtree street at Pryor and Forsyth. Brehm narrowly escaped punishment at the hands of a crowd which quickly gathered.

The case against R. W. Caldwell, who ran down and killed little Johnny Elsie at Peachtree and Ivy streets, was dismissed, Recorder Broyles holding that according to the evidence the accident was unavoidable. "This is a sad and regrettable tragedy," said the Recorder. "The accident from the testimony was unavoidable. There is no evidence to the contrary."

The Why of Detroit

The supremacy of Automobile Manufacturing in America is Detroit's by a big majority.

Millions of dollars pour into her coffers every year from this one industry.

Skilled workmen flock by thousands to the opportunities she offers.

The payrolls from her factories are making Detroit one of the richest of America's rich cities.

How did she do it? The answer is found in the attitude of Detroit's citizens toward Detroit's FIRST Auto factories.

Those Michigan folks were willing to be convinced that Detroit could make as good joy wagons as were made anywhere.

They talked them---they tried them---they bought them.

Now, it's not such a long jump from the things in which we like to ride to things in which we have to walk.

Shoe manufacturing is a new industry in this section. Atlanta is the pioneer.

We sell only made-in-Atlanta shoes for Men and Boys. You'll be proud of the style, quality and finish of them.

Our connection with this right-at-home factory gives us the most efficient fitting service in Atlanta.

We don't ask you to buy a pair of Atlanta-made shoes through patriotism; we would like you to come by and look them over. If you find just the style you like, try them on; if they fit perfectly, try them out. That's all.

Big Day for the Girls and Boys --- Bring Them in To Be Fitted

'LITTLE WOMEN' WINS HUMAN APPEAL

Excellent Cast Backed by Superb Stage Management Seen in Alcott Production.

By TARLETON COLLIER.

About this play, "Little Women," first of all, there was probably never dramatized so conscientiously as the one who staged Louisa Alcott's book. The conversation is the conversation of the story. There are the same gestures, the identical caresses. There was never a producer, nor costume so scrupulous, and the atmosphere of the story is portrayed truthfully. And with it all the play as presented in the Atlanta Theater Thursday evening, is surpassingly well acted.

So that you see just what you had hoped and expected, if you are one of the persons who have read the story, and who go to the play to find out what the stage people have done with it. There is proper Meg, and good-fellow, winning Jo, and little Beth and artificial Amy. In the concluding act, portrayed by young women who are most sympathetic.

Particularly Jo. Now and then there may be a bit of the ingenueness weakness about the others. But always there is the robust personality of Miss Margery Taylor, as Jo, a very proper Jo, to assure you that things are all right.

Lines of Book Used. The play is in four acts, taking up the arrival of the telegram to Marmee, telling that Father March is ill in Washington, John Brook's courtship of Meg, Laurie's courtship of Jo, the advent of Professor Bhaer, the death of Beth, and the winning of Jo by the lovable German on Plumfield Farm.

As the book, the play is a chronicle of the March girls. You can well imagine that the lines of the book lend themselves well to sympathetic laughs and tears. It is in all a very human sort of thing, over which the women of the audience may shamelessly, even proudly, cry.

"Little Women," with the substantial support of a story that is known and loved everywhere, is a triumphant success, the exception among these simple family-chronicle plays. It is a wholesome sort of moral tonic, although, naturally, it has a sweetness that might be found cloying after a while.

Even in "Little Women" there is an imperceptible sort of lagging toward the end. The first act superb, merely with its picture of the girls, the second must depend on its love story, the third on its plaintive appeal in the death of Beth, and in the fourth you catch the first premonition of the cloying. But it is merely a premonition, and never is realized. The play ends with a grand ensemble, something after the manner of the old, old plays.

Cast Is Capable. The cast is capable. Margaret Dills as Mrs. March, Eleanor Garrey as Aunt March, Gavin Harris as Mr. Lawrence, Thel Cunningham as Hannah Mullett are by turns pleasing, admirable, excellent in the parts of the older folks.

Max Juergens is a convincing Professor Bhaer, and is true to the type of lovable old scholar that Miss Alcott drew. George M. Clark is a winsome Laurie, except when he is too serious, and C. C. Gwynne is good as John Brook.

Lucy Cotton plays Meg, Margery Taylor is Jo, Virginia Sprague is Beth, and Elaine Benton is the Amy. The charm of the play depends, naturally, most upon the girls, and to say that there is little wanting there is to say much for their work, because much is demanded of them.

An audience too small for the deserts of the play saw it Thursday night. Matinees will be given Friday and Saturday, and performances Friday and Saturday nights.

Big Audiences See Bill at Forsyth. Matinee and night performances today and Saturday will conclude the engagement of the vaudeville artists who make up the program at the Forsyth this week. There has been a wide difference of opinion as to the merit of the bill, but the theater has been crowded at the daily matinee, and night performances all the week, and there has been applause and laughter for all the acts.

The Nine White Hussars win a big hit with their and vocal numbers, and Ed Reynard scores tremendously in his ventriloquist novelty. For next week the headliner will be Charles Graesslin and Anna Chance and their company in a vaudeville edition of "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp."

A meeting of the men of the Second Baptist Church will be held in the Sunday school building Friday at 7:30 p. m. to complete plans for the coming year.

Floyd W. McRae, Jr., of Atlanta, was elected vice president of the Georgia Association at Johns Hopkins University at its annual banquet and election in Baltimore recently.

Lindsay Hopkins, an automobile dealer, has reported the theft of his car to the police. Mr. Hopkins said that the machine, which is a 1914 Overland, was taken from in front of the Candler Building. Its number is 17570.

The entire Seventeenth United States Infantry Band will furnish the music at the dance to be given by the Regimental Social Club at Fort McPherson Friday night. The music will start at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

Members of the Inman Park Presbyterian Church will hold a mock suffrage parade and debate at the church Friday night, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Admission is free. An offering will be taken up for the benefit of the Sunday school library.

Virgil O. Strickler, a member of the board of trustees of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass., will give a lecture on Christian Science at the Lyric Theater Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The lecture is to be under the auspices of the Atlanta Christian Science Church. No admission will be charged.

An indication of the unparalleled prosperity and importance of Georgia is seen by State Treasurer W. J. Speer in the fact that Indiana, one of the richest and most populous States in the Union, has been forced to pay for a temporary loan nearly double the rate of interest exacted from this State. Indiana recently borrowed $400,000 from bankers in Indianapolis, and is paying 5 1/2 per cent, while Georgia borrowed $45,000 last summer and is paying only 2 per cent.

The corn show committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has under consideration a plan to offer a prize to the Georgia county that shows the greatest yield of corn this year, provided the yield is sufficient for the needs of the county and there is no necessity for sending out of the county for more grain. The prize will be the result of information given to the committee Thursday by Chairman H. G. Hastings, who has just returned from a trip to Fayette County.

The local offices of the Southern Express Company received notice Friday morning of the re-election of G. W. Leary, of New York, as president of the company, at the annual meeting in Savannah Thursday. C. B. Loop, of Chattanooga, was elected vice president; J. H. Tilley, of New York, secretary-treasurer; J. B. Hockaday, of Atlanta, general manager; G. W. Leary, C. L. Loop, M. P. Plant, J. H. Tilley, O. M. Sadler, F. C. Sullivan and George L. Shearer were elected directors.

Judson C. Clements of Georgia will not be reappointed as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission by President Wilson, according to information received in Atlanta Friday morning. It is understood that the President refused to consider the Georgian as a member of the Commission because of his age, and the President's desire to have no more than 70 years of age in the executive departments. It is understood that Judge Clements' place will be filled by Governor R. B. Glenn, of North Carolina.

Plans to form a telephone and telegraph society in Atlanta are being formulated by a committee organized at a "get-together meeting," held at the Hotel Ansley Thursday night by 300 employees of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, the Chamberland Telephone Company, the Western Union Telegraph Company, the Western Electric Company and the American Electric Telegraph Company. Another meeting is planned for the near future, when officers will be elected and the society formally organized. A Dutch supper was served to the telephone men Thursday night, and a vaudeville performance enlivened the affair.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's For One Thing Only, and Atlanta People Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only.

For weak or disordered kidneys.

Here is Atlanta evidence to prove their worth.

J. C. Swinney, 89 Pearl St., Atlanta, Ga., says: "During the past three years I have not had any trouble from my kidneys and back. I owe my freedom from kidney ailments to Doan's Kidney Pills. When I began taking this remedy, I was suffering intensely, but it soon restored me to good health."

Mr. Swinney is only one of many Atlanta people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Swinney had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Ursery, in Jail, Says He Will Tell Wife Truth About Poison

HAZLEHURST, Nov. 14.—Patrick Ursery, in jail at Baxley, accused of putting poison in flour from which biscuits were made for the family of J. G. Rose, his father-in-law, to-day declared that he will tell his wife the truth and that if he is guilty she will forsake him. Ursery acknowledges having purchased strychnine—the poison alleged to have been placed in the flour. Samples of the flour will be taken to the State Board of Health's laboratory in Atlanta on Monday by Dr. Girtman, of this city, for analysis. Mrs. Ursery went to Baxley to-day to see her husband in the jail there and hear his statement.

