Great Opportunities Await Development

Progressive Determined Citizens Invite Others to Come and Help Build a City and Share Liberally of the Great Profits to Be Derived--A Town that Is Surrounded by a Broad, Rich Agricultural Section--Home of One of the South's Oldest Chartered Educational Institutions--Splendid Transportation Facilities with Quick Outlet to Every Section of the United States.

How Bowdon Solved the Railroad Problem--A High Compliment to the Progressiveness of the Citizenship

BY S. S. HOWLE, (Journal Staff Representative.)

BOWDON, Ga., Nov. 28.—You men with money to invest, either in a commercial establishment, or factory and you, Mr. Farmer, the man that is looking for a choice agricultural section of Georgia, get out your map and look up the location of Bowdon. You'll find it in Carroll county. Look at the trade territory surrounding it. Take a peek at the soil survey as given by the state agricultural department. Study the map carefully. Come down to Bowdon and investigate as I have done and you'll agree with me that the name Bowdon really spells Opportunity. Bowdon is not a city, neither is it any longer a country village. It has thrown off the swaddling clothes and bloomed into a full fledged town. The opportunities are here for a great big city--no matter about the population but it's destined to be one of the best and most progressive cities in Georgia. The opportunities are awaiting development. Most of the citizens here are taking advantage of these natural conditions. They are doing the things that will eventually make the town a city. But these very people, the men who are really accomplishing things, are calling for other public spirited men to come and help build the city. They offer every inducement that will build cities.

the benefits with neighboring towns. Then town rivalry sprang up and some may jealousy between the towns. The railroad was built. It didn't come close enough for Bowdon citizens to even hear the train whistle. The nearest station to Bowdon on the new line was eighteen miles away. Then came a pay day. The pledges were demanded. What had Bowdon profited by the new line? They naturally regretted the fact that they had no railroad, but they had agreed to pay. They were overpowered by a neighboring town of many times the population and had lost. They showed these "guys" proved true blue and paid something like $25,000 for a railroad that came within eighteen miles of the town. The citizens were not to be defeated. They knew no such thing in Bowdon. They are not built that way. They figured that if $25,000 was not sufficient inducement to get other people to build a railroad by their town they would build one of their own.

To accomplish this the Bowdon Railway company was organized. A charter was granted the company in 1903 and just a year later, 1911, the road began operation. That the railroad problem for Bowdon was solved, and the solution came through the efforts and determination of Bowdon's own people.

The prime movers in the solution of the transportation facilities for the town were Dr. J. L. Lovvorn, Dr. R. M. Lovvorn and J. W. Barrow. They not only directed the operations, but backed the undertaking with their own finances. They were supported liberally by many of the local citizens.

Senator Terrell Helps

Dr. Lovvorn and his associates sought and obtained the advice and support of the late senator Joseph M. Terrell. In this matter Senator Terrell displayed his great leadership and business integrity, and those who took prominent part in securing the railroad speak kindly of Senator Terrell, and today honor his memory by declaring that it was he who really eventually solved the all important matter of securing a railroad for Bowdon. Other prominent Georgians who assisted in the promotion of the railroad, men who Bowdon citizens remember kindly are Colonel F. A. Hooper, of Atlanta, and W. A. Winston, of the Central of Georgia railroad. But after all, Dr. J. L. Lovvorn, Dr. R. M. Lovvorn and J. W. Barrow were really the prime movers, but they are too modest to claim the honor of having brought about the new prosperity condition at Bowdon.

What the Railroad Has Meant to Bowdon

As has already been stated the road was organized and chartered under state laws in 1903, with a capital stock of $250,000. With the capital and bonded indebtedness the road was built to connect with the Central of Georgia road at a point thirteen miles distant, now known as Bowdon Junction. In 1911 actual operation was begun. Six passenger trains are operated, three each way daily. This gives quick outlet to all parts of the United States through the connections of the Central of Georgia, for Chattanooga points in the north, with the Southern at Bremen for points east and west, with the Atlanta and West Point at Newnan for New Orleans and other southern points. In fact, the service is all that could be desired by a city many times the size of Bowdon.

The railroad was the one big asset needed to bring out the opportunities that had been dormant so long. With the advent of the road men of means began an influx into the town. New business houses were built. New residences were constructed. At present, just two years after the first train pulled into the town, the population of Bowdon is doubtless that of two years ago, and at present only 1,490. The taxable value are more than four times what they were before the railroad was built. Conservative estimates show that real estate values for the immediate section have enhanced more than a million dollars, and some claim as much as two million.

But with these remarkable increases, property values are not inflated, and I know of no better opportunity for real estate investment than right here in and surrounding Bowdon.

The Railroad is being successfully operated under the direction of the following officers: Dr. J. L. Lovvorn, president; Colonel F. A. Hooper, vice president; A. E. Fleming, secretary and treasurer, and W. W. Chew, general manager. The board of directors consist of Dr. J. L. Lovvorn, Dr. R. M. Lovvorn, Colonel Hooper and J. W. Barrow. Their business ability has been proven by what they have already accomplished.

The Town of Bowdon

The history of the town of Bowdon dates back more than a half century. In 1828 Charles A. McDaniell, then a young man from Trum Oxford, opened a school of high grade, where Bowdon is now located. At that time the country was an unbroken forest. The few settlers that in that section received the new school with enthusiasm. Jubilant with the new institution of learning they set about to secure a postoffice. Hon. Frank Bowdon, of Talladega, Ala., came to the rescue of the community and through his efforts with government officials at Washington secured the postoffice. As a compliment to his endeavors the town and postoffice were named in his honor. A postoffice in the woods many miles from a railroad with only one possible way of identification. That was by the fact that the site was on the line of march by General Jackson en route to Horse Shoe Bend.

Bowdon is located in the western part of Carroll county. It is pre-eminently a town of superb advantages. Therein sit great stores thirty or forty business houses, representing retail and wholesale industries.

I am impressed with the character of the business houses, of the many old wooden buildings only one is left. These have all been replaced with modern brick structures. At present there are new business houses under course of construction. New churches are being built, others have recently been completed. In every part of the town you can be found handsome new homes and many number nearing completion. Show me a town where you constantly hear the ban of carpenter's saw and the knock of his hammer and I will show you a town that will eventually grow into a thriving city. Another reason why I predict a great future for Bowdon.

With strong men for leaders, organization, development and progress are the watchwords in Bowdon. The battle cry is "Forward." Every step is upward. Every move is onward. Object of action has ever characterized the wide-awake citizens. The banner of progress is never furled.

EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGE

With social and moral surroundings all that could be expected of any community, Bowdon is the natural home for educational institutions.

Bowdon college was established in 1882. Just a year later the institution was chartered under the laws of Georgia. It has been one of the leading centers of learning from that day up to the present. The college remained closed during the Civil war. Captain McDaniell raised both rural and in town--lands that are doubling in value every year and that offers big opportunities for investors.

THE PROPER SPIRIT BEHIND BOWDON.

I base my predictions that Bowdon will, within a very few years, be a thriving city on several good reasons. Principally among these is the "progressive spirit" that exists at Bowdon. This progressive spirit is backed by determination and these form that happy combination that will build cities.

Until 1911 Bowdon was virtually "bottled up," that is there was no railroad nearer than thirteen miles, with the nearest depot eighteen miles away. Just how the first and only railroad came to the town is an interesting bit of Bowdon history.

Some years ago a survey was made for a railroad by which Bowdon was to have transportation facilities. The little village, then of only about 80 population, subscribed liberally to secure the new railroad, thinking that they would share

...a company, chiefly of his students, and joined O'Connell's legion. In 1862 he raised and organized the excellent Forty-second Georgia. He was mortally wounded in the battle at Perryville, Ky. Ten years later his remains were removed and reinterred at Bowden. After the war the college was reopened under able management. The institution continued to grow and prosper. In 1901 a modern building, a beautiful two-story brick, was completed. The college has a beautiful campus of five acres and the building is surrounded by a grove of beautiful oaks, some of the trees that witnessed Jackson's march to New Hope House.

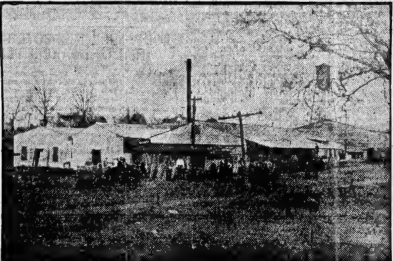

The Handsome New Methodist Church.

The equipment of the building includes all known modern devices and supplies that require an institution for thorough educational work. Bowden college is a co-educational institution. It aims at a system of education which shall measure up to the standard of the best schools. To provide a liberal and thorough education, embracing not only mental discipline and physical training, but moral and spiritual culture, as an essential part of the development of a symmetrical character. To promote the higher educational interest of the people, broadly and accessibly interpreted.

The Lovorn & Word building under construction. The new home of H. Friedman's big department store.

Success from the beginning Bowden enters, with a career long, honorable and useful has been, and is, today, the pride of the town and surrounding country. The graduates from the institution have been phenomenally successful. They are scattered all over the United States and are prominent in the affairs of Georgia. They have carried the honors of the college into the nation's capital; they have established their own work and the reputation of their Alma Mater; men and men of broad culture, a high sense of honor and a noble bearing in all the walks of life. Truly Bowden college has a glorious past and an auspicious future. Among her graduates are teachers, ministers, merchants, lawyers, bankers, farmers, druggists, college professors, college presidents, doctors, authors, journalists, in fact in every walk of honorable life you will find Bowden college graduates as leaders.

Bowden Machine Shops and Planning Mill Owned by O. P. Bennett.

Public Improvements. The natural location of the town adds greatly to the appearance and civic attractiveness. With its natural drainage, parks of large oaks and other natural features, it presents an inviting surrounding and makes an ideal place in which to own a home.

The streets are being given considerable attention. At present there are about two miles of macadamized thoroughfares through the town. This is the beginning of a splendid well-planned system of modern paved streets. There are some tile walks already down, and these will be added rapidly.

The city owns and operates a modern system of electric lights. These radiate to every part of the city, and the service is as good as can be had anywhere.

The water supply is also controlled by the city. The water is naturally pure and large natural spring. The flow from this is sufficient to furnish a city many times the population of Bowden. Plans are under advisement now whereby a sewer system is to be installed and the water main extended to every section of the town.

The business houses present an unusually good appearance. They are all modern brick construction, with attractive fronts. The class of houses are far above the general average of small towns. Those who have built here have done so with a view of the future. In this respect they have put their business houses in advance of other developments.

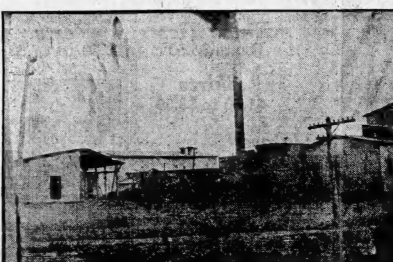

Manufacturing Industries. The manufacturing industry in Bowden is yet in its infancy, when compared with the opportunities that remain yet undeveloped. However, the factories that are now located here do credit to their particular line of industry.

The Bowden Planing Mill and Machine Shop, under the proprietorship of O. P. Bennett, has proven that such enterprises can be made a success in Bowden. This is one of the largest concerns of the kind in the country. They run full time the year around. They manufacture a high-grade of window and door frames, sash and other building materials. They find a ready market for their wares, much of it being used locally. To meet the big demand brought about by the rapid growth of Bowden.

An Every Day Occurrence on the Streets of Bowden.

The Bowden Oil Mills have been a great service to the farmers of a large surrounding territory. It affords a local market for the cotton seed which, the highest prevailing market price. The mills are of modern equipment. A ginery is operated in connection with the oil mills. This is a modern fertilizer-making plant. The feature of the plant has proven highly successful. They manufacture a high-grade lot of chemicals, and these are a ready market with the farmers in surrounding farm territory.

Bowden Oil Mills and Fertilizer Plants.

Bowden Roller Mills is included in the successful manufacturing plants that the new material for same being furnished by the farmers of the immediate section.

The wholesome interest is represented by two grocery concerns. The Lovorn Grocery company, with J. E. Lovorn, as president; John T. Taylor, vice president; Colonel H. P. Boykin, secretary, and J. A. Hearn, treasurer, is one of the strongest concerns of the kind in Georgia. They do an extensive business and supply the retail grocery trade in Bowden and a large territory in the surrounding country.

The other grocery concern is a branch of the Turner Grocery company of Carrollton. Surrounded by a Rich Agricultural Section. Bowden is located in the very heart of a rich agricultural section. The trade territory is unusually large, extending several miles in every direction, covering a large section of Georgia and reaching far into Alabama.

The country is populated with a splendid class of thrifty farmers. This is another feature in favor of Bowden that is far above the average, when it comes to making comparisons. The farmers apply business methods in cultivating their crops. They farm for the income that they make from their lands, and not for a mere living and existence.

The lands are also above the average from a point of production. They are well watered and produce abundantly when properly cultivated. They yield abundant crops of corn, oats, cotton, hay and other foodstuffs. An average of a bale of cotton to the acre is the rule, rather than the exception on the farms that surround Bowden.

With the advent of the railroad into Bowden farm lands values increased. Land may be had in this section from $25 to $75 per acre, owing to location and improvements.

The country is well adapted to truck and fruit growing. Apples are successfully grown. Vegetables of all kinds thrive and yield a profit to those who wish to enter this line of industry.

Postal Receipts Indicate Growth of Town. The postal records of any community is a good index to progress of such town and surrounding territory. The Bowden postoffice proves no exception. To the contrary it tells its own story. It shows better than words could tell just what the coming of a railroad to Bowden really meant. Here is Postmaster H. L. Moore's own story as taken from his records:

"One year ago the first rural routes were set out from Atlanta. Six months, two and three started on their initial trip the same day. Number four was established a few months later, and then within a year Number five was begun. Of course there were not so many people living on the routes then as now, and those living on the routes were not fully awake to the advantages and benefits of the service. At that time we had two star routes bringing the mail, one from Waco, bringing the bulk of the mail arriving here about noon; the other from Carrollton, arriving at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. At that time the rural carriers left on their routes as soon as the mail could be made up after the arrival from Waco, sometimes as late as 2:30 p. m., returning to Bowden earlier than 8 p. m. The first month average showed about 1,500 pieces of mail to each route. The service was improved from time to time and now we have expanded mail service, viz. Three outgoing and three incoming trains each day. The rural carriers, instead of leaving here in the afternoon and returning late at night, now leave at 7:30 in the morning and return here at 2:30, and their collections are dispatched at 4 o'clock, whereas when the service was begun here the dispatch was made the following morning at 8 o'clock, and reached the railroad at noon the same day. The growth of the service has kept pace with the facilities. The five routes during the months of October, as the detail record shows, distributed a total of 35,657 pieces of mail. The total collection was 14,675. There are about twenty-five merchants, sixteen churches and seventeen schools houses on the five routes out of Bowden."

