INDIVIDUAL MISLEAGE BOOKS TO BE ISSUED BY RAILROADS IN GEORGIA

Interchangeable Plan Will Be Abolished Pending Appeal of Case to United States Supreme Court WILL OBEY MANDATE TO PULL ON TRAINS
Railroads Are Given 30 Days to Prepare Separate Books Before Court Order Becomes Effective

Railroads operating in Georgia will obey the mandate of the supreme court and pull mileage on trains, but there will be no interchangeable mileage books issued until the question finally is settled through appeal to the United States supreme court. An agreement giving the railroads 30 days to prepare for the change has been reached.

Traveling men therefore must now provide themselves with separate mileage books for each road on which they travel for the present order of the railroads, though recording the mileage on separate tickets and receipts instead of exchanging mileage books at the windows, did not stipulate that the roads issue interchangeable mileage as used at present.

Attorneys for the railroads have reached an agreement with Judge J. E. Hill, special counsel for the supreme court, by which the supreme court order regarding mileage books will be held up for thirty days before being officially promulgated, this giving the roads time to prepare individual mileage books and establish a system of recording mileage on separate tickets.

At the end of that time the separate individual mileage books will be issued. The interchangeable books now in use in Georgia will be used until the new books are ready to be used. The new books will be issued in the form of separate tickets, which will be used in place of the interchangeable books now in use.

FRANCE CALLS FOR DOUBLE OGLETHORPE PLEDGE FROM OGLETHORPE WORKERS

Paris Temps Calls Mexican Situation "Anarchy" and Says Humanity Demands Concerted Action by Nations SITUATION IN OIL FIELDS IS APPARENTLY EASIER
Nothing Stirring in Huerta Embroglio—United States Officials All-Off to New York for Big Game

PARIS, Nov. 28.—The Paris Temps today prints a vigorous editorial upon the "Anarchy in Mexico." The newspaper is concluding the article with the following: "In the presence of death, destruction and ruin, the moment appears to have been reached when humanity and general interest commands all the powers to take concerted action with the United States to have down the Huerta and bring an end to the intolerable situation."

British Admiral Yields Place to American in Mexican Waters
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Although Rear Admiral Craddock, commanding the British ships in Mexican waters, has notified the American admiral that he wishes to subordinate himself in cooperation with the United States, the American government is not prepared to accept the offer.

Any developments in the Mexican situation which would be of benefit to the surface, there appeared to be no change in the diplomatic situation and no indication that the American government was deviating from its attitude of careful watching and waiting.

COMMITTEES START RACE FOR FUNDS WITH ZEAL THAT IS SURE TO MEAN VICTORY—CANNASSING BEGINS SATURDAY

ENTIRE AD MEN'S CLUB TO AID. GET READY TO MEET THE WORKERS HALF WAY WITH YOUR PLEDGE TO OGLETHORPE UNIVERSITY.

The committees are off in their race for funds for Oglethorpe university. The campaign was started with businesslike determination coupled with abundant enthusiasm, and a meeting of the subcommittee chairmen and other interested citizens held in the rooms of the Atlanta chamber of commerce at 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

Fort McPherson's Nonpartisan Trade with Army Post
Enthusiasm of the contagious kind is becoming epidemic in Atlanta.

Oglethorpe University is the source, the reason, the purpose of it. Saturday morning the chairman of the twenty sub-committees that haven't yet gone to work, met in the chamber of commerce rooms. No man could have attended that meeting without being gripped by its spirit, its determination, its assurance of success.

Now the committees are organized. They are ready for action. On Monday the campaign will start in real earnest. Every one of the subscribers to the former university movement will be given opportunity to renew his or her part to Oglethorpe. So also will everyone else in Atlanta be invited to join in the present great work.

It is a matter of days till the end. Atlanta's biggest dynamo of energy are ready for the heavy work. Her big ones and small ones are waiting to turn their surrent on the details. The power that is Atlanta—Atlanta itself—in truth, is behind this movement. Nothing mortal can stop it.

Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars are the amount to be raised by Atlanta. It will be our pledge of faith and interest in Oglethorpe university. Half a dozen other cities in the south would give that gladly—but Atlanta has the advantage and does not intend to surrender it. Oglethorpe is to begin as a million-dollar university. Atlanta will raise one-fourth of that.

