(By Associated Press.)
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 2.—Sixteen persons perished, which were injured when the White Mountain express bound for New York crashed into the rear end of the second section of the Bar Harbor limited, heading for New Haven from Maine summer resorts. The wreck occurred on the New Haven road just west of New Haven this morning.

A party of four campers, comprising the accident by Eugene A. B. Miller, who says that as soon as he realized the danger he did all he could to stop the train. The brakes would not hold on the way to track and the train, running down grade, plunged its way through two wooden pillars and cars, splintered them to kindling, and killed or wounded most of the sleeping passengers in the fourth section.

The accident recalled the recent wreck of the New Haven at Stamford, Conn., when a second section train failed to take its brakes and overtook a block, causing death to passengers of the first section.

Every influence is shaping toward an unprecedented era of good times, declare Atlanta retail and wholesale merchants, real estate men and bankers. In interviews given The Journal Tuesday.

It is a fact that the country the south probably will receive the greatest benefit, and of the south Atlanta will feel the effect of the times to a greater extent, proportionate to its size than any other city.

Every Whitehall street department solicitor, every street cleaner, every man who has made recent purchases as a result of the heavy buying, and every man who has made heavy purchases, are all convinced that the prosperity era has begun.

Beaumont Davidson, of the Davidson-Paxon-Stokes company, voiced the sentiments of the other dealers when he said: "I have talked to merchants from Santa Fe to Cuba, from Terra Haute, Ind., to New Orleans, La., and I didn't encounter a single pessimist. I don't think there is one in the south."

Mr. Davidson spent the entire month of August in New York, purchasing his fall stock, going generally to the country, and seeing better than I ever saw them before. It is the most certain indication of heavy buying, and heavy buying means good times. Without some uncertainty about the future, a man would not buy a bigger stock than last year.

W. H. BANNER YEAL, president of the W. H. M. High company, echoed the assertion of Mr. Davidson. "I am not purchasing trip to New York," he said. "I found wholesalers busier than I have ever seen. Conditions here in the most certain indication of heavy buying, and heavy buying means good times. Without some uncertainty about the future, a man would not buy a bigger stock than last year."

Dr. Len G. Broughton formerly pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle and now in charge of Christ church in London, England, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday morning for several days past New York reports have been circulating about him.

"I tried to keep away from them," said Dr. Broughton, smiling, "because I had enough to do without being interviewed and really didn't want to talk. There was one in particular, a woman, who kept after me continually, begging for an opinion on first one thing and then another. It was not until one of my papers printed a little sentence I then slipped in one of my sermons that they started all of that talk about the devil enjoying a stroll down Broadway on account of the costumes of some of the women."

"The same woman heard my sermon in which I alluded to the beautiful saying that we were dependent on women for our preservation, and that it was rare indeed that one could find one who was not fond of the ornamentation of herself."

"This led me to say that at one time such was true, and as well as I can remember, made the remark that some of the women of today, those in the line of public, cared not for the ornamentation, but preferred the costume of Adam. That was all she wanted and all the other reporters wanted for that matter. From then on I was besieged at every turn, and I am here to get a rest for my strenuous work."

Dr. Broughton paused and smiled again. "And now," he said, "I suppose you want my views on the subject, and at a time when I am about interviewed."

"To the question as to what possible harm the dress of the present day might do, I would say that society would not be any less dignified if the women of today were dressed in the costume of Adam. It is the moral character of the woman that counts, not the style of her dress."

PRAISE FOR DR. MOONLIE. Dr. Broughton was frank in his approval of the tabernacle in calling Dr. Moonlie a "first class" man. "I am glad to see a man who will do a hard job and will return to Atlanta after a short trip to Athens, Ga. I think he will be a great help to the church."

Carters' Harvest

Not only does the farmer get in his harvest in the early fall, but the carter can also lay by his winter hoard if he only goes about it in the right way.

If you are a carter, or a mover, there is not the least excuse for your being idle a single day of the month of September, for, with families moving from country and seashore and mountains into town, and many city folk moving from house to house and flat to flat, the big moving companies have their hands full and there is more than enough for all.

Put your announcements in The Journal Wants right away and run them regularly; see how fast work will come to you. You'll have more orders than you can fill in a jiffy.

Let The Journal Want Columns help you and you will not fail to reap a golden harvest this September.