"The Bowden office has about fifteen hundred loan patrons, that is, that number of people receive their mails from the local windows. "This office was passed from the fourth to third-class offices in January this year, just a year later, the deposits were $111,145.01, or a net gain for one year, $69,734.71. ...this institution are in the hands of progressive, wide-awake business men, men who are quick to respond to the demand of any undertaking that will eventually redound to the uplifting of the town and community. They operate on a liberal business basis. They guard carefully the funds entrusted to them by their depositors and offer in return every possible advantage in keeping with a high-class banking business.

That this bank has the confidence of the business men and the public is evidenced by the growth and development of the institution. It was chartered under the laws of Georgia October 5, 1909, and began operation with a capital stock of only $15,000. A few years later the capital stock, mostly taken from the surplus and earnings, to $25,000. The business demands increased and to meet these the capital stock was increased to $50,000. The deposits at present is a strong index.

I find an unusual lot of progressive and public spirited business men in Bowden. They are alive to their advantages here and pull together in everything that tends to make a better town. Here is a list of the progressive citizens who invite prospectors to come and investigate the advantages offered at Bowden. It was these people that made it possible to extend this invitation through the columns of the Journal. W. T. Johnson, furniture dealer and prosperous farmer; O. P. Bennett, proprietor of the Bowden Planing Mills and Machine Shop; H. Friedman, a successful young merchant and one of the largest stores that ever operated a business in any town; Vance & Griffin, successful merchants who have the confidence and esteem of every citizen of Bowden; Fowler & McCoy, general merchandise, raw cotton and fertilizer dealers; L. E. Hearn, publisher of the Bowden Bulletin, one of the best weekly newspapers in Georgia; S. C. Campbell, jeweler, and one of the most public spirited citizens of the town; Hoop Brothers, progressive grocers; Bowden Drug company, T. M. McConnell, an excellent promoter; Bowden Bottling works; H. M. Reid, merchant and builder; Dr. J. G. Morris, dentist; J. A. Fowler, hardware dealer; C. B. Wilson, another public spirited citizen; G. W. Burton, mayor; W. A. McLenon, cotton buyer and builder; Dr. J. L. Lovorn, the largest property holder in the county; Railroad president, banker, oil mill man, in fact closely identified with every progressive movement ever launched in Bowden. He is a real estate investor and a public spirited citizen; E. P. Sewell, physician and a citizen that is always active in the best interest of the town and community; E. F. A. Martin and E. G. Wilson, physicians; E. B. Huttenberg, merchant; W. B. McGarity, a substantial farmer of Graham, Ala.; A. E. Fleming, member of the Bank of Bowden and a fine, progressive real estate man; E. H. M. Boyd, proprietor of the Royal Hotel; J. E. Lovorn, president of the Lovorn Grocery company, and John D. Hildreth, a former citizen of Bowden and now a successful real estate dealer of Atlanta, with offices at 129-2 Empire building--(Adv.)

The editor of Everybody's Magazine goes on to say that "in every community there are stores which can properly say that simply because they have been fairly earning the confidence of the local public and now are standing firmly on that public's good will."

In Atlanta The Globe Is That Store

For twenty-three years this store has been both frank and intimate with its public. Been building up confidence all the time. The public isn't afraid of humbug here. The public believes that what our salespeople say is so. If there are "bargains" now and then they are real bargains for real reasons...

The Globe Clothing Co. Believes "Caveat Emptor"

There was an old commercial ideal wrought into law, which law still has a measure of respect from its antiquity, though hardly from its respectability. 500,000 MEN FOR FIFTY YEARS PRICE OF WAR WITH MEXICO

Captain West Says Intervention Means Subjugation and Army Over Twice Present Size

Intervention in Mexico—if it does come—will be no mere matter of blockading the ports and capturing the capital city and then sitting content, declared Captain Ernest M. West...

Intervention will mean no less than complete subjugation and domination of the Mexican republic by our armies...

"It would be a matter of doing something or nothing," said Captain West...

"And fifty years of war would mean that four before the end of that period the United States would be recruiting its army for war, an army of 1,000,000 men, and conscription to keep the force recruited."

"The relations between the United States and Mexico are financial. There is no personal equation involved."

"Under the Monroe doctrine, we stand for Mexico before the rest of the world," said Captain West...

Captain Ernest M. West

United States Marine officer, a former Atlantan, who says that if the United States does intervene in Mexico it will mean fifty years war, an army of 1,000,000 men, and conscription to keep the force recruited.

"If 500,000 troops are needed in Mexico for that length of time, it is perfectly apparent that enlistments in the army, navy and marine corps labor must be by conscription and not by voluntary enlistment."

"The present board of trustees, appointed by the convention and composed of the leading Baptist business men of Atlanta and the state at large, are planning largely and wisely in projecting a campaign for enlargement upon a $100,000 basis, which, in its ultimate consummation, will bring to this greatest city of the south a second Johns Hopkins."

"There will be great commercial value commensurate to the city and community by the presence of such an institution as this in its midst. It will bring money to the city and to the individuals who contribute to its promotion. Besides, it is Christian and philanthropic in its mission, fulfilling the humanitarian ideal Jesus, who is the harbinger of this time walk on earth to the healing of the world."

"The mission of the church as given by Jesus is threefold—spiritual, intellectual and philanthropic. Thousands of these have been given to the world since the erection of church buildings for worship in the preaching of the gospel. In the erection of buildings for schools, colleges and universities, where the intellect can be trained under the highest Christian ideals, all this in the name of Christianity."

"The Christian people of all churches shall have invested an amount of money in hospitals proportionate to that invested in churches and schools, when the same attention is given to the healing of the body as to the training of the mind—'thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' The blind see, the lame walk, the sick are healed, as well as say, 'The poor have the gospel preached to them,' then will the kingdom of God have come to this world."

ATLANTA TO HAVE SECOND JOHNS HOPKINS

Baptists Plan to Make Tabernacle Infirmary South's Greatest

The following appeal in behalf of the Georgia Baptist hospital, formerly the Tabernacle Infirmary of Atlanta, is issued by the board of trustees, beginning the campaign to make the hospital a 200,000 institution.

"On July 3, 1903, Dr. Len G. Broughton, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, began in a small building at 47 Spring street, an infirmary for the care of the sick in Atlanta and vicinity, who were not financially able to secure attention in a larger and more expensive hospital."

"In 1908 a three-story brick building was erected at 92 Luckie street, which is the present home of the hospital. There are here in wards and private rooms accommodations for sixty patients."

"On March 15, 1913, the board of trustees, representing the Baptists of Georgia, and acting under the instruction of the Georgia Baptist convention, purchased from the Tabernacle church its infirmary at a cost of $50,000. A charter was obtained, incorporating the institution under the name of the Georgia Baptist hospital."

"During the existence of this hospital more than 4,000 patients have been treated. The total income from the institution from all sources has been a little more than $250,000. More than $100,000 has been spent in the treatment of charity patients alone."

"At the recent session of the Georgia convention at Gainesville, Ga., the seal of approval was put upon this enterprise by heartily and unanimously giving the hospital a place along with the other great enterprises fostered by the convention."

"The present board of trustees, appointed by the convention and composed of the leading Baptist business men of Atlanta and the state at large, are planning largely and wisely in projecting a campaign for enlargement upon a $100,000 basis, which, in its ultimate consummation, will bring to this greatest city of the south a second Johns Hopkins."

"The mission of the church as given by Jesus is threefold—spiritual, intellectual and philanthropic. Thousands of these have been given to the world since the erection of church buildings for worship in the preaching of the gospel."

"The Christian people of all churches shall have invested an amount of money in hospitals proportionate to that invested in churches and schools, when the same attention is given to the healing of the body as to the training of the mind—'thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' The blind see, the lame walk, the sick are healed, as well as say, 'The poor have the gospel preached to them,' then will the kingdom of God have come to this world."

Stock Market Conditions Remain Unchanged, Business Very Small

Representative Stocks Barely Moved Although There Was Slight Soaring Down of Prices Which Gave Easy Tone

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Conditions were virtually unchanged today in the stock market, which continued to move listlessly with a small volume of business. Representative stocks were barely moved although there was a slight falling down of prices which gave the market an easy tone.

The only movements of importance were among the specialties, a number of which were weak. The most conspicuous was Goodrich preferred, which fell a point to 72 1/2 on news that the dividend on the preferred might be reduced but the rumor was not confirmed. The Gas issue, Humely and various other specialties followed the lead of the market.

In the railroad list Missouri Pacific was weak, following the downward movement of currency to Canada and the Pacific coast was chiefly responsible for the loss of 1/4 point. In the bank statement, Predictions of a cash loan of $20,000,000 were reiterated, the amount reaching nearly $1,800,000,000. Loans were cut down $1,800,000,000 in deposits in nearly $300,000,000 and the amount of currency in circulation was clearly to prevent the wiping out of the surplus and reserve funds.

Trade receipts showed retrenchment and conservatism in business. Canadian receipts reported an increase in the month for October of $41,000, but Rock Island showed a decline of $2,000,000. Bonds were easy. Total sales value, $10,000,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call on the new issue.

LONDON STOCKS. LONDON, Nov. 29.—The stock market was quiet today. The market was chiefly responsible for the loss of 1/4 point. In the bank statement, Predictions of a cash loan of $20,000,000 were reiterated, the amount reaching nearly $1,800,000,000. Loans were cut down $1,800,000,000 in deposits in nearly $300,000,000 and the amount of currency in circulation was clearly to prevent the wiping out of the surplus and reserve funds.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW ORLEANS COTTON MARKET

Net Result Was Decline of 5 Points on December 4 to 11 Rise on Others

(By Associated Press.) NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—This was a dull week in the cotton market. The principal feature in the market was the decline of trading was the liquidation from both sides. Early in the week losses were lightening their loads of contracts, but from Wednesday on shorts were the heavier traders and bought covers for much cotton. This was a supporting influence of importance.

The net results of the week's trading were a decline of 5 points on December 4 to 11 and a rise on others. The high prices were made on Friday and the low prices were scattered through the week. At the highest the trading months were 4 to 14 points over last week's close; at the lowest they were 2 to 22 points under.

Each week since the week of December deliveries, and notion for about a week. They had the effect of driving out of the market a large number of speculators and put the price of cotton at a level which was not so high as the selling continued, but not in large volume, and the sweet level touched by any month in many weeks.

At the end of the first half hour of the market, the price was 12 1/2 cents. The market was steady but not strong. The price of cotton was 12 1/2 cents. The market was steady but not strong. The price of cotton was 12 1/2 cents.

The following were the ruling prices for the week: December 1, 12 1/2; December 2, 12 1/2; December 3, 12 1/2; December 4, 12 1/2; December 5, 12 1/2; December 6, 12 1/2; December 7, 12 1/2; December 8, 12 1/2; December 9, 12 1/2; December 10, 12 1/2; December 11, 12 1/2; December 12, 12 1/2; December 13, 12 1/2; December 14, 12 1/2; December 15, 12 1/2; December 16, 12 1/2; December 17, 12 1/2; December 18, 12 1/2; December 19, 12 1/2; December 20, 12 1/2; December 21, 12 1/2; December 22, 12 1/2; December 23, 12 1/2; December 24, 12 1/2; December 25, 12 1/2; December 26, 12 1/2; December 27, 12 1/2; December 28, 12 1/2; December 29, 12 1/2; December 30, 12 1/2.

Covering and Scattered Buying Caused the Advance in Cotton

LIVERPOOL CABLES WERE LOWER THAN EXPECTED

Futures Closed 31-2 to 4 Pts. Down—Spots 6 Points Up, Sales 4,000 Bales

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Liverpool was due to move upward 2 1/2 points over the spot price to 3 1/2 points. The opening was steady and the market advanced to 4 to 4 1/2 points in response to low cables, but prices quickly rallied to the level of yesterday's late rates in the absence of any news from the cotton market.

The following were the ruling prices for the week: December 1, 3 1/2; December 2, 3 1/2; December 3, 3 1/2; December 4, 3 1/2; December 5, 3 1/2; December 6, 3 1/2; December 7, 3 1/2; December 8, 3 1/2; December 9, 3 1/2; December 10, 3 1/2; December 11, 3 1/2; December 12, 3 1/2; December 13, 3 1/2; December 14, 3 1/2; December 15, 3 1/2; December 16, 3 1/2; December 17, 3 1/2; December 18, 3 1/2; December 19, 3 1/2; December 20, 3 1/2; December 21, 3 1/2; December 22, 3 1/2; December 23, 3 1/2; December 24, 3 1/2; December 25, 3 1/2; December 26, 3 1/2; December 27, 3 1/2; December 28, 3 1/2; December 29, 3 1/2; December 30, 3 1/2.

Bad News From Steel and Copper Trades and Decrease Railroad Earnings Did Not Bring About Further Declines

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Steadiness of the stock market this week, during a period of exceptional dullness, indicated that unfavorable factors now discernible have been discounted.

The case presented by the railroads for the proposed five per cent increase of freight in official classification territory was considered insufficiently strong to justify the assumption that an increase in freight rates would be necessary.

CHILD WELFARE CLUBS FORMED IN SOUTH GA.

Miss Agnes McKinna Organizes Local Boards in Many Enthusiastic Cities

QUITMAN, Ga., Nov. 29.—The visit of Miss Agnes McKinna to south Georgia and incidentally to Quitman several days ago, is bringing vividly to the minds of people in this section a wonderfully interesting missionary work that is being done in Georgia. This is the message Miss McKinna is repeating to the people of each community she visits: "Would you rather contribute money now to find homeless children and place them in normal homes, or let them grow up in ignorance and disease, possibly to become criminals, and give money to the institutions to which they are consigned by law?"

Miss McKinna is superintendent of the Savannah district of the Georgia Child Welfare Society. She has been endeavoring to find homes for the children who are being neglected in the various counties of the state. She is now in the county of Quitman, where she will hold a series of meetings in each county which will be visited and children in need of the society's help will get it as Miss McKinna and her local boards find the cases require it.

The members of the local board in Quitman are Miss Nona McCall, Mrs. J. Grover, Rev. J. W. Taylor, Mr. J. W. Cole, Rev. C. A. Campbell, Dr. C. Maloy, Mrs. P. Cater, John E. Morris, J. P. Clark. The Valdosta board is Mrs. W. P. West, Mrs. J. A. Crawford, Mrs. J. M. Dutton, Mrs. A. J. Birchard, Mrs. C. C. Brantley, Mrs. L. A. Patten, Mrs. B. C. Havenell, Miss Alice Groover, Judge W. B. Thomas, Rev. A. T. Sims, Mr. J. H. Griffin, O. M. Smith, A. E. Dimmock, J. N. Smith, W. B. Conely, Jr., J. Dowling, M. Langford, J. La. Gidness, C. T. Fox.

The Waynesboro board is not completed but the first two members are Mrs. W. J. Hinson and Mrs. C. W. Dixon.

SAYS URUGUAY SCHOOLS ARE BETTER THAN OURS

ROSTON, Nov. 29.—"The rural schools of the United States have been shamefully neglected and are in a deplorable condition," said Edward M. Crawford, a school superintendent in a school county, Illinois, in an address before the State Teachers' association here yesterday. The speaker declared that the rural education that does the United States.