Who doubts for a moment that Atlanta can finish when the whole tremendous power of her being is applied to this work? No for the fund again. Who comes next on the roll of the founders?

TUGGON POSTAL EMPLOYEE TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

James Dickey Slashes Arm in Hotel and Maud Finds Him Nearly Dead

James Dickey, aged twenty, a postal clerk of Toccoa, Ga., attempted to commit suicide at a Mitchell street hotel Friday evening by cutting himself in the elbow. He was discovered while unconscious by the chambermaid and taken to Grady hospital, almost unconscious from loss of blood.

His father, William Dickey, was notified and came to see him Saturday morning. The boy told his father about ten days ago that he had seen a father and did not want to live. After a few days' absence, the father became worried and wrote to C. E. Long, of Grady hospital, asking if Mr. Long knew anything of the boy's whereabouts, and requested him to look out for his son.

The boy was much surprised to see his father Saturday morning when he called at Grady hospital. The father asked him what was the matter and the boy replied, "I am just sick. I tried to kill myself."

Dickey is so weak that the loss of blood that it will be necessary for him to remain in the hospital for ten days or longer. When he feels well his father says he will take him back to Toccoa.

EARLY REPORTS URGED ON TAX COLLECTORS

County Officials Asked to Remit All Taxes by December 20

A circular letter urging the county tax collectors to remit all taxes to the state treasury as early as possible after December 20, will be mailed out in a few days by Controller General William A. Wright. This was decided Friday afternoon following a conference Governor Slaton held with State Treasurer W. J. Spier and General Wright.

Under the law the last of the state taxes are due December 20, though it has been customary in some counties to let taxpayers go beyond that date. This year, however, an effort will be made to collect a greater part of the revenue by this time.

HEIRS OF MRS. RUCKER NEED NOT REMOVE BODIES

Jury Releases Beneficiaries From This Provision of Relative's Will

According to the decision of the jury which has been called on to construe the will of the late Mrs. Sarah J. Rucker, the heirs are not bound to obey the provisions of the will in which Mrs. Rucker directed that a handsome new vault be erected in one of the Atlanta cemeteries and that the bodies of her husband and herself be placed in the new vault with Mrs. Rucker and her husband.

After the jury heard the matter through the jury decided it is not practicable to remove bodies so long buried, and released the heirs from carrying out that request. Saturday the jury took up for final decision the question of whether or not the Presbyterian hospital has right to a bequest of $5,000 made before the hospital opened and which will later include other portions of more or less technical character.

TWO WIVES HEAR SMITH SENTENCED FOR BIGAMY

Ministers Testify to Marrying Him to Gertrude Wilson and Lennie Spain

Two wives sat in the court room Friday and heard Charles Randolph Smith adjudged guilty by a jury and sentenced to serve four years for bigamy by Judge Sen. H. Hill.

According to the testimony, Smith married Miss Lennie Spain, of Alabama, about a year ago, and later came to Atlanta and married Miss Gertrude Wilson, daughter of Sid M. Wilson. Smith admitted the second marriage, but denied the first. In testifying the state in its own behalf he said that he had known Miss Spain and had lived with her, but that he had never married her.

His second wife, Lennie Spain, testified that she had never seen Smith since his childhood. Smith claimed that he had never seen her since she was an orphan woman, so that he, Wilson, might have had her for a wife. The two women who claimed to be his wives testified that they did not know the ministers who had performed the two marriages. The defendant was represented by Attorney Leonard Greenbaum.

The former Miss Gertrude Wilson took the stand and testified that she had married her second husband six months ago. She testified for about a week when news rumors of his former marriage came to her and she decided to investigate.

COURT ORDERS GILHAM TO PAY WIFE ALIMONY

Judge John T. Fendleton Friday ruled that Walter L. Gilbeam, manager of the Atlanta Journal, should pay his wife, Mrs. Annie G. Gilbeam, $50 a month as temporary alimony.

The case was brought on by her attorneys until her fee was paid, and also awarded to her $100 as costs. Mrs. Gilbeam's suit for divorce alleged that her husband was habitually addicted to the use of intoxicants and that more than once he had threatened to kill her.