HELP THESE CHILDREN TO GET AN EDUCATION

Associated Charities Asks for Books and Clothes for 200 Who Are Destitute

The Associated Charities appeals to the generosity of the Atlanta public to provide books and clothes for 200 destitute children who want to enter the public schools, but cannot enter unless they have these things.

The association in the past has accepted second-hand clothes and will accept them again and be glad to get them. It takes from $1 to $10 to buy the books a child needs.

To illustrate the situation as the association sees it, Joseph C. Logan, the secretary, mentions the following typical case:

A child can always be helped to help himself, and there is no higher duty on the part of the earth than to help one to do so.

Another case in the elevated tenement is that of a blind mother, who is also a widow. She has two other children that work in factories, but they have not much time within the past few months on account of slack work, and the family is nearly in debt.

CITY WANTS PEACHTREE CREEK OPENED AT ONCE

Channel Must Be Cleaned Out to Prevent Backwater in Sewage Plant

To operate the new Peachtree sewerage disposal plant with the channel of Peachtree creek, below the plant, in its present condition, would be to run the risk of the creek, during the heavy winter rains, backing up into the filter beds of the plant and destroying their usefulness, according to E. M. Clayton, chief of the city construction department.

The county commissioners have been asked by the city to clean out the channel of the creek, so that it will not back up or overflow, and the commissioners have promised to do the work as soon as they can possibly get to it.

BIG RECEPTION GIVEN

DR. LINCOLN M'CONNELL

Formal Installation as Pastor of Tabernacle Will Take Place Today P. M.

An ecclesiastical occasion was given Dr. Lincoln M'Connell, the new pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, when he arrived at the Union station Monday evening from Chicago. Officials and members of the tabernacle as well as a large number of M'Connell's old friends were at the station to welcome him back to Atlanta, where years ago he served as a city detective.

As the minister left the train he was loudly cheered. In the waiting room he had an impromptu reception, shaking hands with those who had assembled to greet him. From the station Dr. M'Connell was driven to the home of Prof. A. C. Houston, chairman of the tabernacle, where he will be for a few days. Dr. M'Connell was at 4:30 p. m. at the Wesley Memorial church in this city.

The formal installation of the new pastor will occur at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 14. W. S. Williams will preside over the exercises. City Attorney James L. Mercer will deliver an address of welcome on behalf of the city. Dr. J. J. Houston, pastor of the Union Mission, will extend the greetings of the state, and Dr. John H. White, Dr. John F. Patten and Dr. Charles W. Daniel will welcome him in the name of the Baptist congregations of Atlanta.

Dr. Richard Orme Egan and Dr. A. B. Holdery will represent the Presbyterians of the city, and Rev. John Johnson of the North Georgia conference will represent the Methodists. Dr. M. F. Pickett, of Furman university, will speak in behalf of the church, and William F. Latham, editor of the Golden Age, in behalf of the Baptist publication.

Dr. L. G. Brantley, pastor of Christ church, London, the founder and former pastor of the tabernacle, will be present at the exercises and will deliver an address. Some of the men to be seated upon the platform will be John C. Heaver, Dr. Captain James W. Wright, of the United States army, and Dr. J. J. Houston, pastor of the Atlanta tabernacle. Dr. M'Connell will be accompanied by his wife, Mrs. M. M. M'Connell, who gave Dr. M'Connell his first position when he came in Atlanta many years ago. They occupy a neat home on the platform.

Miss Bunting and Her Company Are Better Than Ever and Proved It in "The Circus Girl"-Forsyth Bill Best Since Last Winter-Atlanta Opens Wednesday Night

WITH CARTOONIST BREWERTON AT THE FORSYTH

Crowded House Sees Emma Bunting Open Lyric Season

A busy time this year. Following Miss Bunting's departure to Lyric will show the regular line of plays, many of which made hits here last season, many of which are now being offered in "The Call of the Heart," a melodramatic play which opened Atlanta last winter.

The audience at the Forsyth theater was laughing immoderately Monday night at a vaudeville sketch detailing the troubles of a stage manager at a rehearsal. It was very funny and all eyes were focused on the stage.

And here I am talking, with cold cream all over my face, said little Emma Bunting, who laughed the same merry laugh with a catch in her little throat that Atlanta audiences know and which really made the slightest bit of the evening when Miss Bunting and her company opened the season at the Lyric theater Monday night.

It was after the performance and Miss Bunting was telling her manager just how pleased she was with her first night. She said she was wishing she could stay here instead of going to New Orleans.