QUICKLY STOPS WORST BACKACHE

Makes Kidney, Bladder Disorders and Rheumatic Pains Vanish.

If you suffer with backaching kidney trouble; have disagreeable bladder and urinary disorders, or are tortured with rheumatism, stiff joints and heart-wrenching pains, you will be surprised how quickly and surely Croxone will relieve all such misery. It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up organs, neutralizes, dissolves, and makes the kidneys sift out and filter away the uric acid and poisons from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and urinary organs clean, strong, active and healthy.

It matters not how long you have suffered; how old you are, or what you have tried. It is practically impossible to take Croxone without results, for it starts to work the minute you take it.

If you suffer with pains in the back or sides; if you are nervous, tired and run down; bothered with urinary disorders, or have any signs of kidney, bladder troubles or rheumatism, don't spend another needless day suffering. Secure an original package of Croxone to-day, and prove for yourself right now, as thousands of others have done, just how quickly it will end your misery.

Croxone is inexpensive, and every druggist is authorized to return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.—Adv.

Suit Day for "Little Women"

$36.50 to $42.50 Junior Suits .. $29.75 $30.00 to $35.00 Junior Suits $25.00

NOTE---This Sale Will Be Held in the Junior Department, Third Floor.

It may be that you have in the rush of fall events put off the buying of daughter's suit. If so, now comes her reward and a saving for you. The charmingest suits that the Junior Department---third floor---boasts make this an occasion extraordinary.

Of such suits are the fashions!

Velvets, broadcloths, velours de laine, matelasses, eponges, mixtures. Most of them have a touch of fur about the collar, which sometimes buttons close and again is open.

There are one-button coats, cut away, belted coats, coats with yokes and kimono sleeves, skirts draped in graceful lines, usually they are the "peg top" effect.

It is a sale that does not always come so early in the season---indeed, the vogue for velvet suits is growing every day---still they are reduced.

A fine opportunity.

Girls' $1.00 and $1.25 Dresses 89c

Sizes 6 to 14 years. A fine time to buy enough to last until the low-neck and short-sleeve season comes again. Gingham and percales, plaids, checks, stripes, figures, light and dark colors; piped, button trimmed. Long-waisted. Note how neatly they are made!

Infants' $1.15 and $1.25 Caps 89c

Of silk and laces and ribbons in almost equal proportions making a very "sweet" whole. Yes, they are winter caps, interlined, and with these go the 75c caps at 50c. Some very "frilly," others plain silk.

Many Girls' Coats Now $5.00, were $6.50

Sizes 6 to 14 years. We claim superiority for the coats regularly priced at $5.00.

We specialized on that price. That the specialization was effective has been demonstrated to many mothers.

For to-morrow, however, we have added a number of coats that were $6.50—zibelines, chinchillas, kerseys, mixtures, browns, blues and grays, belted backs and plain—as smart as they are serviceable.

Children's Coats Now $5.00

Sizes 2 to 6 years. Many of these were $5.95. Boucles, mixtures, black velveteens, little full of warmth affairs in very pretty styles.

Gloves? These Are the BEST Kinds

The Solitaire at $1.00—the finest glove we have ever seen for $1.00; 2-clasp; Paris-point stitching.

PROSPERITY OF SOUTH IS PROVED BY TREMENDOUS AUTOMOBILE SHOW SALES

With only two days of Atlanta's big Automobile Show remaining, all of the dealers and sales managers were back on the job at the Auditorium early Friday to take advantage of every minute left.

They had passed through a strenuous experience the night before when the society folk of the city had stormed them in numbers and had kept every available man busy explaining the intricacies of the various cars.

Although "society night" had promised to be the big night of the entire show, interest seemed not at all diminished when the exhibition reopened Friday. Many persons were awaiting the final days of the show before deciding upon their cars for the year. A number of dealers wished to give the matter considerable thought and as a result there was more of a rush to sign contracts for the year during the latter part of the exhibition than at first.

Thursday night was unmistakably the brightest and gayest night of the show. Society was out in its prettiest. A brilliant spectacle was presented by the beautiful gowns and sparkling gems of the women. The aisles were filled the greater part of the evening with people passing back and forth in their inspection of the new models.

Sousa claimed his due attention. Hundreds crowded to the front of the Auditorium while his concerts were in progress. Many, however, continued looking at the latest products of the auto designers' skill. They had come to get a comprehensive idea of what was new in motordom and they were not going to have their attention distracted by music even if it was played by the most famous band in the United States.

Some of the fair visitors at the show "put it over" on the committee. Boxes had been placed on sale for all who wished to sit throughout the program and listen to Sousa. But what was the use of sitting away back in one of the boxes when there were scores of luxuriously cushioned automobiles right out on the floor?

A smile to one of the susceptible sales managers—or, at the most, a little coaxing—and the doors of electric coupes, town-cars and limousines were swung open to the young women and they sat entrenched until Sousa had finished his concert.

Society Leaders Out.

Among the well-known folks noted in attendance were Dr. and Mrs. Phinizy Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meador, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson, Mrs. Wessels, Mrs. Burwell Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Sims Bray, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mobley, Mrs. J. B. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. C. Pedler, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Manson, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. John Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Candler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Candler, Mr. and Mrs. William Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dorsey, Mrs. A. W. Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Martin, and their guest, Miss Alice Martin, Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. Colquitt Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Broyles, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Devlin, and their guest, Mrs. Muggert, of South Carolina; Mrs. Calhoun Hill, of

In the way of sales, society night was the most productive of the entire show. The most prominent people of the city were represented at the exhibition and they evidently had come primarily for the purpose of purchasing their 1914 cars. Many of the dealers sold more cars than they had expected to dispose of during the whole show. All of them took a gratifying number of "prospects" from which some sales will result.

The number of out-of-town dealers reached the high mark, if the number of contracts signed up for 1914 is an indication. Alabama, Florida and South Carolina were nearly as well represented as was Georgia outside of Atlanta. Everyone agreed that the South was in its most prosperous condition for years and that the automobile business for 1914 was assured.

From every point come stories of an unprecedented demand for new cars. Families which never before had felt able to invest in an automobile now were touched by the prosperity that is spreading over the South and were eager to buy a machine and insisted that it must be a good one.

Geldert Big Factor In Success of Show.

Much of the success of Atlanta's Automobile Show has been due to one who is not an automobile man at all. He is Howard Geldert. Mr. Geldert is in the insurance business with the Coke Davis firm in the Grant Building.

He was drawn into some of the managerial work in last year's show and was incautious enough to show his hand. He was a complex, extraordinary ability along this line. As a result, when this year's show maneuvered and forced to serve as a sort of charge d'affaires.

"I guess my friends think I have gone out of the insurance business," he said Friday, "but I will be back at the old stand next Monday."

Risk Concern Sued on Blood Poison Death

Whether death by blood poisoning, caused by the tearing of a hangnail from a finger, can be classed as accidental is being decided by a jury in the City Court.

Mrs. Sarah Irene Weathers, No. 105 Park avenue, is suing the Aetna Life Insurance Company, seeking to collect $7,500 on an accident insurance policy issued to her husband, William M. Weathers.

The insurance company contends that Weathers tore the hangnail from his finger intentionally.

The train will then proceed to East Point, where inspections will be made of the plants of the White Hickory Buggy Company, the Dixie Metal Calt's Automobile Show has been due to one who is not an automobile man at all. He is Howard Geldert. Mr. Geldert is in the insurance business with the Coke Davis firm in the Grant Building.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—John D. Rockefeller's dollars have for once failed to get him what he wants.

City Forced to Waive Test of Firemen

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Nov. 14.—An unexpected situation developed when the new commission form of government in this city went into effect. According to the terms of the new constitution, all applicants for positions in the police and fire departments were required to take examinations.

Owing to the fact that a number of firemen had tendered their resignations the city suddenly found itself without protection, and to relieve the situation the civil service commissioners were forced to waive the examination.

NEALL LOSES HIS HOSPITAL FIGHT

The injunction sought by Dr. J. H. Neall, 237 Gordon street, West End, restraining the city through its Chief of Police from interfering with the operation of a private sanitarium in the doctor's residence, which was denied by Judge Bell, was disposed of permanently Friday by a decision of the Supreme Court affirming the lower tribunal.

Neall had been operating in his home a sort of sanitarium within the meaning of the city ordinances, but without a city permit. Chief Beavers proceeded against him, and Neall was fined $100 by Recorder Broyles. He carried the case to the Superior Court, and pending its adjudication there, Neall was threatened with further police court interference. He sought relief by injunction against the police department, but was denied by Judge Bell. From this decision he appealed to the Court of Review.

This leaves the original case still undisposed of, but it gives the police department the right to make cases again Neall every day if in its judgment that seems necessary.

Neall, however, has moved from West End.

Girls' High School Suffers From Cold

Poor heating facilities at the Girls' High School, blamed for much discomfort on cold days, will cause the Board of Education to make an appeal to Council for $15,000 for a modern heating system.

"We are helpless as the situation stands," said Walter R. Daley, president of the board. "We have no money and no means of getting any except through Council. Atlanta can not afford to allow the young women who are attending the Girls' High School to suffer."

