Lemmie Quinn, Foreman in Metal Room, Tells the Jury He Visited Factory on Saturday, April 26, and Found Frank at His Desk Writing at 12:20 O'Clock, the Very Minute Almost That State Claims Mary Phagan Must Have Been Killed

Judge Roan Delays Decision Until Both Sides Can Submit Authorities—Dr. W. S. Kendrick Declares Dr. H. F. Harris Was Guessing in Conclusions He Gave About Mary Phagan's Death—Three School Mate Friends of Frank Tell of His Good Character

The character of Leo M. Frank was put in issue Wednesday morning by his attorneys during the afternoon session of his trial for the murder of Mary Phagan.

While not disputing the fact that the defense has thrown down the gauntlet and challenged the state to put a blot on the character of the young factory superintendent, it was decidedly the feature of the morning session.

Generally the defense in important criminal cases does not put the fact and crime examination hour and possibly two hours of the afternoon.

The direct case of the defense is almost finished. When the noon recess was taken Wednesday, Attorney Luther Z. Rosser and Reuben B. Arnold expected to be through with all except character witnesses in less than a day's time.

The defense scored an important point Wednesday when Lemmie Quinn, a factory foreman, declared that he saw Frank in his office, writing at 12:20 P. M., almost the exact time that the state claims Phagan was killed.

Mary Phagan, Quinn was still on the witness stand when the jury returned for the noon recess, and the indications were that his opinion of his direct and cross examination would not last more than possibly two hours of the afternoon.

Reuben B. Arnold, who went to meet with Frank at first instance, a New York merchant, who resides in Brooklyn, was the first witness to take the stand and tell of Frank's good character. He came to Atlanta especially for the purpose of testifying.

PHILIP N. Y. ATTORNEYS CLAIM OVER EVIDENCE
The other character witnesses were called on Tuesday morning, Attorney Arnold stating that he was put up during the afternoon session of the trial.

Dr. W. S. Kendrick testified that his story was therefore impossible within the time alleged and that the jury was therefore misled by the character of Dr. Harris' conclusions as given in reference to the matter.

Dr. Kendrick said in answer to one of the questions: "I have a good opinion of Dr. Harris' character, but I do not think that each stomach is a law unto itself."

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"—stamped on every biscuit—means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.