Make This and Try It for Coughs

This Home-Made Remedy has no Equal for Prompt Results.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of water, and stir for minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (Ehrlich's) in a quart bottle. Add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every 15 minutes. This simple remedy takes hold of a cough in 15 minutes and keeps it from ever returning. Usually contains a cough suppressant, but this Pinex Syrup stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract and is rich in germicidal and other qualities which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this place. Making cough syrup with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States that Canada has also been initiated. But the old, successful mixture has never been equalled.

THREE BOYS UNDER BOND FOR TAKING MOTOR CARS

They Admit Riding in Other Folks' Automobiles but Say They Were Invited

Henry Hanbrick said seventeen, of 22 Patterson street, Charles Nash, aged nineteen, of 12 Pittman place and Joe Thurston, aged seventeen, of 14 Pittman place, were bound over in the recorder's court Friday afternoon upon the accusation that they have operated with a band of boy riders who have been taking automobiles at their pleasure without the owner's permission.

Each admitted that they had ridden in the cars, but accused another (name of latter not given) of taking the car and driving it. Hanbrick was tried for taking T. C. Pooler's car, which had been used twice, according to Mr. Pooler, within the last two weeks. Mr. Pooler appeared in court to prosecute the case.

Archie Boyles, clerk of the recorder, a brother of the older boy, appeared to prosecute the two other boys, each of whom accused another of driving them to take a ride in the car.

The three boys were arrested by Detectives Woods and Harper.

The South and the Nation's Food.

The fact that the population of the United States is increasing more rapidly than its production of food is of peculiar interest to the South, for it is in the further resources of this section that the solution of the problem lies. There is enough untilled land between Maryland and Texas to yield crops of vegetables ample for all the American people through centuries to come, lands ideally suited to truck farming. There are, enough idle acres in the same territory to make up the present shortage in the country's meat supply and also to relieve, in large measure, the ever-increasing demand for grain.

But, the South, like the country at large has fallen short of its opportunity in this regard. The Manufacturers Record interestingly notes that "if fifteen Southern States—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia—in all but two of which cotton is raised, were raising as much corn in proportion to population as was raised in that area before the war, the South's annual corn crop would be a billion bushels instead of eight or nine hundred million..."

It is thus evident that in the production of grain the South has not even kept pace with its antebellum record. Despite the far-reaching improvement in agricultural methods and the great incentives which recent years have brought, this section is comparatively less productive of food crops now than it was half a century ago. This situation may be variously accounted for, as the Manufacturers Record suggests. It is due in part, no doubt, to the attention that has been given to cotton growing, the increase in the cotton crop in the fifty years having been at the rate of one hundred and forty-two and two tenths per cent. The section's rapid industrial growth is another factor, that must be considered.

The number of "wage farmers" in Southern Georgia, as the Record shows, "increased between 1900 and 1909 at the rate of fifty and eight tenths per cent; the number of wage farmers in mining increased between 1902 and 1909 at the rate of ninety-eight and seven tenths per cent; while the increase in the number of persons operating farms was only sixteen per cent."

The important fact, however, is that our population has multiplied far more rapidly than our food production. To whatever this condition may be due, it must be changed if the South is duty to prosper and win its rightful place in the nation's economic affairs. More corn, more wheat, more of all the necessities of life must be raised. The wondrous variety of our agricultural resources must be turned to better account. Thus the South will become the country's great storehouse and will attain the power and usefulness to which she is naturally destined.

That this idea is now acquiring our people and is already yielding fruitful results, no one who observes present tendencies in the South can doubt. The Boys' Corn Club movement alone is fast increasing our output of grain; the developing interest in truck farming is adding to our food supply. The forces of progress are at work and their effect will become more and more manifest.

The Child Welfare Exhibit.

The Child Welfare and Public Health Exhibit, which opens in Atlanta Monday should appeal keenly to every one who is interested in the community's progress. To parents and students it should be particularly inviting, for it will deal with matters that deeply concern the home and engage the most earnest thought of the educational world. The exhibit will show, for one thing, Atlanta's present sanitary condition, its assuring as well as its unfavorable aspects, the improvements that have been made and the improvements that are still needed. These features are being designed under the direction of Dr. Kennedy, public health officer, and Dr. Claude Smith, city bacteriologist, a fact which makes it certain that they will be of special practical value. The citizen who wants to know how the public's health is cared for cannot do better than to inspect this part of the exhibit.