Five Products-Day Dinners in DeKalb.

On "Georgia Products Day," Tuesday, DeKalb County will lead all Georgia counties, for she will have five dinners all in progress at the same time and at different places.

Aside from the Decatur spread, special dinners will be enjoyed at Kirkwood, Clarkston, Stone Mountain and Lithonia. In Decatur Congressman Howard will make a speech, as will Judge Nash R. Broyles.

The menu for Decatur, 6 p. m., November 18, will read something like this:

"East Lake" Oyster Cocktail
"Panthersville" Turkey
"Peavine Creek" Celery
"Inglewood" Candied Yams
"Georgia" Lye Hominy
"DeKalb" Persimmon Beer
"Decatur Spirit" Coffee
"Silver Lake" Ice Cream
"Brookhaven" Cake.

Georgia Dinner Tickets Being Sold Fast

They Cost $2 Each, But One Entitles Holder to a "Feed" Worth $5.

Every Atlantan who intends to be present at the 1,000-plate Georgia dinner, to be given next Tuesday evening at the Auditorium under Chamber of Commerce auspices, had better hurry to Cone's Whitehall street drug store, or Eikin's drug store, at Five Points, and get his ticket. If he waits too long there may not be any ticket there.

These tickets are limited in number. They are not like any other tickets that were ever issued for a banquet, because like the dinner itself, they are not designed to make money for anybody or even to pay expenses, but simply to spread the fame of Georgia products. The result is that each ticket is worth a whole lot more than its face value.

Many of the supplies for the dinner have been donated free and while the ticket costs $2, the meal itself is one that could not be served for $5 a plate. In addition, each dinner ticket has a long string of coupons entitling the holder to a number of articles free, which total up in value almost equal to the cost of the ticket. A pair of socks, a glass of jelly, a box of crackers and several other practical and useful articles are included in it.

These tickets are going like hot cakes. Several hundred of them have been placed in the hands of the members of the City Salesmen's Association, thanks to the kindness of President Simmons, and these active Atlanta boosters are selling them right and left.

The Chamber of Commerce members can get tickets as long as they last by writing direct to Ivan Allen at the Chamber of Commerce and in closing check. No discrimination, however, is being shown. This is a dinner for everybody and as long as there are any tickets left to sell some of them will be on sale at the two public stations.

Nothing the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has instituted in recent years has excited more enthusiasm than this dinner. The decorations will be the finest ever seen at the Auditorium. There will be a brass band and the speakers include Governor Slaton, Mayor Woodward and Fuller E. Callaway. Albert Howell, Jr., will be toastmaster.

It Isn't What You Used To Be--What Are You Grabbing Now?

IN HIS HOWLY PICKS GEORGIA TO DEFEAT TECH

JACKETS' ONLY HOPE WILL BE IN OPEN PLAYS

Red and Black Better Team at Straight Game--Long Runs May Beat Athenians.

By Innis Brown.
(Famous Football Official.)
OVER the proper setting for the battle, it has been definitely settled that the Georgia-Tech football game is to be a reality. Furthermore, said reality will develop within a very short time or to be exact, on Saturday afternoon at Grant Park, under the guidance of evidence having been submitted in Tech's favor.

The gentleman who in the dim past arose to remark that a certain contest was a "some game," might again step forth very timely and reiterate his sentiments referring to the coming conflict. It is doubtful whether the Red and Black and the Orange and White ever faced a football battle on more equal terms.

So far the two teams have not had a common foe, although their schedules call for games with the same teams in two cases. Georgia has met and defeated Clemson while Tech has yet to meet the Carolina Tigers. The Jackets have lost honorably to Auburn, while Georgia is slated to tackle the Plainsmen in a little more than a week.

Each team has suffered defeat once. Georgia went down before the rushes of Virginia. This was rather to be expected, since the Virginians this year have a team that recalls the old days of "Bev" Pollard, Hammond Johnson and others. Also Auburn has a team that is a real danger to the grand old State of Alabama carry with them, safely packed away in their knapsack, decidedly the best chance of any team in Dixie to land greater honors, and the team from Athens can cut them down.

Hence the statement that Tech lost honorably to Auburn.

FROM the above it may be noted that but little hope arising from comparative scores may be had. Up to the Auburn game Tech was coming along nicely, showing better in their development for we have permission to state again that Auburn has a regular team.

On the other hand, the Red and Black in their last two games out, have not looked quite as good as they did in their game with Virginia. This, however, may be explained by the fact that in Carolina and Clemson, they considered that they were not going to meet very stiff opposition. Their standards of play were thereby allowed to drop perceptibly. In this connection, it may be said that in the last ten minutes of the Clemson game, they were playing in jump-up form and were very dangerous against the best in this section.

However, with us, advance dope on a Georgia-Tech football game is nix. Moreover, we have seen these two come together often enough to know that when the first whistle blows any form sheet on past performances in preceding games of the season may prove interesting reading from a disinterested standpoint, but as a tip on the results of the melee at hand would be about as valuable as perusing a memento announcement of a new corn cure.

HENCE we may as well get down to the undeniable facts dealing with the assets of the two teams. Each squad has enough available material to switch its line-up with frequency, thereby eliminating any man for man comparison. However, there are several players who have been practically continuous assignments and all of these are distinctly known quantities.

On the Georgia side there are McWhorter, Henderson, Condit, Laperriere, Malone and Paddock. All of these have met the Jackets before, and may therefore be regarded as veterans.