GENERAL NASH BACK FROM CAMP PERRY

Adjutant General A. Van Holt Nash returned Monday night from Camp Perry, Ohio, where he was in charge of the Georgia team which participated in the national rifle match at that place. He did not "set the woods ablaze" with their shooting, said General Nash, but they did well and conducted themselves in a most commendable manner.

While in camp at the famous rifle range, General Nash treated the other officers there with an old-fashioned Georgia lards, which they enjoyed immensely.

Atlanta New York Paris Another Page of the Year's Fashion Book Is Turned and the New Suits of Charming Style are Shown

To compare the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. second floor with a huge fashion book would not be amiss right now. Fact is, it is something more than a fashion book, for here are the suits themselves, that show better than any pictures ever could just the new styles are. Your eyes may see the colors--the rich, fine colors--the graceful lines, the trimmings that really trim, the exquisite workmanship, that something they call and know as STYLE.

It is a display of suits to add fresh laurels to the record of the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. Second Floor! We say this with a sense of confidence and with full knowledge of the records of past years.

Suits of styles as true and worthy as new coined monies are now ready in abundance--in such abundance that it would be folly to begin telling what they are and how they differ from styles you have known. And besides the fun of it all is in seeing them and trying them on.

And that is what we would have you do. Make use of these days to see what we have prepared this fall, not that anyone must feel constrained to buy now (although greater numbers are, than ever before) but just to SEE and to ENJOY!

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Poiret's Russian coat is startlingly novel, and it is the belief of some of the most exclusive American buyers that it is a sensation because it entirely changes the silhouette, and that after all, it is the sensation the buyers are looking for. You know we have worn all our evening coats drawn about the knees as if the hem would be as narrow as our bodies allowed and the top as full as the cloth could make. This new coat by Poiret breaks to flare from the waist and resolves itself into an immense ripple above the ankles. He shows two of these; one is long enough to touch the floor and is as medieval in its "that you expect to hear the music from 'our Master Singer' as the marriage waltz in it. The other one is laced on rather as draw in at the waist with a huge ornament and then out off above the ankles. The hem measures four yards. That is a statement that startles. The hem will say, "At last the women are going to wear." The women will say, "How will I ever manage to contain it?"

It is too early for either remark to be of value because Poiret has just introduced the coat and the majority of American buyers consider it too revolutionary to take to America. The material of this garment is thick, yet supple and mediæval in color and texture. It looks like metal cloth which will have been stamped with a huge flower. Five-inch bands of shams are used at the hem, around the neck and at the wrist. The sleeves are exactly wide and straight, and the entire garment is so different from everything that we have worn that at first sight this coat seems impossible, and then its beauty and its novelty grow upon you until you recognize it as the sensation of the week.

These materials that resemble supple metal cloth were directly imported from the Oriental fabrics by Poiret and are used by him for evening gowns and coats. His street suits are quite simple in effect but original in detail. Here and there he employs a brilliant water-coat, but it is not in evidence until the mainline trousers open her coat. This is the effect of the original, and you think of the children toys which seem to be a plain blue or green, but when the surface gives out a handsome view of gorgeous crystals and beads.

One of his new coats is entirely different from the street suits shown everywhere else. It is an odd shape of Burgundy red and has a short loose coat that is cut very much on the lines of an English sport coat. The sleeves are cut in one with the back and front and the material springs out from neck to hem, falling in folds of the hips. It is longer in the back than in the front and the fulness in the hem is not enough to be awkward, but just enough to ripple away from the figure in a graceful manner.

The skirt is quite plain, as all his street skirts are, owing their smartness to some new development of the seam.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY EDWORTH W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1913 by J. G. Lloyd.)

of course, Sammy Jay often visited the old bear patch. Whenever anything is going on, there you will find Sammy Jay. Sammy was very much interested in Peter Rabbit's family. He had had so much fun watching Johnny Chuck and his babies up in the old orchard that as soon as he heard that Peter Rabbit had a family he hurried over there right away and after that he managed to take in the old bear patch every day, as he made his rounds of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows to find out all that was going on.

"I seem to me that it is about time you began to teach those little scampers that life isn't all play," Peter Rabbit said he one day as he watched them playing hide and seek.

Peter looked up and scowled. "I don't need your advice, Sammy Jay," he replied crossly. "For Peter and Sammy are not the very best of friends."

"What was that?" demanded Peter sharply.