"The greatest need of our country today," he added, "is to popularize rural life that the flow of country boys and girls to the cities may be checked."

HEIR TO $200,000 IS FOUND AFTER SEARCH

(By Associated Press.) PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 29.—After a long search Mrs. Eugenia Griffin, of Pittsburg, left for the home of her late husband, Isaac N. Crawford, of Logansport, Ind., her father, was found today.

The Movies Tomorrow

This is to be a solid week of entertainers for those who like to see a picture. The first picture is "The Elitist," a beautiful picture of a man who is a great success in business and in love. The second picture is "The Elitist," a beautiful picture of a man who is a great success in business and in love.

THE ALAMO NO. 2

Atlanta will be the scene of the Alamo No. 2, the most gorgeous high class spectacle ever presented in this city. The picture is a story of the Alamo and the brave men who fought for it. It is a picture of a man who is a great success in business and in love.

BLEASE DEFENDS PARDON AND ATTACKS THE PRESS

In Address at Anderson He Says He is Going to Defeat Senator Smith

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) ANDERSON, S. C., Nov. 29.—Defense of his pardoning record, his still standing by his friends, an attack on the United States senators for failure to agree on federal patronage, and expressions of confidence in his ability to beat Senator E. D. Smith next summer featured the speech of Governor Cole Blease in the court house this afternoon to 1,000 Anderson county voters.

The governor drew cheers from the crowd when he declared that President Wilson would not be re-elected unless he changed the policy, as he declared of the national Democratic administration allowing negroes to boss white men and white women in the governmental service in Washington. He stated as his belief, that Wilson would not have been elected had it not been for the split in the Republican party.

The governor explained his pardoning of Emerson and Eitzen, two noted Anderson men, and justified his action because of the large positions in their behalf. He declared that he had no apology to make for his act.

DALTON CHILD DRENCHED WITH BOILING WATER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) DALTON, Ga., Nov. 29.—A cook stove breathing fire from the chimney of a little three-year-old child was drenched with boiling water from the stove, the child being badly scalded about the face and breast. The little girl was seated with her mother, near the stove, and Mrs. Hill was covered with boiling water from another vessel, being drenched. Attending physicians stated that while the child's injuries are of a critical nature they have serious hope of her recovery.

ELECTRIC PLANT STRIKE HAS BEEN CALLED OFF

The peace pact was ratified by the Trades Alliance.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Congress reported an official agreement for the settlement of the strike at the General Electric plant today. A copy of the agreement was sent to the Trades Alliance for approval. The agreement contemplates reopening of the shops Monday. All the striking employees, including Frank Dulay and Miss Mabel Leslie, union leaders, whose removal caused the strike, may return to work.

TRAINS COLLIDE AND CATCH FIRE; FOUR HURT

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Two Third avenue elevated trains collided this afternoon at the Chatham square junction of the Second and Third avenues lines. Four persons were hurt.

One of the trains was forced upon the station platform by the impact, and both trains caught fire after the collision.

CARLTON GAY BETTER; ASSAILANT STILL FREE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) COLQUHITT, Ga., Nov. 29.—Condition of Carlton Gay, who was shot from ambush some nights ago, seems better today and some hopes are held out for him. He rested better last night than any time since he was shot. Mr. Gay has been express messenger on the train for the last few months, but was on a vacation while shot. No arrest has been made yet, although they are expected at any time.

More than $250,000 now Subscribed---

Hundreds of others ready to join us---

That is the story in brief to date, of

Silver Lake Estates

NEVER has a business proposal put before the people of Atlanta, Georgia and the South, met with more prompt or gratifying response than our invitation to join us in the purchase, development and sale of the SILVER LAKE property.

We knew we had a splendid business proposition. It needed only that others should find it out.

THEY HAVE FOUND IT OUT. They came by the hundred to our SILVER LAKE ESTATES display shown last week at 57 Peachtree street.

Many of them subscribed and signed up; many others are ready and will complete their subscriptions this week.

Gathered from our exhibit we have the names of 1,000 persons everyone of whom expressed warm interest in our plans---

ENOUGH TO ESTABLISH SILVER LAKE ESTATES TWICE OR THREE TIMES OVER

Some of the best business men of Atlanta and the South are with us.

One man came in from New York to join us; another came in from Philadelphia, while still another came from Pittsburg and is preparing to subscribe.

One man came to us from North Carolina, and South Carolina is represented several times.

A Florida business man sent a personal representative to look into SILVER LAKE ESTATES; that representative has advised him that it is good.

Middle Georgia sends in a $10,000 subscription, and South Georgia has come forward with its duplicate.

We might go on detailing incidents one after another almost indefinitely, but the meat in the cocoon is that---

MORE THAN ONE-HALF OF THE $500,000 CAPITAL NEEDED FOR SILVER LAKE ESTATES HAS BEEN TAKEN

If you are interested and care to know the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined us, the list is open to your inspection at our offices.

The object of this advertisement is to let our friends and subscribers know that---

SILVER LAKE ESTATES IS MORE THAN ASSURED. It is not a case of "Will Be," IT IS!

If you are interested with us, we congratulate you!

The recent warm spell has left the coat manufacturers, of the East, with a great deal of material on hand unused.

To make room for their spring cuttings, they have made every effort to clear the remainder of their winter woolsens.

Our New York buyer, taking advantage of this condition, has made up for us 200 coats, assorted, both in lined and half-lined models, every one of which is an accurate reproduction of best models.

All are made in fine shapes, suitable for immediate use. Distinctiveness with style and serviceableness are features which are seldom found in coats sold at price above quoted.

Not a coat shown in this lot could have been had a week ago for less than twenty-five dollars.

Your Choice Tomorrow, Fifteen Dollars

The cuts and styles are such that you will buy on sight, for immediate use. Raglan sleeves and set-in kimono sleeve styles predominate.

Every good material, and every good color, and every good shape, is represented in the offering.

DRESSES and SUITS at Frohsin's December Reductions!

Sale Starts Tomorrow Morning at 8 o'Clock

TOMORROW morning, we start our DECEMBER CLEARANCE SALE on Women's, Misses and Junior SUITS and Wool DRESSES! In former years, this December Sale did not take place till AFTER Xmas--but we've moved this sale up to DECEMBER FIRST--TOMORROW--because of the following reason:

"We have other departments, well-stocked with XMAS GIFT goods! In order to get Xmas shoppers into our store EARLY--before the usual RUSH--we have decided to offer, as a special attraction, aforesaid CLEARANCE SALE--NOW!"

The SUITS and DRESSES are in the season's handsomest models, of all the desirable fabrics, in black and colors. The DRESSES include, besides regular sizes, also special designs in odd sizes for extra large women, who usually find it hard to be fitted.

We will add that all SUITS and DRESSES are the high-class Frohsin models--and we desire to remind you that Frohsin's every-day prices are always lower than at other good stores. Therefore, a FROHSIN sale has special significance!

The schedule of tomorrow's price-reductions follows:

Here Are the Suits!
(All Suits Altered Free of Charge)

Special Monday Offering in Our Suit and Dress Department Half-Price Sale of Fine Suits

We will place on sale Monday morning our entire stock of fine Velvet and Imported Novelty Suits, both two and three-piece—at just one-half the former selling price. This is the sale we usually put on after Xmas, but owing to the continued warm weather and the very large stock of suits we have on hand, we decided to start the sale Monday, Dec. 1st, giving you the entire winter to wear it in.

Not every suit will be offered at half price—only the velvets and imported models.

$75 Suits $37.50 $85 Suits $42.50 $97.50 Suits $48.75 $110 Suits $55.00 $150 Suits $75.00

A Mid-Winter Sale of Fine Shoes at ALLEN'S

The last two months of warm, dry weather has played havoc with the shoe business in Atlanta. "It is an ill wind, however, that blows no one any good." Commencing Monday, December 1st, we offer every high shoe in our stock at greatly reduced prices. This sale offers a remarkable money saving opportunity to the shoe buying public of Atlanta and the South—as the Allen shoe standard is high. The grade of shoes sold the best. The shoe styles here, if the weather had been colder, would have been eagerly snapped up several weeks ago, as very few stores have enough Cuban French heels to supply the demand.

CAPUDINE

A DOSE OF HICKS' CAPUDINE IN A LITTLE WATER CURES HEADACHE, COLDS AND GRIPES

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. ATLANTA-NEW YORK-PARIS Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.

News--Such as You Read But Once in a Year-- Tomorrow The Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company's Clearaway of Suits and Dresses

Here it is, the classic of the suit and dress occasions.

Atlantians know in a measure what to expect, but they do not know how drastically prices have been cut, the absolute finality the sale lends to the suit and dress question.

Women have a right to know such news. They would not like it a bit did we not print it.

Suppose you, for one, not knowing of these prices, started out tomorrow to select a suit, and after it was too late learned what savings were possible here. Indeed, you would not like it a bit!

So this advertisement is of mutual concern and benefit.

We shall right stocks, you shall have the choice at cut rates on suits that only the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. suit store could offer.

Is there any need of descriptions, should we attempt to word this huge collection of suits and dresses that are as right as fashion itself in this good season?

We think not.

The character of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s ready-to-wear through the regular season stands out boldly.

These suits and these dresses are those that have given it character, have set it above and apart from the rest.

Assured then of so much style, of that charm, chic, verve that reduced prices alone could not give to the woman who is in the least particular, the story of tomorrow's event is complete when you know the little cost of things, the fine economies you shall enjoy--

THE SUITS

Suits Now . . . . .

The rich and exquisite, "Novelty" Suits, including velvets that were $50 to $85, now Half Price

Note

It is pertinent to add that in this greatest disposal of the season there are suits of a far greater diversity than any individual would care to look over. It is catholic in its scope. There are sizes for the woman of stout figure, there are misses' sizes. The shades you know to be favored this season are the prominent ones; there are plenty of black and blue suits, there are the smartest of trimmed suits and the trimmest of smartly tailored suits, notable among the latter are the Max M. Schwarcz suits now $25.00, for which we are the exclusive agents. Women of discrimination will readily appreciate a sale that brings the real Max M. Schwarcz suit at $25.

The Dresses

$25, $29.75 and $31.75 $14.75 $35, $40 and $50 $23.75

Silk Dresses now

$25.00, $35.00 to $45.00 Velvet Dresses, now Half Price

They may be termed street and afternoon dresses. Also they may be termed exquisite creations with all the Americanized Parisian chic that master makers could impart. To list the fabrics and colors means to list the most favored right now--the canton crepes, the crepes de chine, the brocaded crepes, the charmeuses in mahogany, greens, blues, tans, purples, wistarias, etc. Wonderful styles! But we will leave all those wonderful effects of lace waists, of bold plaid girdles and rich embroideries to your eyes.

Been waiting for such a sale?
Then do not delay a moment in the morning.

When the Big 14-Inch Guns---

of Uncle Sam's super-dread-noughts boom, the lesser roar of small guns is as nothing. So with sales, the clatter of things done in a little way is dimmed, and the odium that attaches to comparisons gives place to the common sense of saving.

This sale brings to the women of Atlanta and vicinity greater economies (collectively and individually) than any similar sale the year knows.

Are you going to miss your share?

To Mrs. Seydel

Mrs. E. D. Kennedy was hostess at luncheon Saturday at the Capital City club, in compliment to Mrs. Herman Seydel, of New York, who is the guest of Mrs. Shephard W. Foster. Lady Hillington roses in artistic arrangement formed the central arrangement of the beautifully appointed table, and place cards and bouquets continued the home suggestion. Monday afternoon Mrs. James Jackson will entertain at a box party in compliment to Mrs. Seydel, which will be followed by a tea given at the Georgian Terrace by Mrs. Vasser Woolley.

The Autumn Glory

Oh, the olden, golden glory With the autumn poms unfurled, Handling every hilltop hoary, Flaming up and down the world! Scarlet bough and crimson creeper, Burning branch and kindling spire, Dawn on dawning growing deeper With the transitory fire!

Morn on morn a radiant shaping Of a necessary sunrise; Eys on eys a lapt redressing Of the tapestries of time!

Not for one this evening, wonder, Whence all so rarely splendore be, For all men dwelling under The dominion of the sun.

For from some celestial portal, Whence all so rarely splendore be, Comes a voice to every mortal: "Lo, lift up thine eyes and see!" —Clinton Scollard.

There Are Imitations Now

But Newbro's Herpicide Was the "First True Dandruff Destroyer"

A particular thing can be accomplished but once. After that all similar acts become emulations, imitation or an attempt at substitution. Newbro's Herpicide followed the discovery that dandruff is of germinical origin. It was the first remedy ever given to science in harmony with this discovery. Other preparations have since been offered to the public, some similar in appearance, some in odor, but all bringing the daring promise of doing the same things that Herpicide has been doing for years. Every article of this kind is merely one more instance of vicious imitation, vile imitation or a base attempt at substitution. The "something just as good" story is old, why give it a thought? Herpicide is the Original Remedy. Thousands testify to the value of this preparation in the eradication of dandruff and to prevent falling hair. Itching of the scalp stops almost with the first application. Don't be deceived by "something just as good." If your own druggist does not keep the genuine dandruff destroyer, Newbro's Herpicide, go to one who does. Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. H, Detroit, Mich. Applications may be obtained at Food houses showing Jacob's Pharmacy, Special Agents.

HAPPENINGS IN LONDONTOWN

(By the Countess of Warwick.) According to Yankee critics, the ladies are only members of our royal family who are not so much interested in the social life as we are now at home.

Princess Mary remains the "youngest" girl of her age in society. The queen has a human enough fancy to keep her children as long as possible, and she has a positive terror of the idea when it will be necessary for her daughter to leave her about the time she is to be married.

The court will come to London on Monday, February 1, in readiness for the opening of parliament next day. The king will deliver his speech in person, and the occasion will mark at least everyone seems to think a momentous crisis in our history.

Queen Mary made a rather unexpected appearance at Newmarket, and she was warmly welcomed. Rumors were very much to the effect that she was to be seen in the park on the 15th of the month.

The king, I hear, had a pleasant visit in Bermuda before returning to Sandringham. He spent part of the time at Mount Pitts and on Chippenham park preserve, which belong to the crown.

WEDDINGS

Dunn-Johnson

Thursday morning the marriage of Mrs. Lilly Dunn to Mr. Thomas E. Johnson, of East Point, took place in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends at the home of the bride's sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hutchins.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Tillman.

Mrs. Dorate Perkins was matron of honor, and Mrs. James Perkins best man.

The parlor was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the altar being banked with palms and ferns, among which were arranged clusters of white roses.

The bride wore a blue traveling suit and carried a bouquet of bride roses.

Miss Floy Porter, Miss Zolma Sherrill, Miss Dora Johnson and Miss Cora Hutchins served punch.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for a visit to Columbus, and upon their return will be at home in Edgewood.

Horton-Hill Wedding

A pretty home wedding was that of Miss Allie Horton and Mr. Robert Hill, which took place Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ruth V. Horton, Hanger, Ga.