There will be many other displays of more general interest. The work that is being done for child welfare in Atlanta and throughout the country will be strikingly portrayed. This is a subject which everyone whose sympathies are enlisted in the cause of social betterment and human conservation finds peculiarly absorbing. It can be set forth at the Child Welfare Exhibit to all its important phases.

Atlanta is fortunate in having secured this richly educational exhibit. It visited by the public as it should be. It will mean a vast deal to the city's development in those things that most vitally affect the individual and the home. It will be not only instructive but also stimulating and entertaining. It is to be hoped that its attendance from day to day will be in keeping with the importance of its theme and the intelligence of the community.

Most men who talk well talk too much.

Homes for the Corn Club Boys.

Eighty-five counties will be represented at the Georgia Corn Show which opens next week in Atlanta and at least nine hundred members of the boys' corn clubs will be present.

It is doubtful that so important an exposition of the kind has ever before been developed in any State. Certainly no such enterprise has ever promised more to the agricultural interests of Georgia.

As the host of this popular occasion, Atlanta has a peculiar responsibility. It is called upon, not simply as a duty but as a plausible opportunity, to entertain the nine hundred or more boy visitors during their stay in the city.

These boys come from representative Georgia families and embody all that is best in the youth of the State. Atlanta must make them heartily welcome. There has been a liberal response to the call issued by the Chamber of Commerce for homes for the visitors but several homes are still required. The hospitable people of this community should open their doors and without further delay provide the homes still needed.

Be sure you are wrong—then don't do it.

The bad habits of tailors are often found in multi-parlors.

Transatlantic Flight.

The rumor that a transatlantic air flight from Newfoundland to Ireland will soon be undertaken is rather incredible in America but across the sea it would occasion no surprise. Old World aviators have long expected such an adventure. Some of them, indeed, are said to be making definite preparations to that end. A London newspaper has offered a prize of some fifty thousand pounds to the birdman who first accomplishes this feat and the lists are swarming with possible competitors.

The feat in the current year has brought forth so many wanderers in European aviation that the actual crossing of the Atlantic in an airplane would not be half so startling as it would have been a few seasons ago. One Frenchman has winged his way over the Mediterranean, another has flown from Paris to St. Petersburg and back again; in Germany, Russia, Italy and England the airship has performed marvels of endurance and speed. Continuous flights not very far short of what the transatlantic venture would require have been made, and other projects are awaiting that the latter dream will soon become a fact.

Editorials in Brief

The silkworm is a caterpillar that has broken into business.—Detroit News.

The French Academy of Sciences offers cash prizes for the domestication of heroes with a view to obtaining alibis without killing the birds that bear them. But will fashion want the precious plumage under those conditions?—New York World.

It is estimated that toys to the value of more than twenty-million dollars have been provided to make a Merry Christmas for us this year. If anything, that is not enough. Can there be too many toys? Their inventor was a greater benefactor of the telegraph, the sewing machine or the motion picture. It was probably not a man, but a woman. But the idea, without any doubt, more than all the great men of science, the things really worth knowing?—

The government statisticians who invite our attention to the season's many million-dollar output of toys must have had a pleasant sensation as they set down and added up the pretty figures. It is a new Christmas record, they announce in jubilation. Originated in England, France, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, all countries of the surpassing stock; nine million dollars worth imported, with a home product of eleven millions. In a short while after Christmas there will be almost twenty million dollars worth of wreckage. What the odds? It is hard to feel affection for the fellow that contrived the indestructible toy.—Providence Journal.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM

By Dr. Frank Crane. (Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

After the roses have fallen and their leaves lie a drowsy carpet around the shivering bush; after the warm-loving heliopsis and sunflower and petunia have smelt up at their long-lost lover, the sun, and died, after the Marol first has snuffed all the little summer-blossoms of the garden, and they have dropped their heads forever, then comes the solidified chrysanthemum, the last flaunting banner of the flower army retreating before the enemy of all life—the cold.

It is really its color that is reason. For its colors are not strong and crying, but touched with a positive shade; not fresh pink and hot scarlet, but a pink and that of the moon, and of the haze upon morning waters.

Chrysanthemum colors are as characteristic as nasturtium colors; they are of all kinds, yet with a pervading quality. The tones subdued though they run through all. There are straw colors and cream, sulphur and tarnished gold, saffron and orange and salmon, colors of old rose and violet, magenta and nut brown, but all steeped in mystery.