"Why," said Sammy, blushing a little, "I said that you had the most beautiful babies he had seen a long time, and he was very glad to see that they were learning much. 'Why are you not known around to follow their mother?' he asked. 'I was just thinking of you and your little friends.'" "I guess that I know better than that to do what a Rabbit has to learn."

Sammy laughed. "Of course, you don't need Peter, of course, you know best," he replied. "I was just thinking of you and your little friends."

"What was that?" demanded Peter sharply.

"Why," said Sammy, blushing a little, "I said that you had the most beautiful babies he had seen a long time, and he was very glad to see that they were learning much. 'Why are you not known around to follow their mother?' he asked. 'I was just thinking of you and your little friends.'" "I guess that I know better than that to do what a Rabbit has to learn."

Peter grew quite pale and looked hastily to see if his babies were safe, as if of course, they were. Then he prettied to Sammy that he didn't believe a word of what Sammy had said. First, by Sammy flew away to the Green Forest and chucking all the way, "Peter doesn't like me and is sure I do nothing but mischief," he thought. "That's where he is mistaken. If he were half as kind as I am, I would not have those four sealions of his in school here, thinking, too, in spite of the scornful way in which he had received Sammy's advice, Peter had known in his heart that Sammy was right. And though he didn't believe what Sammy had said about Reddy Fox, he thought he was right. Reddy certainly was hanging round the old bear patch a great deal. Peter looked at the four babies chattering each other in a game of tag and at the thought of anything happening to one of them he shivered.

"I think that one of these days Granny and I will have a fine rabbit dinner."

As soon as Mrs. Peter heard what Sammy Jay had said that Reddy Fox had said she became terribly anxious, and when Peter proposed that they start a school right away in the old bear patch she nodded her head vigorously. So, it was agreed that Furry and Wuzzy and Little Pete and little Jed should have their first lessons that very day.

If You Live in Atlanta And Eat Every Day, You Should Read This Bulletin

There are in this town of ours several concerns that manufacture foodstuffs.

Also there are in this town Retail Grocers who have these foodstuffs for sale.

All these folks are doing just what you are doing—trying to make a living for themselves and their families.

They pay taxes, they pay wages, they pay for rent and food and clothing. They pay doctors' bills and dentists' bills and coal bills and shoe bills and school bills—just as you do.

They've got their stake in Atlanta and they're putting their nerve, their time, their energies and their resources into the general fund.

You get the benefit of the money they circulate.

If you are a laborer, you help to build and equip their stores and factories and houses. Perhaps you drive their teams and haul their goods. If you are a salary man, you may be keeping their books, waiting on their customers or conducting their correspondence. If you deal in other wares, you are selling them their supplies—their clothes, their furniture, their fuel, their insurance, their books, their printing, their wagons, their automobiles—everything. If you are a professional person, you are doubtless selling them your services as doctor, dentist, lawyer, teacher. If you own property, you are collecting rent from them.

The money of these manufacturers of foodstuffs and these retail grocers goes the rounds here at home—here in Atlanta. You benefit. The town benefits.

Now, then, here's a plain, practical, unfrilled proposition to you as a sensible man or woman:

Whatever makes business better for these merchants and manufacturers (or indeed for any class of our people) makes it better for everybody. It makes a greater Atlanta; a busier, a livelier town. It brings more folks in. It makes the pay roll swell. It helps you and your holdings.

Isn't it logical, then, that you should take a hand in the game of encouragement?

Is there any reason why you shouldn't lend your influence in a simple and perfectly practical way.

Use Atlanta-Made Products on Your Home Table

This appeal is not alone to your loyalty. That's a big reason, of course, Loyalty is the keynote of co-operation. But we make our appeal on the straight-out ground of QUALITY in the goods themselves.

See here, people: If our goods are just as pure, just as wholesome, just as true in quality, and just as delectable in every way as goods made a thousand miles from home, what's the reason for giving them the GO-BY?

What's the reason? We who sign this bulletin ask you to think on these things. We're in earnest. We believe you will see the justice and the fairness of our appeal. We KNOW you will.

Back of us, standing solid, is the RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION, which, at a recent Wednesday meeting, struck a superb blow for the inauguration of this ATLANTA-MADE FOOD Campaign.

"Every Wednesday," they said, "Shall be ATLANTA DAY in our stores."

They don't mean that ONLY Wednesday shall be ATLANTA DAY. Every day'll be ATLANTA DAY by and by. But they do mean that they are going to feature our wares on Wednesday.