The house was decorated with ferns, white chrysanthemums and honeysuckles, the bridal party being grouped before a arch of honeysuckles and chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids were Misses Beaula and Stella Horton, and Misses Letta and Myrtle Hill, sisters of the bride and groom.

The flower girls were little Estelle and Dora Kate Merrill, and Bonnie Horton, a sister of the bride.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of cream satin with trimmings of pearls and lace, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Smith, and the wedding march was rendered by Miss Mamie Merrill.

After the ceremony Miss Velma Byrd presided at the punch bowl.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Q. H. Hopper, of Oakland; Mr. W. O. Hayward, of Columbus; Misses Letta and Myrtle Hill, of Hanger; Mr. Earl Ashworth, of Chattahoochee, and Miss Clara Ashworth, of Columbus.

After a wedding journey to Chattanooga and Nashville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Hill will make their home in Hangerville.

Hilsman-Edmondson

Miss Emma Lou Hilsman, of Albany, and Mr. J. C. Edmondson, of Atlanta, were married this morning at 11 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Tom Hilsman, on Broad street, Rev. L. J. Ballard, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Only the immediate family and a few friends were present at the ceremony.

Mrs. Edmondson left at noon for Macon, where they will spend a day or two before returning to Albany. They expect to be away from Albany about two weeks.—Exchange.

Army Surprises By Smothering Navy, 22 to 9

Middies Fall to Score Touching Down, Brown's Toe Scoring Points-Forward Passes Dazzle Hitherto Undefeated Navy Eleven-President and Cabinet Officers See Game

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The Army football team furnished a spectacular and convincing finish to the eastern football season of 1913 by defeating the Navy eleven in its final game today at a score of 22 to 9.

Completely outplayed during the opening half of the contest, by a combination of individual and open team play that quickly rolled up the yardage and scored the first points in the form of a field goal.

From a technical football standpoint the play of both sides was excellent. Neither did not rise above the usual caliber of the two academies. Much of the work of the coaches went for naught when the usual man-to-man struggle with the closing moment and the sailors went down with colors flying.

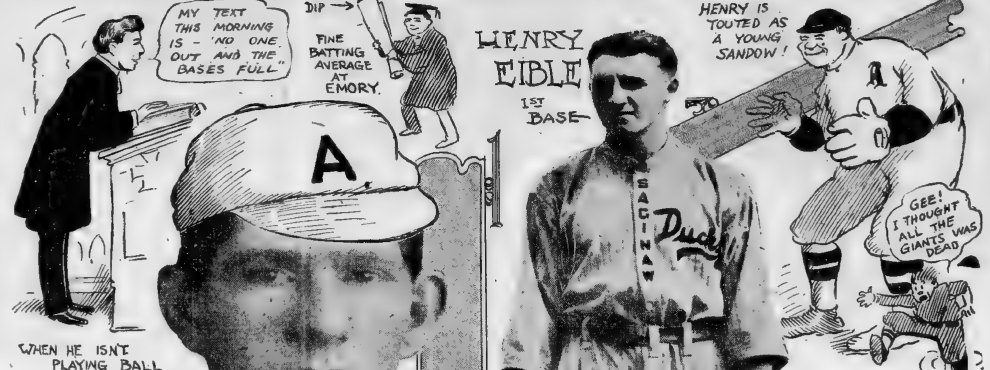

From the standpoint of the spectators, however, the game and its exciting nature, the three touchdowns scored by the Army and the 49,000 persons present packed the stadium for the first time in its history.

Coach of Georgia Team Selects All-Southern Football Team for Journal

By A. CUNNINGHAM (Georgia Football Coach)

- Center—Pitts, Auburn. Guards—Thigpen, Auburn. Tackles—Brown, Vanderbilt. Ends—Brown, Vanderbilt; Van Duffie, Alabama. Quarterback—Faddock, Georgia. Halfbacks—McWhorter, Georgia; Newell, Auburn. Fullback—Harris, Auburn.

THE football season, 1913, from a southern standpoint will go down in history as one of the most. The fact is a very clear proposition, the most important games were returned eventually as ties, there was no consistency about them, upon which were they unexpected and upon which were they unexpected and upon which were they unexpected.

As several new names now adorn the southern halls of fame, of men who until certain big games had shown their worth.

The championship was undoubtedly won in this selection, no striving of the writer has not seen other Louisiana State, Tennessee or the Mississippi college in action and, therefore, is judging the players of these teams purely from press reports. Also it may be stated that in this selection, no striving of the writer has not seen other Louisiana State, Tennessee or the Mississippi college in action and, therefore, is judging the players of these teams purely from press reports.

Following the line of least resistance we are going to start by naming Bob Taylor, first baseman, by no means, no other player in recent years had more space devoted to his work than McWhorter, and we want to add that this has been deservedly so. Bob had all the qualifications of a good halfback, speed, physical strength, endurance, experience, and a football instinct.

On a general summary of the entire season, I think Georgia and Vanderbilt should rank in the second group. It is a good thing that with the other teams in the group, the season, there will be noticed a gradual diminution of strength as it is highest for the Tech game and in marked contrast was their play against Auburn.

THE picking of an all-southern team is always a job that must be done with the most care and judgment. It is a practically impossible for anyone to see every team in the south and select the best.

Not that Georgia could have done better than Auburn at any time, for I doubt, but that the game would have been closer and the season play and relative strength of the teams.

Coach Graham of Riverside Picks All-Star Eleven From Georgia Prep Schools

Irvine Graham's Selection Is Very Representative, Including Men From Six Prep Schools in the State—Season Just Closed Was Best on Record and Prep Schools Will Furnish Colleges Good Material Next Year

By I. P. GRAHAM (Head Coach Riverside)

In picking any football eleven a number of things make it a very difficult proposition. Especially in this so-called 'All-Star' year, when the press of the state is so keenly interested in the game, it is necessary to pick a team that will not only be representative of the state, but also one that will give the public a good idea of the level of the game in Georgia.

Center—Horton, Riverside. Guards—Neville, Ninth District A. M. Phillips, Gordon; Praser, T. H. Smith, Gordon; Dealey, Gordon. Ends—David, G. M. C. Meyer, Tech High. Half Backs—Bradford, G. M. C. Townsend, Riverside. Full Backs—Ellison, G. M. C. Quarter Back—Strupper, Riverside.

It has the best team in the O. I. A. I believe that the following would be the strongest combination of players that could be chosen for an all-star team. Starting with the position of full-back, I have picked the best player in the state, G. M. C. Meyer, of Tech High. He is a man who has been playing football since he was a boy and has been one of the best players in the state for several years.

THE REVIEWS OF THE YEAR'S FAMOUS COACH TELLS HOW HIS TEAM WON SOUTHERN CHAMPIONSHIP

The football banquet has ended what was perhaps the most successful season that Auburn has ever had. The most remarkable thing about the season was the fact that Auburn was able to win the championship with a team that was not expected to do so.

Mike Donahue (Coach of Auburn) discusses the team's success and the challenges they faced during the season. He mentions the importance of teamwork and the role of the coaching staff.

HERE'S AN ALL-SOUTHERN PICKED BY INNIS BROWN

The best men who have ever played the position in this section. At the other back we have selected Mattie, of Georgia, after considering all competitors carefully. 'Punk' is possibly a bit lighter than a man should be, but he has a very good back in weight he makes up in aggressiveness. He has the speed, strength, both a tackle and guard, and he can be counted on at all times for a good, constant game. He is probably the best lineman in the south at this position.

There are no doubt (Vanderbilt, Tolley (Seawell), D. Dupont (L. S. U.) and other schools). As this was Auburn's first year at the position, the team of coaching a team towards the championship. He is really a first-class player, but not nearly so brilliant in his individual playing as Auburn, but the fact that Auburn was perhaps playing the poorest game of the year, and he was not back to follow these closely. No Chance for Marquard Deal

Stallings, Boston Manager, Says He Would Not Trade Tyler for Rube Marquard

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—You may not be surprised to learn that Rube Marquard will not be traded to Boston for George Tyler. This trade, which has been discussed and taken for granted in many quarters, has just been knocked squarely to the ground by George Stallings, Boston manager. "I am sorry that you fell for that report," he said. "I believe you are on a good one. I think Marquard is a good pitcher, but I also think him game, but when it comes to taking him in exchange for Tyler, that is a different matter. No one proposes to trade Marquard to me, and if it was I would not entertain it for a moment. And this is not intended as a reflection on Marquard either."

Stallings wrote this from the plantation in Georgia where he is enjoying himself equal hunting and entertaining some friends from the east. With this silence put upon the much talked of trade, it is clear that the little left to do but await the return of Marquard from his trip to the south. There is no doubt but that he has several big deals on the fire, but apparently he has closed in no case as to his next move.

Future National League Head Is a Former Baseball Player

Following their similar success at the state fair of California, Stuebkebaker car you first prizes for mechanical devices and artistic finish in the Mississippi state exhibition, held recently at Meridian. The exhibit was in charge of John H. Semmes, Meridian Stuebkebaker dealer.

Gov. John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania, who has virtually announced his intention of accepting the presidency of the National League, which will be tendered to him at the annual meeting in December, is, as every baseball fan knows, an old ball player himself. In his day he was a great player. He stood six feet two and weighed over 300 pounds. He made his living as a professional ball player for a number of years.

After his retirement he entered politics with the result that he was elected governor of the second largest state in the union. It is said his salary as president of the National league will be $25,000 a year, and his election will be for a term of four years. Thus the National league managers believe they will have an official able to cope with the duties and forceful than Johnson, president of the American league.

Crockett to Singapore

After several months in the United States, during which time he committed matrimony and spent, it is reported, $10,000, Crockett, Stuebkebaker representative in the Far East, has sailed for Singapore.

Encounters Tough Hill

After Franklin Stuebkebaker Riter had finished a trip in his Stuebkebaker car from South Bend to Boston and returned, he reported that he had met with but one instance of trouble, being compelled to shift gears on one unusually steep hill. He said, for the fact that there was a railroad crossing that way up, which prevented his acquiring the usual momentum.

Anybody can give you a quart of common liquor for Christmas, but nowhere else in the world can you get a whiskey so rare and precious—whiskey handed down from father to son and the very oldest stock in a gentleman's private collection. Don't be tempted by high-sounding offers. Send that Christmas card to the House of Rose, where you know you will get full value, where every bottle bears this guarantee:

MY PRESENT TO YOU THIS CHRISTMAS IS A BOTTLE OF WHISKEY, SO OLD AND RARE IT IS PRICELESS—an old gem among liquors. It is too precious to sell—not enough of it to go around.

Most Wonderful Christmas Offer

With every order, large or small, received between now and Christmas, I am going to pack with my compliments, as my Christmas present to you, a large half-pint bottle of this priceless liquor from my private stock—Old Curio, I call it.

I want to thank you now for last year's patronage and also to call your attention to some of my well-established brands—brands you know about—listed below, wish you a very Merry Christmas, heaped high with the season's blessings.

Fancy Fowls by Thousand Are All Ready For Opening of Great Show Tomorrow

PRIZE CUPS FOR BIG POULTRY SHOW THIS WEEK IN ATLANTA. Thirty-seven of the silver loving cups to be awarded at the Southern International Poultry show, which opens at seven o'clock in the auditorium-armory and continues throughout the week.

Whole Week to be Devoted to Exhibit of Best Birds Country Can Raise—A Handsome Prizes Offered

With exhibits so extensive that they cover not only the floor of the main auditorium, but that hall as well, the Southern International Poultry show will open at seven o'clock tomorrow, to continue day and night for the entire week. The entries and exhibits will total more than 4,000 birds.

Among the many birds entered for exhibition purposes will be found the finest and most famous, not only in the south, but from all parts of the country. Some of these exhibition fowls are world famous prize winners and are specially from those entered for competition purposes.

There will be numerous pet and freak exhibits, especially for the amusement of the children and any others who are not technically interested in poultry breeding. A variety of doves and pigeons, rabbits of all kinds, guinea pigs and some strange fowls that are cross between a guinea and ordinary hen will be exhibited.

The show has brought hundreds of out-of-town visitors to Atlanta, and it is anticipated that a vast attendance for the week will run well up towards 75,000 people.

TICKETS TO PATRONS. Many Atlanta merchants are planning to follow the suggestion to purchase a quantity of show tickets and send them to their out-of-town patrons. Other large employers in Atlanta are purchasing quantities of tickets in order that all employees may be given an opportunity to see show.

THE PRIZE LIST

One hundred dollars in gold for the best display of 100 or more birds of different variety exhibited by one breeder. Fifty dollars in gold for the best display of fifty birds or more exhibited by one breeder.

Twenty-five dollars in gold for the best display of 25 or more birds of one variety. The following special prizes are for members of the Southern International Poultry association only.

Cup for the largest and best display in the American class. Cup for the largest and best display in the Mediterranean class. Cup for best display in English class.

Cup for best display in any one breed. The following open prizes are offered. Cup for best cock bird. Cup for best hen. Cup for best hen.

Deposed Nicaraguan President May Escape by Habeas Corpus Route

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—No new move in the extradition proceedings against President Zelaya of Nicaragua, is expected by officials here until the habeas corpus proceedings in the federal courts in New York have been finished.

Zelaya's attorneys have asked out a writ there for his release upon which the exile dictator will have a hearing Monday. Solicitor Falk of the state department, developed nothing new today after a late conference with attorneys for both sides last night.

The possibility of the extradition proceedings having a connection with a Nicaraguan loan, which might be repudiated if Zelaya comes to power again, are being discussed among diplomats, but no such reference has been made in the proceedings and attorneys for Zelaya and for the Nicaraguan government decline to discuss it.

Cups offered by the S. I. P. A. Cups are offered respectively for the best cock, cockerel, hen, pullet and pair of birds of the same sex in gold to club members.

In the duck class cups will be offered for Buff Orpingtons, White Indian Runners, Light Plover Indian Runners and Dark Plover Indian Runners.

In the bantam class there will be handsome cups offered by the S. I. P. A. and silver cash and ribbon prizes by the association.

In addition of course, cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded under the S. I. P. A. rules for cock, hen, cockerel, pullet and hen of every standard variety.

The silver Wyandotte club of America offers three silver cups and four blue ribbons to be competed for by club members only.

EIGHT HOUR DAY PLAN MAY BREAK MINE STRIKE

Michigan Copper Troubles Nearly Over When Owners Grant Concessions

CALUMNET, Mich., Nov. 29.—Heller was expressed here today that the introduction of an eight-hour working day for mine, mill and smelter workers in December will cause a break in the ranks of copper mine strikers.

The mine managers late yesterday agreed the eight-hour plan should go into operation made at all but a few shafts of the Calumet and Hecla, where the men work on contract basis.

The managers hereafter will devote Tuesday afternoon of each week to hearing and adjusting complaints and grievances of employees.