It is the flower of melancholy, notwithstanding its assertive side and splendor. It is the flower that flourishes on All-Souls' Day, the Day of the Dead. Its fragrance is not its reason. For its colors are immigrants. But while they come from Europe, the chrysanthemum comes from the Levant. In China long ago Chinese celebrated the Day of the Dead, as it is adopted by the Japanese, who made the little begonia-like of the roadside the flower of the blood. Only they stamped its image upon their ancient money, upon the medals upon the sabots of the soldiers of the guard.

The Japanese have employed the chrysanthemum together with the chrysanthemum. Very common, the chrysanthemum is one of the most striking examples of what man can do with the simple products of the soil. In the limit, man has done with it, and to us from overseas has come fantastic, monstrous, fulsome, and bold. It has perked up its petals "like a crown" for the formal occasions, and has been like serpents, cramped them as ladies do their hair. Little by little the horticulturists have made a queen of the Chrysanthemum blossom.

Their Money's Worth of Education

It is very curious that so few care, or dare, to see their money's worth from the American colleges. The poor man gets the best return. He must ask the college first of all, and then himself. It is possible, more efficient than his father; not he gets as a rule, what he pays for. But the poor man is not so much a victim of his father's education as the rich man. The rich man has stored up more or less capital; he has a position waiting for his son; his boy will be able to live comfortably, and his mother will be able to live comfortably. The ability to support himself, the power to make money, is certainly not the most important quality for this boy to possess. Very commonly, especially in the endowed institutions of the East, the boy is educated to a point where he is unable to do anything for himself. It is unnecessary; it may be in vain, or even wrong, for him to enter a grand pursuit of his own. His education is a waste of money, and his father's money is a waste of money.

I know that in stating the situation so flatly I run head on into an American prejudice. The American democratic—even when in no other way than in the matter of the American boy, though millions may hang over his head, must work for his living, must make money. With a righteous fear lest they should thereby endanger their position, the well-to-do father gradually allows his son to enter college, reminds him constantly that the nonsense will be knocked off him as soon as he graduates, and hurries him into business as quickly as the faculty will let him. He is not to be a student, but a man whose labor is measured by returns in cash. If there were danger of starvation ahead he could not live on his father's money. He must make his own money. I do not blame the fathers—even in the instances to which I limit myself—the well-to-do parents of the future. They are applying the American tradition as it was applied to them. Little by little the tradition is changing. Henry S. Canby, in Harper's Magazine for December.

'Twas the Night Before Christmas

A Revised Version. 'Twas the night before Christmas, when all in the shop, Not a salesgirl nor wrapper but thought she was the best. The cash children rushed with the money with cash, With was faces strained, hither, thither they fled. While visions of Christmas flashed through each head. At an hour when rich children were tied in slumber, And seeing themselves for their long winter nap, From tables and counters arose such a clatter As the cash children hurried through each head. The lights from the shining bulbs, white in their glow, Gave a gleam of holiday to objects below. A salesgirl was selling small gifts, Like a flash she knocked off her hat as she hurried to bed. When what to my wondering ears should resound, From a shrill voice you could hear sales girls shout, From a shrill voice you could hear sales girls shout, I knew in a minute she was "the Old Nick." She was dressed all in fur from her feet to her head, And a comfortable feeling of omniscience shed. More spirit than reindeer, reproaches they came, And she scolded and called the poor girl a bare name. "How stupid! You went to bed, dare answer back! I'll report you at once for being so slack. My girls never came. Now where can they be? How such things can happen I really can't see!" And giving a nod, up the store aisle she sailed, Full of wrath that her own "Merry Christmas" had failed.

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL WELLS.

November 11—Up, and to the office and there all the morning and very pleasantly, too, and finished reading "The Dark Flower" and admired it and enjoyed it greatly. Home to dinner where I found Allen and Mrs. Wells, and Mrs. Wells, a fair sweet girl and quick-thinking and I was sorry when they went. Yet those that I care not to do later about till I am warded and out of patience. But so it goes with us here, I fear.