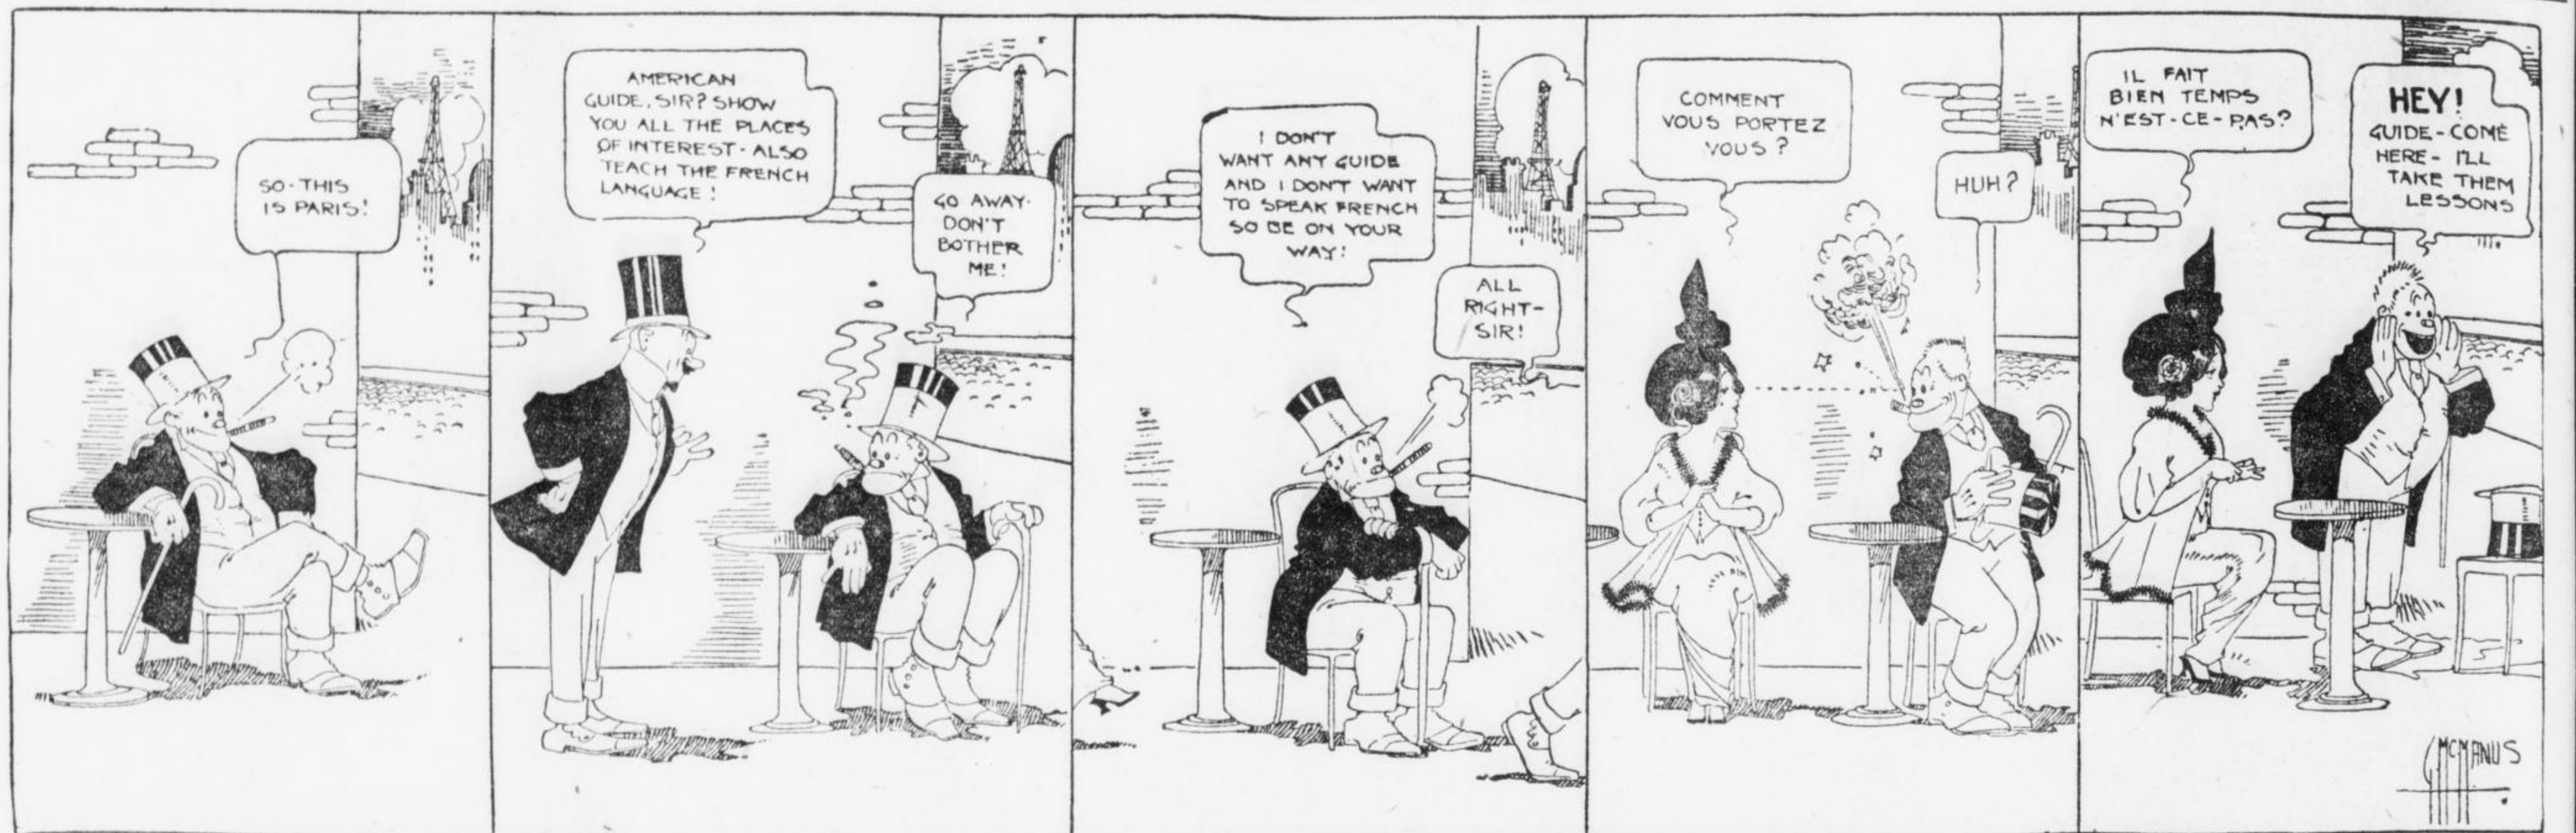

We are betraying no secret when we say that McWhorter will draw the bulk of the offensive work for the Red and Black, or rather of advancing the ball. He has been in business at Athens for four years and has yet to see his team go down in defeat on the gridiron before a Tech team. Then, too, this is his last year, and with the exception of a single remaining game this will no doubt be his last intercollegiate football game.

In view of the above, it is hardly likely that Bob is going to spend a great amount of time eating at the nearby scenery during the allotted 60 minutes of play.

As to his qualifications and the extent to which he figures as an offensive asset to the Red and Black, it may be said that he has had few equals at his position in Southern football, and it is doubtful whether any have been his superior. He is very fast for a big man, has lots of power and is an exceedingly hard man to throw off his feet. It is a peculiar fact that he rarely attempts to use a stiff arm in any of his brilliant runs. Instead he bends and swings his body in a most effective manner, and also is exceptionally good at side-stepping a tackler. As told, he is a very valuable halfback, and he is surely Georgia's one best bet.

AS next aid to McWhorter the Red and Black will doubtless look to Paddock. Of a decidedly different type from McWhorter, Paddock is very swift and elusive. Not having the strength and left to shake off tacklers, the Georgia quarterback must rely on keeping out of their reach. To this end he can command a world of speed and an amazing ability to dodge and sidestep. His work in the second half of the Clemson game was magnificent. Added to his abilities along the above lines is a quick-working brain, which may prove of great value to the Athenians. He is the best quarterback to work behind a Red and Black line since the days of George Woodruff. Paddock should prove of real value to the Jackets.

If Powell is in good shape, he may draw the job at fullback, otherwise Crump will doubtless work in this position. Early in the season Powell did great work, especially in the Alabama game. However, injuries have handicapped him in recent games and much depends on whether he can go in at his best form. Crump is never out of the job, and his reputation at the position will depend largely on his showing against the Jackets.

The visitors, however, have another strong element in their line-up. The job usually assigned to the fullback in "Punk" Malone. This fellow has hit a line. In the Clemson game he was just back of the line, and the way he rammed through the opposition was a revelation. He may be asked to repeat against Tech, and stiff opposition will be needed to check him.

Carey will no doubt open the game as a running-mate to McWhorter at left half. He is a first year man, with a favorable reputation, who may prove dangerous to Tech's hopes. There are several others who can, and no doubt will, be rushed in during the conflict--if for no other reason, to rest up the tiring regulars.

HAVING disposed of as precedes concerning the Athenians, let's take a look at Tech.

Here we obtain Captain Cook, McDonald, Thomson, Loan and Means, who have battled the Red and Black on former occasions. In addition to the above, Fidler, who took part in last year's game at half, is a possibility, though he is still nursing a very sore foot.

Cook and McDonald, together with Patten, a new man, will catch a lion's share of Tech's efforts to advance the ball at the straight game. Cook faces pretty nearly a reverse position to McWhorter in that he is winding up his fourth year without having seen his team down the Georgians. No doubt this fact is constantly staring the Jacket captain in the face, and a stoutheaded little halfback is not a man to sidestep a difficult job. He cut loose with two or three nice gains against the Auburnites and it will be no fault of his if he fails to duplicate against Georgia. He may be counted as one of Tech's chief dependencies.

McDonald will share with his captain the task of rushing the Red and Black defense. He was the leading light offensively in last year's game, bucking the ball across on one occasion only to drop it after he had crossed the line. He is a stronger physically this year and will be used liberally in the attack. Furthermore, he is very valuable in running interference, being especially good at blocking his man.

Tech has picked a good offensive man in Patten, who will work at quarter for the Jackets. He should figure most prominently on offense. The new men on both teams, unless Carey comes to the front with some sensational work. Patten is a fast man, and dodges well, as was shown by his brilliant return of punts in the Auburn game. Should the Chattanooga lad ever get into an

Paddock Invites S.I.A.A. Authorities To Review Record

The following letter explains itself: W. S. Farnsworth, Sporting Editor The Georgian.

Dear Sir: After reading an article in Wednesday's Georgian concerning my eligibility, I will consider it a great favor if you will publish the following letter.

First of all I wish to state that I am here at Georgia absolutely on my own resources and I never had any one even suggest financial help to me in the form of a scholarship or in any other way whatsoever. Any rumor that may start or has started concerning my being induced financially to return to Georgia is untrue.

Furthermore, concerning my coming to Georgia when my home at present is in Brooklyn, N. Y. The South is no new section of the country to me, as I had the pleasure of spending the first eight years of my life in Selma, Ala., and intend to make my home in Florida, it is strange, therefore, that I should attend a Southern college.

My first year of college was at Georgia three years ago and was here five months before any one knew I had ever seen a football.

"The S. I. A. A. authorities are invited to review my record and the Tech supporters are sincerely invited to give it a good looking over."

Frankly, I don't profess to be much of a football player, but I do know that I am not a "ringer."

Thanking you for your valued space.

DAVID F. PADDOCK.

Paulet Reported Sold to Cleveland

MORILE, ALA., Nov. 14.—Paulet, local first baseman, has been sold to the Cleveland Naps next season, according to a report being circulated around sporting circles here.

Very truly yours, the Gulls, could not be reached to confirm the rumor. Center Fielder Jacobson, a former member of the Gulls and last season with the Giants, has been sold to the Lookouts.

open field he would deserve the immediate and undivided attention of the opposing team.

THE above does not take into consideration whatever advantage may be gained through the use of the forward pass. Both teams have used the air-line route successfully at times. However, the play is uncertain, and Tech can not count on either can rush the opposition consistently. It is doubtful whether any chances will be taken with doubtful pass.

It is doubtful whether either team will have any decided advantage in weight. With Nance and the rest of Tech's heavier linemen in the game, there will be very little difference. Any margin will perhaps be with Georgia. On the other hand, Tech will in all probability resort more to an open game. Heretofore they have shown a good number of open freakish formations, and they have doubtless reserved a few for special use against Georgia.