THE JOURNAL, Atlanta, Ga., Dear Sir:—No doubt you will be interested to know that through one insertion of a Want Ad in The Journal, I found just the rooms I wanted. I had walked the streets and answered ads for occupants for rooms and failed to find what I wanted. So I dropped one in The Journal for myself, which brought me forty-seven replies. In starting out to answer them in person, I had called on the second one only when I found myself just suited. My wife and I are highly pleased and feel that had we not enlisted The Journal's Want Ad Columns in our efforts we could not have been as well situated as we are. Yours very truly,

SPRING TRADE WILL LIKELY EXCEED BIG BUSINESS OF FALL

Businessmen With Spring Samples Have Been on Road Only Few Weeks but Volume of Orders Already Large

NEED OF GOODS AND ABILITY TO BUY MEET

Early Ordering for Spring Delivery Prevailing With Retailers to Anticipate Scarcity and Higher Prices

Atlanta wholesalers all declare that they have no fear of goods for spring which the season promises to do as well as the fall.

The fall season, now drawing to a close with the jobbing interests in a few weeks has been one of activity and satisfying volume of sales, but from the present outlook the spring season will be far ahead of the fall business in relative increase.

All the Atlanta jobbers questioned and substantiated emphatically that their sales during the few weeks now on hand at their spring lines have been remarkably heavy and that in the reports of their men on the ground they look for sales to continue heavy and the season wind up with perhaps the largest total sales they have ever known.

There has been a great deal of payment of orders by the farmers and the merchants expect sales next season to show a reaction from the heavy fall orders. It is believed that the fall season was necessary the early part of this year. There will be no need of the merchandise and the price will be far ahead of the fall season.

It is believed that the fall season will be a very active season for the spring goods.

The railroads of Georgia will appeal the mileage pulling case to the supreme court of the United States, but pending a decision by that court they will put into effect the order of the railroad commission of Georgia—commanding them to pull mileage on trains—the order which was recently upheld by the supreme court of Georgia.

The road will issue mileage good only on their own lines, which was the command of the railroad commission, and will discontinue the issuance of interchangeable mileage as at present.

By agreement of Judge J. K. Hines, attorney for the railroad, railroad commission, and John L. Taylor, attorney for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, representing all the lines involved, the mileage pulling order will not go into effect for 30 days in order to allow the roads time to get out the new mileage books.

It was not in the power of the Georgia railroad commission to command the Louisville and Nashville railroad, representing all the lines involved, the mileage pulling order will not go into effect for 30 days in order to allow the roads time to get out the new mileage books.

ATLANTA GROCERY JOBBERS PROTEST AGAINST ARMY ORDER

It Directs That All Provisions for Fort McPherson Except Perishables Be Supplied From New York

WILL MEAN LARGE LOSS TO LOCAL WHOLESALERS

Congressmen and Senators Will Be Requested to Busy Themselves at Once to Have the Order Rescinded

The grocery jobbers of Atlanta are at a loss to understand the order that has been issued by the war department to the authorities at Fort McPherson that all provisions for the soldiers hereafter, except perishable products, be supplied from the commissary depot in New York and not bought of Atlanta jobbers as has been the case heretofore.

Contracts for the supplies at Fort McPherson have been awarded to Atlanta jobbers on competitive bids, but the new order received from headquarters restricts the purchases here to potatoes, perishable articles, and other such supplies for the soldiers placed in Atlanta and New York.

Not only are the jobbers at a loss to understand the order but they think that it will work an injustice to them, as they are assured that the records of provisions here have been cheap. If it is cheaper, than at any other army post in the United States, they would not mind several years ago to have the purchase of supplies for the soldiers placed in Atlanta and New York. At that time the purchase of supplies for the soldiers placed in Atlanta and New York was under the department of the war and the government purchases here amounted to $3,000 to $5,000 a month. About a year ago the purchase of supplies for the commissary was discontinued here, at which time local jobbers made no protest, but they do think that the supplies for the local post should come from local jobbers and they will request Congressmen and Senators to work to have the recent order rescinded. Congressman William Schley Howard has already assured representatives of the jobbers that he will exert himself to this end.

Those retailers who handle rugs should understand the present price situation as they may co-operate with the jobber in getting lower prices, declares A. W. Rosenfeld, who has just returned from a several weeks' visit to the mills. The tariff will not reduce prices on rugs until about next April as the free wool clause does not take effect until January 1, and it will be several months after that before the raw material will be ready for sale in the shape of the finished article.

In the meantime the mill rates have not shown a reduction but have increased, the manufacturers claiming that labor and some of their materials are costing them more than last year. For the double reason that present prices have risen and that next year they will be lower than ever, the jobbers are buying very lightly.

"Our purchases of the mill rates for what they were for the same season of last year," said Mr. Rosenfeld, whose firm, the Rosenfeld company, do a large house furnishing goods business throughout the south.

"Practically all of the jobbers I talk to will on my recent trip told me they were buying very lightly. Some of them would not take the rugs at the present prices. We all think they will go lower before April. In the meantime the rugs should understand why they will find the jobbers' rug stocks more limited in both quantity and variety than usual."

It's Not What You DO-It's What You DON'T

Janis Don'ts for Neophytes:

Don't Wave Your Shoulders from Side to Side; Don't Wave Your Hips; Don't Bend Your Knees—It's Old Fashioned; Don't Grab the Girl as If You Thought You Were Going to Lose Her—You Could Not If You Would; And Don't Tuck Your Head Over Your Partner's Shoulder.

In The One Step Variations

It is very much the same as the last one. Same one-step position, walk three steps, man starts; forward on left, girl starting back on right, and here is the difference. Instead of tapping the toe as in the last step, this is the routine: Man left, right, left, and on four the right foot goes out to the right side about a foot, and the left leg bends a little at the knee. So it is really a sort of a passed dip. The right that has been out at the right side is not allowed to remain there, but dashes right ahead, making the start for the next of the step, which is right, left, right, and left; foot goes over to the side about a foot, while the right leg bends a bit at the knee. The girl, of course, goes backward, doing the same steps with opposite feet.

It is really not necessary to start all these steps with the man going forward, and after you know them this way it is easy enough to do them so the man goes backward, but not being in a strange frame of mind I believe I've seen a perfectly sane married couple of past 50, who had been married twenty-five years, and to each other, mind you—I've seen them doing that step and just loving it. So if pe or ma objects to the arm around the neck make them try it.

An awfully good variation is the step I described in without music, and when you think you know it, try it to music, and you will either find that it is very easy or that you were mistaken and you don't know it yet.

A step that I love is like this: One-step position, girl will in front of her partner. Man starts with left, girl with right, and, for a change, goes backwards. Man steps left, right, left, and on four just taps the floor with toe of his right. That tap is really the beginning of the reverse, for as he taps he steps on that right foot and goes back three, the same as he came forward, which makes it right, left, right, and tap, the toe of his left foot out behind him and at the same time starting the step again left, right, left, right, right, tap, left toe behind her, and starts on side left, forward counting left, right, left, and tap, the toe of the right out in front of her, then back again. That's all there is to it. You just go back and forth, tapping toe usually. It sounds simple, but don't run away with the idea.

I know several that are more simple. The main idea is to make a little noise when you tap the toe, otherwise people won't know you are doing anything but walking back and forth. See?

A Baffling One for You.

Now I've got a baffling one for you. I would be afraid to try to describe it, but I'm getting now so I have no fear. If any one asked me to describe how to do a one-step under water and slap your own music I think I would try. My pen is becoming so loose and careless. Same position as in the tango, three-step, walk four steps; man starting with left foot, girl with right. On four, man kicks out left leg and brings it back over right leg, and as he puts left foot on floor he kicks the right out behind and brings it immediately to the front, stepping forward on it as he does so, and then brings the left up a little in front of it, ready to start the step again. Now come on, off we go. And as the girl does the same thing with the opposite feet, I don't intend to go all through it again—so many lefts and rights would put a prize fighter out let alone a dancer. And anyway he-ir can't do it without a man whose two girls want to do it, and these one must dance the man's part, so there we are.

Now we're really off. Man, counting always one, two, three, left, right, left, right. Left swings back over right foot. Count one, right kicks out back on count two. Right is placed on floor on count three. Step forward with left on count four. I could have counted the step as eight, but I think it is easier to count four. Then when you get ready to go back into the one-step you still count four. In fact, the popular way to do this step is to one-step four beats; then start the step by walking forward four steps, then the hard part, four beats and then one-step again, but for more than four beats for this step done about every sixteen one-steps is about enough to keep the average couple limping. I notice a lot of "thens" in this last description, but you will admit it's hard not to repeat yourself now and then—there I go again.

One More Little Tripper.

If you have not by this time got a bad case of that popular malady, "strepitis," I have one more little tripper for you.

It is a good one if you feel full of life and want to "cut up" (O! naughty, naughty Klara, leave those moth eaten jokes for the comic supplement), and when you become really good in the tango you can double up the time and do all the steps, even the first tango step, which is the most difficult of all of them.

When I started to write these articles I was afraid there would only be steps enough to make about five articles, but now that I am started I fear that they are going to have a hard time to stop me. For even now I am thinking of steps for next Sunday's article which will be on the tango, but instead of South American tango I shall give you some North American tango variations.

It is really not necessary to start all these steps with the man going forward, and after you know them this way it is easy enough to do them so the man goes backward, but not being in a strange frame of mind I believe in letting the man do the leading, especially in dancing.

I think that will be enough to keep any one who tries these steps busy for a little while, but in case you want more you might try putting some more tango steps to the one-step.

The "escoria" step, described by me in my tango article, is a good one if you feel full of life and want to "cut up" (O! naughty, naughty Klara, leave those moth eaten jokes for the comic supplement), and when you become really good in the tango you can double up the time and do all the steps, even the first tango step, which is the most difficult of all of them.

There are so many of the above mentioned variations that I am almost afraid to start for fear of being unable to wind the "dam" thing up. But I shall try to give you the most simple and at the same time amusing steps. All I ask is that you don't set me the names of the different steps or who originated them, for I have learned them in so many places and from so many different people that I should be at a loss if asked to fasten the blame on any one person.

Before I go any further I want to remind you of a few things I said in the first article of this series about the one-step. Here are just a small number of don'ts, in case you have forgotten, for that article was written about seven weeks ago, and O, my, what a lot one can forget in seven weeks and what a lot more one can learn in seven weeks! However, we will not go into that, as these articles are for household reading: Don't wave your shoulders from side to side. It is not being done in "our set." Don't wave your hips. It can't be done with any degree of decency. Don't bend your knees. It's old fashioned and then they might say bent. Don't grab the girl as if you thought you were going to lose her—you could not if you would. And don't tuck your head over your partner's shoulder. If I write any more "don'ts" you will be coming back at me with: "Don't think your middle name is Danes just because they let you write for a newspaper."

Too Speedy for Baseball Talk.

One of the most attractive steps I know that is done to one-step time is the old fashioned polka step done in this way: The partners one-step until they feel that they want a change; then they polka three steps each way. In case any one reads this who is so young that he cannot remember the polka, I will say that you start as if you were going to two-step (another forgotten dance) and you make it three-step instead. Man starts with right this time, and girl with left; they slide three steps to the right and three to the left, then one-step again. It is great fun and will start you panting in time. Then if you want to you can double it up, and instead of taking three steps right and left just breathe a soft and soothing "six" into your partner's ear and do six steps, or rather you might call them "baby slides," one way and then back to the one-step. When you hear the music and try this step you will realize that it requires some good and wind and is not a good step during which to discuss the score of the ball game or how disgustingly close together Harold Ganger and Lily Clagwell dance.

I don't want to appear to be a sort of press agent for Mr. and Mrs. Castle, but if they will make up steps they must take the credit or blame, whichever you decide after you try the new step called "The Castle Swing." The man takes his arm from around the lady's waist (he's always doing that in these new steps—arrrrr!) but retains right hand in his left and one-stepping the whole time, just enough to keep with the music, "he do as follows: The girl draws back arm's length from the man. They lift their arms high, holding hands, of course, otherwise the step is a failure. The man steps forward, decks his head, and goes under the girl's arm, turning as he does so that he is facing her again; then, still holding his hand, the girl walks right around the man while he stands in one spot one-stepping, and as she walks around she takes his hand around with her, and with what result? That her arm swings around his neck and she comes right back in front of him in one-step position.

Make Me and Pa Try It.

In rereading this description I feel that were I a mother I should say: "Daughter, can't that step." But if you will look at the pictures you will see that it is not half as hectic as it reads and it really is very graceful. Besides, give the girls a chance. They never get to put their arm around anything in the average step. They must be content to just be handled and sometimes not with care. That's a great step, and though you may not

HOBBIERS are as necessary as faults. They are life's pleasant side.

Take the dog without flea, says Walter Taylor. He is unhappy. He has no distractions. So, is the man without hobby.

But hobbies may serve another purpose than diversion. Andy Stewart, even expects his 1,000-acre farm in Campbell county to be him to the simple life.

With one hand he reached for the tax digest, nipped his brow with the other, heard a tax return through one ear, a "good morning" through the other, smiled "good morning," and spoke of his farm.

"It is going to raise beef. I have one Herford bull and two cows. I guess I have more corn than anybody in Georgia. There's 3,000 bushels of it on my farm, and I go out there some times and just look at it. But all it's for the cattle; none to be liquored."

"Ah," regretted the clerk, who was roaching down a digest. "Too bad." We fantasia believe in white liquor.

"Thee!" Andy chuckled. THE KNOCK-KNEED NIGGER. "That reminds me of Richard Blue. He came in here one day, frostiest morning I ever saw. There was a knock-kneed nigger over by the stove—sort of nigger that never gets enough food and drink. Blue stood over right close to him and began to talk slow and soft."

"This is just the sort of morning," he said, "when you wish you'd gonn hunting the night before. Suppose you had fat baked 'possum now, 'with potatoes on the side of the dish and gravy and cracklin' bread, all of it served up hot; and then a little corn whiskey to help your appetite?"

"The bigger didn't say anything. He just turned round and knocked him down."

team, to have them fluter around them. They are never frightened; they are without fear, even of strangers, as though they may step into the yard in any one of them. They will fly about him and settle on his shoulders and arms.

He knows each of the 350 white birds, the mate of each, and the interesting peculiarities of all. Of the 290 birds, one has been leader of the white flock for fourteen years, and another is almost 29 old. These two can tell his approach from a distance, they wheel in the air and fly toward him, with others following. With a rush of wings, they duffer down upon him, and in a moment he is enveloped in a cloud of white plumes.

His Serious Hobby. His third hobby is devotion to Masonry, which is an interest, too deep, perhaps, to be called "hobby." Among his prized possessions is the apron worn by his grandfather as lodge master; among his activities is the support of all that goes to benefit Masonry.

Gov. Blanton's Hobby. Blanton's hobby is itself serious enough. But then York to hobby can be thought of lightly and remain the recreation and recreation that are the rest of all real hobbies. Lady's pleasant amusements must be a part of life's serious considerations if they are to offer solace.

As Walter Taylor says, suppose the dog took his flea lightly, would he be a distraction from the day's worries? Blanton's hobby is Metchnikoff, auto-intoxication, and butter milk. It is a hobby that great nations, and that the public is beginning to accept as a common sense.