Glass and saw "The Misleading Lady," which began dully and tediously, but grew comical ere it ended. The best acting, methought, was of Mr. Frank Sylvester and Mr. Lewis Stone. The dictum of Misses Ines Duck did irritate me, though, with its alliteration, too common falling on our stage. She said "uprightly," which she might easily avoid. And she hath otherwise a pleasing manner and appearance.

THE POSTAL SERVICE

By Frederick C. Harbin.

It is not improbable that before many years the government will decide that the telegraph system, as much a field for government activities as the banks of carrying letters and printed matter. As a matter of fact, most of the postmaster general of the past thirty years have come out decidedly in favor of a postal telegraph, and those who favor it usually now more than ever before is it advisable for the government to operate a telegraph system, asserting that it will give new value to the parcel post system, it will bring cheap rapid communication to all the people. The advocates of a government telegraph have a rather tight place, for they have not only secured in 1868 by congress, in which it was set forth that the telegraph companies could have the privilege of extending their lines into any unoccupied domain, also that military roads, and over navigable streams, with the right to lay out and building materials, to the extent of forty acres for every fifteen miles line, under three conditions: first, that the postmaster general should be authorized to fix the government rates for the use of these lines; second, that the telegraph companies should be authorized to purchase after five years of operation, at a price to be fixed by the government, the right to use the lines after it had been permitted to exercise those rights until after it had been determined that the acceptance of the obligations and restrictions of the act.

Practically every country then doing business signed the required agreement, and afterward David A. Wells, on behalf of the Western Union Telegraph Company, on behalf of the United States, and undoubtedly is the possessor of the right, outside of the right of eminent domain, to acquire the property of the telegraph companies, and to make a part of his country's policy. When the government acquired the telegraph there was an immediate reduction of the rates of telegraph, and a decrease in the amount of business handled amounting to 100 per cent.

Both the advocates and the opponents of a government-owned telegraph look to Europe for proof of their position. The question of rates are approximately lower in Europe, but the opponents of the government telegraph assert that this cheaper rate is more or less a result of the fact that the telegraph companies in Europe are not so numerous as in this country, and that the telegraph companies in Europe are not so numerous as in this country, and that the telegraph companies in Europe are not so numerous as in this country.

Many oppose the entrance of the government into the telegraph business, and they think that the government policy for the nation's telegraphs to be privately operated, but because they believe that the day of the telegraph is past, and that the telegraph companies should be allowed to operate as they see fit, and that the telegraph companies should be allowed to operate as they see fit, and that the telegraph companies should be allowed to operate as they see fit.

It is asserted by those who advocate the acquisition of the telegraph companies that they are vastly over-capitalized. The telegraph companies in the Western Union, for instance, in 1868 its capital stock was less than $300,000; eight years later it had gone up to $12,000,000, and in 1898 it had reached $100,000,000. The telegraph companies in the Western Union, for instance, in 1868 its capital stock was less than $300,000; eight years later it had gone up to $12,000,000, and in 1898 it had reached $100,000,000.

The government has no one but itself to blame that it does not enjoy a monopoly on the telegraph business. The telegraph companies in the Western Union, for instance, in 1868 its capital stock was less than $300,000; eight years later it had gone up to $12,000,000, and in 1898 it had reached $100,000,000.

Numerous objections have been urged from time to time to the establishment of a postal telegraph. It has been pointed out that the express and telegraph companies continued to operate in the south long after the postal service closed down after the outbreak of the Civil war; that in exciting political times the telegraph companies were used to prevent the news of a political campaign reaching the people, with iron convenience falling on the lines and interrupting communication; that it would increase political corruption; that there might be a tremendous abuse of the telegraph in connection with the government could not transmit messages as efficiently or so promptly as private companies, etc.

Eight times committees of the senate have investigated the telegraph ownership and reported in favor of a government telegraph. Some of the most strongly favored another proposition was brought forward by Gardner Green Hubbard, in the present congress, and that the government should have charge of the handling of messages, parcels, and letters, and that the government should have charge of the handling of messages, parcels, and letters, and that the government should have charge of the handling of messages, parcels, and letters.

Whether there ever will be a postal telegraph in the United States remains to be seen, but whether there will be or not it is generally agreed that they occupy an entirely different plane from any other kind of corporation, and that the government could seek to acquire and operate.