SUMMING up the possibilities of the two teams, it appears as though Georgia has the advantage in rushing, mainly because of the sterling ability of Captain McWhorter. He and Paddock form an offensive pair that Tech can not equal. Of course no one expects that Bob will be able to spread-eagle the field every time he takes the ball, but if Tech succeeds in heading him off consistently throughout the game, without allowing him to break away on one or two of his wild rampages, they will have put up a noble defensive performance, even though they have to take the count.

For the above reason, we figure a slight margin for the Red and Black. Tech will gain on straight football, but there is some doubt as to whether they will be strong enough to gain consistently sufficiently to rush over the Georgians, say from the middle of the field. If they fail, they will find it necessary to try open formations and passes, either of which are hazardous, and hardly to be figured strongly in a pinch.

In other words, when it comes down to the old army game, the real basis of football, Georgia looks to have the stronger punch, and for this reason we figure a slight margin in favor of the Red and Black.

Agler's Shoes May Be Well Filled Eible Seems To Be the Real Goods

By O. B. Keeler.

THERE was a distinct atmosphere of good humor about the headquarters of the Atlanta Baseball Association in the Third National Bank Building, President Callaway was there, and he was cheerful, and Mr. Ryan was there, and he was positively radiating good humor. And Mr. Nunnally was there, too, and he seemed happy.

Billy Smith was not there, but he was responsible for a fair share of the happiness.

Major Callaway had just received a letter from Billy, who is in Columbus, Ohio.

"BILL seems to think we've solved this first base problem," said Mr. Callaway. "He says this fellow Eible—is it 'Eoble' or 'Eeble', I wonder?—he says this fellow is a bird, whatever his name is."

"Is he left-handed?" inquired Mr. Ryan. "Mr. Ryan is very strong for left-handed first basemen."

"Bill doesn't say, right out," said Mr. Callaway, "but that's my understanding. I've heard a good deal about him, and everybody up that way seems to know him so well they think everybody else knows him."

UP that way meant in the vicinity of the Southern Michigan League.

"Here's a letter from Hugh Shannon, manager of the Ray City team of that league, and a bosom friend of Bill's," went on Mr. Callaway. "He says he doesn't see how on earth the big leaguers overlooked this man, and advises us to get him if we can, by all means."

"Well, we've got him," remarked Mr. Ryan. "Now, what can he do?"

"Shannon says he's a wonderful pitcher and a hard, dangerous hitter. Also, he's a young chap, and ambitious and crazy to make good. That's the kind we are looking for. Let's see—he hit 312 up there, and that's a pretty fast little circuit, by all accounts."

"What team did he play with?" asked Mr. Nunnally.

"Saginaw," replied the president.

McGoorty Starts on Trip for Australia; Boxes Smith First

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Eddie McGoorty, who has been the greatest middleweight in the country, hopped on a westbound train last evening on the first leg of his long journey to Australia. With him went Joe Lewis, his business agent, who will go all the way through with him.

McGoorty's first battle will be with Dave Smith, the Australian champion, December 26.

McGoorty is to get a guarantee of $5,000, with the privilege of 30 per cent of the gross receipts for the Smith contest, which is expected to draw close to $25,000. He is under contract to box two other men thirty days apart. The Oklahoma man expects to return to America in April and box Jack Dillon for the world's title in Indianapolis next Decoration Day.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—England's professional golf champion, Harry Vardon, and Edward Ray, who during the last three months have played matches throughout the United States, today are on the high seas, sailing for home.

Speaking of American golfers, Vardon said: "We have met the best players America had to produce. Outlets of Massa-chusetts, is the champion, of course. While he is a wonderful player, I don't think he would have an easy time in Great Britain, as our courses there are more difficult than those we have played on here."

Riverside Prepared For Game With G.M.C. Eleven Saturday

GAINESVILLE, GA., Nov. 14.—The Riverside Military Academy football squad is in the best possible condition for the football game with the Georgia Military College football team at Atlanta to-morrow morning.

This game will be for the championship of the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association. It will be played at Grant Field and the game will start promptly at 10 o'clock.

All the Riverside cripples have recovered from the injuries that they sustained in the earlier games of the season and when they line up against the G. M. C. eleven it will be with the strongest line-up that they have been able to muster all season.

Riverside has settled on her line-up for the game: Hatten, center; Wilder and Hickey, guards; Harden and Reed, tackles; Page and Erwin or Cox, ends; Strupper, quarter; Townsend, (captain) and Pace, half; Hayson, full. Substitutes, Jones, Thomas and Carraway.

Vandy Is Off for Auburn Battle McGugin May Change Line-Up

NASHVILLE, TENN., Nov. 14.—Two complete elevens, Coach McGugin, Assistant Coaches Manier and Hager, two rubbers and the crippled Tackle Brown and Center Morgan, constituted the Vanderbilt party which left Nashville this morning via the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for Decatur, where they will rest until Saturday when the journey to Birmingham will be resumed. In spite of the early hour a great crowd was at the station to see the Commodore squad off, and the cheering had all the old-time Vanderbilt snap, just as if the eleven was going off for a practice game instead of a desperate battle for the S. I. A. A. title with the powerful Auburn machine.

The Vanderbilt party will be quartered at the Lyons Hotel in Decatur until Saturday morning, when a special train will take the men to Birmingham, arriving there about noon. Practice will be conducted this afternoon on the diamond of the Decatur baseball club, which has been turned over to the Commodores. The line-up for the game at Rickwood Park is veiled in complete mystery, none of the coaches caring to express a probable opinion as to what men Coach McGugin intends to start. It is more than likely, however, that the early line-up used against Tennessee will face the Donahue clan, but some last hour shifting in the line and even in the backfield would not be at all surprising.

CONTRASTED sharply with the slow and methodical attack of Auburn will be the whirlwind offense which Vanderbilt will depend upon. Where the Plainsmen will rely upon precision, the Commodores will pin their chances on surprises. In the secret practice this week, Coach McGugin has given the men some new plays, all of which are of the freak formation variety, proving that Vanderbilt will hold to the open game entirely.

McGugin has ransacked back into the past to dig up some of those plays, realizing that it is always the unexecuted which is more than likely to catch the Auburn defense napping. Some plays are those which were given to the Vanderbilt pilot by Coach Yost. But with all this, the forward pass has demanded the major portion of the coach's attention, for it will largely depend upon the Commodore backs' ability to hurl the oval as to whether their dashing attack will be successful or not.

McGugin is aware that to win from Auburn he must first win Nowell, and it's most too big a job for the Commodore tacklers to handle the flashing halfback. There is a chance, however, that should be an Ammie Sikes collide, that Nowell will lose lots of his effectiveness. For it was Sikes, whose vicious tackling sent Fullback Quinn, of Michigan, to the sidelines, battered Ray of Virginia, and retired "Red" Rainey from the Tennessee game.

The Vanderbilt eleven will enter the game in good condition, their fighting mood is at the highest pitch, and, while Coach McGugin had little to say as the squad departed as to the probable outcome of the game, he declared he was perfectly satisfied to take his chances on the eleven as it now stands.

ELBERFELD SAYS SOUTHERN BEST MINOR LEAGUE

Former Lookout Chief Places Kavanaugh Organization Next to Majors.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Nov. 14.—The Southern League is the fastest minor organization in organized baseball, or in outlaw ball either for that matter, according to Kid Elberfeld. And it might be mentioned incidentally the Tabasco one is unusually qualified to pass judgment upon such a question.

The Kid dropped into town the other day from his abode north of the Tennessee River, and naturally drifted into baseball during his conversation. It was while discussing the chances of certain major leagues in this circuit that Elberfeld delivered his opinion in regard to the speed of Father Kavanaugh's organization.

"Take it from me," said the Kid, "the Southern is the fastest league of all the minors. On barnstorming trips and at various other times I have played in the International, the American Association, and all the rest of them, and the Southern is the fastest by far."

"When training in the South with the Yankees and the Senators I was often greatly amused by the alibis put up by our fellows to explain their defeats at the hands of the Southern League clubs. They invariably attributed it to the fact that the Dixie athletes were in better condition, but they never stopped to consider that they had been in training even longer and in still warmer climate."

"The Southern is the hardest league on hitters by far, as the old hitters from the majors find their pristine strength returned under the hot sun. It is a great league for old pitchers, but hard on the veteran catchers and the batsmen. The excessive heat is against the swatters."

Elberfeld had nothing to say for publication concerning his signing with New Orleans or the prospects at Pelicanville in 1914. He was very reticent about his career in the circuit in general, but not in particular. The Kid is in good condition, however, and expects a good season next year. He states that he has entirely recovered from the blow which he received at the hands of Brackenridge this summer. He has just returned from a trip East with his wife.

Boxing Notes

It looks very much as if Leach Cross and Willie Ritchie will have to mingle over the twenty-round route. Although Ritchie was credited with a shade in their ten-round engagement Tuesday night, Leach put up a great battle, and is deserving of another match with the champion.

Tom McCarey, Los Angeles promoter, who has Leach matched to box Rivero on Turkey Day, has promised Cross a match with Ritchie, providing he defeats the Mexican. This should not prove a difficult task for the dentist fighter, especially the way he is going now.