Metchnikoff's Theory. But in the governor's office, there was no change. He remained at his desk, and he thought of the morning. An old negro entered, a tray in his hands. The governor glanced over the papers he was from Mr. Pickwick himself!

This saving of time comes about through a quart of butter milk and perhaps a sandwich as the midday meal. The governor seldom changes his simple fare.

For luncheon he usually has butter milk brought to him in his office, and as a result he feels a gain in health.

"Yes, I guess it is my hobby," he laughed. "But I think it would be anybody else's who had read Metchnikoff. He is the great scientist you know, who really discovered what is old age. It is nothing but a hardening of the arteries, a breaking down of the body, from a condition called auto-intoxication. That long word means merely a poisoning of the body by the body itself through wrong food, or lack of air, or some other harmful condition."

health of the body. There is nothing like butter milk to keep young. I learned its healthful qualities before ever hearing of Metchnikoff. But after reading him I got to understand how it had so excellent an effect.

"I would have another hobby, only it has been suppressed by Mrs. Blanton. It is onions."

Rosenthal's Watch. There is first or last, as you choose, the watch found on the body of Hermann Rosenthal, the gambler whose murder exposed the plundering habits of the New York police and handed Lieutenant Becker in the death house at the Tombs.

It is a curious, old-fashioned watch that strikes the hour so the stem is pressed. It was bought by Dr. Brown at a sale of curios in New York.

Next among the collection is a badge of the Justice of honor, worn by the grandfather of Mrs. Brown. The watch that strikes the hour so the stem is pressed. It was bought by Dr. Brown at a sale of curios in New York.

Other curios are valued pieces of oak wood furniture from the collection of the latter is a cameo of deep rose color, said to be the largest of that color in existence. Each room of the house has its object of interest. As one enters, there are first to be seen pieces of oak wood furniture, then a bronze statue that is quaint and curious, several pictures from the collection of Julius Brown, and lastly the jewelry, the badge of honor, innumerable medals and the watch of Hermann Rosenthal, which looks as out-of-place as a stone in a hand.

The Ten club recently played a tennis over the course at Zant Lake, and at the close of the afternoon, met on the clubhouse porch to discuss scores. Judge Beck explained the importance of golf. He took an old Scotch minister as his illustration. The dominie had sited, hooked, and on top of it all had missed his third ball.

"Ah, me," he sighed, "I'll ha' to give it up."

"Golf," cried the dominie's companion.

"Na, the ministry. It's ruining my game."

Judge K. H. Russell, of the court of appeals, is like the late Mr. Justice Harlan, of the United States supreme court, in his hobby. He finds chewing tobacco "life's pleasant side."

When the case of the United States against the tobacco trust was on trial on the United States supreme court, an English attorney appeared before the court to defend the company's position in England.

With the formality of an English barrister, he explained how the company was not a monopoly either in the States or in the United Kingdom. He left nothing unsaid. He discussed monopoly with absolute completeness.

Justice Harlan leaned forward, the tip of his fingers pressed together, his expression disinterested.

"Your argument is admirable," he granted. "But one point: you have left unsettled. Why is it tobacco not the favor of old?"

Really, there is up and to the number of hobbies. They are as various as life itself. They are a necessity no one can forego.

Swimming pools have a chilly look on November mornings, but the pool at his residence in Druid Hills remains the "hobby" of Forrest Adair, although it will be an idle hobby until next summer. Will Zimmer has discarded the menagerie at his country home and has taken to hunting, Pet chickens are the hobby of Miss Lillian Collier, and "Rex," whom she holds in her arms, is her particular pet

::: Rockefeller Is Spending 100 Millions to Benefit Mankind :::

Copyright, 1913, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association. John D. Rockefeller is sure to die the world's greatest philanthropist. He has given a hundred millions to the Rockefeller Foundation. One of the tasks of this foundation is to find a cure for cancer. There is scarcely a disease on the trail of which the Rockefeller researchers are not camping. Men like Carnegie and Frazier march in this war under Rockefeller's banner.

The work of this great Foundation is combating the hookworm in itself the greatest of all philanthropes, judged by its results. Hookworm is probably man's worst enemy. Few will believe this until the first statement, but a survey of the world shows that from the latitude of 23 degrees north to 39 south the whole world is infested with the hookworm.

Hookworm in nearly a third of the United States, all Mexico and Central America. Hookworm in nine-tenths of South America, all of Africa, the most populous part of Asia and three-fourths of Australia. Hookworm in practically all the rich islands of the South Seas and in the West Indies.

Hookworm, in short, in four-fifths of the habitable world. And note this: Head the list of fasted countries and you will call the roll of the backward, debilitated, benighted, indolent, inefficient peoples. Rockefeller's money has already cured tens of thousands of hookworm victims in the United States. The medicine costs less than ten cents a cure, and never fails. To the extent that the unprogressive, mean, indolence and inefficiency of the tropical peoples are owing to hookworm infection, Rockefeller's money can redeem these millions from the curse of tropical inferiority. I have no doubt that this inferiority is owing, not to the heat of those climates, but to infestations of hookworm, malaria, yellow fever and a few other plagues of less consequence. Rockefeller, with his millions, is on the trail of them all. And yet so miserable is the plight of a Midae that even his most sacred aspirations serve his pocketbook. He had the golden touch that turned everything to gold—the flowers when he tried to smell them, the food that entered his lips, the very ringtons on the head of his beloved. So it is with Rockefeller. He has cured a hundred thousand people of hookworm. They at once became active, industrious citizens. They read by kerosene lamps. They clean up with gasoline. They spray their orchards with power sprayers. They travel on railroads. Every one of these new activities pay tribute to Rockefeller.

Rockefeller can give nothing away. Like Stevenson's Bottle Imp, it comes back. Many more would make the venture did they not fear the difficulty of the language, the expense, and the conditions of study. As to the language, they will find they can rub along quite comfortably with only a few words. There are numerous hotels and pensions where a decent room can be got for $5 a month, and plenty of little restaurants where one may feast palatably for little more than a nothing.

FRENCH NOVELTIES IN DRESS FOR GIFTS

WHY give her a fanciful gift that will be duplicated on her part of the table that represents the family "collection"? If you are a new-fangled man who recognizes the value of a practical and beautiful present, this group of novelties from Paris will offer many suggestions that should be greeted with delight by the maker and the recipient. Any article of dress that will spell cleverness and individuality, and at the same time be inexpensive, is worth consideration. These are particularly appropriate for the girl who has everything and who is a great puzzle to her friends. Well made her one of these accessories that can never be in too great numbers in the wardrobe of a well-dressed woman.

How about a set that consists of a collar, cuffs and gloves? It is shown as the figure that wears a plumed hat and is one of the most attractive sets for smart wear that the Fashionette is displaying. This is made of black panne velvet, and the only extra trimming that you will have to buy is a strip of mink fur and six buttons for the velvet-trimmed girdle. The collar is cut with the greatest width across the shoulders, and is very shallow in front. At the back the collar drops in a round line. The edges are defined with fur that can be of any kind and regulated by the amount that you wish to spend. Make the waistcoat circle over a form, and cut it with points at the upper and lower edges. It is fastened at the front under chin-length buttons. If you do not care to buy them, get made and cover them with velvet, which can be embroidered with many colored silks to represent beadwork. The use of French knots in a conventional design will give this effect in a very quick time. The cuffs are turned back from the hand, and fur can be used to finish the inside portion. Make the whole set with white satin, and with your best wishes for a merry Christmas, you may be sure that the gift will find a warm welcome.

For a young girl the set of a collar and hat is a bright idea. The hat is of old-gold plush that forms the puff crown, around the brim that is slightly stiffened there is a band of tobacco-brown velvet. This also forms a wide bow that is placed at the side. You will notice that the collar is simple and therefore easily made. It is made over a heavy muslin strip, the dark velvet forming the central band and the edges being of gathered old-gold plush. The fastening is at one side, and a soft bow with two ends of contrasting velvet finishes the useful gift. The set is lined with gold-colored satin.

A smart mantlet is shown of smoke gray taffeta that will harmonize with any shade of suit as easily as will black and white. The long scarf is shaped and gathered along the edges and over a cord that passes through the center. The fulness is drawn into shawl. On the edges are bands of gray fur. This point to be remembered is to have the fur match the color of the set silk. In the close Middle turban the puffed crown is of taffeta, and the band that fits down the head is of fur. At the back are wired loops that extend far out and are held at the base by a circle of fur. This hat is a French hood, having no stiffening but very heavy muslin. A set in black panne velvet, with dark tawny fur trimming, would be stunning for a woman who prefers black for street wear.

Smart neckpieces and hat make a complete set that will take the owner out in modest beauty. The muff is a smart model of chiffon velvet and is of the barrel type so popular. The rows of stitching are placed close together, and the soft interlining and satin finish allow it to be crushed up into any shape. At the edges are bands of fur. When you attach bands of fur on any collection, you will find the easiest way is to stitch on the wrong side, feeling the hand through the material. At times you should pin the band in place.

When making the neckpiece, plan for a front fastening with one end lapping over the other. The collar is made in the same way as the other one suggested. A lining should be cut from muslin and fitted first. The fur comes then be adjusted, and after the pieces are made and added, the final satin lining can be placed by first stitching and then hemming by hand.

The turban is of silk that matches that used for the muffs and is gathered over a form, the ends being held in a butterfly bow at the front. A band of fur finishes the edge of the hat. Corded silk would make a rich set if trimmed with a dark fur and lined with a brilliant satin.

Have you thought of a velvet bolero? It will be appreciated by any one who has an eye on the style. This model is to be worn with a full blouse. It is made with kimono sleeves and has a front line that is very simple, being pointed and having quite a space between the edges. With this little garment is given a neckpiece of opossum fur. A long end is fastened under a row of emerald-green velvet, and at the tip of this there is a second row of emerald in loops. This line of little jacket is being shown with all-white dance frocks that are made of tulle and need the contrast of velvet to give them character.

There is a decided use of ivory-white plush in combination with seal-brown velvet or plush. This gives the effect of seal and ermine without the expense. In the set that finishes this group are a scarf and muff. The scarf has a center of dark velvet that is shaped up in a point at the top. At the outer edges are strips of white fur, and frills of dark brown tulle finish the edges. The scarf is made of two pieces, one white and the other brown, with ruffles of tulle on the edges. It is two yards long, and the ends hang down at the back.

Of course, the preference of the future owner will decide the color of any of these sets. If you have never tried the present for the wardrobe, here is an excellent opportunity to prove that you can combine thought, beauty and practical value in your own effort.

FRENCH FASHION NOTES

PARIS, Nov. 28. SMART women the winter are showing their extremely obvious appreciation of the most artistic results by using this most luxurious material. Tones of tan, citron and green seem to dominate over the others, while Bordeaux red, leaf brown and amethyst are next in popularity. Again recently displayed a collection of velvet costumes, and one of the most striking was of lemon-yellow ribbon velvet, trimmed with magenta-colored velvet and this sounds like a rather daring combination, but it is extremely attractive. Green is a midday color for street costumes, and almost without exception, the hats of the Bois de Champs. Especially along the Bois de Champs. Women prefer green for almost every occasion, and nearly every day.

CONCERNING HEALTH and BEAUTY

Preparing for the Evening Gown

I hope you have them all night long! But I must not forget to tell you how, if you are just first youth, to avoid the tell-tale age hollows that generally come about the cords at the side of the neck. Each morning, after the deep breaths have been taken, exercise the muscles of the neck by stretching the head back as far as the neck will allow and then forward as far as you can. After this has been done six times turn the chin over each shoulder as far as possible (not to the extent of dislocation, however), and then let the head roll about on the neck lever.

Harden the Muscles with Ice

ANY young woman who has a piece of ice an inch by one inch and but until the ice is melted away. Then apply the moisture from the neck with a towel. This hardens the muscles and makes firm the contour of the bust. Not only that, it closes the pores and makes one less liable to colds. Some girls of my acquaintance rub ice over the neck and shoulders or bathe them with ice water long before donning a low-cut gown, and then venture without fear into the wintry outdoors without the customary warm undergarments that they wear during the day. There is nothing better than deep breathing to develop the neck, chest and throat. The exercise should be worn-landed before an open window or in bed just before rising and before going to bed. The neck should be taken regularly and in a judicious and confident mood, and patients should not be exhausted if results are not forthcoming in the next twenty-four hours. Throw the chest out, not the shoulders back, and breathe slowly, deeply, smoothly, inhaling on a count of four, holding (without strain) on a count of four, and exhaling on a count of four. Until you become accustomed to this deep breathing for most people do not breathe than one-third of their lungs; you may have to take some abrupt breaths in order to "get your breath." If you take the time to do this, you will find that you are in better health and with the windows wide open (as

Afternoon Costumes for Home and Street

By Louise Morley
Drawn from Exclusive Photographs
by Lee Creelman.

One of these semi-formal tailored suits that is a joy to own for its sheer adaptability. The smart collar, cuffs, and buttons with which the semi-formal coat is trimmed are in pronounced contrast to the suit material — violet drapery. The draped skirt is lined at the front.

Some authorities to the contrary, the position of the lampshade waist will remain secure. A brilliantly patterned charmuse is best made when simply made. This frock is trimmed only with bands of fur, and a row is placed at the waistline. The necklines and sleeves of the blouse waist as well as the tunic are edged with shawl. A deep device of children is placed in the opening of the draped skirt at the front.

Simplicity is the keynote of this attractive blue velvet gown. A white tulle frill outlines the back of the plain, loose bodice. Black tulle is used for the tunic, which slopes downward toward the back. The train of black satin is tied in a large bow at the back, with the long ends falling far below the knee.

This frock of gold tulle, cut in lines not ordinarily original, relies upon the smartness of its color and material for "cachet." Over the lace waist pointed at the front is revealed a mesh of ruy blue mesh. Points of lace trim the blouse bodice, in which sleeves of tulle are set.

They hang bouffant from the shoulder, some of them being in cape effect, with one and thrown over the shoulder in a military; so common feature has not been reached in coats. A charming style for a semi-formal frock is a yoke extended to form the upper lengthwise section of the sleeve. The body part is slightly gathered to the yoke, forming a kinked effect for the lower sleeve section and caught up in front with satin cords.

All the critics commented against the conventionalities of dress, the abuse of the evening gown in the most deplorable and ostentatious. Old convention by which the wearing of the ball gown was not permitted before 8 o'clock in the evening has been so kneeled about that the report is not encountering to its allies, but the excessive custom has become such an obsession it is time that something be said against it. It seems to me anything in favor of the ball gown for afternoon wear is so infinitesimal in comparison with its many objectionable features that the distinction should be made without hesitation.

I believe one reason for the prevalent custom is the conspicuous absence of appropriate afternoon gowns in our wardrobe. We provide ourselves with street and evening clothes which carry out the laws of extremes, but fail to provide ourselves with the happy medium afternoon gowns. It is not so much lack of taste or the fact that our American women do not know the difference between afternoon and evening gowns, but there is a matter of preference or perhaps a desire to have a distinctive afternoon one, for with impunity it can be utilized for informal evening, but it is one rule that will not work both ways.

