Now Comes the Disposal of Choicest Silk Dresses

The woman who would own another silk dress, shall own it now for a very small part of its real worth. This is the clearaway of all those beautiful silk dresses for afternoon and street wear.

And when clearaway becomes our object prices diminish--the one is the antithesis of the other. In dollars and cents it means just this--

$37.50 to $50.00 & $55.00 Silk Dresses $25.00 to $29.75 & $35.00 Silk Dresses

$21.75 $14.75

So the savings average a great deal more than half. But twenty-five of these, too--which it will be well to remember when you are timing your visit to the store.

Dresses with worlds of wear in them, for street and afternoons. Materials are crepe de chine, charmeuse and silk poplins and a few Dresden figured foulards. Choose from rose, navy, Copenhagen, gray and black.

Act quickly for these! The price has been brought to this absurd point because the quantity--as we count quantity--is small.

We term these silk waists--however, there are a few of chiffon and another few of gauze. Styles you will know--new this season. Ornamental and crystal buttons, contrasting bits of velvet and silks as trimming--all in serviceable shades and in white.

Brides of the month should enjoy this. It is the disposal of the daintiest negligees--of charmeuse and crepe de chine, and worlds and worlds of laces, of soft, billowy, plaited laces.

Paris touches are much in evidence. They show in the paniers, in the hand embroidery, in the choice of pink, light blue and a rich shade of old rose.