New Orleans' fans are showing much interest in the coming ten-round scrap between Charlie White and Johnny Dunne, scheduled to take place on Thanksgiving Day. Charlie gained a host of admirers in the Pelican city when he gave Jack Britton a tough scrap a few months ago for eighteen rounds.

Harry Lewis, the Philadelphia middleweight, who has been down in the hospital for several weeks, is now able to be out.

Owen Moran, who has just fought three times in Australia, has arrived in San Francisco, and is letting out an awful howl about the treatment he received there, claiming he had all the better of Matt Wells, a countryman of his, in a twenty-round bout at Sydney, N. Y., last August.

Meyer Pries has it on all the local boxers when it comes to being a press agent. Meyer's weekly letter arrived yesterday, informing us that he is fighting like a champion and that he is making lots of dough in Jacksonville.

Auburn Is in Shape for Vandy Guards Against Overconfidence

By Mike Donahue.

AUBURN, Nov. 14.—It is a long way back to the day when Dutch Dorsey led the Auburn team against Vanderbilt in Montgomery in the first game between Auburn and Vanderbilt and vanquished the Commodores to the tune of 30 to 10. It has been twenty years since this first game, and in that time Auburn and Vanderbilt have had six other struggles over the gridiron, five of which have been won by Vanderbilt, while the game last year resulted in a tie. Thus in seven trials Auburn has been victorious once, while five times has success crowned the efforts of the wearers of the old gold and black.

This year, if the performance of the two teams thus far can be taken as any indication of the result of next Saturday's game, Auburn carries the edge and will do all in her power to make this her seventh victory of the season.

Overconfidence has played havoc with more football teams than any other one thing, and the members of the team are taking with a large grain of salt the tales of woe which are now being sent out from Nashville. They expect Tom Brown to certainly be in the line-up Saturday and they would not be at all surprised to find that Buddy Morgan's broken ankle was really only a sprain which Dr. Manler has brought around in such shape that he will be in the center of the Vanderbilt line-up when the referee's whistle starts the game.

All of the Auburn players came through the Tech game in good shape, while Lockwood and Taylor, who were out of the Tech game on account of injuries, are rounding the nicely. Monday afternoon every member of the varsity squad reported for practice and limbered up catching punts for an hour, which was followed by a stiff signal drill. Tuesday and Wednesday hard scrimmaging was in order to straighten out the kinks which were apparent in the Tech game. Thursday there was a long sign work-out and Friday the team started for Birmingham.

The team realizes that if the orange and blue is to wave above the old gold and black it is going to be accomplished only after a grueling battle in which Auburn's defense must be ever on the alert to checkmate the forward passes which McGugin has skillfully devised and which was the means by which the Commodores scored against Tennessee last Saturday, while the attack must be consistently strong if it is to overcome the Vanderbilt defense.

Auburn expects McGugin to show the strongest line-up of the season and is preparing to find the Vanderbilt line-up so improved under the coaching of Hager, Stein, Stone, Graham, Bob Blake, and other old Vanderbilt stars who have answered McGugin's S. O. S. call that it will be the most formidable that her backs have yet been called upon to attack.

Western Conference To Meet in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The delegates of the Western Conference will go into meeting at the Auditorium Hotel on December 5. This was the announcement sent to-day to members of the "Big Nine." At that time the basketball, baseball and track schedules will be drafted and routine business transacted. Another matter which may be brought up is the application of Nebraska for a berth as a tenth member of the association.

Marquette University and Michigan Agricultural College also may file requests for membership. It is not believed there will be any changes in the make-up of the organization, as most members realize that the association is too bulky now.

Famous Yellow Jacket Coach Has Some Interesting Yarns

HEISMAN TELLS OF FUNNY THINGS IN FOOTBALL

THIS, however, is a very lame and insufficient arrangement in the case of a late beginning to a game, for what referee or person on earth could possibly foresee just how much time will be taken out by the two teams in a game, how many players would be injured, and how often? And if he cannot foresee these things, how can he possibly tell, ahead of the game, whether it ought to be shortened, and HOW MUCH to shorten it in order to "insure the completion of four EQUAL periods?"

HEISMAN TELLS OF FUNNY THINGS IN FOOTBALL

SECTION 2 of Rule IV says: "Whenever the commencement of a game is so late that in the opinion of the referee there is any likelihood of the game being interfered with by darkness, he shall, before play begins, arbitrarily shorten the four periods to such length as shall insure four equal periods being completed."

This rule was adopted after the fall of 1895, and as the result of an embarrassing situation that arose in the Thanksgiving Day game in Atlanta between Auburn and Georgia. The game started late and ran into darkness. Auburn was ahead and had asked something like five minutes before the time would expire that the game be called, but the referee refused to call it. Within one minute of the expiration of the time, however, he did call it, and set the score at 0-0, on the ground of the game not having been completed; when the score at that time really stood 11-6 in favor of Auburn, which team had possession of the ball on Georgia's five-yard line.

This ruling raised a perfect storm of protest, and the Red and Black freely conceded the game to Auburn in spite of the referee's ruling. The whole matter came to the attention of the Rules Committee, and it was for the first time recognized that there should be something in the rules regarding this matter of darkness interfering with the conclusion of a game. The rule above cited was the result.

Time may be called by the captain of either team, and the referee must halt the game and allow the request without inflicting any penalties if that side has not yet taken out time three times during that half, or if they put in a substitute—even though they have already called "time" on three different occasions during that half. And Rule XVI, Section 1, goes on to say that "Time shall begin again when the ball is actually put in play."

Now, most of the running time of a game of football is not taken up by the men in actual action, but in lining up between scrimmages, and in getting ready after the ball is down and dead to get another scrimmage started.

Bearing this fact in mind the Michigan team takes advantage of the rule in the following way: When they are close to the other team's goal, and know that time for the half is nearly up, they promptly call "Time out" the instant the ball is dead after one scrimmage. The head linesman has no choice but to nudge the stop watch. The Michigan puts in a sub, takes her time at lining up, gets everybody set and ready, snaps the ball and dives in for another attempt at their opponents' goal.

But time only started running again when the ball had been actually snapped for the next succeeding down. Thus they economized all the time that is usually wasted in getting up off the ball and lining up for the next play. In this way a team could pull off four or five or more short, plunging plays inside of 30 seconds, or less. The plan is ingenious and perfectly legitimate.

HEISMAN PUTS SQUAD THROUGH HOT SCRIMMAGE

Team Finishes Hard Work for Georgia Game—Students to Hold Mass Meeting.

COACH HEISMAN put his players through their final scrimmage yesterday afternoon, and it was a fierce one, too. All the substitutes and wounded ones were used in the hardest part of the scrimmage. Johnson, Patten, Trawick, Lucas and Beard were all in the game, and played in good form.

Coach Heisman is being assisted by several of the alumni, as "Red" Hill, "Chip" Robert, "Moody" Burke and others are on the ground.

Heisman is letting loose some trick plays that were never used before.

TECH's greatest handicap will be with their new men. Nearly every position on the team is being filled by a man who has never played his position before. All of them need more experience in the game, and at their respective positions. Some of them—as Lucas, Trawick, Johnson and Tate—have been out of the game nearly all season, and they need conditioning.

NEVER before in the history of Tech has the student body shown such an indifferent attitude toward the Tech-Georgia battle. They seem to have lost all their spirit entirely, and have absolutely lost all hopes of winning. Every available effort is being made to cause them to get that "fighting mad" spirit, but it seems to be in vain.

The biggest mass meeting of the year will be held at noon for the purpose of getting more spirit and life into the students. "Red" Hill, captain of the 1910 squad, will take charge of the meeting. All the players will make short speeches, telling how they are going to "tag 'em up," and several of the alumni will make impromptu speeches.

PENKNIFE CUT IS CAUSE OF DEATH

Two Young Men Held to Answer for Slaying in Girls' Home.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 14.—At a coroner's inquest before Justice C. D. Abbott and jury—S. Howell, G. H. Dodson, J. A. Bowen, A. W. Ruus, J. L. Timmons—it was shown that B. B. McWhite, Jr., came to his death by a penknife in the hands of Archie King, and Earl Williams was named an accessory.

Pearl and Nellie Hodges, the girls in the case, testified that last night about 9 o'clock McWhite and Register were at their house, when King came to the house with a note. Register went out and started a fight with King, Williams, who had remained behind a tree, came to the help of King.

McWhite then ran out of the house into the street, and picking up a small iron axle of a toy wagon, dashed at King.

King testified that he went to the girls' house with a note; that Register rushed out of the house at him; that as Williams took Register on he was aware of McWhite attacking him with an iron bar (axle); that McWhite hit him in the head with the axle, and that he then cut McWhite with his penknife, which he had opened when he saw that McWhite had the iron axle.

Carlin Stewart, 10 years, testified the iron axle belonged to him, and that he saw McWhite pick it up.

Dr. Stanley Irwin testified that McWhite bled to death from a cut in the groin. Officer E. P. Lord testified that the arrests were made peacefully at the home of Defendant King's father, No. 1203 West Adams street. Bond was fixed at $1,000 each, and was furnished by Rose A. Macomber and C. R. Armstrong.