More about the matter as the Wednesdays come.

Are you with us? All loyal Atlanta will be!

RALLY IN THE NINTH GAVE CRACKERS GAME

When Wallace Smith Was Hit and Winning Run Forced Home, the Crowd Went Wild—Deserved to Win

With 7,000 fans yelling as never before in the history of the local baseball park, Atlanta snatched a game from New Orleans Monday afternoon and drew within three games of the league leading Mobile team, the winning run being forced over in the ninth inning, after two were down. It was a fitting way to draw within striking distance of the Mobile club.

And the score was 1 to 2. Joe Coselman getting credit for his second win of the series, while Paddy lost the game for the second time during the stay of the Peas.

There was a crowd of some 7,000 yelling fans and they certainly made the noise. At the start they were noisy; when the score in the eighth inning the Mobile game was noted they became noisy again when the Crackers began to win in the ninth inning they became boisterous. It was a slight worth watching and hearing.

Joe Coselman deserved to get away with his game. He allowed but six hits and four of these were of the easiest kind. He held the home team to one run in the ninth inning, but he was not so good in the eighth. He pitched the game well, but he was not so good in the eighth. He pitched the game well, but he was not so good in the eighth.

Tommy Long was very much in evidence through the game. He secured four hits in five times up and got two runs, while the other Crackers did not show anything over recorded in this game in the past years. Tommy also showed a bag.

Wallace Smith got away with the feature of the game. He was hit in the eighth inning, which led to the winning run. He was hit in the eighth inning, which led to the winning run. He was hit in the eighth inning, which led to the winning run.

Harry Welchance came a bit nearer the hitting mark when he got one hit, but he was not so good in the eighth. He pitched the game well, but he was not so good in the eighth.

Here are the figures through Monday's game:
Batting Figures
Tommy Long's heavy hitting in the afternoon game took the average considerably. Six Crackers are mauling the ball at a 200 pace and the seventh one is hitting at .288.

POOR GOLF FOR CRACKS

None of the Stars in Big Tourney Turned in Low Cards for Day

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—After a day of weeding out of those who are unable to come up to the standard of golf necessary to qualify for play in the National Amateur championship, the last pair out of 46 players reached the green of the Garden City Club's links Monday evening. There were almost 200 to watch the flight of the balls.

Scores of 80 and better left 71 players still eligible to take part in the second half of the qualifying round, but six of these will have to play off for nine places, so that 64 can continue in the championship division. There were many upsets and disappointments during the play, and with a few exceptions the quality of golf displayed was only average. The honors of the day went to Francis Quimet, a young player from Woodford, Mass., who holds the Bay State amateur championship. He led the field with a round of 72, just one stroke better than the victor. Walter J. Travis, of the home club, played as well as the two winners. E. M. THE BOYS STARTED FOR THE CLAMBAKE--BUT!

---BY FARREN

THE SPORTLIGHT BY GRANTLAND RICE

A man may drive like an Eddie Roy, far and straight down the open way; A man may come to a mauling shot; And push it on to the proper spot; By his bill and dune with the festive spoon; He may rattle on to the some old tune; He may shoot one up to the far green's brink-- But what's the use when the patts won't sink...

The Naps wrenched off their last series, three out of four, from the Athletics. The Phillies pocketed their last one from the Glants. But the Standing of the Clubs still furnishes the answer.

Connie Mack figures that Schang is the best young catcher in the game with Schalk second. We knew a ball player once in the Southern league named Schippicase. But he was a second baseman. If he had only been a catcher like that he should have been a cross between Buck Ewing and Johnny Kling, all attached to J. Archer's right arm.

Prof. McClellenny summons his clan to a morning class every day at 10 o'clock. At these classes instructions are given, Balkers, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays being to whine the pill out of the lot. Failure to make good brings J. Franklin one large, juicy demerol. So far this season two demerols have been chalked against his name.

It isn't a question with Connie as to whether an umpire is right or wrong. It's rather a question of paying his men to stick around the ball field rather than the club house or the bench.

Some one has referred to the Mexican outbreak as the possibility of a "trial world series." Since when did a class X club in the bush become eligible to a world series entry? We are willing to offer even money that Johnson could strike out Mexico on pitched balls.

As we approach to press Jerry Travers is in the act of rapping one from the tree in detour. He is in the act of rapping one from the tree as long as his 16-foot putt drops down in par. If he had to do this fellow could put a cannon ball into a thimble from the edge of the green.