In the meantime the hunch back was largely responsible for the subsequent custom. Then there is always the innate desire to go somewhat one better, which, as a result, in the final extreme evening—always having the same "ball" gown, etc.—has its time and place, and one can readily picture results from confusion. Imagine the sensation a man would create appearing in evening clothes at an afternoon function. Then, by what right do we women assume that privilege? We Americans have the reputation of being the best gowned women in the world, and up to the time of the prevalent custom we deserved it, but this is one strong criticism that may be brought against us. The conditions are sufficiently alarming to justify heroic treatment.

One should never forget one salient fact in regard to dress, and that is distinction. The majority of women follow a single thought in dress instead of paying more attention to individuality. One as a rule is so much more eager to follow than to be original and distinctive. The personality of a woman should be the dominant note, and not the gown, which can be achieved by being individual and exercising originality. There is a prevalent impression among women that the narrow tunic increases the size, but that is not the case if the tunic is made of this material, such as net, chiffon, tulle, etc. It is quite possible to do this, as the waist is invariably made up in combination with some one of the above materials.

The bustle skirt has more of a tendency to increase the size, but, anyway, it all devolves into a get used to it attitude, which is a difficult matter in those days of ever changing fashion, as it certainly keeps one turning conversable and handicapped in her steps of the styles nowadays. Evolution should have a few feet stanzas along the roadside where one could stop and contemplate one's handiwork, and incidentally regain one's equilibrium. Now, suddenly we find ourselves turned around and going the other way. Some of the skirts have their "hiked up" fulness in the back instead of the front. I imagine this is done to simulate the new bustle effect, which if not exaggerated threatens to become popular. This trick of the drapery also gives the new apron front effect—which is an invention of time. Cheer up!

Nearly every gown this season, velvet or otherwise, has its bodice mounted on lace, chiffon, or net, the lower part being of the same material as the skirt. There is a beautiful new model Eton jacket, made of the material trimmed in fur to match the "minaret" tunic and worn over an underbodice of net or chiffon.

When the automobile was first introduced, and we were approached by an agent with the temerity to recommend his special brand, we asked him—assuming an air of importance, sprinkled liberally with the sparks of contempt, "Is it an assembled car?" Now we are here for the assembled gown. Will they do any more lasten change every seven years. Who but an artist would dare to assemble the assembling of the idiosyncrasies of the different designers and fit them perfectly into the allotted space, making of it a pleasing whole?

Given to this suit an innovation in coats as concerns the cut, with silken coverings of deep reds and blues, and foliage of an overcast green, softly imbedded in its furry surface, a blouse of delicate cream charmuse that attaches to itself the skirt, when occasion requires, by means of a belt of hammered gold, and separates from the usual neck finish by adopting a weighty chain of ornate beads, and you have one of our most admired costumes.

These are representative of a vast assemblage, some of the new dainties of gently napped texture, some of velvet in fur effects, some of brocade and broches in velvets and in silks, satines and broadcloths, etc. A rather startling but pleasing innovation is the fur-trimmed separate waist—shadower lace, or lace of color, webby texture over soft white satin, with an arrangement of ones favorite fur as a trimming. For instance, a strip of the fur two inches wide, arranged around the neck and partially concealed under a cascading of plaited chiffon down the front of the waist to the belt, would be a charming arrangement. An accompaniment to this waist with a colored silk would be a stole and skirt made of a printed satin in the Parisian design, the stole three yards long and eighteen inches wide, edged with fur, the plisse itself also similarly trimmed.

Paul Poiret's fantasy in evening coats is charming. But I must tell you about the boleros and Russian blouses. So many boleros made for tailors have the banquo effect in the back. Some have just a square section added, the lower edge trimmed across with fur. The Russian blouses are stunning and extremely popular in the velvet-making costume, buttoned from shoulder to waist on the left side, or the modified Russian blouse with the ruffian sleeve and curvay front to admit to the Medici collar. These two styles are most splendid accessories for the narrow band fur trimmings one-half inch in width.

Drapery, of course, takes precedence over all other materials for tailor made and daytime gowns, but in close and persistent proximity are many wonderful waives and designs, including peon de Peon, valentia broche, valentia frappe, China and other crepe broche, plain crepe de chine, and many, many more. Do not forget that the actual descriptions of the gowns and materials given in our leading American fashion journals are to this effect: "This charming three piece costume is made of a combination of silk and tulle, called 'velvet' or 'Tulle Beasts' blouse, cut in made up in one of the lovely new colors of velvet—apple and plain English that every one can pronounce and understand."

"A READING FROM HOMER"-- By Alma Tadma

This reproduction is from one of the greatest modern paintings. The poet is shown reciting his verses, his listeners hang upon his words. The young man and maid who sit together, unconsciously clasp hands. The youth, prone upon the marble floor, presses his fingers to his lips. The fourth listener stands in the corner with intent expression. The painting is characteristically vivid. The painter usually chose Roman and Greek scenes as his subjects, and was, particularly skilled in representing effects in marble. But his greatest success lay in the vivid character of his work.

"IT IS IMPERTINENT FOR MEN TO SAY HOW WOMEN SHALL DRESS"

"It Matters Not," Says Mrs. M. L. McLendon, "Whether They Be Business Men, Ecclesiastical Men or Some Other Sort of Men, It Is None of Their Concern."

ARE men in "impertinent" in voicing opinions on women's dress? says Mrs. M. L. McLendon, president of the Georgia Women's Suffrage association. "It matters not whether they be business men, ecclesiastical men or some other sort of men. It is none of their concern. I don't like the present styles. But women can manage their own reform. They don't need the criticism of men. "Is it all that men do right? Is he so perfect himself he can forget his own faults and take to denouncing the width of women's skirts? Surely, all these fashions so much condemned by men were designed by men. And, in wearing them, women really are the victims of men. "I don't want to wear narrow skirts. But if I buy clothes designed by men and sold by men, what else can I get? If a woman isn't clever enough to make her own apparel, she must take the bobbles designed by masculine dressmakers in Paris, and then be rebuked by masculine critics here. "Mrs. McLendon made no direct comment on the appointment by three Protestant denominations of a commission to investigate extravagance in dress and undesirable tendencies in modern dances. But she did have an indirect word to say on the "impertinence" of all men, whether business or ecclesiastical, who take issue with the dress of women. At the recent convention of the W. C. T. U., at which the gathering of women refused to join with the churches in condemning modern styles and dances, Mrs. McLendon was foremost in urging the convention to this decision. "The Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian conventions, at that time, had adopted resolutions condemning in strong words silk skirts, sex dresses and extravagant dances. The Episcopalians also adopted resolutions, but they deplored "certain modern customs and amusements," without being more specific. "At this time a commission has the authority of all four denominations to use its influence against customs and amusements considered by it as deplorable. Individual pastors will be urged to lend aid to the commission, and in the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian denominations direct efforts will be made against extravagant dress and dances. "From the woman's viewpoint, is this commission justified, and can it do work that is needed and helpful? Mrs. McLendon, expressing her personal opinion, believed that women can best see to their own faults and that men might just as well look to themselves. "Mrs. McLendon was preparing for a trip to Washington, where she will attend the national suffrage convention delegates from Georgia, and, as she explained, she was up to her eyes in work, and there was a sick baby in the house, but she had time to express her unhesitating opinion of men who should change them. "MIDDLEBROSOME BOYS" Mrs. McLendon has a law, motherly tone, but direct, pointed opinions. Her smile, as she meets you at the door, is an invitation to enter; and the old-fashioned woman and her womanly ways. "The time is sure to come, though, I am certain, when women will be outspoken upon matters of importance to women, and will regulate their own affairs without the direction of men. I am convinced the matter of dress is even now one that should be left to women. "I will say this, however, that men have chosen their own style of dress better than women have chosen or been chosen for. I like your—what do you call—'one-pantaloon, a good deal better than I do our tight skirts. It's easy to get about conspicuous in them. They are nice looking, and very sensible. "A man certainly has less trouble with his clothes than any woman, and even though they represent a woman's needs are different from a man's, and I think he has enough to look after as it is without saying how she should dress. "WOMEN ARE WOMEN. "Just leave that to women. They'll solve the problem well enough. There are lots of sensible women in the world, and I think there are very few who are not modest and good. Talk as much as you please of old-fashioned reserve and gentleness. Women are women, everywhere and at all times. They were good and gentle in the old-fashioned days. But they are good and gentle in the new-fashioned ones too. "Hooped skirts weren't any more an emblem of modesty than tight skirts are. Women are just jealous of their good name today when they put a yard and a half of cloth in their skirts, and a sixty yard and a half at that, as they were when they bought dresses by the bolt. Besides, cloth costs more now.

"I Will Say This, However, That Men Have Chosen Their Own Style of Dress Better Than Women. I Like Your--What Do You Call 'em--Pantaloon, Better Than Our Tight Skirts."

then, and they don't know. I know for that very reason. Some dress innocently in a vulgar fashion, because it's the style. Men do this, too. Some of the styles made by men and put on the market where women "happen" to buy them more than anything else. "Well, at any rate, the style is begun, and those that don't like the prevailing manner of dress, fall in line because they don't want to be without any need of man's interfering. This is what the churches thought, and their idea in appointing a commission was to create a countervailing influence. "It is not their wish to lay down rules. They simply want to set up a feeling of opposition to any styles in dress that are improper, and to any advances that are objectionable. "I am now reading to my congregation the Pastoral Letter of the Bishop, in which reference is made to the tendency that the churches deplore. "I like to tell you more, but that baby's crying and I must see about her. I'll be right out in this matter the following business man to try to tell women Nelson. "The attitude of the church and of the ministers was explained from his viewpoint last week by Dr. C. B. Willmore, rector of St. Luke's, when he was asked for an interview. "The Episcopal church," he said, "does not attempt to lay down rules for amusements, and certainly not for dress. It tries simply to teach many purposes of popular entertainments, and in the social life of young people forms of recreation which tends to lower respect for self and ated which tend to blunt the edge of others."

CARE OF CHILDREN WILL BE TAUGHT AT EXHIBIT, DECEMBER 1-16

How to Save Babies from Sickness and Death Are Some of the Things Exhibit Hopes to Accomplish.

BY MARY CARTER WILKINSON. MOVING pictures, kindergarten displays, photographs, books, all London house on Peachtree street, in readiness for the Child Welfare and Public Health Exhibit which will be held there from December 1 to December 16. Already the children of the city who have heard about that that is bigger than a man, which is to be operated by electricity, are eager for the opening of the exhibit. They may view the big skeleton with their own eyes. The wireless baby, life-size dolls and other features will excite great interest among the children, while parents will feel equal interest in the serious side of the exhibit. "How to save babies from sickness and death, how to nurse them happily, wholesome childhood, how to draw them into strong, helpful members of the community, and so on, the standard and general health of citizenship—these are the things which the Child Welfare and Public Health Exhibit hopes to accomplish. The movement is to teach mothers how to care for their children so that details of caring for the child's body, have clean, happy homes, must take special care of the mothers before the babies are born, and must study and obey the laws of health. "The state must teach the fathers and mothers the law of health, must make and enforce laws necessary to prevent disease, must record the birth and death of every citizen. "There will be exhibits illustrating methods of feeding babies, showing the superiority of mothers' milk over manufactured baby foods; and this will be strikingly illustrated by a comparative schedule showing the death rate among bottle babies as compared with the much smaller rate among breast fed babies. "There will be little cradles in which the mother will be shown how to place the child for its rest; there will be tabulations containing information of meningitis, infantile paralysis, diphtheria, colds, coughs and all diseases of children; and mothers will be taught how to guard against these diseases. "The school age of the child will be illustrated by museum exhibits.

the kindergarten, a miniature world in which character is developed in reproducing the activities of the big world," will be featured, and the mothers will find out the best way to teach children good manners at the table, self-help, patience, obedience, interest in nature, thoughtfulness and helpfulness. "Statistics, giving the number of those attending the public schools, the parochial schools, private schools, other institutions; the number of children legally employed; those physically unable to attend school, those kept at home and those unlawfully absent from school will be shown. "What the public schools should stand for, and what they hope to accomplish, will be illustrated by placards and exhibits in which model life of the scouts and the Camp Fire girls will be shown. "There will be special exhibits dealing with the transient class of children, showing the causes and the method by which to remedy lack of interest in school work. "The advantages of the penny lunch, benefits derived from vocational classes in the schools, the school graded classes and classes for sub-normal girls, the advantages of consolidated schools, best methods of school construction, school house sanitation, school hygiene, school phases of the school will be discussed and illustrated at the Child Welfare exhibit. Children's play hours will be featured, too, and the importance of the play instinct properly directed, the play instinct properly used on home play, street play toys, and the influence of the universal play instinct in the formation of gangs and clubs which frequently become vicious. "The Boy Scout movement, Camp Fire girls, will be shown also. "In fact, every possible phase of the child's life will be illustrated, and the exhibit will afford an unusual opportunity for mothers, and in fact, for all women. Every one from all parts of the city, will be made welcome, and careful attention will be given to the questions asked. "The exhibit is endorsed by authorities on Child Welfare, and comes to Atlanta under the auspices of Atlanta, under the auspices of the Associated Charities, the

It Cost Exactly $8,000 To Discover America, Figure Sharp Learns (Special Cable to The Journal). PARIS.—The cost of the discovery of America has been figured out by a Paris arithmetician. When traveling in Spain he found some old account books, showing Columbus' feet of three ships cost approximately $3,100. For the officers' stores $400 sufficed. The men were paid $1.50 a day, but had to furnish their own food and drink. This makes a total of about $5,000, to which must be added about $3,000 for guns and munitions of war. Altogether, therefore, the cost of discovering America was $8,000, which seems cheap enough.

BISQUE DOLLS AND ROLLER SKATES WINTER'S NEWEST FASHION

If you doubt this announcement ask little Miss Mary Ray, of 226 North Boulevard, who is shaking her curls at you and smiling winsomely. She says there is nothing so modish as roller skates; and that bisque dolls are "the thing." The two ladies you see wheeling one bisque doll up the street, with a very proud air, are Misses Katherine Lynch and Waretta Estyan. These little ladies make up a picture of child life that a master might be happy to paint.

STORY OF THE PANAMA CANAL TOLD BY COL. GOETHALS, THE MAN WHO BUILT IT

The Journal Today Presents "The Story of the Panama Canal," Written by Colonel George W. Goethals, the Man Who Built the Canal--That Most Stupendous Piece of Human Handiwork in the World's History. This is the First Article Colonel Goethals Has Written Since He Took Charge in Panama Half a Dozen Years Ago. Although Often Imperturbed by Magazines and Newspapers, He Would not Put His Pen to Paper Until His Job Was Completed or Was Practically Completed.

BY COL. GEORGE WASHINGTON GOETHALS, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, Chairman and Chief Engineer, Isthmian Canal Commission.

(Copyrighted, 1913, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association for the United States, Great Britain and Germany.)