MRS. T. R. SAVES 2 ACTRESSES IN BRAZIL

Met Ex-President When They Danced With Him in Virginia Reel on Ship.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—"Rescued at sea," by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and the Colonel, who advised them to shun a vaudeville engagement in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and to return to New York, Miss Gladys Waddell, 17 years old, and Miss Loan Shore, 19, arrived home.

Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt, with their young cousin, Miss Margaret Roosevelt, became acquainted with the girls when the Colonel danced a Virginia reel with Miss Waddell at a ship party. Mrs. Roosevelt asked the pretty young women where they were going and they said they had signed a contract to appear at a music hall in Rio.

The contract had been arranged with Roy Chandler, an American, who books "acts" for South American playhouses.

Mrs. Roosevelt consulted with her husband and with other Americans on board the Vanduyke, among them William C. Mackenzie, of New York; J. T. Fagan and Mr. McGovern. The men agreed that the Rio music hall was no place for the girls.

Their wives told the girls about it, and arrangements were made immediately to send them back home on the Vestris.

But when they tried to take a launch to the Vestris, which lay in the harbor, they were arrested for breach of contract, taken to court, and a pompous Portuguese vaudeville manager appeared against them. For them, however, appeared the American Consul, to whom Mrs. Roosevelt had written on her personal card: "My dear Mr. Consul: If you can in any way assist Miss Waddell and Miss Shore, I shall be very much obliged." Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt had written on her personal card to the American Minister at Rio.

The Consul left his preparations for the reception to the Roosevelts to take charge of the matter and the diplomatic forces brought to bear soon had them on board the Vestris ground for home.

The Vanduyke was just going to her dock as the Vestris left. The girls went yesterday to the home of Mrs. Shrader, No. 64 West One Hundred and Fourth street. Friends on the Vanduyke had given them letters which will aid them in getting employment here.

Young Pair United; Husband Declares Parents Kidnapers

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Ashworth, the former employed in a downtown department store, are again united after a harrowing separation, in which the young husband charged that his wife had been kidnaped from him by her parents. The young couple returned to Atlanta Friday.

Both told of how they had outwitted the parents of Mrs. Ashworth, whom they claimed had kept her practically a prisoner in a boarding house at Tampa, Fla., while a suit to annul the marriage was being instituted.

According to their story, Mrs. Ashworth had started to Austell for a visit, when she was forcibly taken from the train by her brother, Fred Humphries, and carried to Tampa. Ashworth followed her there, and early in the evening, through smuggled notes, got into communication. Later the young man went to the parents of his wife and demanded to let his wife choose for herself. Finally they consented, and Mrs. Ashworth flew into the arms of her husband.

The Ashworths were married June 14, and have since lived in Baker street.

Score Another Touchdown for The Sunday American Eleven

The Sunday American football corps of experts won an easy victory at the Auburn-Tech game last week, but that win was nothing compared to the score we will roll up this Sunday.

Bob McWhorter, Captain of Georgia--

Bob will tell you all about the game from a player's viewpoint. He will give you the "inside" story of Georgia's play.

Homer Cook, Captain of Tech--

The popular Homer will describe Tech's best plays, telling of the Jackets' good and bad points. His story will be a "bearcat."

Alex Cunningham, Coach of Georgia--

He will be on the sidelines watching every move of both teams and he will give The Sunday American readers a story of the game as seen by a coach.

J. W. Heisman, Coach of Tech--

Heis' stories on football are considered most authentic. He will carefully note every play, every formation, good or bad, and he will tell you all about it in The Sunday American.

W. S. Farnsworth, Sports Editor of The Sunday American.

He will write a play-by-play story of the game, telling where the ball was every second of the game.

Innis Brown, South's Greatest Official--

Innis is going to write a purely expert story. It will be a story that the "wisest" fan will relish.

O. B. Keeler, The Sunday American's Descriptive Writer.

He will tell you all about the happens, the pretty girls, the roofing, the game and everything else that happens.

Fuzzy Woodruff, Over in Birmingham The Sunday American will be represented by...

You all know him. Fuzzy will tell you of every play in his own breezy style. This game may decide the championship of the South, and Fuzzy will be on the job to see that The Sunday American readers are given every little detail.

The Sunday American will also have a staff of photographers at the game. They will be right up close to the teams from start to finish and will "snap" all the important plays. A Sunday American artist will be on the job, too. He will draw a diagram of the game, by quarters, showing where the play was on every line-up.

"All Possible Information Regarding the Mexican Situation"

That Would Be a Good Deal of Information. Here Is SOME Information.

The editor of The Georgian has received the following letter from a young man who is a student in a high school in one of the progressive cities of South Georgia:

"Dear Sir—Will you kindly send me all information possible regarding the Mexican situation? There will be a debate at our high school next week. I am to take the negative side of the question, 'Shall the United States Intervene in the Mexican Situation?'"

Here is at least a little information:

Mexico is a wonderful country of opportunity and fertility. The opportunity and the fertility are neglected and go to waste for lack of the right kind of government.

The powerful man who ruled with a hand of iron was removed, and no man came with power to take his place.

Mexico lacks a man with intelligence, character and motives to represent the will and welfare of the Mexican people. And she lacks a man with the genius to rule by force and keep peace by dread of his own greater violence.

The United States sooner or later MUST REGULATE MEXICAN CONDITIONS. Murder and anarchy can not continue indefinitely on this continent. The United States is bound to maintain order and respect for life and property or abandon the Monroe Doctrine, which forbids European governments to interfere with governments on this continent.

The United States WILL NOT ABANDON THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Our President at Washington has pursued a policy thus far which may be compared with the conduct of an able-bodied gentleman who saw his neighbor beating his wife to death. The able-bodied gentleman shook his finger at the wife beater and said, "Naughty, naughty, you must stop that."

Mr. Wilson will get tired of shaking his finger after a while. He will realize that a murderous dictator and his gang are different from a class of sophomores.

Eventually the United States will be compelled to attend to its duty as self-appointed regulator of conditions on this continent.

In what way the United States will act can not be foretold at this moment.

It is suggested that the Mexicans in revolt against Huerta's criminal government be freely supplied with arms from our side of the line.

At present we do not permit arms and ammunition to be sent to the revolutionists from our territory. Thus the rebellion against Huerta is crippled and he is kept in power because his opponents lack weapons to fight him.

If we should permit unlimited shipping of rifles, cannon and ammunition to Mexico, it is quite probable that the revolutionists would overthrow Huerta, the present dictator.

But these questions arise: What man would they put up in Huerta's stead and what would be his character?

And if we found it necessary to intervene and pacify Mexico, should we not feel rather foolish if our soldiers were shot at from house tops and hill tops WITH GUNS SENT IN UNLIMITED QUANTITIES FROM THIS COUNTRY WITH OUR PERMISSION?

Inasmuch as we may have before long to send our own men to police and pacify Mexico, isn't it better to have as few arms in the hands of Mexicans as possible?

Another very important question is raised by President Wilson's quite solemn statement (which, of course, is binding only on Woodrow Wilson) that the United States would not take or conquer any more territory on this continent.

Of course Woodrow Wilson has no right whatever to bind the United States by any statement of that kind. He is the representative of the people, not THE CONSCIENCE of the people. And it is not for him or any other man to say that the United States shall not extend to Mexico and all the way down to our possessions in Panama the advantages of the United States government and partnership that have been extended to Texas, California and other regions outside of our ownership.

However, Mr. Wilson is President, and if we are obliged to send troops into Mexico during his term they will go to Mexico with the understanding that he will do what he can to arrange matters so that their fighting, their dangers and the death of many will do no particular good to this country or to anybody else.

What good would it do the United States to spend a few millions and sacrifice a few thousand American lives now to pacify Mexico for a little while?

Does anybody imagine that anything but actual ownership will permanently pacify the Mexican territory?

How would the soldiers feel if told, "You may go to Mexico and be shot, and then you can come home and some Mexican gentlemen will get the reward of your work and run the country?"

We are afraid that they would not feel very enthusiastic. Mexico and the Mexicans need, although many of them may not realize it, just exactly what the inhabitants of territory in Texas and California and elsewhere needed before they entered the Union.

Mexico needs stable government, partnership in the greatest nation on this continent, prosperity, schools, industries, equal rights for all, encouragement for agriculture—all these things and many others the United States could give to Mexico.

The high school boy who writes us will find it hard work to take the negative side of the question, "Shall the United States Intervene in the Mexican Situation?"

If you were a very big and powerful man living next door to a quarrelsome, murderous little individual, shooting, hanging and cutting throats every day, you would be bound in common decency to intervene and protect the weak.

That is Uncle Sam's situation as regards Mexico.

The Stage Exit

The Price of the Monroe Doctrine

By DR. C. H. PARKHURST

WE are discovering in the Monroe Doctrine a meaning not exactly contemplated when originally propounded by President Monroe, or rather by John Quincy Adams. Every doctrine has to be worked awhile before it gives up its full import and scope.

The doctrine was a kind of contract, although definitely signed by only one of the contracting parties, which leaves the other party free to disregard it whenever it sees fit. It was the statement on our part that we would let the Eastern world alone with the understanding that the Eastern world should let us alone, particularly the Central and South American Republics.