Savannah Is Sally Winner Valdosta Club At Last Loses

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 2.--The South Atlantic league, comprising Savannah, Seasideville, Columbia, Albany, Charleston and Macon, has wound up its tenth season. The clubs finished in the above order, by winning both halves of the divided season. Savannah is the 1912 champion.

President Nick Corban stated last night that the season of 1913 had been the most successful in the history of the league.

The season was opened on April 18, the first half terminating June 25. Savannah made a runaway race of the first half and clinched the second race by winning the final game of its series in Charleston last week. Jacksonville, 1912 champion, suffered throughout the season a series of accidents, but by a combination of circumstances was the only club in the league not to profit from the season.

A Mental GOLF Needed in the Score

The difference between good scoring and indifferent scoring is more often than not just the difference between playing along easily according to the ability of the player and trying to do the impossible. It is very seldom that even the expert makes his best rounds when engaged in medal play competitions. He is affected by the same mental complications as is his skillful competitor.

Nearly every golfer has been surprised to find that he has scored best when for one reason or another he has least expected to do so. Perhaps he has gone to the links with a slight headache or very much tired from business worries. In such a mental attitude he hopes for nothing more than the refreshing exercise or a round to fill his lungs with fresh air and drive away dull care.

On the very first hole, or perhaps the second or third, good fortune overtakes him in the shape of a steady approach or a long putt holed from the edge of the green, and the whole world looks differently to him. Things go right with him for the rest of the round, and all recollections of headache or other ailment have departed for that day at least.

On the other hand, sometimes when a golfer goes to the links after a good night's rest feeling stronger and better than at any previous time in his life, things go wrong from the very first stroke, and he feels simply that he is going to be a failure.

It requires a high order of mental discipline in addition to the skill to accomplish pleasant rounds in creditable figures. Even the expert is apt to let his mind or imagination wander too far, and then the temporary slip which is like a fall from a sky-scraper when he feels that the temporary slip has placed him where it will take all of his skill plus a moderate degree of luck to recover the lost ground.

It is an opportunity to hang up a glorious achievement in the way of cutting down the golfer's record for the links is lost by a failure to hole a putt. Later in the round, when everything breaks his way, he has clipped off enough strokes to have more than offset the really bad stroke or two or three.

It will render his next card on a full-length links of 185 for eighteen holes and 22 strokes on one hole.

Lookout Fans Kiss Hurler Grid Players Are at Work

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 2.--The greatest demonstration by local fans ever seen here occurred at the termination of the game Monday with Mobile, which Howell won for the Lookouts in the ninth inning, with a two-base hit to center field fence after the bases had been filled with two down. The wallop cleared the sacks giving the Lookouts the victory, 6 to 5.

Coach Heiderman called a practice for Monday afternoon, at which time he and Assistant Coach Alexander and Captain Homer Cook will begin to whip the team into shape.

Just what new men Johnny Heiderman has been able to discover this summer, while the traveling agent for Tech, is an uncertain quantity, but it is safe to say that he will have a much huskier bunch of material gathered together this fall than he had last year when he made the "Tubs" jackets into a formidable assemblage.

Mercer will be the next team in this part of the country to start working on her football material. On the 10th of September he will call practices for the orange and black Mercer reports a fair prospect, with many of her old men back in harness.

Georgia will start under the direction of Coach Cunningham, and Assistant Coaches Pascoe, Kotton, and probably Brant. Captain Bob's scouts will be called together on the 10th of September to start a period which will reach its climax when the big game is pulled between Georgia and Tech.

From then on the far will try to give the orange and black Mercer reports a fair prospect, with many of her old men back in harness.

Ad Wolgast Loser In Ten-Round Bout

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 2.--Joe Asce, do fought his way to a decision over Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, today in their ten-round bout. The going was fast and the younger fighter clearly earned the verdict. In the seventh round Asce knocked Wolgast down. Wolgast fought almost entirely with his left hand, his right apparently being in no condition to inflict punishment.

First Red Sox Signs

BOSTON, Sept. 2.--George Foster, a pitcher, has the distinction of being the first player to sign with the Boston Americans for 1914 on a one-year contract. Foster wrenched a knee several weeks ago and as the injury continues to trouble him, he decided to return to his home in Bonanza, Ark. Before leaving today he was signed up for next year.