It is not possible in the time at my disposal to enter upon a description of the explorations and investigations which were made of the various routes proposed for a canal joining the two oceans, nor can any account be taken of the consideration which resulted in the United States securing the necessary concessions to say that under the Spooner act, approved June 28, 1902, the president of the United States purchased the necessary property from the republic of Panama.

The French New Panama Canal company and undertook the construction of the canal May 4, 1914.

The Isthmus of Panama runs nearly east and west, and the canal traverses it from Colon on the north to Panama on the south, in a general direction from northwest to southeast, the Pacific terminal being 2 1/2 miles east of the Atlantic entrance.

The greatest difficulty of the Panama route was the control or disposition of the Chagres river and its tributaries. The canal which the president was authorized to construct by the provisions of the Spooner act was the lock type recommended by the first Isthmian canal commission. In its report submitted November 16, 1901, this plan provided a lake for controlling the Chagres, following the plans of the New Panama sea canal company, thereby utilizing to the fullest extent the work already accomplished.

Early in the progress of the work the construction of a sea level canal was suggested; this is undoubtedly the ideal canal. It took a long time to get the public mind that, in consideration of the international importance of the work, the president convened a board of consulting engineers to consider and report upon the type of canal which should be adopted. The majority of the board, five in number, reported in favor of the lock type for the reason that such a canal would provide greater safety for ships and less danger of interruption of traffic by reason of the wider, straighter and deeper channels, and also as a quicker passage for large ships. The other considerations were that such a canal could be built in less time for less money. On June 29, 1908, congress authorized the construction of the lock type of canal, in accordance with the report of the majority of the board, and this was carried on along these lines.

Since then the wisdom of the choice has been clearly shown and the

there is no doubt as to the ultimate success of the project. Developments in the form of slides have brought more prominently to the front the excellence of the judgment which accompanied the minority plan in lieu of the sea level plan as advocated by the majority, and show how clearly greater difficulties would have been encountered in an attempt to construct a sea level canal.

An English scientist, who at first was skeptical as to the Gatun dam, after a visit, thought that the expressed opinion of the consulting engineers with reference to the dam, namely, "that no such vast and doubtful experiment should be indulged in," was now applicable to Culebra cut. There are probably some who still believe a wrong choice was made, but a visit to the Isthmus is a sure cure for such cases, provided always that they are open to conviction.

The canal consists of a sea level entrance channel from the sea through Limon bay to Gatun about seven miles long, 600 feet bottom width and 41 feet deep at mean tide. At Gatun the 81-foot lake level is obtained by a dam across the valley. The lake is confined on the Pacific side by a dam between the hills and Pedro Miguel locks, 23 miles away. The lake thus formed has an area of about 164 miles and a channel depth of not less than 45 feet at normal stage.

At Gatun ships pass from the sea to the lake level and vice versa, by three locks in flight. On the Pacific side there is one lift of 30 feet at Pedro Miguel to a small lake held at 55 feet above sea level by the dam at Miraflores, where two lifts overcome the difference of level to the sea. The channel between the locks on the Pacific side is 300 feet wide at the bottom and 45 feet deep at mean tide. Through the lake the bottom widths are not less than 1,000 feet for about 16 miles, 800 feet for about 3 miles and through the continental divide or, as it is commonly called, the Culebra cut, from Bas Obispo to Pedro Miguel, a distance of 8 miles, the bottom width is 200 feet. The total length of the canal from deep water in the Caribbean to deep water in the Pacific is practically 50 miles, 15 miles of which are at sea level.

Provisions have been made to amply protect the entrances of the canal. During the winter months occasional storms occur on the Atlantic side of such violence that vessels cannot lie with safety in Colon harbor, and during the progress of such storms entrance to and egress from the canal would be unsafe. To overcome this condition a breakwater has been extended from Colon point in a northeasterly direction, which not only protects the entrance but provides a safe harbor. Another breakwater extended from the east side of the entrance will give some protection against silting and enable small boats to lay alongside anchored in the outer harbor during the more severe trade winds. The Pacific entrance requires no protection from storms, but the set of the silt bearing current from the east is at right angles to the channel and the silt being dredged necessary, means the deposit of fine sediment in a channel or waterway as the result of the action of currents or tides or the natural flow of a stream.

To prevent this shoaling a dike has been constructed from the mainland at Balboa to Naos island, a distance of about four miles.

The lakes submerged the tracks of the Panama railroad for the greater part of its length and as this was necessary for construction purposes and for the operation and maintenance of the canal, it was reconstructed throughout, with the exception of a few miles at other end.

It was originally intended to pass the new railroad through Culebra cut on a ledge, 10 feet above the water surface, to be left for this purpose during the excavation of the channel through the cut, but the slides and the absolute necessity for keeping open railroads communicating between the two ends of the line necessitated a change in the location and a new line to the east of the cut was selected.

The first two and a half years of American control on the canal zone were given to preparation. All enterprises were devoted during that time to the eradication of malaria, to the eradication of disease by sanitation, to recruiting and organizing a working force, and providing for suitable houses, hotels, messes, canteens and an adequate food supply; to assembling the plant to do the work; to increasing the capacity of the existing railway system, and to establishing a system of civil government for the canal zone, which is a strip of land 10 miles wide, 5 miles on either side of the center of the canal, extending to the terminations of the locks, with main and adjuncts, for furnishing wholesome and sufficient water, sewerage, pavements and a system of roads.

Buildings to the number of 2,089 have been constructed, with main and adjuncts, for furnishing wholesome and sufficient water, sewerage, pavements and a system of roads. Buildings to the number of 2,089 have been constructed, with main and adjuncts, for furnishing wholesome and sufficient water, sewerage, pavements and a system of roads.

French were remodelled and repaired for use.

Recruiting agencies were established in the United States, Europe and the West Indies.

The commissary department of the Panama railroad company was enlarged until it became a great department store, supplying to the employees whatever was necessary for their comfort and convenience. Manufacturers, cold storage and laundry plants were established, and turned out each day about 90 tons of ice, 14,000 loaves of bread, 2,400 rolls, 250 gallons of ice cream, 1,000 pounds of roasted coffee and 7,000 pounds of laundry. Four to five refrigerators, loaded with meats, vegetables and such fruits as could be obtained, were sent out on the night freight to distant points, and every morning a supply train of about 116 cars, of which number 4 to 8 were refrigerator cars, left Colon at 4:30 to distribute foodstuffs and laundry to the local commissaries along the line, where employees could make their purchases and where the hotels, messes and kitchens secured their supplies for the day.

The construction plant, consisting of steam shovels, locomotives, cars, unloaders, spreaders, track-shifters, pile-drivers, cranes, derrick, steamboats, tugs and barges, was purchased for the most part "knocked down," and the shops for their erection and repair were constructed and enlarged. Some of the machinery was built from parts manufactured in the shops. The distance from the home market, with attendant vexatious delays in securing parts and material and the necessity for keeping the construction plant in the most efficient condition for economical operation, made it imperative that the shops be equipped to meet every possible contingency.

The capacity of the Panama railroad was increased by double track-tripping it throughout, except from Colon to Gatun and from Culebra to Panama. Yards were enlarged in accordance with the necessities for dumping grounds.

Laws were framed and civil government was established with its necessary adjuncts of courts, police force, fire companies, customs and revenue service, postoffice, public works and treasury.

A purchasing department was organized in the United States for the procurement of supplies of all kinds and descriptions. Upon arrival on the Isthmus, the supplies were shipped to the various subdivisions of the canal work for which they were purchased or they were placed in storehouses along the line for issue when required.

It was only after these various, yet necessary, adjuncts had been provided and the forces for their operation were organized that the principal work in hand, the building of the canal, could be pushed forward with any hope of success, and too much praise cannot be given to those who conceived and established them in a working condition. The department of engineering and construction was divided into three construction divisions. The Atlantic division embraced the engineering construction from Gatun to Pedro Miguel and the Pacific division from Pedro Miguel to deep water in the Pacific ocean.

As already noted, the Americans continued the work in progress by the French in the cut, commonly known as the Culebra cut, utilizing the French machinery until it could be replaced by more modern apparatus. This was the most formidable part of the enterprise, on account of the magnitude of the cutting and also because of the difficulties attending it due to the excessive rainfall and the varying character of the materials encountered.

The French so planned the excavation that after the removal of the peak of the divide and lesser summits they could work a number of excavators simultaneously at several points, so that a succession of grades or steps resulted, rising one above the other, each with the natural surface at the point of beginning. By working in the direction of the length of the cut, the face of the bank gave the longest cutting possible, reducing the number of times the excavator must be hauled back, and secured a satisfactory drainage arrangement, since the cutting was carried up grade on either side of the summit.

The Americans followed the same method, the only difference being in the character of machinery used.

The greatest difficulty encountered in the excavation was due to slides and breaks which caused large masses of material to slide or move into the excavated area, closing on the surface of the broken portion of the bank and tearing up the tracks.

The term "slide" is applied to the movement of the overlying clay upon smooth, sloping surfaces of rock or other material harder than the clay. "Breaks" occur at points where the underlying rock is of poor quality, intersected by vertical seams or seams sloping toward the canal, and which is unable to bear up the superimposed mass. Generally the upper surface of the broken portion of the bank remains approximately horizontal, settling nearly vertically. The weight of the broken portion forces it up and displaces the material resting directly below it in the bottom or on the berms or ledges of the axis of the canal until the entire broken portion is removed.

The greatest slide was at Cucaracha and occurred when the French began working in 1884. Though at first confined to a length of 800 feet measured along the line of excavation, the slide extended to include the entire basin south of Gold Hill. This slide was the last which was the opening that finally makes the canal an accomplished fact.

There were, all told, nine slides and breaks to be reckoned with, and which feeds in both directions through the chambers of twin locks, so that water may be passed from one to the other of the pair, effecting a saving of water.

The entire lock can be filled or emptied, using one culvert, in 10 minutes and 52 seconds, and in 7 minutes and 51 seconds when both culverts are used.

The lock gates are of the mitering type, double leaf, straight gates, varying in height from 45 feet 7 inches to 73 feet; the length of each leaf is about 65 feet.

It has been accepted as a fundamental feature of the design that each flight of locks there must always be two barriers separating the high level from the level next below. To carry this out, two sets of mitering gates are placed at the upper and lower end of each of the uppermost locks in each flight.

In addition, a chain device is used to guard the barrier gates against accident and so controlled as to be capable of checking a slip of 10,000 tons moving at the rate of 5 miles an hour.

More than 95 per cent of the vessels navigating the Isthmian sea are less than 600 feet in length, and this has been taken as the determining factor for the location of intermediate gates, which are introduced in the design to save both time and water. For the protection of the intermediate gates against the possibility of a smaller length of chamber a chain barrier is to be installed.

Guide piles are provided both up and down the stream, and to which vessels amount of material available, that will be before entering the locks. Electric towing machines will be used for towing vessels into and out of the locks, and the passage through the locks by means of lines or cables attached to what may be considered the four corners of the ship.

Even with all these precautions accidents may happen, and emergency dams are provided at the head of each flight of locks, consisting of swing bridges, which can be thrown across the locks in case of an accident which makes a connection between the top level and the level below. These wicket gates are set in such a position that they will be raised by the action of the wind or the force of the water, and the passage of ships will be interrupted. Thus, should the dam be raised, the passage of shipping will be expedited by using one set of locks for the ascent and the other for the descent by the locks are 130 feet wide and have a length of 1,000 feet.

The system of filling adopted consists of a culvert in each side wall and gradually stop the flow.

BUD BEASLEY WRITES "BILL" ABOUT ATLANTA'S FRACTIOUS CREMATORY

"We'd Be Happy As a Nigger With a New Mouth Organ," Says Bud," if it Wasn't for the Crematory and the Town Pump. They Haven't Been Hardly Up to Their Brand, the Trouble is the Crematory Isn't Dry Enough and the Water Works is Dry

Dear Bill: We've been putting in considerable improvements in our town since you left, cutting down the hill and raising the hollow on the main road out past the steam laundry that used to be the postoffice. Bill Healey has most finished his new storehouse—the one where the fishing hole used to be, and Joe Hurt was bound to keep up with Bill, so he hired a crew and built him a real fancy building just off the principal thoroughfare, on the road leading out Stone Mountain way. Custom is up and the crop was good and circus day brought lots of farmers to town, which was good for the near beer trade.

In fact, we'd be happy as a nigger with a new mouth organ if it wasn't for two things—the town pump and the crematory. They haven't hardly been up to their brands.

In the first place there was more or less misunderstanding about the crematory. Most of us had a notion it would give a new market for milk, sorter using up the extra supply, making cheese and such things, when we voted to build it. Then when we found it wasn't a crematory and wops it all nice and dry there wouldn't be any trouble burning things. Ed Jenkins, who's in the fire insurance business, said that garbage seemed to be an A-1 risk and he was looking for some business in that line.

Over in the town hall they're all worked up about things. Some of the council members think the crematory's all right, even if it won't burn nothing. They say it's credit to the town to have a modern outfit like that just to show visitors, and there's still plenty of vacant lots that need filling with tin cans, old shoes and defunct cats. Nobody wants them dumped next door to their property, but there's a bunch of folks in other councilmen's wards who might be working spirited enough not to object.

But the town pump is working all right—today. You remember that pump? It cost a bunch of money and we never could have scraped it together if Hugh Inman hadn't dug down in his pocket and put up the coin, kinder trusting the town to make good, which it did. The pump was a beauty, too. It was triple-plated and double-jointed and it will go most anything a pump's built for, except pump water. When it was a boy and the pump wouldn't work we'd go down to the creek after a bucket of water, pour it into the pump, and with that kind of encouragement she'd start to suck—about it, but he said the trouble with this pump was it had uncoiled a cylinder head, fractured a piston and dislocated a diaphragm on one of the aspirators. Otherwise, Zede said, it was all right and liable to pump plenty enough, except in case of fire. He didn't think there ought to be any fires until the pump was fixed, and fixed right. He told Bill Cunningham our enterprising vice chief, that.

But outside of that, the old town's rocking along fine. The shirtwaists—them fellows with the fancy red caps—are going to have a grand lodge meeting here pretty soon, and the tavern keepers are thinking about renting some extra cots and borrowing more chinaware for the grand occasion. Shouldn't be surprised if a hundred or more of them come. The pump-follies, come. Anyway, I'll write you all about it.

Uncle Ike Peters is down with the episode. Hoping you are the same, your friend, BUD BEASLEY.

Now that football is ended, basketball is the big game. Of course, football isn't played at schools for girls, but even there basketball seems to have taken on increased interest now that the season of the gridiron is over. The accompanying photographs are of players at Washington Seminary. The full length figure is of Ruth Belk. The group of six are: Top row, left to right, Margaret Horton, Genevieve Mather and Gertrude Whittier. Bottom row, left to right, Frances Dowman, Ruth Belk and Mildred Woodward. Among those shown in the scrimmage are: Hope Townsley, Frances Dowman, Anna La Barre and Gertrude Whittier.