Of course, by putting ourselves into the Philippines we have rather badly bruised even our own side of this one-sided contract; but, for some reason not altogether explicable to the lay mind, this has not diminished the insistence on the part of our Government that Europe should observe the Eastern end of the engagement, although never flatly agreed to by Europe.

It is a singular situation and will continue only until some Eastern power shall see its way clear to interrupt it, which may some time occur or may not. But until it is interrupted we practically obligate ourselves to settle for Europe all the quarrels which it may have with any republic in Central or South America. And the fault which England, Germany and France are finding with us just now is due to what they regard as our remissness in carrying out our part of the engagement; for in forbidding them to land a force on the Western Continent we practically agree to settle their quarrels for them, to do gratuitous police service for them, to fight their battles for them and meet the expense thereof out of our own pockets.

That is the price we are paying for our Monroe Doctrine. It is liable to become somewhat expensive, but so long as we are disposed to incur that expense Europe will be reconciled to our insistence upon the doctrine; but should we decline at any time to furnish gratuitous army and navy in promotion of their interests or of our joint interests with them, then we may expect them to tear up the doctrine as so much waste paper and as being the product of our Government's presumption. Although realizing the advantage accruing to the republican form of government--by so far as possible keeping monarchical influences out of the reach of American republics, still it is a good deal of an undertaking for a government even as strong as our own to divide up the world according to our predilections and to determine in advance the line upon which governmental history shall run for the next thousand or ten thousand years.

United States Will Use 30,000,000 Autos

THE development of the automobile industry in the past five years has been so marvelous that leading authorities hold that within the next few decades 30,000,000 motor cars will be in use in the United States.

These figures stagger the imagination. But statisticians tell us that 1,100,000 automobiles were licensed during the year 1913 and are now in actual use, and that during the coming year 400,000 new cars will be manufactured and sold.

It is now definitely stated that the Standard Oil Company has completed arrangements to enter the automobile industry by purchasing several large factories and increasing their capacity to 100,000 machines in a single season, and that the prices of the machines to be manufactured will range from $350 to $1,000. Other manufacturers have completed plans for greatly increased productions. These developments have caused the leading authorities in the industry to issue the forecast that within another ten years there will be not less than 11,000,000 automobiles in actual service. With the industry in its present state of development, there is enough money invested in automobiles in the United States to build four Panama Canals.

The Keokuk dam, recently opened at a cost of $27,000,000 and generating 300,000 horsepower of electrical current, was regarded as one of the mid-continent marvels.

And yet, the horsepower capacity of the automobile industry in use in the United States is equal to the combined capacity of 83 such plants as the Keokuk dam! If the horsepower capacity of all the automobiles in use in the United States was concentrated in one huge engine, it could drive the machinery of every industrial plant in the country with enough surplus power to operate all its electric light plants and propel all the battleships of the United States navy.

And there would still be an unused surplus of approximately 5,000,000 horsepower of energy.

Letters From the Readers of The Georgian

"GIVES A BAD OPINION." Editor The Georgian: Noticing a letter to The Georgian regarding the inhuman way the horses and mules are treated here in Atlanta, would also like to add my plea for better treatment to the poor dumb beasts. Locating here two years ago from a neighboring city where the Humane Society was doing so much good work, it appeared so strange that a city the size of Atlanta and with so many charitable people, should be so cruelly neglectful of the dumb animals that are being hourly mistreated. Strangers coming here noticing the inhuman treatment of its animals, go away with a very bad opinion of the people. M. B. C.

"KRAZY KAT." Editor The Georgian: Allow a reader of your interesting paper to express his appreciation of the "Krazy Kat" series of comics printed in The Georgian. I have derived a keener sense of fun from this picture story than from any other of the clever productions shown daily. READER.

THE TRAFFIC SQUAD. Editor The Georgian: Just a word of commendation for Chief Beavers and his traffic squad. I think those officers stationed at the congested corners in the downtown district are doing an excellent work in keeping traffic in smooth working order. They deserve praise for their efforts. T. M. Writes on Light by Wireless Is Possible Now

Students Believe Illumination by Vibrations Sent Through the Ether Will Be the Next Great Advance of Science.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

FROM wireless telephony to wireless light—such is the program that certain bold spirits have proposed for the next great advance of practical science.

In wireless telephony a voice drops out of circumambient space—the voice of a friend hundreds of miles away, whose syllables were transformed at the place where he spoke them into electric undulations which spread noiselessly through the ether like circles on a pond. At the point where you are these passing electric waves flutter the sensitive antennae of a receiving instrument and are eventually replaced again by the vibrations of sound.

If we had wireless light it also would consist of undulations caught by the antennae of a receiving instrument, but they would be shorter than those employed by telephony, and when rendered perceptible it would be the eye instead of the ear that would be impressed by them.

The man who had this kind of light in his house would push a button and instantly the room would be illuminated by glowing waves caught out of the ether, where before their transformation they had been passing in a flood of invisible billows.

It would be far more mysterious than the electric lamps of to-day, for we can see the wires that supply them with current and connect them with the dynamo, whereas the waves producing wireless light would come without any conveying cables or tangible connections of any kind, from the point where the electric energy was produced, which might be hundreds of miles away, without even an ordinary road, much less a line of telegraph poles, connecting it with the place where the light was revealed. A distant river, rolling on its way, would have the energy of the waters transformed into the vibrations required to produce wireless light, those vibrations would flow away, unseen, following the curves of the globe, and at this point and that, in this city, in that village, on yonder farm, wherever a human mind willed it so, they would be transformed at the touch of tiny antennae into rays and beams of glorious light.

The experiments which are continually being made with new forms of vapor lamps, caused to glow by an electric current, give another promise for the future in that they indicate the possibility that, any day, someone may discover a substance which, when electrically-excited, concentrates its energy of vibration entirely within the limits of the visible spectrum.

Such a substance would then furnish us with the nearest approach to "light without heat" that we could ever attain, an approach much nearer than that made by the glowworm with his vaulted cold light.

Editorial Comment on the Frank Case

A STRANGE RULING. Editorial in Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal.

In overruling the motion for a new trial in the Frank case in Atlanta, Ga., it is stated that the judge, Mr. Roan, made the following announcement from the bench:

"I have given this question long consideration. It has given me more concern than any other case I ever was in. And I want to say here that, although I heard the evidence and the arguments during those 30 days, I do not know this morning whether Leo Frank is innocent or guilty. But I was not the one to be convinced. The jury was convinced, and I must approve their verdict and overrule the motion."

Frank had been convicted of murder. The verdict was returned by a jury of twelve men. Motion was made for a new trial, and after arguments were in the statement quoted is said to have been made by the court.

This statement of the judge we submit to lawyers skilled in matters of criminal procedure in the belief that they, from the legal point of view, will agree that the judge should have ordered a new trial.

We think that lawyers hold to the principle that in a motion for a new trial the court becomes, as it were, a juror, and unless he is convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused, he must grant a new trial.

If a judge sustains a verdict rendered by a jury, he then becomes equal to the jury as a supporter of that verdict. If the judge, then, is a supporter of a verdict, he is in an illogical position if he does not know whether the accused is innocent or guilty, or that the verdict is right or wrong.

If the evidence is not sufficient to let his mind rest easily on the accuracy of the jury verdict, then he is in a bad way in sustaining it.

Looking at this statement by the judge from the logical point of view of the layman, an analysis of it is interesting.

"I do not know this morning whether Leo Frank is innocent or guilty," says the judge.

In the everyday affairs of life, when we do not know that a man is bad, we must presume that the man is good. The presumption of a man's goodness of character goes with him everywhere.

If, after hearing all the evidence, this judge does not know, then he is in a state of doubt. If he is in a state of doubt, he is uncertain. If he is uncertain, his mind is fixed on nothing, and if his mind is fixed on nothing his mind is incapable of acting in any orderly manner.

If the judge, in overruling the motion for a new trial, did not know whether the man was guilty or not guilty, his act was similar to that of an infant or an insane person, because he did a thing without a reasonable cause.

In this case it does seem that it was the duty of the judge, failing to be convinced one way or the other, to declare the trial no trial, because so far as his mind was concerned it was no trial, for it settled nothing in his mind.

In the last sentence of his statement the judge says: "But I was not the one to be convinced. The jury was convinced, and I must approve their verdict and overrule the motion." The judge, then, apparently bases his act upon the act of the jury. He then should not have permitted the lawyers to consume time in arguing for a new trial.

In effect he states that the jury's verdict was a finality with him, regardless of what he thought or didn't think. Therefore, he should have saved the attorneys' fee both sides the labor of preparing briefs for and against a rehearing.

AT SUNSET

By LILLIAN LAUFERTY. GLOWING the sun in its golden declining. Hushed is the world at the twilight's sweet voice; Gentle the murmur of dusk as it lingers, Soft is the rhythm as night winds rejoice. Deep in the arms of the far Western skies; Endless the chorus when dark brings its music; Afterglow song in the hush when light dies. Low is the whisper of night in the grasses; Endless new worlds here at evening rejoice. So are and time grow more kind for the knowing, Darkness still pulses with music's sweet voice.