--BY FARREN

ATTELL THINKS HE CAN BEAT KILBANE AND REGAIN TITLE

Once Peerless Featherweight Champ Matched to Meet Kilbane on February 22, and Believes He Is Champ's Master--Abe Claims He Never Lost Championship

Abraham Attell, former king of the ring, is now one of the hapless citizens of America. He has not gotten back his old title, but according to the way he looks at it he has performed the first step toward a sure way of recovering it.

Attell is matched to meet Kilbane, the present champion, who defeated him of the title, in a return match over the derby route. Also has always believed himself Kilbane's master if they should meet again. He is confident that he can beat the Cleveland boy and has made up his mind to do so. Attell has used some pretty hard language against Kilbane. He has threatened to meet him, but he has never done so.

In the first place Attell believed he should have held the title to his championship when on Washington's Birthday, 1912, he defeated Kilbane, the Vermont slug, held up Kilbane's right paw giving him the victory over Attell and the featherweight title with Attell still standing on his feet. Kilbane had an eye closed but still able to fight, and giving out of his operation. Attell would like to give big Charley Epton some of the hard blows Kilbane had so awfully dodged.

It had been a pretty fight. There was much hitting, but not a single knockdown. Kilbane had met Attell at the other side of boxing and had given as himself the little Jew's master. He had expected to see surprised the champion's eye and swatted his nose, until the Cleveland boy had landed the world's champion clean out of his title and had won a world's championship position, a feat never before accomplished in the history of American pugilism.

And right there where Attell has had his account the little Jew's fight he had been beaten. He did not die, but it was a close call. He had been told that he was a champion, still standing on his feet. Attell had many days before in the past he immediately returned. But Kilbane, knowing his inferiority. Instead the champion came east and left Abe on the coast still hollering about his lost laurels and the manner in which they had been taken away from him.

And then Attell pursued the wrong course, a thing the little Hebrew is very apt to do except when in his best form and performing when he hopes to be a champion. He had been told that he was a champion, still standing on his feet. Attell had many days before in the past he immediately returned. But Kilbane, knowing his inferiority. Instead the champion came east and left Abe on the coast still hollering about his lost laurels and the manner in which they had been taken away from him.

Sweeney May Be Red Leader

Captain of Boston Braves Is Given Permission to Negotiate for Tinker's Job

(By Associated Press.) BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The name of Captain Bill Sweeney, of the Boston Nationals, was brought into the field of possible candidates for the position of manager of the Cincinnati baseball team yesterday in a letter sent to Sweeney from New York by President James J. Gaffney of the local club.

Saying that he took into consideration the fact that in other years the Cincinnati club had tried to procure Sweeney as manager, Gaffney notified Boston that he had been given permission to negotiate for the position if he desired. "Were you to succeed it would bring a mixed sense of substance and pleasure to me," President Gaffney wrote.

Sweeney said last night he would consider the matter.

Willie Ritchie and Murphy Will Meet on December 10

Lightweight Champion and Manhattan's Best Lightweight Will Weigh in at 135 Pounds One Hour Before Their Fight

(By Associated Press.) SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Willie Ritchie, champion lightweight of the United States, and Tommy Murphy, perhaps the best lightweight Manhattan has got on the scales and then spent an hour putting on his headgear and getting ready for the contest. He weighed in at 135 pounds an hour before their fight in San Francisco, December 10. This is a new stunt introduced by Willie Ritchie for the benefit of the fight fans. But Ritchie, as may be seen by his photograph, is a very scrawny man.

Many times in his life where he has made a mistake weight, Ritchie has got on the scales and then spent an hour putting on his headgear and getting ready for the contest. He weighed in at 135 pounds an hour before their fight in San Francisco, December 10. This is a new stunt introduced by Willie Ritchie for the benefit of the fight fans. But Ritchie, as may be seen by his photograph, is a very scrawny man.

In his recent contest with Leach Cross in New York, when they were to make 135 pounds, he insisted on weighing in at 9 o'clock for the contest to be held in the evening. They appeared in the ring after the last preliminary ready to go on with the contest. There was no wait and the audience was on the edge of their seats. At 11 o'clock at night Ritchie comes on as a "gentleman fighter" as is possible in the ring. He is a very mild-mannered young man of good address and pleasant ways. He does not drink or smoke, and has no mean habits. In fact, forgetting for the moment that he is a pugilist, he is a model young man.

Syracuse Rumps All Over St. Louis "11"

(By Associated Press.) ST. LOUIS, Nov. 28.—Before a crowd of 10,000 mournful St. Louisans the Syracuse university football team today afternoon literally carried the St. Louis university team first across the half of the gridiron and then across the other half, defeating the locals, 78 to 0.

7,500 Deer Killed in Minnesota Woods

(By Associated Press.) ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 28.—Seven thousand five hundred deer have been killed by hunters in Minnesota in the season which ends tomorrow, according to estimates made by H. A. Rider, of the state game and fish commission. He says it has been the best season for deer since the early part of the decade, despite the absence of snow in the north woods.

Ebbetts Wants Tinker, Ex-Red

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Tinker will not be allowed to go out of the National League circuit, said President Charles H. Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn club, last night regarding Joe Tinker, recently relieved as manager of the Cincinnati team.

"The Brooklyn club is going to make a bid for Tinker and it will be a liberal one," Ebbetts' attention had been called to a published report that President Frank Farrell, of the New York American League club, was anxious to get Tinker.

Lynch Sends Notices

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—President Lynch, of the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs, yesterday sent notices to all presidents of league clubs that the league's annual meeting would be held in this city Tuesday, December 2, at 2 p. m. A meeting of the board of directors will be convened at noon of the same day.

Basketball Men Return to Ala.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA, Nov. 28.—With the football season now a matter of record, the gridiron hero has made his parting bow, and soon the lightly clad basketball player will be held by the athletic director calling the season for basketball, which will hold sway till early spring, to be in turn supplanted by baseball.

Already Alabama is making preparations for the basketball season. This sport was taken up in earnest by the Crimson and White only last year, but a good many were made then, and the season is expected to go off with a rush. Before Thanksgiving a notice was posted by the athletic director calling the candidates for the basketball team to report for work at the end of this week, and as soon as Coach Graves can get the football camp broken up, he will put his goal coaches to hard work.

If the presence of the goal coaches and the university gymnasium.

White Will Manage In Venice in 1915

(By Associated Press.) CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Harry Grabner, secretary of the Chicago American Baseball club, yesterday notified "Doc" White, of the White Sox, that he had been released to the Verdes, Cal. club. White, it is understood, is to fill in the 1914 season as a player and assume charge of the club as manager in 1915.

PANAMA AND THE IN PICTURES AND PROSE CANAL

This book first takes you in through the front door of Panama—through the islands along the way, describing the natives in picture and prose; thence you are taken to the isthmus and are shown the wonders of that unknown country—the people, their strange customs and more strange costumes, their religions and politics, their peculiar characteristics; how they live—how certain natives eat lizards and hugely enjoy them—how they fish and hunt; their sports and pastimes; marketing bananas, shooting alligators, burning charcoal; ALL there is to know about these queer people, and MORE than has ever been told of the great waterway—from the "whys and wherefores" of its inception to the "ins and outs" of its construction—and on through to its completion—in all a beautiful human interest story that will charm the reader to the very last page.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

The Poultry Industry a Public Benefactor

POULTRY keeping is like a great many other things in the world that will not flourish in a large quantity unless it is done in a certain way...

Turning over capital is as advantageous for Mrs. Housewife as it is for Mr. Merchant. Journal Wants are real salesmen for household goods. They are also bargain vendors.

Ford Motor Company Figuring on Additional Story for Its Quarters at No. 311 Peachtree, Expanding Business Requiring More Space—Auction of Rail Frontage on Nelson
Street Is Set for December 12—Demand for Investment Parcels

Automatic concern on Peachtree street has done a fine business just now. The Ford Motor company, which leaves from Mrs. Daria M. Swift the building at 311 Peachtree street on the east side of the street south of the intersection of Ivy street, presents more space to meet the requirements of its expanding business.

THE BUILDING at present contains two stories and two basements, with front porches both on Peachtree and Ivy streets.
It needs another story, and Mrs. Swift is now figuring on the addition.

THE ACQUISITION of the P. M. Adams property on Nelson street, which adding the Walker street development, has been a long time in the making, is now
ADDITION FOR DECEMBER 12.

THE SALE will be held under the direction of Edwin P. Anley, and Forest
A. George, both of the auctioneers.
A large attendance is promised.
